For her final project, 16-year-old Hana is building a deck of tarot cards -- one as her entry, one as her side project. The Classic Tarot Deck is a modern deck that brings to life the profound meaning of the Tarot. Through the simple and clear guidance of Hana, this storybook deck offers insight into this ancient art. One night, Hana and her mother were eating dinner at their small home in Osaka, Japan when they heard a knock at the door. Hana's father, who worked for an oil company, had been called to a meeting in Osaka with his colleagues. The details of the meeting were vague, but it sounded serious. Hana jumped to her feet. "I'll go," she said. "I'll go and make sure you don't have any problems." Her father smiled at her, "Thanks, Hana, but there's no need. I think my colleagues will be fine. You relax and have a nice evening." Before Hana could say anything else her mother shooed her out of the room. Hana left the house and headed towards the station, where she met a friend, an older man named Toshihiko. "Toshihiko," she said. "Can you look after me till I get home?" Toshihiko shrugged and looked away. "Okay." Hana and Toshihiko set off down the street towards the station together. Hana checked the time. She had about twenty minutes to get home before her mother would start getting worried. The two of them chatted quietly as they walked. Hana wanted to make sure her friend was all right and to see if she could distract him. When they were at the station, Hana stopped. "Toshihiko," she said. "Is there something I can do for you?" Toshihiko shrugged and looked away, but Hana pressed on. "Toshihiko." Toshihiko's shoulders slumped. "Do you have a friend you want me to call?" "Um..." Hana trailed off for a moment. "No, I don't. I'm sorry, but what do you want? ❖"

What's new in Inno World:

Inno World is a global indoor experience operator based out of San Diego, California. The company is focused on offering unique entertainment experiences and immersive environments in order to create an entertaining and memorable urban experience. Inno World describes the company as mobile, flexible, and global. It is involved with over 2,500 locations in over 41 countries. The company developed what it calls the 'bucket challenge', coining it to include light fun, water and pop. The bucket challenge is similar to a water bottle brigade around the world, providing an opportunity to earn two free tickets each time. It was first offered in the United States in 2014, and soon became a staple offering by Inno World. Inno World has become a globally recognized brand operating in over 41 countries across North America, Europe, Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Latin America, the Middle East and Asia. It is the first and only travel agency to exceed the 7 million member mark in the United States with its popular bucket challenge. History Inno World was founded by David Calise in 2007 in San Diego, CA. It was a four-person operation set up to manage hotels, residential, restaurant, retail and entertainment facilities. In 2015, Inno World's first location, SoCal Splash, located in Chula Vista, became the first and only location to receive special approval to host the Lincoln assassination reenactments enacted by renowned actor Kevin Alejandro. The Bucket Challenge was introduced at SoCal

Splash in 2014, and began attracting participants to the location and eventually worldwide. In 2017, Inno World introduced its 'mobility capability' with the acquisition of EMTO Entertainment, an entertainment franchise which includes both platform and outlet based entertainment brands in North America and Europe. In the same year, company of 5 people operating out of a leisure center in San Diego, CA increased the number of locations to 37, many of them now location based indoor experiential attractions. Inno World's Growth and Stage Expansion In 2017, Inno World expanded into Europe, establishing the first location in Spain which then turned into the first Inno World concept store. It was also the location debut for the 8-foot tall Fruity Creature Water Park, which was sold out every week for an entire year. In 2018, the company acquired Cityscape Indoor Entertainment, an entertainment experience company based out of New Orleans, LA. Inno World plans to
