FAITHFULLY TO MADE IN ITALY SINCE 1967...

SERVICE

Your needs...our actions is our claim, a concept that fully represents the spirit that led us to the dynamic and reactive company we are today. Service is our daily action in response to an evolving and fast changing market, that continuously modifies customers' needs. This is the reason why, for CPM, service is not a standard, it's an approach that shows through all the dedication we have for the customer.

It's the attitude to production management flexibility, it's the capability to be a partner, not only a supplier. In other words service is a tailor-made dress, designed and manufactured to satisfy any need.

This is the spirit that every day animates our company, to convert a need into a special bearing branded CPM.

In a dimensional range between 10 and 800 mm, today we are able to manufacture over 3 million pieces yearly, addressed to customers all around the world.

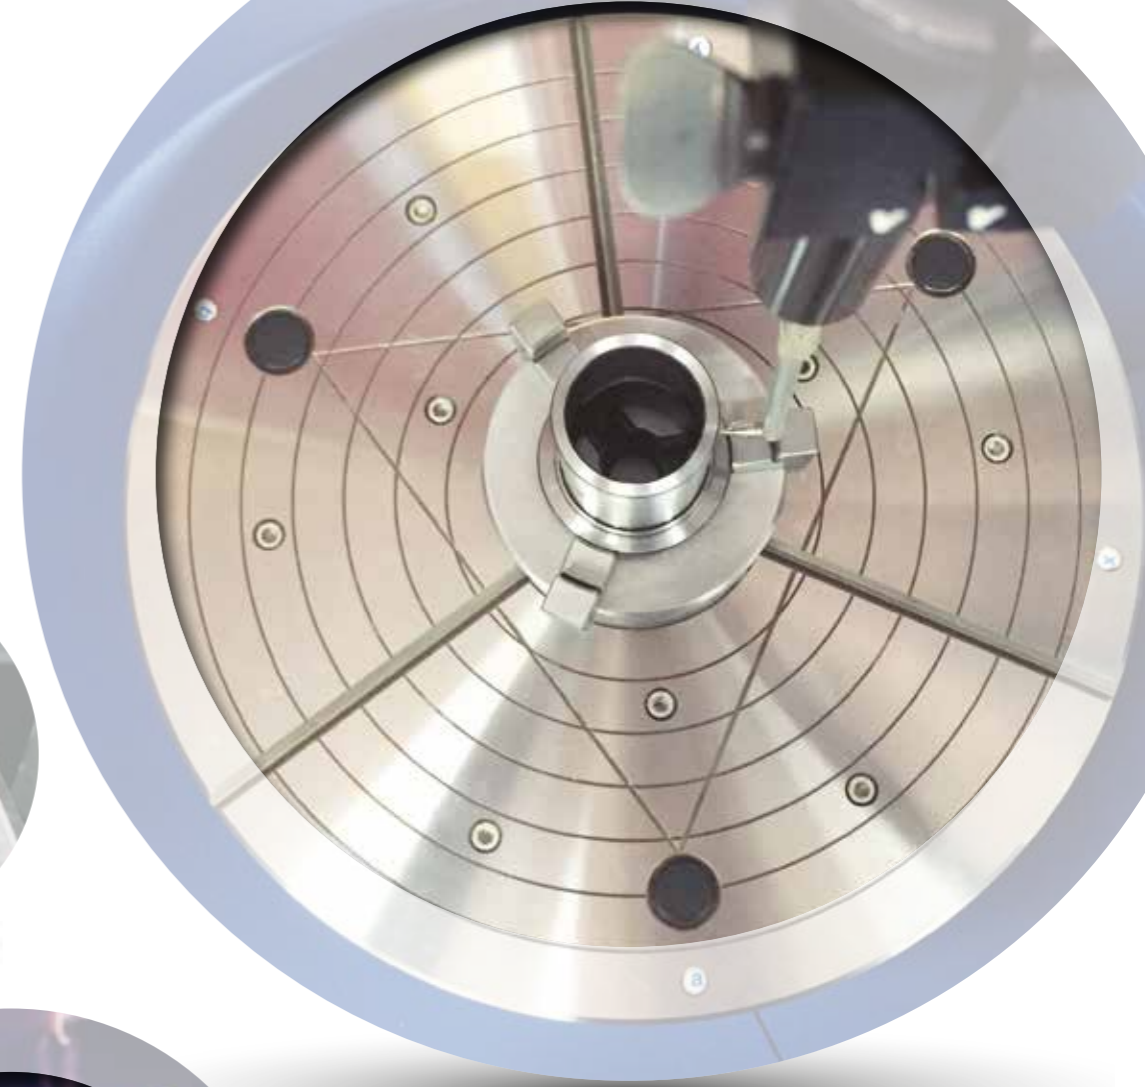

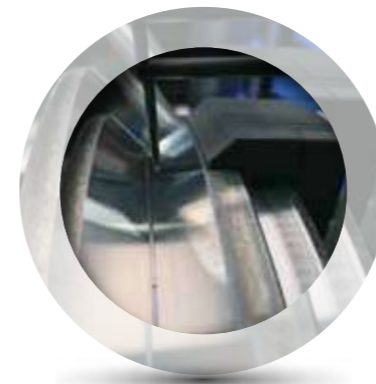

QUALITY

For us quality is a starting point not an arrival point. We are aware that our product is always exposed to heavy mechanical working conditions which may compromise operation of complete devices. The ISO 9001, ISO 14001, ISO 45001, IATF 16949 certifications and implementation of the most modern SPC systems, enable a constant monitoring of the product during the complete manufacturing process that entirely takes place inside the company, also in respect of the environment in which we are located. During the various production phases, our quality lab monitors and analyses every bearing, to ensure it respects all the standards imposed by CPM brand.

CPM is equipped with the most modern quality control instruments, in order to analyze every geometrical characteristic of its products.

COMPETITIVENESS

Our big challenge is to always remain competitive! We want to be it in a complex, fragmented and continuously evolving market, proposing products with a very high price/quality ratio. We are constantly looking towards innovation, with a careful selection of raw material and the use of advanced production technology, in order to grant quality and customization with the competitiveness required by the market.

The know-how acquired and developed in over 40 years of history is an added value appreciated by the big industrial groups that chose us as a competent, flexible and competitive partner in the supply of a wide range of special bearings.

The capability to remain competitive through the years passes through the introduction of lean manufacturing and automation in the various production phases.

FLEXIBILITY

We made out of flexibility one of our strengths. Every customer has his own technical, logistical and organizational needs; thanks to its flexible attitude, CPM is able to daily seize the challenges addressed to it.

Capability to match bearings performance to the imposed technical specifications, flexibility in production and lead time management and adaptability in managing packaging and deliveries based on customers' requests, make out of CPM a partner always appreciated.

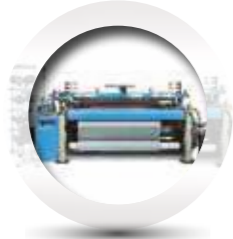

Every market has its own characteristics and our flexible approach enables us to sew every bearing on the application for which it is designed.
