The Eye of the Beholder

A close-up photograph of a woman with long brown hair, wearing a yellow sweater, holding a dark purple Bible. The Bible cover has the words 'HOLY BIBLE' embossed on it. The background is a warm, out-of-focus indoor setting. The text 'The Woman of Valor' is overlaid on the right side of the image in a mix of white and yellow fonts.

PROVERBS 31

“To look at a thing is quite different from seeing a thing, and one does not see anything until one sees its beauty.” (Miss Mabel Chiltern)

“You were to me something apart from common life, a thing pure, noble, honest, without stain. The world seemed to me finer because you were in it, and goodness more real because you lived.” (Gertrude)

PROVERBS 31

Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praises her: "Many women have done excellently, but you surpass them all."

Proverbs 31:28-29

English Standard Version

Charm is deceitful, and beauty is vain, but a woman who fears the Lord is to be praised. Give her of the fruit of her hands, and let her works praise her in the gates.

Proverbs 31:28-29

A close-up, low-angle shot of a woman with dark hair, wearing a light blue top, laughing heartily. Her head is tilted back, and her eyes are closed. The background is a lush green field with a line of trees in the distance, all bathed in the warm, golden light of a setting or rising sun. The overall mood is one of pure joy and optimism.

“she laughs at the time to come” (Prov. 31:26).

The image features two hands, one on the left and one on the right, reaching towards each other. The hands are silhouetted against a bright, golden, glowing background that creates a warm, ethereal atmosphere. The lighting is soft and diffused, highlighting the contours of the fingers and palms. The overall composition is centered and balanced, emphasizing the gesture of reaching out.
