FAUNUS, or PAN

PAN had horns, a beard,
and a goatlike body in its lower parts.

PAN, RUSTIC GOD

Seated in a woodland glen
By a shallow reedy stream
Once I fell a-musing, when I was lul'd into a dream.

From the brook a shape arose
Half a man and half a goat,
Hoofs it had instead of toes
And a beard adorn'd its throat.

On a set of rustic reeds
Sweetly play'd this hybrid man,
Naught car'd I for earthly needs,
For I know that this was Pan.
Nymphs & Satyrs gather'd round
To enjoy the lively sound.

All too soon I wake in pain
And return'd to haunts of men,
But in rural holes I'd fain
Live and hear Pan's pipes again.
