DURKIN HAYES AUDIO

Dear Customer,

Thank you for taking the time to review our line-up of exciting, award-winning spoken word audio. The Durkin Hayes Audio line has been expanding for fifteen years and is recognized as the pioneer in the retail marketplace.

Over the years the spoken word audio industry has seen many changes - in both production styles and title selection. Throughout this time we have stayed true to our original philosophy. "At Durkin Hayes we tell great stories - and we want to be heard!"

By focussing on the role of storyteller, our title selection is never diverted by industry fads. We select the best stories available. We select them based on their merit as spoken audio productions. And we prepare them for production based on what will make the best listening experience.

Our focus also helps us in production. We select the best readers available. We select them based on their skill and style as they relate to each title. And we allow the reader to tell the story - one voice, one storyteller.

The result of all this is products that stand the test of time. Every title in our catalog can stand up against current releases. We see them not as backlist, but as evergreens: products that are valuable to consumers year after year.

The benefit of this evergreen list is that you can bank on it! You can be sure that perennials like Agatha Christie and Perry Mason will sell today, tomorrow and next year. Titles like Shoeless Joe and Wild Swans will be entertaining listeners for years to come. Performances like Christopher Timothy reading James Herriot or Edward Petherbridge reading Dorothy Sayers will always have an audience. People will come back to the retailers who sell these products. And there are lots of them.

Evergreens. They mean easier ordering. They mean predictable sales, season after season. They mean fewer returns. And that means better profits.

Look through this catalog in detail. Discover the treasures that are inside. Build your stable of perennials. Put the best stories in the world on your shelves. It is worth your while.

Kind regards,

Cyril Hayes

— and we want to be heard!"*

THE RECTOR'S WIFE

(7392) ISBN 0-88646-392-0

Author: Joanna Trollope Read by: Patricia Hodge

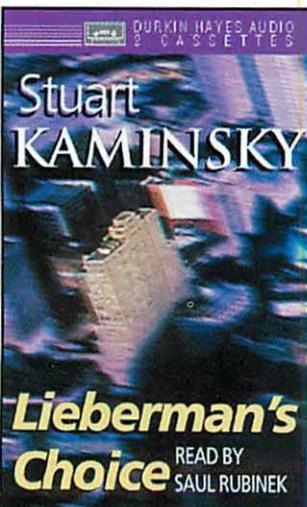

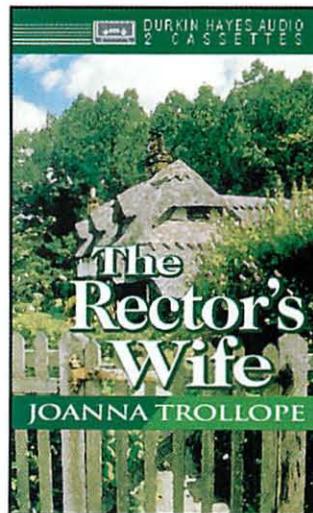

• 2 Tapes • Running time 3 hours • As seen on PBS's Masterpiece Theater

Anna has been everything a priest's wife should be: a comfort to her husband, a marvellous mother to her children, a workhorse to the parish. But when Peter fails to gain promotion to archdeacon, Anna rebels. Her son is dressed from market stalls, her daughter is dreadfully bullied at school, and £9,000 a year can stretch no further. Defying the disapproval of the parish and the withdrawal of her husband, Anna takes a job in a supermarket. In reality it represents the best taste of independence she's had since university and, watched by three men, each, in his individual way in love with her, Anna explores her growing appetite for life.

Warmly perceptive, delicately witty, Joanna Trollope's tale of a woman caught in the web of parish life makes marvellous, compelling listening.

"...a lively and entertaining novel." – The New York Times Book Review

"...this wonderful novel makes the transfer to tape superbly, read beautifully by Patricia Hodge."

LIBERMAN'S CHOICE

(7384) ISBN 0-88646-384-X

Author: Stuart Kaminsky Star reader to be announced

• 2 Tapes • Approximate running time 3 hours • Simultaneous release with the hardcover edition by Henry Holt.

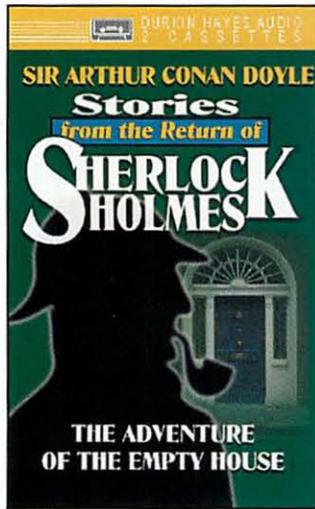

Bernie Shepard, an honest cop pushed over the edge by the sleaziness of Chicago's steamy back alleys and side streets, kills his wife and a fellow officer in cold blood. Barricading himself in a concrete blockade on the top of a building wired with enough explosives to raze an entire section of the city, Shepard wants only one thing and will keep killing until he gets it. Abe Lieberman, a 60-year old Jewish cop whose real loves are his family, his brother's deli, and Bill Hanrahan, his not-so-sober Irish partner, are forced to go after one of their own – no matter what the cost.

Lieberman's Choice is smartly observed and wryly humorous, and Chicago, with its changing neighborhoods and blurring ethnic personality, is itself a memorable character.

Edgar Award-winning Stuart Kaminsky is the author of three other books in the Abe Lieberman series. He is also the author of two more acclaimed series starring Toby Peters and Inspector Rostnikov, as well as many other non-series works. He lives in Sarasota, Florida.

"Kaminsky gets his details exactly right... Like Tevye in Fiddler on the Roof, Lieberman has a sense of humor that never fails him... The best mysteries work on multiple levels, and this one is not exception." – Chicago Tribune

DECLARATIONS OF WAR

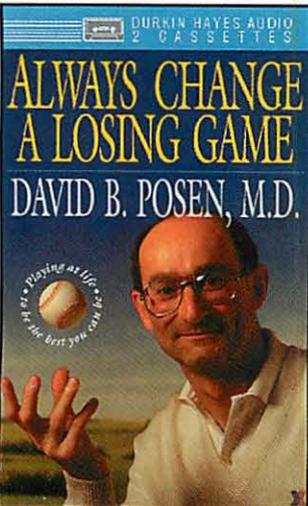

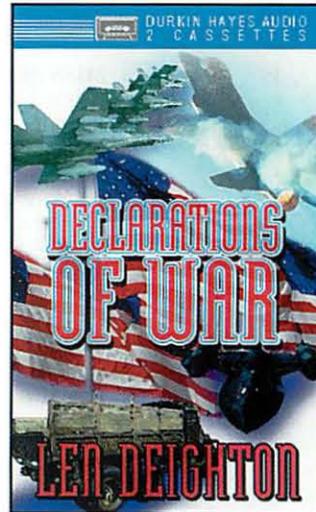

(7391) ISBN 0-88646-391-2

Author: Len Deighton Star reader to be announced

• Unabridged • 2 Tapes • Approximate running time 3 hours

In this collection about men at war, Len Deighton slyly traps the listener into an involvement far deeper than he bargains for. A series of literary jump-cuts between actions as far apart as the Punjab and an SAC base in Vietnam takes you inside the minds of men facing the bizarre situations which war produces.

"As in all Mr. Deighton's books, the incidental details are impeccable: as well as the hardware, military idioms, superstition and attitudes are convincing." – Financial Times

ALWAYS CHANGE A LOSING GAME

(7394) ISBN 0-88646-394-7

Author: David B. Posen, M.D. Star reader to be announced

• 2 Tapes • Approximate running time 3 hours

Patient: "Doctor, it hurts when I do that." Doctor: "Then stop doing that."

Too often, like the patient in the old joke, we do things that hurt us. We keep playing games the same way, even though we lose.

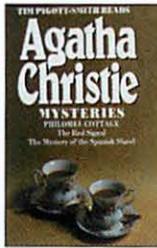

Whether it's compulsive eating, an addiction to caffeine, worrying over the little things, or being stuck in an unhappy relationship or dead-end job, we know we should change our losing habits. But we don't know where, or how, to begin.

"For a change a practical book, full of the clinical wisdom of an experienced physician."

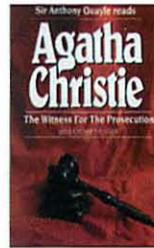

- Dr. Stanley E. Greben, M.D., F.R.C.P. (C), Professor Emeritus of Psychiatry, University of Toronto

"This book is perceptive, instructive, productive and written in an entertaining fashion. It is a valuable addition to any growing person's library." - Dr. Ron Taylor, Toronto Blue Jays Physician, Former Major League Baseball Pitcher.
