Rising Looks to Build on Momentum

PHX RISING FOOTBALL CLUB

vs. Oakland Roots SC

Phoenix Rising at Wild Horse Pass | May 8
 Chandler, Arizona

Phoenix Rising FC looks to make it two straight after opening its new home at Wild Horse Pass with a resounding 4-1 win vs. San Diego Loyal SC last Friday.

"It felt like the old stadium a little bit," said Rising head coach Rick Schantz. "It was awesome. I felt that vibe. The red smoke when we scored goals. When I got that feeling I was like, okay, we're home. You don't want to close a chapter on our history at all. From what we did at the old stadium, now it's kind of come here. It was fantastic. I was so happy and so proud of the boys."

Just as in Rising's 2020 postseason run, Santi Moar led the way with a goal and two assists. Jon Bakero, Kevon Lambert and Aodhan Quinn also picked up goals for Phoenix, which out-shot San Diego 25-3.

After a tough preseason and some outside concerns, Phoenix made a statement with its decisive victory over a division rival.

"I knew it was there," said Schantz. "It was just a matter of trusting our veterans, that they were going to turn it on. When you walk into that stadium and there are 5,000 fans, the lights are on, the music is playing... I watched our players walk through that tunnel and they looked like giants. Their shoulders were back. Their heads were held high. That was the time I knew we were fine."

Rising will look to build momentum when they take on Oakland Roots Saturday, a team who is playing its first season in the USL Championship.

"We've done our homework," Schantz said. "We know what their shape is, how they like to build out. They've got a 6-3 center forward. He is very strong and physical. They have three very technical midfielders. Akeem Ward is playing right back for them. He is very fast. They love to play possession football. We know their players and their shape. Now, the idea is to put a good game plan together like we did against San Diego."

Scouting Oakland

2021 marks Oakland's first year in the USL Championship. They previously played in the third-division NISA for two seasons. The Roots, who were first in the Western Conference, advanced to the league Fall Championship in 2020, losing to Detroit City FC.

Tonight's match will be Oakland's first game of the season and the first of four meetings with Phoenix Rising. It will also be the first of four straight road games for the Roots, who will not kick off their season at home until June 19.

PHOENIX RISING AT WILD HORSE PASS

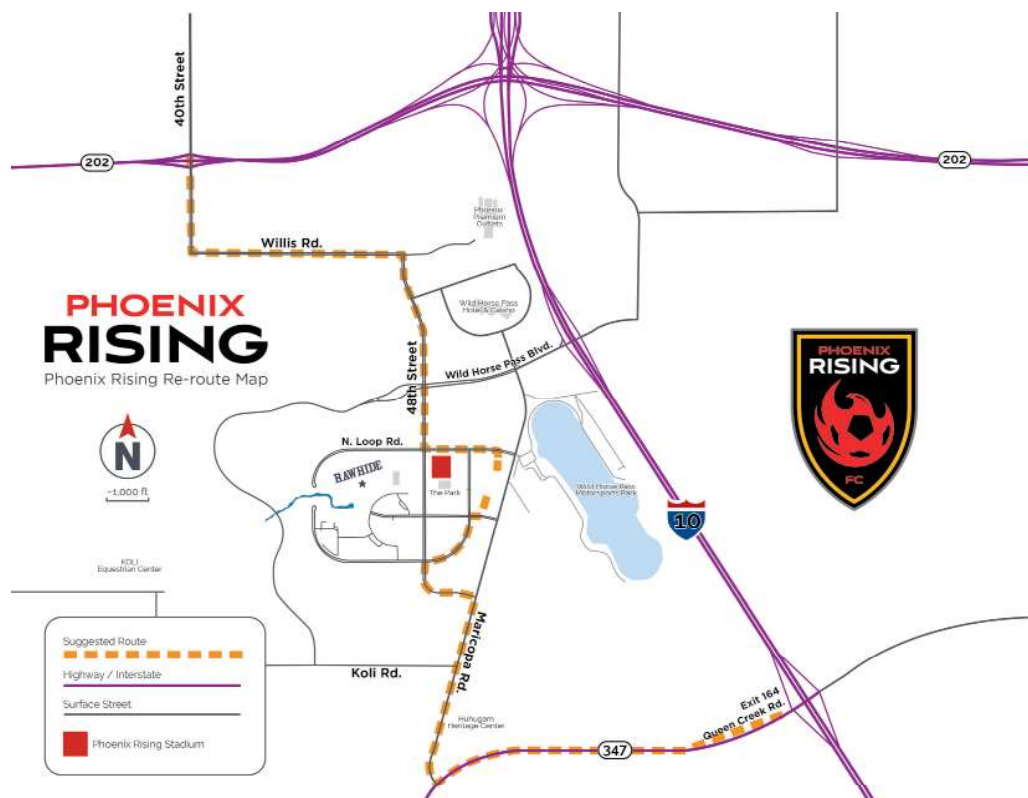

About Phoenix Rising at Wild Horse Pass

Completed on April 30, 2021, Phoenix Rising at Wild Horse Pass is a 10,000 seat stadium located in the Gila River Indian Community. The club's new stadium upgrades include a dedicated press box, located in the Northwest corner of the field, expanded premium seating above the East stands, an expanded West seating section. A dedicated family-friendly section was added to the North side and corner sections were created to enclose the end. A brand-new dual-sided 45 x 25 foot video board adorns the South end, behind the supporters section.

HOT STARTS

Opening night has been good to Phoenix the last two seasons. Rising has outscored its opponents 10-2 the last two season openers.

A NEW ERA AT WILD HORSE PASS

Phoenix ushered in a new era at Wild Horse Pass with a victory vs. San Diego last Friday. Fans were allowed at 50% capacity and brought the energy Phoenix has come to expect from Rising supporters.

MORE MOAR

Santi Moar continued where he left off in 2020, notching a goal and two assists in the season opener. He is tied for first in the league in assists and chances created (6).

Moar finished the 2020 campaign second on the team in assists (8) behind Solomon Asante (9) despite playing only 897 minutes, compared to Asante's 1,537. Moar made a big impact in the playoffs, assisting on three of the club's four playoff goals and scoring the winning penalty kick in the Western Conference Final shootout against El Paso Locomotive FC.

RECORD WHEN STARTING RUFAT

Rising only lost once in 2020 when Rufat Dadashov is in the starting 11 -- a 2-3 loss to San Diego on Sept. 19. After getting the first win on the 2021 season, the club's all-time record with Dadashov in the starting lineup is now 13-1-4.

LIMITLESS LAMBERT

Midfielder Kevon Lambert led the team in interceptions (6), tackles won (4), and duels won (8) on April 30, while adding a goal on the offensive end for good measure.

LOCAL PRODUCT

Local product Ryan Flood got the start at left back and had an impressive debut in the team's victory against San Diego. The 22-year-old starred at Corona del Sol High School in nearby Tempe.

When asked about his reaction to finding out he would be starting, Flood said,

"I couldn't speak. I was speechless in the moment, with all my teammates congratulating me. It was a pretty cool moment to have."

HELP IS ON THE WAY

With goalkeeper Zac Lubin out for several months after back surgery, and Andre Rawls day-to-day with a groin strain, Rising has signed 6-foot-6-inch German goalkeeper Ben Lundt on loan from FC Cincinnati. The reigning USL Championship Goalkeeper of the Year led the league with nine clean sheets last season with Louisville City FC.

Head Coach Rick Schantz

On the team culture

"We spend a lot of time on culture. Early on we spent a day just talking about players that were here previously, our culture, what our values are as a club. It's important for the new players coming in to understand what it means to be a Phoenix Rising player. Creating a winning culture takes time and effort. You cannot just say that work ethic and enjoyment are two important values. You have to constantly keep talking about it a little bit every day."

On staying united as a team

"I told the guys before the game [vs. San Diego] started that the crest they wear is not a crest, it's a shield. I used a line from the movie 300 with the Spartans, and I said that nobody breaks your shields when you come together, and you have to stay together. All the noise outside, all the concern and the worry about preseason, nobody else can hold a shield but you guys. And boy, they really protected the house."

On the availability of Noah Billingsley and Andre Rawls...

"I just received notice today [Tuesday] that the league received Noah's VISA. Andre had a grade one groin strain. It could be as long as two weeks, but he is listed as day-to-day right now. He did an impressive amount of treatment this weekend. He's already on the elliptical and I think he might be running in a day or two."

On Aodhan Quinn...

"People always talk about a player having an amazing engine. When you watch Aodhan... I think he covered over 10 kilometers in the game. What was really impressive though was the amount of high-speed actions. When he was closing down defenders, it was at a very high rate. Sometimes six or 6.5 meters per second. That's not normal. For someone to be able to do that over 10 kilometers. That's a very high level of expectation for a midfielder. But I wasn't surprised because he does that every day. He comes to work two hours before everyone else. He does preventative work to take care of his body. He is a true pro."
