Attendance Notes: The Orioles' largest crowd of the year at home was 38,253 for a Bat Night game against the world champion A's on April 27th. Only one other gate exceeded 30,000. That was a June 29th Tee Shirt Night gathering of 32,905 for a Yankees game. Away from home the Birds drew nine crowds of more than 30,000 including 42,818 in Cleveland on July 26th, the Orioles' largest crowd of the year. . . . Attendance at Orioles games in opponents' parks outdistanced Memorial Stadium totals for the year by 327,169. It was the 9th straight year the Birds have topped a million on the road, but the third consecutive season that they failed to reach that level at home. . . . However, the exciting late season pennant race did generate a September attendance at Memorial Stadium of 205,006 for 12 dates (average 17,084), the highest total for that month in the 21 years the O's have been in Baltimore.

The Yankees and Red Sox were the Birds' best draws both home and road. In Baltimore 130,349 attended Yankees games and 120,976 showed up for the Red Sox. . . . Fenway Park attracted 194,285 for eight Orioles dates and 159,436 came to Shea Stadium to watch the Birds and Yankees tangle.

FARM SYSTEM NOTES

BEST MINOR LEAGUE RECORD: For the 13th consecutive season the Orioles' farm system compiled a composite winning record. The five clubs combined won 330 and lost 292 for a percentage of .531. Rochester won the International League championship while Bluefield (Appalachian) captured a divisional title. Asheville (Southern) was second and Miami (Florida State) third. Only Lodi (California) had a losing record.

During this stretch of 13 straight winning seasons (beginning 1962) Orioles farm teams have achieved the highest won-lost percentage among all major league organizations (4932-4240, .538).

The Orioles have been chosen as the Topps "Baseball Organization of the Year" three times: 1966, 1971 and 1972. The winner of that annual award is determined by a formula that emphasizes the quality of individual prospects in a baseball system rather than team won-lost records.

Keystone Kombinations: Four second base-shortstop combinations in the Baltimore organization received significant honors in 1974 starting with Bobby Grich and Mark Belanger, both of whom won A.L. gold gloves at their respective positions. In addition, both members of the keystone combination achieved league all star recognition on three of the five clubs in the minor league system: Rob Andrews and Tim Nordbrook at Rochester . . . Kim Andrew and Kiko Garcia at Asheville and Richard Rickman and Juan Martinez at Bluefield.

ROCHESTER (88-56, 1st North Div.) won the divisional championship by 14 games over Syracuse while finishing the regular season 24 games over .500. Then, the Red Wings under Joe Altobelli, who won his second "manager of the year" award in four years, defeated Memphis, the South

Division titlist, four games to two and wound up a super season by downing Syracuse, which had eliminated Richmond in the first round of playoffs, four games to three to win every prize in sight.

Second baseman Rob Andrews, shortstop Tim Nordbrook and third baseman Doug DeCinces were all elected to the I.L. all star team as was veteran pitcher Bill Kirkpatrick.

Andrews, since traded to Houston in the Lee May deal, batted .306; Nordbrook hit .287, played outstanding defense and was voted "mvp" in the I.L. all star game, and DeCinces picked up an all star team berth for the second straight year, and batted .282 with 11 homers and 69 rbi. Other offensive standouts were Tommy Shopay (.313) and Curt Motton (.300).

Kirkpatrick, who was assigned to Montreal with Dave McNally and Richie Coggins in the deal for Ken Singleton and Mike Torrez, had a 15-7 record to lead the league in wins and a 2.82 era. Paul Mitchell (14-6 plus 3-0 in playoffs), Dyar Miller (12-8 and 3-1 in playoffs) and Mike Willis (9-3) also enjoyed outstanding seasons as starters. Mickey Scott (9-3 with 17 saves and an 0.99 era in 57 games), now with the California Angels, paired with southpaw Dave Johnson (7-4 with 7 saves in 35 games) to form the most effective right-left relief team in the I.L. Johnson was absent from the club for seven weeks while doing a tour with the Orioles in mid-season.

For the 13th time in the 14 years the Wings and Orioles have been working together (starting 1961) Rochester led the I.L. in attendance with a final figure of 269,703. It was also the 11th time in that 14-year span that the Rochester team has qualified for post-season playoffs.

ASHEVILLE (70-67, 2d Western Div.), managed by Cal Ripken, finished three games back of divisional champion Knoxville (White Sox) . . . Asheville's keystone combination of second baseman Kim Andrew and shortstop Kiko Garcia was voted to the Southern League all star team.

Andrew, who was selected in the major league draft by the Red Sox for $25,000 in December, hit .317 and led the Baltimore minor league system in hits (165). He also set a S.L. record by hitting safely in 30 consecutive games. It was the third time in his three pro seasons that he batted over .300. Garcia hit .273 with 53 rbi and had an excellent season defensively. Outfielder Jim Buckner, brother of the Dodgers' Bill, started at Lodi, but came to Asheville early and went on to lead the organization in home runs (17, tied with Mike Satterlee) and total bases (235). He batted .283 at Asheville and .296 overall. Rich Dauer, the U.S.C. All-American who was the Orioles' first choice in the summer draft, was limited to 51 games because of a broken ankle, but batted .324 and hit 11 home runs . . . Taylor Duncan batted .290.

Righthander Doug Wessel, a Vanderbilt alumnus who was the O's first pick in the secondary phase of the '73 summer draft, led the club in wins with a 13-8 record. Larry McCall, an Asheville native, was 10-7 there (and 2-4 at Rochester) and former Univ. of Mass. standout Mike Flanagan was 6-4 with a 1.82 era after compiling a 6-6 record and 2.10 era at Miami earlier in the year. Overall, Flanagan allowed only 128 hits in 187 innings.

LODI (61-79, 6th composite) finished dead last in the eight-team California League during the first half (21-49), but then Manager Jim Schaffer's club rallied to wind up second in the last half with a 40-30 record.

Mike Satterlee, a four-year pro who started the season at Asheville and batted only .198 came to life at Lodi and hit .327. He wound up with a total of 17 homers for the year to tie Jim Buckner for the organization lead. He was second in the system in rbi with 78 to teammate Ismael Oquendo, a first baseman who drove in 88 runs, hammered 16 homers and batted .298.

Creighton Tevlin, a teammate of Rich Dauer on the NCAA champion Southern California team (selected 24th in regular phase of '74 summer draft), batted .359 for Lodi in 76 games and 10th round choice outfielder Jim Bryan from Merced Jr. College hit .296, and drove in 47 rbi in 72 games.

Two Mikes, lefthander Hile who was 11-5 and righthander Parrott with an 11-11 record were the club's leading hurlers, along with Duane Johnson who also won 11 while losing a league leading 15 games. Parrott, the Birds' first round selection in the '73 summer draft, compiled a 2.78 era, yielded only 139 hits in 194 innings, fanned 181 and led the league with 16 complete games.

MIAMI (74-58, 3rd, Southern Div.) failed to qualify for the playoffs for the first time in six years yet finished 16 games over .500. The Miami Birds finished first in their division five straight times (1968 thru 1972) and won four consecutive league championships (from 1969 thru 1972) before dropping to second place and losing the first round of playoffs in 1973.

First baseman Eddie Murray, second baseman Rick Cuoco and catcher Willie Royster were selected to the Florida State League all star team. Murray, a 3rd round choice in the summer draft of 1973, batted .289 with 63 rbi and 12 homers while leading the organization in both triples (7) and doubles (29). He also led his league in doubles and total bases (212). Cuoco, chosen second by the Orioles in the secondary phase of the same draft, batted .254 and Royster hit 12 homers while driving in 66 runs on a .268 average.

The leading winner on the club was righthander Dennis Martinez (15-6). John Flinn (12-10) had the lowest era in the system (1.74) among pitchers with 85 or more innings and led FSL in shutouts (6). Antonio Chevez compiled a 9-6 record with a 1.57 era while making 38 relief appearances in 41 assignments. Tim Hoyle (6-5), Russ Peach (7-7), Mike Flanagan (6-6), and Baltimore area residents Myrl Smith (4-3) and Ken Caifano (4-5) were also on the Miami staff for all or part of the season.

BLUEFIELD—The Orioles' rookies, managed by Bobby Malkmus in '74, were tops in their division with a 37-32 record, but finished third in the overall Appalachian League standings behind the Bristol Tigers (52-17) and Elizabethton Twins (41-27) . . . Second baseman Juan Martinez who batted .316 and stole 17 bases and shortstop Richard Rickman, a .248 hitter with 13 steals, were both all-league selections . . . Mike Darr, a righthander chosen fourth by the O's in the summer free agent draft, led the league with 99 strikeouts while compiling a 5-5 record in 78 innings . . . Another righthander, Dennis McMillian, paced the club in wins with a 10-4 record before being promoted to Miami late in the season.

FARM SYSTEM MANAGERS

JOE ALTOBELLI has finished first three times in four years at Rochester and has twice won International League "manager of the year" awards including 1974 when he directed the Red Wings to a North Division title, then playoff victories over Memphis for the league championship, and Syracuse for the Governor's Cup.

He also won the award in 1971, his first at the Red Wings helm. That year the Wings with Bobby Grich and Don Baylor topped their division, won the I.L. playoffs, then captured the Little World Series (which has since been discontinued). In both his all-winning seasons Altobelli's clubs have finished the regular season 32 games over .500. In 1972 Rochester dropped to fourth, but bounced back to capture another divisional championship in 1973 before being eliminated early in the playoffs.

Joe, a 42-year-old Detroit native who has lived in Rochester for many years, spent 16½ seasons as a first baseman in pro ball and saw limited major league service with two clubs: Cleveland ('55 and '57) and Minnesota ('61). However, he spent most of his playing career at the triple-A level. In 1960, while playing at Montreal, he led the I.L. with 31 home runs. Later he played 3½ seasons at Rochester before retiring in June 1966, to begin his managing career. His first assignment was at Bluefield in the Appalachian Rookie League. He won a pennant there in 1967, managed at Stockton (California) in 1968, then ran the Dallas-Ft. Worth (Texas) Spurs for two years ('69 & '70) before being promoted to Rochester. He has won four pennants in nine years and finished out of the first division only once.

Joe and his wife, Pat, have five children: Michael, Mark, Jody, Jackie and Jerry.

JIM SCHAFFER (Asheville) will jump up to the double-A level this year after three seasons at Lodi during which he won one pennant in 1973. He was also voted "manager of the year" in the California League that season . . . A veteran of 16 years as a catcher in pro ball, Jim retired at the end of the 1970 season and broke into managing the following summer at Bluefield where he won the league title in his first try. During his playing career he saw service with six major league clubs, five in the National League. He broke into the majors with the Cardinals and later played with the Cubs, White Sox, Mets, Phillies and Reds, and also served a tour of duty in the Dodgers' organization. He once played all nine positions in a minor league game.

BOBBY MALKMUS (Lodi), 43, a former infielder with the Braves ('57), Senators ('58-'59) and Phillies ('60 thru '62), will be managing in his fourth different town in as many years with the Orioles. After his retirement as a player following the 1966 season (he was in the Phillies system at the time), Bobby managed in the Montreal and Philadelphia organizations until joining Baltimore in 1972 as skipper of the Birds' Lewiston (Idaho) farm team in the Northwest League where he won the pennant. He moved to Miami in 1973, managed at Bluefield last year and this season will handle the Lodi club.

Bobby lives in Union, N. J., with his wife, Ruth, and two children: Robin and James.

GEORGE FARSON, like Schaffer, a catcher turned manager, will return to Miami this season. The 33-year-old from Vernon Hill, Va., began his managing career in 1972 at Bluefield after playing in the Baltimore system for 10 years, from rookie league to triple-A. He spent two seasons managing the Birds' rookies then moved up to Miami last season. George will also serve as a staff member at the Orioles' minor league training camp at Biscayne College in Miami.

George and his wife, Sarah, live in Java, Va. during the off-season with their three children: Tammy Lynn, Sandi Lea and Michael.

RAY MILLER, a 29-year-old former relief pitcher, is in his second season as the Orioles' minor league pitching instructor. After serving at Rochester in 1973 as a pitcher-coach under Joe Altobelli, he moved into his present assignment when his predecessor, Herman Starrette, joined the Atlanta Braves as their major league pitching coach.

Ray joined the Baltimore organization during the 1971 season from the Cleveland farm system and in three years at Rochester appeared in 106 games, won 11, lost 8 and saved 18. He has been in organized baseball since 1964 when he broke in at Lexington in the Western Carolinas League. He pitched at the triple-A level during his last six seasons as an active player.

Ray, a Takoma Park, Md. native, lives with his wife, Judith, and son, Raymond, in New Athens, Ohio.

Minor League Player(s) of the Year: Six Orioles' farmhands have been named "minor league player of the year" in the past nine years, either by Topps Chewing Gum with its Spink Award or by THE SPORTING NEWS which chooses its own candidate by vote of staff members. It started for the Orioles in 1966 when Mike Epstein won both awards. In 1968 Merv Rettenmund was also a dual winner. In 1970 there were two different selections, but both were Orioles prospects. Don Baylor was tapped by THE SPORTING NEWS, while Roger Freed, a Rochester teammate, was the Topps winner. Bobby Grich captured both trophies in 1971 and Mike Reinbach was the 1972 co-winner of the Topps Trophy along with the Dodgers' Tom Paciorek.

GRAND SLAM NOTES: Jim Gentile set an American League record and tied a major league mark in '61 when he hit five home runs with the bases full. The major league record had been established by Ernie Banks in '55. . . . Gentile also set a major league standard by hitting consecutive bases loaded home runs at Metropolitan Stadium (Minnesota) on 5/9/61 in the 1st inning off Pete Ramos and the 3rd off Paul Giel . . . In addition, Gentile also had a run producing single in that game to set a club record for rbi in a game (nine).

Frank Robinson became the second player in history to hit consecutive grand slams on 6/26/70 at R.F.K. Stadium in Washington, in the 5th off Joe Coleman and 6th off Joe Grzenda. Since then, Jim Northrup (then with Detroit) duplicated that feat. Four other players (Lazzeri, Tabor, York and Cloninger) have hit two grand slams in a game, but they were not on consecutive plate appearances.

Brooks Robinson once blasted bases loaded homers in successive games—at Dodger Stadium off Angels' Ken McBride on 5/6/62 and at Memorial Stadium off the K.C. A's Ed Rakow on 5/9/62.

One of Dave McNally's two grand slams was hit in the '70 World Series, off the Reds' Wayne Granger (3rd game) . . . Dave's was the 12th grand slam in series history, but the only one ever hit by a pitcher . . . Mike Cuellar hit his grand slam in the '70 ALCS off the Twins Jim Perry in Met Stadium . . . Mike remains the only player ever to hit a bases loaded home run in championship series competition in either league.

Four opponents have hit two grand slams in Memorial Stadium: Roy Sievers (Wash.), Bill Skowron (N.Y.), Mike Epstein (Wash.) and Rico Petrocelli (Bos.) . . . In all, opponents have hit 48 grand slams off Baltimore pitching including 24 in Memorial Stadium . . . Neither Harmon Killebrew nor Mickey Mantle has ever hit a grand slam against the O's although Killebrew has hit more home runs vs. O's than any other opponent as well as more in Memorial Stadium—66 (30) and Mantle ranks second with 54 (25).

LONG HOME RUNS/MEMORIAL STADIUM: The longest "measured" home run ever hit in Memorial Stadium was a 471' drive by Harmon Killebrew on May 24, 1964 off Milt Pappas over the hedge in left-center field . . . This exceeded by two feet the only other blast that has ever cleared the hedge . . . That was one by Boog Powell 469' to the same area off Boston's Don Schwall on June 22, 1962. Aside from these there have been three balls hit into the hedge (approximately 450'), by Mickey Mantle in 1954, by Powell in 1965 and by Frank Robinson in 1967.

Frank Robinson is the only player to have hit a ball completely out of Memorial Stadium. In the second game of a doubleheader with Cleveland on May 8, 1966, Frank hit a Luis Tiant offering over the left field stands and into the parking lot beyond, a drive that measured 451' on the fly and rolled to a stop 540' away from home plate.

Notes On 20-Game Winners

During the seven years that George Bamberger has been the Orioles' pitching coach (starting in '68), the Birds' staff has produced 13 20-game winning performances. In the club's first 14 years of operation only one pitcher was able to reach that plateau—Steve Barber in 1963.

In this period Dave McNally, Jim Palmer and Mike Cuellar have each been 20-game winners four times, and Pat Dobson once.

In 1971 four Baltimore pitchers reached the 20-win level. The only other foursome in the entire history of major league baseball to have achieved that feat were four hurlers from the 1920 White Sox (51 years earlier): Urban "Red" Faber-23, Claude Williams-23, Dickie Kerr-21 and Ed Cicotte-21. Despite that achievement, incidentally, the White Sox that year finished second, two games back of Cleveland.

The four Orioles pitchers all reached the 20-win plateau within six days: McNally was first on 9/21, then in the same weekend series in Cleveland, the other three joined him: Cuellar (9/24—1st game—clinched pennant), Dobson (9/24—2nd game), Palmer (9/26).

FIELDING NOTES: The Orioles led the league in fielding for the fifth time by the scantest of margins over the Brewers, .9802 to .9799. The Birds have finished first ('63, '64, '66, '69, '74) or second ('60, '61, '68, '70, '71, '72, '73) 12 times in the past 15 seasons and have not finished lower than second since 1967, seven years ago.

Gold Glove: For the fourth time in six years the Orioles had four Gold Glove winners—Brooks Robinson, Paul Blair, Mark Belanger and Bobby Grich. . . See page 39 for further details.

Individual records: Bobby Grich set another major league fielding record for second basemen in 1974 by recording 484 putouts, eclipsing the old mark of 479 set by Bucky Harris for Washington in 1922. Grich, who handled more than 900 chances for the second straight year (945 in '73, 957 in '74) is the first A.L. second baseman to exceed 900 chances since Jerry Priddy in 1950, and the first in the majors since Bill Mazeroski, who reached that level four times, in 1967.

Grich in 1973 established major league records for fielding percentage (.995) based on only five errors in 945 chances. He thus surpassed the former standard of .9939 set by Jerry Adair while with the O's in 1964. At the same time Grich also tied Adair's major league mark for fewest errors (5) in 150 or more games, also set in 1964.

Adair, however, retains exclusive hold on two other marks he set with the Birds in 1964-65: most consecutive chances accepted without error (458, 7/22/64 thru 5/6/65) and most consecutive errorless games (89, 7/22/64 thru 5/6/65).

Brooks Robinson extended six of his own major league lifetime records for third basemen: games—2,641; chances—8,261; putouts—2,536; assists—5,725 and double plays—575. He also set a major league mark by leading the A.L. in assists for the 8th time and tied another record for most seasons by a third baseman (20).

Mark Belanger, who led the A.L. in fielding percentage at shortstop (.984), also established a major league standard for highest lifetime fielding percentage (.9733).

Triple plays: The Orioles have only executed five during their 20 seasons in the American League while having been victimized with the same weapon ten times. Strangely enough, the last three triple plays pulled off by the Orioles have all been of the rare around-the-horn, ground ball variety, and all have been started by Brooks Robinson:

9/29/73—at Detroit. . . Frank Howard "gitp" . . . 5-4-3 (B. Robinson, B. Grich, T. Crowley).

7/ 7/73—vs. Oak. at Balto. . . Gene Tenace "gitp" . . . 5-4-3 (B. Robinson, B. Grich, E. Cabell).

8/ 6/69—vs. K.C. at Balto. . . Eliseo Rodriguez "gitp" . . . 5-4-3 (B. Robinson, D. Johnson, B. Powell).

4/ 9/59—at Wash. . . Ed Fitzgerald line drive . . . 3-6-3 (B. Boyd, C. Carrasquel, B. Boyd).

8/ 3/55—vs. K.C. at Balto. . . Art Ceccarelli "gidp" then runner was thrown out at home . . . 3-6-2 (G. Triandos, W. Miranda, H. Smith).

Elrod Hendricks was the last Oriole to hit into a triple play, in Boston on 5/25/72. Duane Josephson (1b) caught his line drive, stepped on first then threw to Luis Aparicio at second for the third out. . . On four of the 10 occasions that Birds' opponents have executed triple plays, Brooks Robinson has been the batter. Brooks grounded into one, lined into another and two were "gidp's" with a runner then being thrown out between third and home.

BIGGEST LIFETIME WINNERS-LOSERS

vs. ORIOLES

Whitey Ford, now the Yankees pitching coach, retired after the 1967 season but the Hall of Famer who had a lifetime mark of 236-106 for 16 seasons still holds the distinction of having beaten the Orioles more often than any other pitcher, active or retired. Ford who was 30-16 vs. the Birds is followed by: Mickey Lolich (24-18), Billy Pierce (23-11), Early Wynn and Frank Sullivan (21-8), Earl Wilson (20-9), and Camilo Pascual (20-23).

In addition to Lolich, other active pitchers with high win totals against the Orioles are: Jim Kaat (19-19), Jim "Catfish" Hunter (19-14) and Jim Perry (18-20).

Pascual is the all time biggest loser to the Orioles with 23 defeats. Others oft-beaten by Baltimore are: Jim Perry (20), Fritz Peterson (13-20), Sam McDowell (9-19), Lolich (18), Bill Monbouquette (10-17), Dean Chance and Denny McLain (both 11-16) and Ford (16).

Lefthander Bud Daley enjoyed the most productive year ever against the Birds when he compiled a 6-1 record against them for K.C. in 1959. Ford had back to back 5-2 seasons vs. the O's in 1959 and 1960 while Bob Lemon (Cle.) was 5-0 vs. Baltimore in 1956 and Mike Garcia (Cle.) was 5-1 in 1954.

Three pitchers have lost five times to the Orioles in a single season, all were 0-5: Ned Garver (K.C.), 1957; Dick Stigman (Min.), 1963; and Stan Williams (Cle.), 1969.

Last year Lolich (1-4) and the Royals' Steve Busby (0-4) were the biggest losers to the Birds while Jim Bibby of Texas (3-0) and Boston's Bill Lee (3-2) were the biggest winners against them.

1974 HIGHLIGHTS ORIOLES vs. OPPONENTS

BOSTON: The Orioles captured the season series, 10-8 . . . The O's won six of nine at Fenway Park, but were only 4-5 against the Red Sox in Baltimore . . . The O's won five of their last six against the Sox, all during September.

Blanks: The O's shutout the Red Sox three straight times in a series at Baltimore in early September and held Boston to eight hits in 86 at bats (.093) but the Sox wound up with a .290 average (180-for-621) on the year vs. the O's . . . In a Labor Day doubleheader September 2, Ross Grimsley and Mike Cuellar each pitched the O's to 1-0 victories . . . Grimsley allowed three hits and Cuellar two . . . Jim Palmer, on September 4, continued the scoreless streak as he whitewashed the Sox, 6-0, on a three-hitter . . . Overall the Sox batted .304 vs. the O's in Fenway, and .272 in Baltimore . . . The Birds batted .282 in Boston and .278 vs. the Sox in Baltimore.

On and On: The Orioles and Red Sox played a game September 21 at Fenway Park that started in early afternoon and wound up late in the evening, consuming almost seven hours . . . It was a cold, rainy day when the game started at 2:20 P.M. and several rain delays took place before the game was completed at 8:48 P.M. . . . To make matters worse for the O's, the Red Sox scored four in the ninth to tie the game at 5-5 and then won it in the 10th on a run-scoring single by Deron Johnson . . . Lefty Bill Lee pitched the entire game for Boston.

Swap: In a classic example of finding gold in the other fellow's mine, the Red Sox took a two-game set from the O's in Baltimore July 1-2 . . . The scene then shifted to Boston for three more games and the O's gained a measure of revenge and then some by sweeping the series July 3-4.

Red-Faced: The Orioles set a club record, the kind stashed away in small print, when they committed six errors while losing to the Red Sox, 11-2, at Memorial Stadium May 19.

Late Start: The O's were scheduled to open their road season April 9 in Boston, but the game was called off after four inches of snow fell on Fenway Park . . . The game was re-set for the next day but again was postponed, this time because of rain . . . Finally, on April 11, the skies cleared and the field dried long enough for the O's to spoil the Red Sox' opener, 7-6, in 11 innings.

Sparkling Relief: Dave McNally started against the Red Sox in the first game of a two-nighter July 3 at Fenway Park, but was ejected in the first inning for complaining about two balk calls on him by umpire Hank Morganweck . . . Doyle Alexander relieved McNally and pitched five-hit ball the rest of the way to gain a 9-2 victory . . . In the nightcap, first game villain McNally turned hero as he came on to pitch the O's out of trouble in the 9th inning to save a 6-4 victory.

Long Distance Clout: Tommy Davis, never known for his power, smashed two home runs to aid Mike Cuellar in a 6-0 victory over the Red Sox at Memorial Stadium May 17 in a game halted by rain after six innings.

1974 HIGHLIGHTS ORIOLES vs. OPPONENTS

CALIFORNIA: The O's won the series for the year against the Angels, 7-5 . . . The Orioles were 4-2 against the Angels in Baltimore and 3-3 at Anaheim Stadium.

Big Crowd: One of the Angels' largest crowds of the year, 35,084, saw Bill Singer stop the Orioles on six hits as he pitched the Angels to a 3-1 victory May 4 at Anaheim Stadium . . . The crowd was lured by a bat night promotion.

Only Win: Don Hood, O's stylish southpaw, got his only victory of the year when he gained a 5-4 verdict over the Angels July 19 . . . He pitched four innings of no-hit ball in relief to gain the triumph.

Surprise: Light-hitting Mark Belanger, using a 32-ounce bat, slammed a three-run home run in the last of the 9th to power the Orioles to a 5-2 win over the Angels July 20.

CHICAGO: The O's were 5-7 against Chicago for the year, winning four of six in Baltimore but dropping five of six in Chicago.

Spoilers: The White Sox twice in less than a month ended O's winning streaks . . . The O's had a four-game streak broken by the Sox June 16 and then on July 11 the Sox snapped a five-game O's victory skein.

Comeback: The Orioles twice came from behind to defeat the White Sox June 15 at Memorial Stadium . . . The O's got two in the 9th to deadlock the game, then won it in the 11th on a Boog Powell opposite field home run.

Winning Return: Jim Palmer, making his first appearance following 54 days on the disabled list, gained an 8-2 decision over the White Sox August 13 . . . Palmer hurled the first six innings and got some immediate working margin as Powell bashed a grand-slam home run in the first inning.

Weirdo: The O's had 13 base runners against the White Sox July 14 in Chicago, but managed to score only one of them while dropping a 3-1 verdict . . . Ten runners reached base via walks, but the Sox turned in three doubleplays to keep the O's run output at a minimum.

CLEVELAND: The Orioles won twice as many against the Indians as they lost, posting 6-3 records home and away.

Club Mark: The O's set a club record when they collected 22 hits while defeating the Indians, 12-1, May 11 in Cleveland . . . Mark Belanger led the hit parade with five safeties, to tie another club record, while Paul Blair and Don Baylor each had four hits and Jim Fuller blasted two home runs.

Skein Ends: A two-run homer by Charlie Spikes in the 9th inning ended a record-setting scoreless innings performance by the O's staff September 7 . . . The staff had gone 54 frames without giving up a run, an American League record, until Spikes homered against Ross Grimsley . . . In the first inning of the game, George Hendrick doubled for the first extra base blow in 71 innings against O's pitching . . . The staff had given up just 38 hits over a period of more than seven full games.

Streak Stopped: The O's had a 10-game winning streak, their longest of the year, stopped by the Tribe September 8 . . . The Indians hit three home runs en route to a 7-4 victory.

Milestone: Boog Powell hit the 300th home run of his O's career September 13 (first game) off Dick Bosman.

Suspended: The second game of a two-nighter between the Indians and Orioles at Memorial Stadium September 13 had to be stopped because of curfew . . . The game, interrupted twice by rain, was called after eight innings at 1:13 A.M., then completed the following night . . . The O's won, 8-6.

Hero Blair: A grand-slam home run by Paul Blair, the third of his career, sparked the O's to a 7-1 victory May 21 over the Tribe . . . The next night Blair again was the hitting hero as he singled home the winning run to give the O's a 1-0 triumph in 12 innings over the Tribe . . . Ross Grimsley pitched the distance for the O's.

Rich Hitter: Rich Coggins tied a club mark with five hits as the O's beat the Indians, 9-5, in 11 innings July 26 in Cleveland . . . Coggins' 5th hit of the game, a double, drove in the tie-breaker in the 11th when the O's scored four times.

DETROIT: The Orioles enjoyed a 14-4 advantage over the Tigers, winning six of nine at Memorial Stadium and eight of nine at Tiger Stadium.

Clinching Day: The O's edged the Tigers, 7-6, at Tiger Stadium on October 1 and then waited several hours to find out they had clinched their fifth divisional title in six years . . . Jim Northrup and Andy Etchebarren were pinch-hitting stars for the O's . . . Northrup ripped a two-run homer against his former mates to keep the O's in the game, and Etchebarren accounted for the winning tally with a double in the 9th . . . Several hours after the O's game came the news that New York, the other contending finalist, had been eliminated by Milwaukee.

1974 HIGHLIGHTS ORIOLES vs. OPPONENTS

No. 3,000: Al Kaline, born and raised in Baltimore, used his home town as a setting for his 3,000th career hit . . . He reached the pinnacle with a double into the right field corner against Dave McNally leading off the 4th inning September 24 . . . Only 11 other players in the game's history have reached 3,000 career hits.

Walking Loss: Mike Cuellar had a nine-game winning streak ended by Detroit June 25 in which he wound up taking a hike . . . Cuellar was ejected by home plate umpire Russ Goetz after the third inning for disputing some of the arbiter's calls . . . Cuellar was charged with five walks in three innings and the Tigers scored two runs off him in the third . . . Those were the only runs in the game . . . The loss for Cuellar was his first since April 27.

Hit Man: Dave McNally pitched the O's to a 9-3 win over Detroit in the nightcap of a two-night doubleheader August 4 in Detroit, but the one batter he couldn't get out was Ellie Rodriguez . . . The Tigers' third baseman had four of Detroit's seven hits, including two home runs and two doubles.

Triumphant End: The Orioles ended their 1974 regular season with a 5-4 victory over the Tigers October 2 to wind up the season with a nine-game winning streak.

KANSAS CITY: The Orioles posted an 8-4 record against the Royals, winning four and losing two in both Baltimore and Kansas City.

Rojas Slam: Cookie Rojas, the Royals' veteran second baseman, sent the Orioles down to a 9-5 defeat May 28 when he smashed a grand-slam home run off Bob Reynolds in the 11th inning.

Little Big Guy: Fred Patek tumbled the Orioles on Tumbler Night August 17 at Memorial Stadium as he drove in all three KC runs in a 3-2 win, including the deciding tally in the 10th inning.

TD's Five: Tommy Davis, the O's hitting specialist, collected five safeties to tie a club record for the second time in the season as he paced the O's to a 9-2 win August 30 . . . Davis also had five hits against Cleveland July 25.

MILWAUKEE: The Orioles were 8-10 against Milwaukee and had more trouble against the Brewers than with any other club in the Eastern Division . . . The O's won the series in Baltimore, 5-4, but lost six of nine at County Stadium where they had won 24 of 30 from 1970 through 1973 . . . Milwaukee was the only Eastern club to hold a winning margin for the year over the O's . . . Despite losing the series for the year, the O's are 58-29 (.667) against Milwaukee since the club was formed in 1969, in Seattle.

Slams: Milwaukee hit three grand-slam homers during the year against the O's . . . Johnny Briggs had one and Darrell Porter the other two . . . Briggs hit his June 20, Porter got his first June 23 and the other September 9 as a pinch-hitter.

Youthful Vet: Robin Yount, the Brewers' 18-year-old shortstop, showed all the poise of a grizzled veteran against the O's April 13 . . . In the 8th inning he committed an error which allowed a run to score that enabled the O's to tie the game, 2-2 . . . In the 9th, however, he delivered a game-winning home run off Ross Grimsley.

Blair's Grab: Long noted for his defensive skills, Paul Blair made one of the greatest catches of his career to save a 6-5 victory for the O's September 9 at County Stadium . . . There were two outs and runners at first and second in the 11th inning when George Scott smashed a screaming line drive to dead center field . . . Blair snared the ball at the fence and his momentum carried him through a gate leading to the bullpen area.

Zero Match: The O's and Brewers went through 16 innings in a scoreless game September 27 before the Orioles pushed over a run in the 17th to win, 1-0 . . . It was one of two 17-inning tilts during the year for the O's . . . The other was against New York September 11.

Unhappy Holdover: The Orioles and Brewers were rained out of their scheduled Easter Sunday game April 14 in Milwaukee and it was re-set for the next night . . . The O's could have done just as well skipping the game because they lost, 6-1, to Clyde Wright and had only four hits . . . Wright retired 24 of the last 25 batters he faced, including the last 17 in succession.

MINNESOTA: The O's played .500 ball against the Twins, winning four of six in Baltimore but only two of six in Minnesota.

Rare Feat: Bob Grich became the first player in club history to hit three home runs in a game at Memorial Stadium when he did it June 18 against the Twins . . . Three other Orioles have hit three in a game but all did it on the road—Boog Powell, who has done it three times; Curt Blefary and Paul Blair.

Quickest: The Orioles beat the Twins, 1-0, behind Mike Cuellar June 17 in a game reeled off in 1:43, the fastest of the season for the Orioles.

Big Innings: The Twins handed the O's successive losses August 24-25 in which their best weapon was the big inning . . . The Twins scored six runs in the second to win by a 9-5 score August 24 and they came back with five in the sixth inning the following night to register a 5-1 victory.

1974 HIGHLIGHTS ORIOLES vs. OPPONENTS

Thankful Killer: Harmon Killebrew was honored by the Twins before the August 11 game with the O's at Metropolitan Stadium . . . To show his appreciation, he drove in two runs and scored another to pace the Twins to a 5-4 win.

NEW YORK: The Orioles won 11 and lost seven against the Yankees . . . The O's won five of nine at Memorial Stadium and won six of nine in the Yankees' temporary home at Shea Stadium.

Protests: O's Manager Earl Weaver filed two protests in games with the Yankees during the week-end of April 19-21 in Baltimore, but neither was upheld . . . He protested the game of April 19 on the basis that New York manager Bill Virdon did not immediately indicate his substitute after Bill Sudakis was ejected . . . In the second game of a double-header two days later, he filed another protest based on the fact that pitching coach Whitey Ford, acting on behalf of manager Virdon who had been ejected, made two trips to the mound to talk to his pitcher (Sam McDowell) without having to remove him.

TV Star: Lefthander Mike Cuellar showed a national television audience how to pitch when he fired a two-hitter against the Yankees while winning 5-1 in a game shown on NBC-TV as the "game of the week."

Big Step: The Orioles took a big step toward their divisional title target when they swept a three-game series from the Yankees at Shea Stadium September 17-19 . . . The sweep moved the O's into first place in the AL East and they stayed there the rest of the way.

Replay: Dave McNally shut out the Yankees on two hits, 2-0, June 29 and the next night Mike Cuellar followed with another shutout as he stopped the Yanks on six hits, 3-0.

Timely Hit: A single by pinch-hitter Boog Powell drove in the winning run as the O's edged the Yankees, 3-2, in a 17-inning game September 11 at Memorial Stadium . . . Ross Grimsley started for the O's and worked 14 innings before retiring for the night . . . It was the third longest individual pitching effort in club history . . . He gave up 10 hits over the first seven frames, but restricted the Yanks to only two hits over the next seven innings.

Huge Blast: The O's broke loose for their biggest inning of the year when they scored seven times in the 6th frame en route to a 10-4 win at Shea Stadium September 18.

OAKLAND: The Orioles ended the year with a split (6-6) against the A's, posting a 2-4 record at Baltimore and 4-2 mark in Oakland.

Standout: Southpaw Ross Grimsley accounted for half the O's wins over the A's as he beat them three times during the regular season . . . He defeated them 4-3 April 28, 9-3 May 7 and 3-0 July 6, when he hurled a five-hitter.

Hitting Explosion: The Orioles accumulated 21 hits while routing the A's 9-3 May 7 . . . All nine starters for the O's had at least two safeties while Paul Blair and Enos Cabell paced the attack with four and three hits respectively.

Great Effort: Rookie Wayne Garland pitched eight innings of no-hit ball against the A's July 15 but ended up not only losing the gem bid but also the game . . . Dick Green spoiled Garland's no-hitter with a single leading off the 9th and before the inning ended the A's had scored five runs, three unearned . . . In his previous outing, July 8 vs. California, Garland worked 4.1 innings in relief without allowing a hit to run his no-hit streak to 12.1 frames.

Disappointing: The Orioles, playing before their largest home crowd of the year, a Bat Night crowd of 38,253, got trounced 11-5 by the A's April 27.

Dual Win: When Mike Cuellar beat the A's 6-3 May 6, the victory served a dual purpose: It was his first victory of the year after three straight losses and broke a five-game losing streak for the club.

TEXAS: The O's, who have had great success over the years against the Rangers and their predecessors, the Senators, dropped eight of 12 to Texas . . . The O's were only 2-4 at Memorial Stadium and did no better in Arlington . . . Until 1974, the O's had compiled a 151-69 record against the Washington-Texas franchise.

Super Steve: Bespectacled Steve Foucault had a great year against the Orioles, winning one and saving four . . . In seven appearances he held the O's scoreless for 15.2 innings, allowed only eight hits and fanned 12.

First Win: Wayne Garland picked up his first major league victory when he received credit for a 6-5 win over the Rangers June 2 . . . He held the Rangers scoreless and allowed only two hits in six innings of relief work.

Gate High: A throng of 39,269, the largest crowd ever to see the Rangers at home, packed Arlington Stadium June 1 and watched as the Rangers defeated the O's, 4-2.

Notable Hit: Brooks Robinson collected the 2,700th hit of his O's career against the Rangers June 7 to continue a pattern of setting personal milestones against the Washington-Texas franchise . . . Other noteworthy accomplishments against that club: 2,000th career hit (June 20, 1970); 1,000th career run batted in (September 29, 1970); 2,300th career hit (June 10, 1972).

Big Push: The O's started their 28-6 spurt to the divisional title in Texas on Aug. 29 after losing the first two games of the series.

SUMMARY OF THE 1974 SEASON

For the Orioles the drive to a fifth division championship in six seasons was a short one. It began precisely on Thursday, August 29th, in Arlington, Texas, just one day after they had reached their lowest ebb. At the time of the turnaround the Birds had sunk to 63-65 and trailed Boston by eight full games.

The surge consumed five pulsating weeks during which the Orioles won 28, lost only 6, overhauled the Red Sox, then took on the gallant late-starting Yankees in the toughest and most exciting pennant scrap the Birds have ever experienced.

The first five months of the season contained, as always, some notable events and individual performances, but team-wise it was mostly a Boston show, though Milwaukee and Cleveland also indulged their dreams for brief periods. The Birds for the most part played a supporting role. After the annual April scramble, they saw precious little of first place. There was a day on top in May and there were three more in July, but the lead was never more than $\frac{1}{2}$ game.

Through the all star break and for some weeks thereafter the Birds at least hung close, always seemingly ready to make the big push expected of them. Then as the season wore on through August the Orioles began to slip back gradually but alarmingly until on a Wednesday night in Texas (8/28) they lost their fourth straight game and dropped two games under .500. For Baltimore the season was to start tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the Yankees, with a cast dominated by players from other organizations acquired in countless trades, began to stir. They had floundered in last place for three weeks in late June and early July, then played .500 ball for $5\frac{1}{2}$ weeks. On August 20th they were only 61-61, but then went on to snatch 19 of their next 25 thru September 15th.

If the early stages of the Yankees' comeback went unnoticed, it was understandable because on August 23rd the Red Sox were at the pinnacle with a 70-54 record and a seven-game edge over both the Orioles and Yanks with six weeks to go. There was no reason whatsoever to believe Boston would fold. But fold they did. Over the next month they won only eight of 28 games.

It was on Labor Day, September 4th, that the Yankees finally caught the fading Sox, thanks to the Orioles. While the Birds were shutting out Boston in both ends of a doubleheader in Baltimore, the Yankees were blanking the Brewers to move into a first place tie. However, as the public and press marvelled at the upstart Yankees, the Orioles in the midst of a ten-game winning streak had moved quietly back into contention, just two games off the pace.

The Yanks took over undisputed possession of first place the following day. The Red Sox, who had been on top for all but 11 days during the $3\frac{1}{2}$ months from May 24th thru September 4th, came back on the 8th to tie, but within the week they were permanently consigned to third place.

For two weeks after grabbing the top rung the Yankees fought off all challengers and in the process dealt the Orioles two losses in three tries in Memorial Stadium (Sept. 11-12). On September 16th, the eve of the critical and final series between the Orioles and Yankees, New York held its biggest lead, $2\frac{1}{2}$ games.

The pennant race could have ended in Shea Stadium over the next three days (Sept. 17-18-19) had the Yankees swept the series. But, instead, it was the Orioles who did so, twice by shutouts, and the Yanks' biggest lead disintegrated completely. When the Orioles left Fun City for a series in Boston, they led by $\frac{1}{2}$ game.

Now it was the Yankees' turn to show their character and they responded by sweeping a four-game set from Cleveland while the Birds won two of three in Fenway, and once again New York was back in front by one game.

Boston then went to Shea and won a doubleheader on Tuesday, the 24th, while the Birds squeezed out a one-run win over Detroit. And the lead changed hands again. Over the last weekend of the season the Birds swept Milwaukee but the Yankees did the same thing to Cleveland (they had beaten the Indians seven straight times over a nine-day period) and the situation was unchanged.

The Birds had two games to play in Detroit before the Yankees took the field on Tuesday night in Milwaukee. They won them both to clinch a tie and now New York, winners of 27 of their last 38 games, couldn't afford a single mistake. They took a 2-0 lead in the 7th, but the Brewers came back to tie, then Milwaukee won in the 10th on George Scott's single. For the first time ever the Birds had beaten the Yankees in a pennant race.

Here are some of the day-to-day highlights of the Orioles' quick and dramatic thrust to the eastern division title:

Aug. 29 . . . Grimsley went the route to beat the Rangers' Jim Bibby, 6-2. It was the start of the 10-game winning streak, longest in the league this year . . . 4th, 8 g.b.

SUMMARY OF THE 1974 SEASON

Aug. 30-31, Sept. 1 . . . The Birds swept a three-game series in Kansas City . . . 3d, 5 g.b.

Sept. 2 . . . In the opening game of the Labor Day doubleheader both Grimsley and Luis Tiant hurled 3-hitters, but the Orioles won 1-0, on Bobby Grich's 18th home run in the 4th. In the nightcap Cuellar was even stingier, limiting the Sox to just two hits, as he, too, won 1-0 over Bill Lee. Paul Blair's sacrifice fly provided the difference . . . 3d, 3 g.b. Boston and New York were tied for 1st.

Sept. 4 . . . The Birds blanked the Red Sox for the third straight time on Palmer's 3-hitter and extended their streak to seven. Earl Williams blasted two homers in the 6-0 win. In the series, the Sox were held to eight hits, all singles, in 27 scoreless innings . . . 3d, 2 g.b.

Sept. 6 . . . The Orioles set an A.L. record by stretching their consecutive shutout string to five after whitewashing the Indians in both ends of a twin bill. Dave McNally pitched a 3-hitter in the opener to win, 2-0, as Enos Cabell hit his first home run. In game two Cuellar hurled a 5-hitter to win his second 1-0 decision in a row. Richie Coggins' double in the 7th produced the only run. The O's were tied with Boston, $1\frac{1}{2}$ games back of N.Y.

Sept. 7 . . . The winning streak reached 10, but the O's string of consecutive scoreless innings stopped at 54, a new league record, when Grimsley, leading 3-0 in the 9th, yielded a 2-run homer to Charlie Spikes. Bob Reynolds came on to preserve the edge as the Birds beat Gaylord Perry for the third straight time . . . 3d, 1 g.b.

Sept. 8 . . . Jim Perry defeated Palmer, 7-4, to end the win string . . . 3d, 1 g.b.

Sept. 9 . . . In Milwaukee, Darrell Porter's grand slam off Reynolds in the 9th erased a 5-1 Baltimore lead, but the O's scored on a Tom Murphy wild pitch in the 11th, then Paul Blair saved the day in the bottom half of the inning when he ran into the center field fence with his back to the plate to collar George Scott's long two-out drive with the tying and winning runs aboard . . . 2d place tie with Boston, 1 g.b.

Sept. 11 . . . Boog ended the longest game of the year in the A.L. with a 17th-inning single off Cecil Upshaw scoring Blair from second. However, the Birds dropped a 5-1 decision to the Yankees' Larry Gura in the nightcap of the twin bill that ended at 12:27 a.m. . . . 2d, 1 g.b.

Sept. 12 . . . The Yankees' Mike Wallace, making his first start, blanked the Birds on four hits, 3-0. Palmer also had a shutout until the Yanks scored all their runs in the 8th . . . 3d, 3 g.b.

Sept. 13-14 . . . The Orioles won three straight from Cleveland including the second game of a doubleheader that began on Friday the 13th and, after two rain delays, was suspended at 1:13 a.m. and resumed the following evening. The Birds trailed in that one, 4-0, but bounced back to win 8-6. Tommy Davis' clutch home run in the 7th, right after the first rain interruption, tied the score, then Al Bumbry and Richie Coggins broke the tie in the 8th with rbi singles . . . 2d, $1\frac{1}{2}$ g.b.

Sept. 15 . . . Gaylord won his 20th in a tight duel with Grimsley who walked in the game's only run in the top of the 9th . . . 2d, $2\frac{1}{2}$ g.b.

Sept. 17 . . . At Shea Stadium, Palmer and Doc Medich pitched shutout ball for six innings, but in the 7th Bumbry drove home a run on a sacrifice fly, then in the 8th Blair, who had stolen a triple from Chris Chambliss with a fine catch earlier, drilled a 3-run homer off Sparky Lyle and Palmer won, 4-0 . . . 2d, $1\frac{1}{2}$ g.b.

Sept. 18 . . . The Birds enjoyed their biggest inning of the year scoring seven runs in the 6th to break a 2-2 tie as Cuellar went the route to gain the 20-win circle for the fourth time in his career . . . 2d, $\frac{1}{2}$ g.b.

Sept. 19 . . . McNally pitched the Birds into first place for the first time since July 13th by shutting out the Yankees, 7-0, on three hits to climax a sweep of the three-game series in Shea . . . 1st, $\frac{1}{2}$ g.a.

Sept. 20 . . . Boog blasted a home run into the left field net in Fenway to break a 1-1 tie in the 7th, then starter Grimsley and reliever Grant Jackson made it stand up. The field was sloppy after a 90-minute rain delay in the 8th and the conditions cost the Sox a tie. When Dwight Evans doubled to left with Yastrzemski on first, Jim Northrup fell down fielding the ball. At that point, Yaz, approaching third, was waved home, but, as Northrup recovered, Yaz also fell and was nailed a few feet off the bag. While winning 19 of 24 games since August 28, the Orioles' pitching staff had compiled a superb 1.76 era . . . Despite the win, the Yankees moved into a tie for first by taking a doubleheader from Cleveland.

Sept. 21 . . . The Birds suffered one of their most traumatic losses in 21 years. The game started in rain and after only two out in the top of the 1st with the O's already up 2-0, time was called. That delay consumed nearly 2½ hours, and two other half-hour interruptions followed.

As the playing surface grew progressively worse the O's held doggedly to a 5-1 lead. Palmer came out after six and was relieved by Reynolds. In the 9th Reynolds and Jackson yielded four runs, the last three on Evans' home run with two aboard and the score was tied. But, only briefly because Deron Johnson ended it in the 10th with an rbi single off Dave Johnson. Bill Lee went all the way for the Sox in a game that started at 2:21 and ended at 8:48. The Yankees meanwhile came from a 7-2 deficit to beat Cleveland 14-7 and take a one-game lead over the Birds.

Sept. 22 . . . Showing no psychological effects of the sudden and heart-breaking defeat of the day before, the O's scored three times in the first and Cuellar scattered eight hits to pick up his 21st win, 7-2, with help from Boog who contributed another home run and three rbi . . . The Yankees beat Cleveland again though to retain their one-game lead.

Sept. 24 . . . Al Kaline, a native Baltimorean, picked up his 3000th and 3001st base hits in his home town and Eddie Brinkman hit a 2-run homer off McNally to give the Tigers a 4-3 lead. But in the 8th, another old pro, Brooks Robinson, doubled home the tying run off John Hiller then scored the winning tally from third on Andy Etchebarren's perfect squeeze bunt. Meanwhile the Red Sox swept a doubleheader at Shea Stadium and the Birds moved back on top by ½ game.

Sept. 25 . . . The Tigers jumped off to a 3-0 lead behind Mickey Lolich and still led, 4-2, with the Birds coming to bat in the 9th. Blair singled home one run with one out, but then Ron LeFlore leaped over the center-field fence to steal a would-be game winning homer off the bat of Bobby Grich with two on. However, the two runners moved up a base after the catch and then Davis looped a drive to center to plate the tying and winning tallies in one of the most exciting finishes ever. The Yankees went 10 innings to beat Boston, 1-0, and stayed one game back.

Sept. 27 . . . It took the Orioles four hours and 28 minutes, and 17 innings, to score a run, but that was all that was needed to beat the Brewers. It was the longest game of the year by time in the A.L. and tied with the Birds-Yankee game 16 days earlier as the longest by innings. The winning tally scored on a bases-loaded swinging bunt by Bob Oliver. Jim Palmer pitched 12 shutout innings, but the win went to Jackson who had fanned the side in the 17th . . . N.Y. was rained out and the Birds' lead jumped to a full game, biggest of the year.

Sept. 28 . . . Cuellar and Blair, that day elected as co-winners of the "Most Valuable Oriole" award for 1974, contributed to the Birds' fifth straight win. Cuellar went the route to pick up his 22nd victory and Blair drove in two runs as the O's enjoyed a rare breather, 7-1, over the Brewers' Billy Champion . . . 1st, ½ g.a.

Sept. 29 . . . The Birds found another way to win. With the score tied at 3 in the 9th, starter Jim Slaton walked three straight hitters with one out. Tom Murphy came on, got a force at the plate for out number two, then ran the count to 3-2 on Powell. Ball four followed and the Birds had picked up their 38th one-run victory. The Yanks completed their sweep of Cleveland with a 10-0 win . . . 1st, ½ g.a.

Sept. 30 . . . In Detroit the O's jumped out to a 6-0 lead, later led 9-2 and wound up with a 12-6 victory on a 16 hit attack with Grich and Williams leading the way, each with a homer and three rbi . . . The Yankees were idle . . . 1st, 1 g.a.

Oct. 1 . . . The Birds stretched their streak to 27-6 (and eight straight) with an incredibly agonizing 7-6 win over the Tigers in the afternoon, then had to wait until precisely 11:06 p.m. (EDT) to celebrate. At that moment in Milwaukee County Stadium, George Scott singled up the middle with the bases loaded in the 10th inning off Yankee righthander Doc Medich and the pennant race was over.

The Orioles had spotted the Tigers an early 3-0 lead but fought back on two-run homers by Coggins in the 5th and Northrup in the 6th to go ahead. Detroit tied it almost immediately. In the 8th the O's went two runs up on Davis' single but again the Tigers came back to tie. Then, in the 9th Etchebarren doubled down the left field line to score Brooks all the way from first base with the go ahead run. But even in the bottom of the 9th Detroit kept the pressure on. When Reynolds struck out Kaline to end the game, the tying run was on third base . . . 1st, 2 g.a.

Oct. 2 . . . Although it was meaningless, the Orioles won the final game of the regular season in typical fashion, 5-4. It was the Birds' 40th one-run victory of the year, their 15th one-run win during their fantastic 28-6 surge, and their ninth straight victory . . . The Yankees also won . . . 1st, 2 g.a.

ALL STAR GAME NOTES

Elected Starters: Selection of the starting teams (excepting pitchers) was returned to the fans in 1970 under the sponsorship of the Gillette Co. in cooperation with major league baseball. Following the ballot box "stuffing" incident in Cincinnati in 1957, selection of the starting teams had been entrusted to major league players for 12 years ('58 thru '69) . . . Following is a list of Orioles players elected to starting positions by fan vote:

1970—Boog Powell (1b)	1972—Brooks Robinson (3b)
Frank Robinson (of)
1971—Boog Powell (1b)†	1973—Brooks Robinson (3b)
Brooks Robinson (3b)*
Frank Robinson (of)	1974—Brooks Robinson (3b)

* Received highest number of votes in A.L. (1,110,469).

† Did not play because of injury . . . Norm Cash replaced him.

Orioles MVPs: Three Orioles have won "mvp" honors in all star competition: Billy O'Dell (1958), Brooks Robinson (1966) and Frank Robinson (1971). O'Dell, the former Orioles lefthander who also pitched for the Giants, Braves and Pirates, hurled the last three innings of the only all star game ever played in Baltimore, and retired all nine batters he faced to protect a one-run lead, thus giving the A.L. a 4-3 win. . . . Brooks won the '66 Arch Ward Memorial Trophy on the strength of a 3-for-4 effort at bat (including a triple) and an 8-for-8 performance afield. He was the first player from a losing team to be so honored. . . . Frank's fourth inning home run at Detroit in '71 put the American League on top to stay and earned him "mvp" honors. It was the A.L.'s first all star victory since 1962.

Brooks Robinson: Brooks has now played in 18 consecutive all star games (including two games each in '60, '61, and '62) and has been a starter 11 times, starting with both games in 1961 and including nine of the last 12 (beginning 1964). His lifetime average is .289 (13-for-45) with three triples, one home run and five rbi. He has also handled 43 chances (11 putouts, 32 assists) without error.

In addition to winning the "mvp" award in the 1966 all star game Brooks came close on two other occasions. In 1964 at Shea Stadium he went 2-for-4 with a two-run triple and made a sensational defensive play on an Orlando Cepeda smash, then in 1970 at Cincinnati went 2-for-3, hit another triple and drove in two runs.

Brooks has not had a hit in his last three all star games.

O's BIGGEST WINNERS FOR LAST 18 YEARS: It was in 1957 that the Orioles first began to jell as a team. That year they finished at .500 (76-76) for the first time after having gone 180-282 in their first three Baltimore seasons ('54, '55, '56). During the 18 years that have elapsed from 1957 thru 1974, the Orioles have gone on to win more games than any other major league club, 1612-1254 (.562). They are followed in order by:

2. Yankees 1579-1293 (.549)	10. White Sox 1497-1397 (.521)
2. Dodgers 1579-1293 (.549)	11. Twins (nee Senators) 1453-1418 (.506)
4. Reds 1563-1303 (.545)	12. Red Sox 1430-1444 (.498)

O's 21 YEAR RECORD 4th BEST IN MAJORS: Since the St. Louis Browns franchise was transferred to Baltimore in 1954, the Orioles have compiled the fourth best record in the majors, and second best in the A.L. (1792-1536, .538). This, despite the fact that the Birds were 180-282 during their first three years of operation out of Baltimore. Here's how all 16 clubs that have been in existence during that entire period have fared in the past 21 years:

1. Yankees 1875-1459 (.562)	10. Pirates 1701-1629 (.511)
2. Dodgers 1862-1471 (.559)	11. Indians 1673-1662 (.502)

EAST vs. WEST: Last year for the fifth time in six seasons the eastern division teams of the American League won more games than their western counterparts in inter-divisional play, 219-213. However, only one team in the East had a winning record vs. western division teams. That was the Yankees who were 48-24. The Orioles and Cleveland were both 36-36; Boston was 35-37 and Detroit and Milwaukee were both 32-40. In the West, Texas with a 39-33 record was tops followed by Chicago (38-34), Minnesota (37-35), Oakland and K.C. (36-36) and California (27-45). It is interesting to note that the two divisional first place teams, the A's and O's, had identical 36-36 records and were 6-6 against each other.

Oakland's four game victory over the Birds in the ALCS gave the West its third American League title in six years, but the East still holds a 14-9 overall lead in ALCS games.

WEAVER, SECOND WINNINGEST MANAGER: Among all big league managers since 1900 who have managed for at least five full years, Earl Weaver ranks second in won-lost percentage only to Joe McCarthy.

100 WINS: The Orioles won more than 100 games in each of three straight seasons—'69 (109), '70 (108) and '71 (101). Only two other clubs have achieved this feat in the history of major league baseball: the '29-'30-'31 Philadelphia A's (104-102-107) and the '42-'43-'44 St. Louis Cardinals (106-105-105).

NUMBER "20" RETIRED: After Frank Robinson was traded to the Dodgers following the '71 season, his uniform number "20" was retired as an expression of respect and gratitude for his many achievements during six Baltimore seasons that produced four American League pennants and two world championships. Frank was the first Orioles player to be so honored.

ORIOLES SET A.L. RECORDS FOR CONSECUTIVE SHUTOUTS (5) AND CONSECUTIVE SCORELESS INNINGS (54)

The Orioles pitching staff set two A.L. records in early September, 1974 by putting together a string of five straight shutouts and by blanking their opponents over a stretch of 54 consecutive innings. The scoreless streak actually started in the 9th inning of a game in Kansas City on September 1. Dave McNally gave up his only run in the 8th and then pitched a scoreless 9th while beating the Royals, 7-1. The streak ended six games later in the 9th inning on September 7 when Ross Grimsley working on a 3-0 lead gave up a two-run home run to Cleveland's Charlie Spikes. Grimsley who was the winner anyway by a 3-2 score was relieved at that point by Bob Reynolds. That also ended another string, of six straight complete games, but extended the Birds' winning streak to 10.

Date	Opponent	H/A	Score	Consec. Scoreless Innings	Pitcher	Hits Allowed
Sept. 1	Kansas City	A	7-1	1 (9th)	Dave McNally-cg	4
Sept. 2	Boston	H	1-0	9	Ross Grimsley-cg	3
Sept. 2	Boston	H	1-0	9	Mike Cuellar-cg	2
Sept. 4	Boston	H	6-0	9	Jim Palmer-cg	3
Sept. 6	Cleveland	A	2-0	9	Dave McNally-cg	3
Sept. 6	Cleveland	A	1-0	9	Mike Cuellar-cg	5
Sept. 7	Cleveland	A	3-2	8 (1st-8th)	Ross Grimsley	4

During the 54 inning skein the O's out-scored their opponents, 14-0, and out-hit them 37-20 . . . Mike Cuellar won two of the five straight shutouts, both by 1-0.

The major league records of six straight shutouts and 56 consecutive innings which the O's came very close to at least tying were set by the 1903 Pirates (June 1 thru 9). The previous A.L. record of 47 consecutive innings was held by the 1948 Cleveland Indians and the mark of four consecutive shutouts had been accomplished four times, most recently by the Orioles' foursome of Hal Brown, Billy Loes, Connie Johnson, and Ray Moore between June 24 and 28, 1957.

BIRDS' FIRST GAME IN BALTIMORE IN '54

The modern American League Orioles made their Baltimore debut in Memorial Stadium on April 15, 1954 before a crowd of 46,354 including Vice President Richard M. Nixon who threw out the first ball. Behind the seven hit pitching of Bob Turley who fanned nine, the Orioles of Jimmy Dykes defeated Paul Richards' White Sox, 3-1, in Baltimore's first American League game in 52 years.

Clint Courtney won the distinction of hitting the first home run in the brand new stadium (built on the site of the previous municipally owned ballpark used by the International League O's). It was a bases empty blast off Virgil Trucks who also yielded a solo homer to Vern Stephens in the fourth and was the losing pitcher. The Birds' starting lineup in that game was: Bobby Young, 2b; Eddie Waitkus, 1b; Gil Coan, cf; Vic Wertz, rf; Sam Mele, lf; Stephens, 3b; Billy Hunter, ss; Courtney, c and Turley, p.

ORIOLES' PLAY-BY-PLAY BROADCASTS

Announcers—Chuck Thompson and Bill O'Donnell
Radio Pre-Game Show—Ted Patterson (WBAL)

Broadcast Rights: The National Brewing Company has purchased the Orioles' radio and television rights. National will sponsor a portion of each broadcast on both radio and television and has assigned the balance of commercial time to WBAL-radio and WJZ-television for sale to other sponsors.

Originating Stations:

Radio—WBAL-AM (1090) and WBAL-FM (97.9) will broadcast all Orioles games both home and away. Full season sponsors of Orioles' play-by-play broadcasts are: The National Brewing Company, RPS Auto Parts, Commercial Credit, Ezrine Auto Centers and the Maryland State Lottery Agency.

Television—WJZ-TV (Ch. 13) will carry 52 games, nine home and 43 on the road. In addition to the National Brewing Company, The Tasty Baking Company, Volkswagen of America and The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company will sponsor all game telecasts.

BIRDS' BIGGEST DEAL

In November-December 1954 the Orioles and Yankees engineered a 17 player deal, one of the biggest in baseball history. General Manager Paul Richards sent the following players to New York: pitchers Mike Blyzka, Don Larsen and Bob Turley; catcher Darrell Johnson, first baseman Dick Kryhoski, shortstop Billy Hunter, and outfielders Ted del Guercio and Jim Fridley. . . . The Birds in turn acquired the contracts of: pitchers Harry Byrd, Jim McDonald and Bill Miller; catchers Hal Smith and Gus Triandos; second baseman Don Leppert, third baseman Kal Segrist, shortstop Willie Miranda and outfielder Gene Grahling.

Notes: The "Gold Glove" awards have been presented annually since 1957 by The Sporting News in cooperation with the Rawlings Sporting Goods Company to those players in each major league adjudged to be the best in their league at their respective defensive positions by vote of league managers and coaches. Selection is based not only on consistency (i.e. fielding percentage) but on overall ability and effectiveness.

Last year the Orioles earned four Gold Gloves for the fourth time in six seasons. Only three other clubs have ever won as many as four in a season and none more than once: Chicago White Sox (1960), St. Louis Cardinals (1963) and Cincinnati Reds (1974).

The Orioles have won 33 Gold Gloves (including 21 in the last six years), more than any other major league club. The Cardinals rank second in the majors with 30. In 1974 Brooks Robinson won his 15th straight Gold Glove, Paul Blair his sixth straight and seventh in eight years, Mark Belanger his fourth and Bobby Grich his second.

The major league draft is held annually at baseball's winter meetings, and is followed with a separate selection by National Association clubs from class A to A-1. . . . Until 1958 major league clubs could draft players within a range between $15,000 (for A-1 players) and $2,000 (for class D players) . . . In 1958 the price for big league drafts rose to $25,000. However, in 1959, a first year player draft at the big league level was set up to discourage the payment of inordinately large bonus payments to free agents. The new rule provided that first year players could be selected at the major league level (if not protected on a major league team's 40 man roster) for $12,000. In 1961 an even lower draft price was set up for more recent first year players. That figure was $8,000. That year, incidentally, the Baltimore organization set a record of sorts by being relieved of 19 eligible first year players (seven during the big league selections and 11 more during the minor league draft). In 1965 the first year player draft began to lose its significance and then disappeared in 1970.

The Orioles have made 18 separate transactions with N.L. clubs during inter-league trading periods since the inception of the practice in 1959. They have dealt with the Reds four times, with the Phillies three times and with the Giants, Astros and Cardinals twice each . . . The Birds have also traded once each with the Dodgers, Pirates, Padres, Braves and Expos . . . They have not dealt with the Mets or Cubs.

HOW THEY JOINED THE ORIOLES

Of the 36 players currently on the Orioles roster, 22 were signed by Baltimore as free agents, two were selected in the major league draft, 11 were acquired in trades and one was obtained thru the outright purchase of his contract from another organization. A total of 24 players (including Paul Blair) spent all or most of their minor league careers in the Orioles' farm system (67%). Here is the breakdown by category:

SUSPENDED GAME RULE: A game terminated by curfew or by a pre-arranged time limit is a suspended game only if it has progressed far enough to be an official game (i.e. 4½ to 5 innings).

A game terminated by light failure is a suspended game anytime after it begins.

Suspended games shall be resumed at the exact point of suspension immediately preceding the next scheduled single game between the two clubs on the same ground . . . If this is not possible, other provisions for resumption are specified in American League Regulation 3.8.

A game called at the END of a completed inning AFTER NINE INNINGS for any reason shall be a SUSPENDED game. This rule became effective in 1969. Formerly, the game would have been declared a tie and replayed in its entirety at a later date.

BALTIMORE CURFEW: Night Games—see A.L. Regulation 3.4 (13)—Saturday night—play must be called at 11:59 P.M. regardless of the game situation . . . All other nights—no inning may be started after 11:59 P.M., but any inning which begins before that time may be completed.

In other American League cities not governed by local curfews, no inning may start after 1:00 A.M., but any inning beginning prior to 1:00 A.M. may be played to completion.

BATTING/PITCHING (ERA) CHAMPION QUALIFICATION: 502 or more plate appearances/162 or more innings.

ROOKIE QUALIFICATIONS: A player shall be considered a rookie unless, during a previous season or seasons, he has (a) exceeded 130 at bats or 50 innings pitched in the major leagues; or (b) accumulated more than 45 days on the active roster of a major league club or clubs during the period of the 25-player limit (opening day thru Aug. 31) excluding time in military service.

NEW SAVE RULE (10:20): Credit a pitcher with a save when he is the finishing but not the winning pitcher, and when he qualifies under one of the following conditions—(1) he enters the game with a lead of no more than three runs and pitches for at least one inning; or (2) he enters the game with the potential tying run either on base or at bat, or on deck; or (3) he pitches effectively for at least three innings regardless of his team's lead.

DEFINITION OF NIGHT GAME: Any game scheduled to start after 6:00 P.M. (i.e. 6:01 P.M. or later) will be considered a night game. If a game is scheduled to start at 6:00 P.M. and is delayed by rain or for any other reason, it will be considered a day game.

However, both games of a two-night doubleheader shall be considered night games. When afternoon and night games are played on the same date and separate admissions are charged, they will be counted as one day and one night game, and will not be included in doubleheader statistics.

NOTES: The Orioles are 12-9 in 21 world series games . . . They are 8-3 at home and 4-6 on the road . . . The average attendance for all the games is 52,259 while the 11 games in Baltimore have averaged 50,749 . . . The Orioles have won the first game of every post-season event in which they have been involved—five ALCS and four World Series. In addition to winning the first 10 ALCS games they played, the Birds also won their first five world series games.

Orioles' World Series Pool Shares (year by year): Since 1960 the Orioles have finished in the first division 13 times in 15 seasons thereby qualifying in all but two years (1962 and 1967) for a share of the world series (combined since 1969 with championship series) pool. Here are the individual shares that Baltimore players have received in this period.

1969 AMERICAN LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

The Orioles swept the Minnesota Twins in three straight to capture the first ALCS ever played, but it wasn't all that easy. In games one and two the Birds went 12 and 11 innings respectively to win a pair of cliffhangers, then exploded in game three to bring the American League pennant back to Baltimore after two years as an "also ran."

The opener, played in Baltimore, featured four home runs, but the winning run crossed on a ball that traveled only 22 feet. It was a bunt dropped by Paul Blair with two out in the 12th and Mark Belanger on third that won the game though that play wouldn't have been possible if Boog Powell had not tied the score in the 9th with a lead-off home run. Two innings earlier Tony Oliva had given the Twins a one-run edge with a two-run homer off Mike Cuellar. The winning pitcher was reliever Dick Hall while Ron Perranoski, who replaced Jim Perry in the 9th, was the victim of Blair's surprise bunt on a 1-1 pitch.

Game two was dominated by the outstanding pitching of Dave McNally and Dave Boswell and neither team scored until pinch-hitter Curt Motton lined a Perranoski pitch over Rod Carew's head to plate Boog Powell from second with two out in the home half of the 11th. Motton was the first hitter to face Perranoski. McNally wound up with a 3-hit shutout and 11 strikeouts, while Boswell scattered seven hits over 10.2 frames.

The scene changed to Minnesota for game three. After spotting the Twins a first inning run, the Birds came to life with an 18-hit attack off starter and loser Bob Miller and six other hurlers and won going away, 11-2, behind Jim Palmer. Blair went 5-for-6 with two doubles, a home run and five rbi, while Don Buford was 4-for-5 and Ellie Hendricks drove in three runs with two hits.

The Orioles scored 27 runs in three games to sweep the Twins for the second year in a row, but, though they won the first two games by 10-6 and 11-3 at Minnesota, both were considerably closer than the scores would imply. Only the final game, won by Jim Palmer, 6-1, was rarely in doubt.

Two 24-game winners, Jim Perry and Mike Cuellar, were matched up in the first game but neither stayed around long on a cold and windy day in Minnesota. The Orioles broke a 2-2 tie with a 7-run outburst in the 4th, highlighted by Cuellar's wind-blown grand slam that started off in foul ground plus home runs by Don Buford and Boog Powell. Unfortunately for Cuellar, he was ko'd in the 5th when the Twins pulled within three runs (6-9) and he was not eligible for the victory which went deservedly to Dick Hall who allowed just one hit over the last 4.2 innings. Perry was the loser.

Though the Birds won the second game by an eight-run margin, Dave McNally who went the route was forced to protect a 4-3 lead from the 4th thru the 8th and the Twins threatened in every inning. Then in the top of the 9th the Birds staged their second 7-run inning in two days to put the game on ice. Tom Hall, the starter who left in the 4th trailing 4-0, was the losing pitcher.

Back in Baltimore the Orioles jumped out to a 5-0 lead off Jim Kaat after three innings and Palmer held the Twins in check on seven hits. Jim had now gone the route to win the clincher in all three of the Orioles' pennant winning seasons.

1971 AMERICAN LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

For the third straight year the Orioles won the ALCS in three games, this time against the Oakland A's by scores of 5-3, 5-1 and 5-3. The Birds had now won all nine ALCS games played since the divisional system was instituted in 1969.

The A's were favored in game one, largely because Vida Blue, the ultimate Cy Young award winner and A.L. MVP, was starting. The odds looked good when Oakland jumped out to a 3-0 lead off Dave McNally after 3½ innings and even better when they still led 3-1 after 6½. However, in the Orioles' 7th Curt Motton, who had won game two of the ALCS vs. the Twins two years earlier with an 11th-inning pinch-single, batted for McNally and delivered a clutch rbi double that tied the score at 3 after Mark Belanger had singled home the second run. Then Paul Blair followed with another double that scored the winning run plus an insurance tally. Eddie Watt finished up for the O's to save the win for McNally.

Four home runs including two by Boog Powell, all off the A's Jim Hunter, accounted for all the Birds' runs in their 5-1 second game triumph. Mike Cuellar went all the way for Baltimore, holding the A's to six hits.

Jim Palmer once again had the honor of pitching the Orioles to a pennant despite a yield of three home runs including two to Reggie Jackson. The score was tied at one-all in the 5th when Manager Dick Williams ordered starter Diego Segui to walk Ellie Hendricks intentionally, thus loading the bases and bringing Brooks Robinson to bat. Brooks promptly singled up the middle to put the O's on top 3-1. Sal Bando's 6th-inning homer cut the lead in half, but the Birds scored twice more in the 7th providing a three-run lead which was more than enough for Palmer who finished with a flourish by fanning Gene Tenace, Mike Hegan and Curt Blefary in order in the 9th.

1973 AMERICAN LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

After a year's respite, the O's won the division title again and put their perfect ALCS record on the line. They won the opener behind Jim Palmer's 5-hit shutout to extend their streak to 10 straight, but then Catfish Hunter stepped in, won game two and came back in the deciding 5th game to blank the Birds and give the A's their second straight pennant.

Palmer fanned 12 in the opener while going the route but his adversary, Vida Blue, didn't even get out of the first inning during which the Birds touched him for four runs en route to a 6-0 win.

Before 48,425 in Memorial Stadium the A's jumped on Dave McNally for four home runs and went on to tie the series at one game apiece, 6-3. Sal Bando hit two of the homers and was robbed of a third on a fine leaping catch by Al Bumbry. Ironically, the beneficiary of the home runs was Catfish Hunter who had yielded a like number in his one 1971 ALCS start against the O's.

The two clubs moved west to Oakland where Mike Cuellar pitched one of the finest games of his career only to lose 2-1 in 11 innings on Bert Campaneris' leadoff home run. Mike had successfully protected a 1-0 lead for six innings until the A's tied it in the 8th on a pair of looping singles by Jesus Alou and Joe Rudi. Cuellar yielded only four hits, but Oakland's Kenny Holtzman, who also went the distance, gave up only three.

The A's knocked out Jim Palmer with a 3-run second inning and were coasting to the pennant with a 4-0 lead thru six innings. Then the Birds suddenly struck for four runs in the 7th, the last three on an Andy Etchebarren homer with two aboard off Vida Blue, to tie the game, and Bobby Grich followed an inning later with what proved to be a game-winning homer off loser Rollie Fingers. The winner in relief was Grant Jackson.

Hunter was in complete control throughout the decisive fifth game while the A's scored three times off Doyle Alexander thru four innings. Palmer came on in relief and pitched 4.1 shutout innings but the horse had already been stolen as Hunter shutout the Birds on five hits, winning 3-0.

1974 AMERICAN LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

The Orioles retained the distinction of having won the first game in every post-season series in which they've been involved (5 ALCS and 4 WS), but then went into a disastrous scoring slump, scored only one run in the last three games, and dropped the playoffs to the A's for the second year in a row. In one stretch, beginning with the 6th inning of game one through the 8th inning of game four, the Birds went 30 innings without scoring a single run. They finally broke the string in the final frame of the last game, but it was one run too few.

Game No. 1 . . . Sat., Oct. 5 at Oakland

BALTIMORE 6-10-0....CUELLAR (W), Grimsley (9)....HRs: Blair, Robinson, Grich
OAKLAND 3- 9-0....HUNTER (L), Odom (5), Fingers (9)....Att.: 41,609

Catfish Hunter, who had beaten the Orioles seven straight times over two seasons including twice in the 1973 ALCS, was bombed for six runs on eight hits including homers by Paul Blair, Brooks Robinson and Bobby Grich before giving way to John Odom in the 5th inning. Mike Cuellar held a 6-2 lead entering the 9th but gave up a leadoff single to Jesus Alou and a pinch-double to Claudell Washington. At that point Ross Grimsley made a rare relief appearance and retired the side in order, giving up only a sacrifice fly to Bert Campaneris.

Game No. 2 . . . Sun., Oct. 6 at Oakland

BALTIMORE 0-5-2....McNALLY (L), Garland (6), Reynolds (7), Jackson (8)
OAKLAND 5-8-0....HOLTZMAN (W)....Hrs: Bando, Fosse....Att.: 42,810

The Orioles, who were 3-1 against Ken Holtzman in the regular season, had only one hit off the Oakland lefthander for the first seven innings but were still only two runs back (on a homer by Bando and an rbi triple by Joe Rudi) until Ray Fosse hit a three-run homer off Grant Jackson in the 8th. Four of the five Oakland runs were unearned. McNally was the loser.

Game No. 3 . . . Tue., Oct. 8 at Baltimore

OAKLAND 1-4-2....BLUE (W)....HR: Bando
BALTIMORE 0-2-1....PALMER (L)....Att.: 32,060

Vida Blue, who had lost twice to the Birds in previous ALCS, pitched one of his finest games ever, limiting the O's to two hits while fanning seven and not walking a batter. Jim Palmer also pitched well in allowing only four hits, but one of them was a solo homer by Bando in the 4th.

Game No. 4 . . . Wed., Oct. 9 at Baltimore

OAKLAND 2-1-0.....HUNTER (W), Fingers (8) (Sv)

BALTIMORE 1-5-1.....CUELLAR (L), Grimsley (5).....Att.: 28,136

The A's had only one hit all day but still beat the Birds 2-1, thanks in part to an unusual wild streak by Mike Cuellar who gave up no hits, but walked nine batters in 4.2 innings. Cuellar, who had never issued more than six walks in a game during his six years in Baltimore, loaded the bases on passes in the first, but got out of the jam unscathed. However, with two down and none on in the 5th he walked two more hitters, passed Reggie Jackson intentionally to load the bases, then walked Gene Tenace to force in the game's first run.

The A's led 1-0 without benefit of a base hit until, with one down in the 7th, Reggie Jackson doubled to left for his first hit of the playoffs to drive in Bando with run number two. Bando had reached on a walk from Grimsley. The Orioles who had been blanked for 30 straight innings finally mounted a threat in the 9th when Blair reached on a walk and Grich singled. With two down Boog Powell singled sharply up the middle to score Blair from second and move pinch-runner Enos Cabell, the potential tying run, to third. At that point, however, Rollie Fingers, who had relieved Hunter in the 8th, struck out Don Baylor to end the Baltimore season.

1966 WORLD SERIES

The Orioles entered their first world series as 8-5 underdogs to the Dodgers, but the odds changed quickly. While sweeping the Dodgers in four straight the Birds' most questionable commodity, pitching, enjoyed its finest hour, allowing the N.L. champions only 2 runs and shutting them out in the last three games and over the final 33 innings of the world series.

In the very first inning of the opener the Birds scored three quick runs off Don Drysdale at Dodger Stadium when a one-out walk to Russ Snyder was followed by back-to-back homers off the bats of Frank and Brooks Robinson. Snyder drove in another run in the second upping the Birds' lead to 4-0, but then Dave McNally yielded a home run to Jim Lefebvre in the home 2d and lost control in the 4th, walking the bases loaded. At that point Moe Drabowsky came out of the bullpen, fanned a batter, walked another to force in the Dodgers' second run, and then turned in a nearly perfect record-breaking effort the rest of the way. Moe finished with 11 strikeouts, a series mark for a reliever, and tied another standard at one point by fanning six straight L.A. batters. In picking up the 5-2 win, he yielded just one hit over the last 6.2 innings.

In game two Jim Palmer, nine days short of his 21st birthday, became the youngest pitcher ever to throw a shutout in world series play. His opponent, the great Sandy Koufax, who was making the final appearance of his major league career, was victimized by six Dodger errors, three of them in the 5th inning by centerfielder Willie Davis, that led to three unearned runs in a previously scoreless game. Davis dropped two fly balls and committed a throwing error in that inning. The Birds contributed eight hits to the 6-0 victory, while Palmer limited the Dodgers to four.

After returning to Baltimore the Orioles put together a pair of 1-0 wins to capture their first world championship. In game three Wally Bunker, coming off a mediocre year, blanked the Dodgers on six hits and, although Claude Osteen and Phil Regan held the Birds to only three safeties, one of them was a decisive 5th-inning home run by Paul Blair.

The fourth and final game matched McNally and Drysdale again, but this time McNally went through the afternoon unscathed. He and Drysdale each allowed only four base hits, but again the home run, this time by Frank Robinson in the 4th, provided the difference. Two other drives, one by each side, would have gone out also except for the defensive genius of the centerfielders. Willie Davis stole a homer from Boog Powell with a great over-the-fence catch in the 4th and then Blair snatched Jim Lefebvre's bid for a game tying homer in the 8th in similar style. For his two home runs in the series Frank Robinson was honored as the series' mvp.

1969 WORLD SERIES

After winning 109 regular season games and sweeping the ALCS, the Orioles were a solid favorite over the Mets and even more so after Mike Cuellar went the route to beat Tom Seaver in the opener played at Memorial Stadium, 4-1. Don Buford, the Orioles' leadoff hitter, homered in the first and the Birds remained on top throughout.

Everything else that happened in that world series was downhill. From that point on the Mets' defense more than anything else stymied the Birds as the N.L. Champions won four in a row. In the second game Jerry Koosman no-hit the Birds for six innings, but Brooks Robinson tied the score at 1-1 with a single in the 7th. However, third baseman Ed Charles snuffed out what might have been a bigger inning with a fine play on a Dave Johnson shot to his left. Dave McNally, who had given up just three hits in eight innings, yielded three in a row in the top of the 9th, the last by Al Weis that drove in the winning run in the Mets 2-1 triumph for Koosman who yielded just two hits all day.

At Shea Stadium Tommie Agee, the Mets' centerfielder, had a day for himself. He homered off Palmer in the first then later made two sensational catches to help Gary Gentry and reliever Nolan Ryan blank the Birds on four hits, 5-0.

Plate umpire Shag Crawford and Baltimorean Ron Swoboda shared top billing in the fourth game, won by the Mets, 2-1. Crawford, using a quick thumb, gave Earl Weaver the distinction of being the first manager to be ejected from a world series game in 34 years when he bounced the Birds' skipper in the 3rd inning. It was only the third time in series history that a manager had received such treatment.

The Birds, trailing 1-0 as the result of a second-inning homer by Donn Clendenon, finally got it going in the 9th off Tom Seaver. A pair of one-out singles by Frank and Boog put runners at the corners and Brooks followed with a lined shot to right which at very worst would tie the score and put men on second and third. However, Ron Swoboda then made his magnificent contribution to series lore with an unbelievable headlong backhanded diving catch inches off the grass. Frank scored from third after the catch but that was all the scoring the Birds could muster in the inning. In the bottom of the 10th Crawford was again involved in controversy. With Mets runners on 1st and 2d and Pete Richert pitching, J. C. Martin bunted with one out. Richert fielded the ball and threw to first, but the ball hit Martin who was running outside the three-foot lane in the back and rolled into right field, allowing the winning run to cross the plate. Crawford presumably watching the play did not issue an interference call.

In the fifth game Dave McNally hit a two-run homer off Koosman and Frank Robinson hit a solo shot, both in the third inning, to stake the Birds to a 3-0 lead. In the 6th Frank appeared to have been hit on the foot by a pitched ball but plate umpire Lou DiMuro said no and a substantial argument ensued to no avail.

In the bottom of the inning, with the O's still up by three, Cleon Jones made the same claim and again DiMuro ruled negatively, until manager Gil Hodges ran out of the dugout with a ball bearing traces of shoe polish. DiMuro relented and sent Jones to first (movies tended to confirm DiMuro's judgment on this call). When Clendenon followed with his third homer of the series the Birds' lead was narrowed to 3-2. Light hitting Weis hit his first Shea Stadium homer ever in the 7th to tie it off McNally. Then with Eddie Watt pitching in the 8th, doubles by Jones and Swoboda produced the ultimate winning run while two Orioles' errors admitted an insurance tally, as the Mets captured the world championship by a 5-3 score.

1970 WORLD SERIES

The all-around brilliance of Brooks Robinson and a hefty Baltimore offense that produced a team average of .292 with 10 home runs were the dominating factors in the Orioles' five-game world series victory, despite the fact that Cincinnati enjoyed the early lead in four of those games by scores of 3-0, 4-0, 1-0 and 3-0. The Birds out-scored the Reds 33 to 20.

Brooks batted .429 (9-for-21), hit two doubles and two homers, had six rbi and drove the Reds to distraction, particularly Johnny Bench and Lee May, with repeated defensive gems. Paul Blair actually led the club in hitting with a .474 average (9-for-19) and both he and Brooks tied the series record for hits in a five-game set. In addition, Ellie Hendricks batted .364, Dave Johnson .313 and Boog Powell .294.

With Jim Palmer going against Gary Nolan the Birds were down 3-0 in the 4th inning of the opener at Cincinnati when Powell sliced the deficit to one with a two-run homer, then Hendricks tied it with another home run an inning later.

Perhaps the most exciting and significant inning of the series was the Reds' 6th with the score still tied. Lee May who had already singled and homered led off with a one-hop smash over third base bound for extra bases until Brooks made a miraculous stop and while falling into foul territory threw a one-hop strike off balance to Powell to nip May. That play took on more importance as the inning progressed.

With one out, Bernie Carbo on third and a runner on first, pinch-hitter Ty Cline bounced a high chopper in front of the plate. Hendricks stepped out to grab it, plate umpire Ken Burkhart went out also to position himself for a fair or foul call and Carbo broke from third. He came in on the foul side of the line while Hendricks dove at home from the fair side. Both runners jostled Burkhart who ended up on his seat with his back to the plate. Hendricks tagged Carbo with his gloved hand and Burkhart called the runner out, a decision that prompted a violent argument. Films and photos later revealed that (1) Ellie was holding the ball in his bare hand and (2) Carbo did not touch the plate.

In the 7th Brooks broke the tie with a home run off Nolan, and the Birds held on to win, 4-3, though Weaver summoned Pete Richert to relieve Palmer with two out and one on in the 9th to face Bobby Tolan whom he retired on one pitch.

In the second game the Reds scored three unearned runs in the 1st off Mike Cuellar and built the lead to 4-0 in the 3rd on Tolan's homer. The Birds got one back on Powell's home run off Jim McGlothlin then broke thru for five more runs in the 5th. The most telling blows in that big inning were Brooks' game-tying single and Hendricks' two-run double to left that gave the O's a 6-4 edge. Cincinnati reduced the lead to one on a Bench homer in the 7th, but then Dick Hall, the fifth Orioles' pitcher, came on and retired seven straight hitters to preserve the 6-5 lead though it took an over-the-shoulder catch by Blair at the centerfield fence to get pinch-hitter Jimmy Stewart for the final out of the game. Tom Phoebus, who had relieved Cuellar in the 3rd, was the winning pitcher.

The Orioles never trailed in game three, back in Baltimore. They already led 4-1 when Dave McNally doubled the run count with a grand slam in the 6th off Wayne Granger. That still ranks as the only bases-loaded homer ever hit by a pitcher in a world series. Brooks doubled home the first two runs in the opening inning, hit another double later, and also contributed a diving backhanded catch of Pete Rose's sharp line drive in the 3rd.

The Birds seemed on the verge of a four-game sweep when they led 5-3 thru seven innings of the fourth game, but Palmer weakened in the 8th and left in favor of Eddie Watt with two on and two out. Lee May hit Watt's first pitch into the left field stands and the Reds went on to win, 6-5. Clay Carroll who pitched the last 3.2 innings got the win. Cincinnati's staff compiled an era of 6.70 during the series, but Carroll, in four appearances spanning nine innings, did not yield a run.

In game five the Reds, refreshed by their dramatic victory the day before, jumped on Cuellar for three first-inning runs just as they had in the second game at Cincinnati. However, Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning, then the O's went ahead in the 2d with two more. Mark Belanger drove in the tying run and Blair produced the go-ahead tally. Another two-run inning in the 3d put the game out of reach because by this time Cuellar had settled down. After his four-hit (including three doubles), three-run, first inning yield, he retired 24 of the last 27 hitters to face him and was never again in serious trouble as the Birds breezed home, 9-3.

The top of the 9th provided a fitting climax to the Brooks Robinson story. Bench, the first man to bat, lined a shot just foul of third base but not too foul for Brooks who grabbed it with a hearty lunge. Then with two out Pat Corrales sent a routine boulder to third and Brooks threw easily to Powell to clinch the Orioles' second world championship.

1971 WORLD SERIES

The Orioles jumped out to a quick two-game edge in Baltimore but then lost three in a row in Pittsburgh before returning home to win a tension-packed 10-inning sixth game. In the decisive 7th game, Steve Blass, who had pitched a three-hitter in game three to blunt the Orioles' win streak, came back with a four-hitter to win 2-1, thus giving the Pirates their fourth world championship in six world series.

Just as they had in four of the five games in the 1970 World Series vs. Cincinnati, the Birds spotted the Pirates an early lead. Trailing 3-0 in the bottom of the second, Frank Robinson got one back with a solo homer, then Merv Rettenmund connected an inning later with two aboard off starter Dock Ellis to put the O's ahead for good. Don Buford completed the day's scoring with the third homer of the day in the 5th, to make the score 5-3.

After struggling thru the first three innings, Dave McNally retired 19 straight and 21 of the last 22 batters while striking out nine. It was Dave's 16th win in his last 17 decisions.

While the O's scored all their runs on homers in game one, they hit nothing but singles, 14 of them, in the second game and, aided by seven walks and a Pirate error, scored 10 times in the middle three innings to take an 11-0 lead. Brooks Robinson, with three hits and two walks, tied a world series record for reaching base safely and Rettenmund also tied a series mark with two hits in one inning, the six-run 5th. Jim Palmer, who walked eight and threw 168 pitches, lost his shutout on Richie Hebner's three-run homer in the 8th and Dick Hall pitched the last inning. Bob Johnson was the starter and the loser for the Pirates in the 11-3 shellacking.

In Pittsburgh Steve Blass held the Birds to three hits, but led only 2-1 after Frank Robinson's 7th-inning homer until Bob Robertson missed the bunt sign in the bottom of that inning and instead hit one out off Mike Cuellar to produce the Pirates' 5-1 final margin.

Pat Dobson, who had not pitched in 15 days, started against Luke Walker in the first world series game ever played at night, but neither hung around for a decision. The game was actually decided by a pair of 21-year-old Pirates named Bruce Kison and Milt May. Kison, who relieved starter Walker in the 1st with the Birds ahead, 3-0, pitched six and one-third scoreless innings during which he allowed just one hit, though he did tie a series record by hitting three Orioles' batters. The Pirates battled back to tie the game with two in the 1st and one in the 3d and the score remained tied until May, batting for Kison, singled home the ultimate winning run in the 7th. Dave Giusti then came on and set the Birds down in order over the last two innings.

In game five Nelson Briles, who had not worked for two weeks, set the Orioles down on two hits as the Pirates won easily, 4-0, with Dave McNally getting the loss.

Back in Baltimore with their backs to the wall, the Birds spotted Pittsburgh a 2-0 lead early, came back to tie in the 7th, then won in the 10th, thanks to Frank Robinson and his aching legs. With Bob Miller, the Pirates' fourth pitcher, on the mound Frank drew a one-out walk. Suffering from a painful Achilles tendon injury in his right leg, Frank, nevertheless, streaked all the way from first to third on Merv Rettenmund's ground single up the middle. Vic Davalillo's throw to third baseman Hebner might have been in time, but Frank dove to the outside of the bag to evade the tag. Then Brooks hit a flyball to medium center. After Davalillo's catch, Frank came home and slid over safely with the winning run.

The Pirates' early lead was the result of Robertson's 2d-inning single and Clemente's 3d-inning home run. Buford homered in the 6th for the Birds' 1st run and Dave Johnson produced the tying tally with a 7th-inning single. Dobson relieved Palmer at the start of the 10th, but with two on and two out, McNally was called in for a rare relief appearance. He loaded the bases with a walk then got Oliver on a fly ball to end the threat.

For eight innings in the final game Blass and Cuellar matched four hitters, but the Pirates led 2-1. Clemente homered in the 4th after Cuellar had retired the first 11 batters to face him and the Pirates boosted their advantage to 2-0 on Jose Pagan's hit-and-run double that scored Willie Stargell from 1st in the top of the 8th. The Birds' lone run came in the bottom of the same inning, crossing on Don Buford's ground out. In the 9th Blass set down Powell, Frank and Rettenmund in order to wrap up the world championship. Though Clemente was voted the mvp in the series, Blass would have been an equally deserving winner.

MAGIC NUMBER

To calculate: Determine number of games to be played by first place club . . . Add 1 . . . Subtract the number of games first place club is ahead of second place club in the all-important lost column (A.L.C.). The result represents the magic number . . . Example: If first team has 20 games to play and is six games ahead of second team . . . $20 + 1 = 21$. . . $21 - 6 = 15$. . . 15 is the magic number.

When, in any combination, first team wins added to second team losses equal the magic number, first team has clinched the championship . . . From another angle—with each subsequent first team win or second team loss, the magic number is decreased by one . . . When the "M.N." is down to one, first team has clinched a tie, when it is reduced to zero, first team has won the title.

MANAGER AND COACHES

EARL WEAVER

Born: Aug. 14, '30; 5'8"; 165; Batted, R; Threw, R.

*Contract selected for $12,000 in major league draft (first year player rule) from Syracuse roster (Meis) on 11/26/62.

Born in Cushing, Okla., raised in Los Angeles and now makes home in Towson, Md.

1974 Season: One of the club's most consistent performers throughout the season . . . Earned his sixth straight "Gold Glove" award for defensive excellence and his seventh in the last eight seasons . . . Named co-winner of "Most Valuable Oriole" award with Mike Cuellar in vote of media who cover the club . . . His 17 home runs ranked second on the club behind Bob Grich and represented his best output since 1970 when he hit 18 . . . Hit four homers in nine-day period between September 9 and September 17 . . . Clouted grand-slam homer against Cleveland's Steve Kline, May 21, at Memorial Stadium, the third of his career.

Finished high among club leaders in most offensive categories . . . Struggled through slump in first month of season, but hit .337 in May . . . Batted .300 in September with 17 runs batted in and finished season with nine-game hitting streak in which he batted .350 (14-for-40) . . . Collected four hits against Oakland May 7 and four against Cleveland May 11 . . . Hit .338 vs. Boston (24-for-71) with 12 rbi . . . Smashed four home runs and drove in 16 runs against Cleveland . . . Set personal high in 10-year O's career with 27 stolen bases . . . Swiped nine in last nine games of season and tied club record with three steals against Detroit, October 1, the day O's clinched . . . Hit 10 home runs off lefthanded pitchers . . . Batted .286 (4-for-14) in ALCS vs. Oakland and belted first-game home run off Catfish Hunter.

Has made many fantastic catches, but one of most memorable was a game saver in Milwaukee during September pennant rush (Sept. 9) . . . O's led 6-5 in 11th but Brewers had two on with two out and George Scott batting . . . Scott hit drive to deepest center that Blair caught with back to the plate as he crashed into the fence to end the game . . . Beat out 15 bunts in 1974 and has two-year total of 29 bunt singles.

Career: His most productive year was 1969 when he set personal highs in home runs (26) and runs batted in (76) . . . Slammed three home runs against Chicago, April 29, 1970, to rate as one of only four players in club history to achieve the feat . . . Boog Powell, Curt Blefary and Bob Grich are the others . . . Has homered twice in a game six times during his career, three times at Memorial Stadium . . . Was chosen to A.L. all-star squads in 1969 and 1973 . . . Was named to the American League all-star team by The Sporting News in 1969 and 1974 . . . Missed most of 1968 spring training because of severe ankle injury suffered in Puerto Rican League the previous December.

Suffered serious eye and facial injuries when struck in the face by a pitch from California's Ken Tatum in May, 1970 . . . Spent three weeks on disabled list . . . Experimented with hitting lefthanded in early part of 1971 season and singled first two times up on opening day, but soon abandoned project after achieving only limited success . . . Underwent one therapeutic hypnotic session with Dr. Jacob Conn in Baltimore in mid-June, 1973, in effort to overcome deep-rooted fear at plate resulting from beaming three years earlier . . . He believes treatment was helpful to some extent . . . Enjoyed one of best months of career that June, batting .394 (37-for-94) . . . Hit two inside-the-park home runs in 1973 within eight days, one in Baltimore (a grand slam) and the other in Boston.

ALCS/WS: Had only one hit in 1966 World Series against Dodgers, but it was a 430-foot home run that won Game No. 3 for the O's, 1-0 . . . In fourth game of that series he made a brilliant leaping catch of Jim Lefebvre's 8th-inning drive to left-centerfield to preserve another 1-0 victory for the O's, which clinched the series . . . Leading hitter in 1970 World Series with .474 average (9-for-19), and tied record for the most hits in a five-game series . . . Won the first ALCS game ever played, in 1969, with a 12th-inning bunt to enable the O's to beat Minnesota . . . The bunt came on a 1-1 pitch, two outs and Mark Belanger on third . . . He had 5-for-6, including a home run, two doubles and five runs batted in, in the third and final game of that series.

Made two memorable catches in post-season play in 1970 . . . First was on 430-foot drive to dead centerfield by Brant Alyea in Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium in the first game of championship series . . . The other was on a similar type drive by Cincinnati's Jimmy Stewart in the second game of the world series at Riverfront Stadium . . . He made the catch with two outs in the 9th inning to give the O's a 6-5 triumph.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Outstanding athlete at Manual Arts High School in Los Angeles . . . Originally signed by Mets . . . Hit only .228 and struck out 147 times in first pro season in California League, but O's were impressed and selected him in first-year draft the following November . . . O's also selected Curt Motton and Dave May from other organizations the same day . . . Popular after-dinner speaker and represents O's in this role during off-season . . . Has been leading scorer on Orioles basketball team last six years . . . Was last minute replacement for Rod Carew in Superstars Tournament . . . Did not qualify for advanced round but won bowling competition and was second to Lou Brock in photo-finish 100-yard dash . . . Also batted against noted softball pitcher Joan Joyce during Superstars Tournament and performed well though Ms Joyce fanned him twice on change-ups.

*Signed with Baltimore affiliate on 6/18/68 . . . selected in 1968 summer free agent draft (Baltimore's 11th selection).

Born in Fredericksburg, Va., makes home in Baltimore.

1974 Season: Underwent major decline at the plate after an outstanding freshman season the year before . . . However, he showed some signs of revival down the home stretch of the season as he hit .378 (14-for-37) after the first of September, then batted .354 for LaGuaira to lead Venezuelan Winter League . . . Had four hits against Kansas City, September 1, and three against Detroit in the season finale, October 2 . . . His only home run of season was inside-the-park against the Yankees at Memorial Stadium, April 19 . . . It was the only homer of its kind during the year by the O's . . . Batted .344 as an occasional designated hitter with 11-for-32 . . . Did not drive in a run between July 15 and September 13 . . . Stole 12 bases in 16 tries.

Career: Honored as "Rookie of the Year" in the American League in 1973 by The Sporting News and the Baseball Writers Association of America . . . Led O's in hitting with .337 average, but lacked sufficient plate appearances to qualify among A.L. leaders . . . Set club record and tied an American League record with three triples against Milwaukee, September 22, 1973, in the division title clinching game . . . Paced International League in hitting (.345) and triples (15) in 1972 when he was named Topps "player of the year" in the I.L. by vote of National Association Baseball Writers . . . Won Silver Glove at Rochester in 1972.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Fastest runner in O's organization . . . Graduated from Virginia State College in 1968 . . . Went there on basketball scholarship after averaging 32 points a game as high school senior . . . Did not play college baseball until senior year . . . Took up baseball at urging of O's scout Dick Bowie, who signed him . . . Called to active military duty as second lieutenant two months after starting pro baseball career with Stockton in 1969 . . . Served 11 months as platoon leader in Viet Nam . . . He and his wife, the former Lynda Bryant, were married Aug. 12, 1974.

STOLEN BASES

The Orioles stole 145 bases in 1974, third in the league behind Oakland (164) and Kansas City (146). The Birds' total was one below the club record total (146) that led the A.L. in 1973.

Six players stole 10 or more bases: Don Baylor who led the club for the third straight year (29); Paul Blair (27), Richie Coggins (26), Mark Belanger and Bobby Grich (17 each) and Al Bumbry (12).

In 1973 the Orioles became the first team in major league history with as many as eight players stealing 10 or more bases, surpassing the previous high of seven set by the 1927 Detroit Tigers.

*Acquired from Houston along with Elijah Johnson in deal for Curt Bleafly on 12/4/68. Simultaneously, Houston also assigned infielder Enzo Hernandez (Okla. City) to Stockton while Baltimore outrighted first baseman John Mason (Elmira) to Oklahoma City.

Born in Santa Clara, Cuba, now makes home in Levittown Lakes, Puerto Rico.

1974 Season: Turned out to be mainstay of O's staff after slow start . . . Led staff with 22 wins, 20 complete games, and five shutouts and had best winning percentage (.688) among A.L. pitchers . . . Started year by losing first three decisions before getting first win May 6 against Oakland . . . That started a nine-game winning streak which lasted until June 25, when it was ended by Detroit . . . In that game he gave up two runs in the third inning and then was ejected for disputing several calls by the home plate umpire Russ Goetz . . . The two runs were the only ones in the game . . . Finished the year by winning his last seven, starting August 30, all during the late stretch drive . . . He was the club's biggest winner in that span (7-0) . . . Hurlled six straight complete games between May 6 and May 29 and completed nine of his last 12 starts over the final six weeks of the season.

Compiled 11-5 record vs. Eastern Division clubs . . . Went 4-1 against Cleveland, 3-0 against Boston with a 0.75 era and 3-1 against New York . . . Threw back-to-back 1-0 shutouts against Boston, September 2, and Cleveland, September 6 . . . His six victories during May accounted for better than half the club's total of 11 for the month . . . Also was responsible for halting three club losing streaks during May: he broke a five-game streak by defeating Oakland, May 6; ended a three-game spin by beating Cleveland, May 21, and halted a four-game skid with a win over Kansas City, May 29.

Selected to American League all-star team, but did not appear in mid-summer classic at Pittsburgh . . . Named co-recipient with Paul Blair of "Most Valuable Oriole" award by media . . . Missed approximately 10 days of spring training because of broken toe on right foot . . . In six years with O's has won 125 games . . . Only Fergie Jenkins (126) has won more in that span . . . Has won at least 20 in four of the six seasons . . . Named as lefthanded pitcher on major league all-star team selected by A.P. and on The Sporting News (TSN) American League all-star team.

ALCS/WS: Started first and fourth games of 1974 ALCS vs. Oakland . . . Won first game, 6-3, with Ross Grimsley's aid in 9th . . . Wildness plagued him in fourth and final game, won 2-1 by A's . . . He pitched 4.1 innings and held the A's hitless but walked nine and threw a wild pitch . . . He had never issued more than six walks in a game during six Baltimore seasons . . . Four walks, one intentional, scored the first A's run in the fifth inning and pinned him with the loss . . . Turned in great effort against A's in third game of 1973 championship series, but lost, 2-1, in 11 innings on home run by Campy Campaneris . . . Accounted for O's only win in 1969 World Series when he defeated Mets in first game . . . Won fifth game of 1970 World Series vs. Cincinnati which wrapped up title for O's . . . Lost two starts in 1971 World Series against Pittsburgh . . . Hit grand-slam home run in first game of 1970 ALCS vs. Minnesota.

Career: Co-winner of American League Cy Young Award with Denny McLain in 1969 . . . Selected by TSN as lefthander on 1969 A.L. all-star team . . . Chosen to 1970 and 1971 American League all-star squads . . . Did not appear in 1970 game but pitched two scoreless innings in 1971 contest . . . Holds O's club records for most wins (24—tied with Dave McNally) and complete games (21) in a season . . . Possessed best winning percentage (.750) among A.L. hurlers in 1970 . . . Has completed exactly half of his starts as an Oriole (114 of 228) . . . Won 11 straight in 1971 between May 12 and the all-star break.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Signed first pro contract with Cincinnati in 1957 . . . Bothered by sore arm with Astros in 1968 . . . He and his wife, Myriam, were married January 4, 1970, and are the parents of a three-year-old son, Mike, Jr.

BOBBY GRICH

Born in Muskegon, Mich., but grew up in Long Beach, Cal., and still makes home there.

1974 Season: Enjoyed best overall year of his career . . . Key figure on offense and standout defensive performer . . . Carried club often with bat through first half of season, but slowed down over latter half . . . nevertheless, led club in most offensive categories: home runs (19), triples (6), doubles (29), runs (92), sacrifice flies (8), walks (90), total bases (245), slugging (.430), on-base percentage (.371) . . . Was also tops in strikeouts (117) . . . Ranked second in American League in runs and second on club with 82 runs batted in . . . Set club record by getting hit by pitch 20 times, surpassing old mark of 13 held by Frank Robinson and Don Baylor . . . Tied club record by hitting three home runs June 18 vs. Minnesota. Was fourth Oriole to achieve feat, but first to do it at Memorial Stadium . . . Others were Boog Powell, Curt Biefary and Paul Blair, all on road.

Voted second straight "Gold Glove" for excellence at second base . . . Led A.L. second basemen with 957 total chances, 484 putouts (a major league record), 453 assists and 132 doubleplays . . . Has handled over 900 chances two straight years . . . No A.L. second baseman had reached that level since Jerry Priddy in 1950. Bill Mazeroski, who had four 900-chance seasons, was the last major leaguer to do it, in 1967 . . . Committed first error April 21 vs. New York, breaking streak of 39 straight errorless games, including 28 in row from record-setting year earlier.

Named to American League all-star team for second time in three years . . . Also selected in 1972 . . . Went 1-for-3 in all-star game at Pittsburgh . . . Hit safely in 10 straight games July 4-July 13 . . . Started season by hitting .353 during April . . . Hit .345 for year vs. Detroit (20-for-58) with five home runs and 15 runs batted in . . . Played 271 straight games, dating back to 1972 season, before sitting out July 17 game with sore back . . . Average dropped off to .224 after all-star break with five homers and 29 rbi . . . Batted .302 (13-for-43) vs. A's during regular season and .250 (4-for-16) in ALCS vs. Oakland and hit first-game homer off Catfish Hunter in ALCS.

Career: Set all-time fielding record for major league second basemen in 1973 with .995 percentage . . . Committed only five errors while handling 945 total chances . . . Led O's in hitting in 1972 and was named to A.L. all-star squad after injuries sidelined starter Luis Aparicio and alternate Toby Harrah . . . Played whole game at short . . . Has 48 stolen bases in less than four full years with Orioles . . . Middle man in two triple plays turned in by Orioles in 1973 . . . Has hit two career grand slam homers for O's, both against Perry brothers—one in 1972 off Jim at Minnesota and the other in 1973 off Gaylord in Baltimore.

Earned lengthy list of awards for outstanding year at Rochester in 1971: Named "Minor League Player of the Year" by The Sporting News and Topps Chewing Gum; selected International League "player of the year" and was awarded Rawlings Silver Glove as top fielding shortstop in minors, based on fielding percentage . . . Led International League in hitting, home runs and total bases . . . First joined O's in 1970 when he was leading International League in hitting with .383 average . . . Sent back to Rochester in spring of 1971 and was told to work on hitting with power . . . Responded with 32 regular season homers and added five in post-season playoffs . . . Had hit only 22 in first four years of pro ball . . . Named "most valuable player" in Texas League in 1969.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Outstanding baseball and football player at Wilson High School in Long Beach . . . Passed up avalanche of scholarship offers to sign with O's . . . Selected by O's in same draft as Don Baylor in 1967 . . . Al Kubi and Bobby Mattick were instrumental in signing him . . . Enjoys back-packing during off-season . . . Has taken flying lessons . . . Served as honorary chairman of Kidney Foundation fund-raising program last year . . . He and his wife, the former Marty Johnston, were married June 19, 1971.

*Acquired from Cincinnati Reds along with catcher Wallace Williams (assigned to Bluefield) in deal for outfielder Merv Rettenmund, shortstop Junior Kennedy (assigned to Indianapolis), and catcher Bill Wood (assigned to Three Rivers) on 12/14/73.

Born in Topeka, Kans., now makes home in Memphis, Tenn.
1974 Season: Blossomed into full-fledged major league pitcher in first season with O's . . . Established personal highs in most pitching categories and led O's staff with 158 strikeouts and 296 innings pitched . . . Posted best era (3.07) among O's starters and ranked second with 18 wins and 17 complete games . . . Went 13-6 after mid-June . . . Lost five of six between May 13 and June 9 before embarking on six-game winning streak (all complete games) that lasted from June 14 until July 14 when it was broken by Chicago . . . Was 4-1 during home stretch

(8/29 to end of season) . . . Pitched 12-inning shutout against Cleveland, May 22, winning 1-0, and also registered shutouts against Oakland on July 6, Kansas City on August 18 and Boston on September 2 . . . The last was the first of five straight shutouts by Orioles' staff that set A.L. record . . . Also had a shutout going for 8 innings, next time out on Sept. 7 at Cleveland . . . That would have tied M.L. record. However, Charlie Spikes hit two-run homer in 9th . . . He nevertheless won game, 3-2.

Worked 14 innings against New York in first game of two-night double-header September 11, but was not involved in decision . . . It was third longest individual effort in club history . . . Yankees got 10 hits off him in first seven frames, but he yielded only two safeties over next seven innings . . . Allowed most home runs on staff (26) but permitted only five after all-star break . . . Compiled 10-6 record against Eastern Division clubs . . . Posted 3-0 mark against Oakland with two complete games and a shutout . . . Made one regular season relief appearance, August 5, vs. Detroit, and earned a save by retiring only batter he faced . . . Worked twice in relief in ALCS vs. Oakland . . . Pitched one scoreless inning in first game . . . Hurlled 4.1 innings in fourth and final game, allowing one hit and one run . . . The hit was a double by Reggie Jackson, Oakland's only safety in the game.

Career: Has completed nearly four full seasons in major leagues, despite youth (24) . . . Averaged 12 wins a year for Cincinnati in 1971-73 seasons . . . Tossed three shutouts for Reds in rookie season, 1971 . . . Some of his best work for Cincinnati was in post-season play . . . Pitched two-hitter against Pittsburgh in fourth game of 1972 National League Championship Series, winning 7-1, to extend series to a fifth game which Reds won . . . Had 2-1 record while appearing in four games of 1972 World Series against Oakland . . . Lost second game, 2-1, as starter but picked up wins in relief in fifth and sixth games . . . Also appeared in relief in seventh game . . . Lost one game in 1973 National League Championship Series to New York Mets.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Cincinnati's No. 1 choice in special phase of February, 1969 free agent draft . . . Member of Memphis American Legion team which won national championship in 1968 . . . His father, Ross, Sr., pitched briefly for Chicago White Sox in 1951 . . . Possesses an excellent change-up and can change speeds effectively on curve and slider . . . He and his wife, the former Brenda Worrell, were married February 12, 1972, and are the parents of a son, Patrick Neil (2).

He and his wife, the former Barbara Lynn Jacobs, were married July 23, 1974.

THE BIRDS AND THE BROWNS

The Baltimore Orioles were charter members of the American League when it began operation in 1901. However, after two seasons the club was moved to New York where it ultimately became known as the New York Yankees.

The franchise from which the current Orioles descend came into the A.L. in 1901 representing Milwaukee, but in 1902 was transferred to St. Louis and named the Browns. In 52 seasons (1902 thru 1953) the Browns were, perhaps, the most unsuccessful team in major league history. They were 3,416-4,465 (.433) and finished in the second division 40 times. They won their only pennant in 1944 then lost the world series in six games to their home town rivals, the Cardinals.

In June, 1951, Bill and Charles DeWitt sold their controlling interest to Bill Veeck who operated the club for the next 2½ seasons. On September 29, 1953, he sold his shares to a group of Baltimore businessmen who brought major league baseball back to this city after a 51-year lapse.

*Acquired from Phillies on 12/15/70 along with first baseman Jim Hutto and outfielder Sam Parilla (both assigned to Rochester) in exchange for outfielder Roger Freed.

Born in Fostoria, Ohio, now lives in Caguas, Puerto Rico.

1974 Season: Gained four key wins in five-day period at climax of O's successful pursuit of divisional crown . . . Credited with victory in 17-inning win over Milwaukee September 27, then was winning pitcher in games of September 29 against Brewers and September 30 and October 1 against Detroit, when O's clinched tie for title . . . Pitched seven innings in those four appearances, giving up five hits and only one run while striking out seven and walking one, intentionally . . . Did his best and most effective pitching after all-star break . . . In 24 appearances after that point he posted 5-1 record with six saves and 1.70 earned run average . . . Gave up just 16 hits and seven runs in 37 innings while fanning 33 and walking 13 . . . Paced O's bullpen staff with 12 saves and had best earned run average (2.57) on staff . . . Saved three games on behalf of Jim Palmer . . . Recorded two saves each against Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City and New York . . . Yielded only four hits and no runs in 18.1 frames over 11 appearances July 20-August 13 . . . Made one appearance in ALCS vs. Oakland, working one-third of an inning in second game . . . Charged with two unearned runs and one hit, a home run to Ray Fosse following an error.

Career: Has compiled 19-8 record with 29 saves in four seasons with O's . . . Has led relief staff in saves the past three years . . . Emerged as one of top lefthanded relief pitchers in A.L. in 1973 when he went undefeated (8-0), had nine saves and a career-low 1.91 era . . . Used as occasional starter in first season with Orioles . . . Won 14 for Philadelphia in 1969 with 13 complete games and was named to National League all-star team, but did not appear in game . . . Worked mostly in relief for Phillies in 1967-68, his first two full years in majors.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Attended Bowling Green University . . . Purchased home in Puerto Rico, his wife's native area, in 1972 . . . He and his wife, Millie, were married January 10, 1968 and are the parents of three children: Debra Marie (2/11/69), Sheyda Yolanda (12/19/69) and Grant Jr. (9/29/73).

*Acquired from Montreal on 9/16/74 in straight waiver deal.

Born in Breckenridge, Mich., lives in Birmingham, Mich.

1974 Season: Biggest hit for Orioles after late-season acquisition from Montreal was pinch-hit, two-run homer against former Detroit teammates at Tiger Stadium October 1, the day O's clinched division flag . . . Homer came against Joe Coleman in 6th inning and gave O's 4-3 lead in eventual 7-6 triumph . . . Only pinch homer of year among Orioles . . . Career with Tigers, which spanned nearly 10 years, ended August 9 when he was dealt to Expos . . . Hit .178 (8-for-45) for Detroit against O's with three extra-base hits . . . Homered off Wayne Garland August 5 at Tiger Stadium.

Career: Most productive season 1968 when he led Detroit with 90 runs batted in, 153 hits and 29 doubles and helped club to world championship . . . Smashed five grand-slam homers that season, including one in world series vs. St. Louis . . . Hit three grand-slams in one-week period that year (June 24-29) to tie Lou Gehrig's major league record . . . Belted two in successive at-bats June 24 to rank as one of only three players to ever achieve feat . . . Other two were Orioles—Jim Gentile (1961) and Frank Robinson (1970) . . . Has eight lifetime grand-slams in regular season play . . . Most prolific home run seasons were 1969 (25) and 1970 (24).

Tied A.L. record with six straight hits in 13-inning game against A's August 28, 1969 . . . Crushed O's pitching in 1970 with seven homers, 22 rbi and .322 average . . . Leading hitter for Detroit with .357 average in 1972 ALCS vs. Oakland . . . Voted "rookie of year" in International League in 1964 after good year at Syracuse . . . Hit better than .300 in three straight minor league seasons before joining Tigers in 1965.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Standout athlete at St. Louis (Mich.) High School and Alma College in Michigan . . . Ability as college quarterback attracted interest of pro football scouts . . . Sought by Chicago Bears (NFL) and New York Titans (AFL) . . . Known as "Silver Fox" because of graying hair . . . Underwent cartilage operation on right knee in December, 1969 . . . He and his wife, the former Jean Anne Treischmann, were married September 10, 1960 and are the parents of three children: James T. II (6/24/61), Paige Leigh (6/8/63) and Maria Kate (1/22/69).

Born in New York City, raised in Los Angeles and Scottsdale, Ariz., now makes home in Phoenix, Md., just outside Baltimore.

1974 Season: An ailment near his right elbow cut sharply into his effectiveness and resulted in the first losing year in his career . . . He struggled with the soreness for better than six weeks before going on the disabled list June 20 and staying there until August 13 . . . A stiffness developed in his right arm after he pitched 12 innings against New York April 21 but the pain did not occur until May while he was taking batting practice prior to pitching against Oakland . . . He felt the pain through the length of his arm after hitting a ball off the end of the bat . . . He won his first two decisions of the year, both against Detroit, but then lost eight of nine between April 30 and June 16 . . . At one stretch he lost seven in a row . . . Never before in his career with the O's had he lost more than three straight and that happened only once, in 1966.

Complete rest while on the disabled list seemed to ease the ailment . . . Although he had only a 4-4 record after returning to active duty he turned in several impressive performances . . . Blanked Boston on three hits while winning 6-0 September 4 . . . Hurled seven-hit shutout against New York September 15 while winning, 4-0 . . . Went 12 innings and gave up no runs and just four hits against Milwaukee September 27 . . . Compiled 2.53 era (25 earned runs in 89 innings) after coming off disabled list . . . Engaged Vida Blue in thrilling but losing duel in second game of ALCS . . . He lost on a home run to Sal Bando that gave the A's the win, 1-0 . . . He restricted the A's to four hits while Blue allowed only two.

Career: Acclaimed best pitcher in the American League in 1973 when he posted a career high 22 wins and led A.L. pitchers with a 2.40 era . . . Efforts earned him the "Cy Young Award" in the A.L. and the "Most Valuable Oriole" award . . . Finished second to A's Reggie Jackson in American League "mvp" balloting . . . Won at least 20 each season from 1970 through 1973.

Back and shoulder miseries nearly ruined career in 1967-68 . . . Pitched only two games for O's between June 8, 1967 and start of 1969 season because of physical problems . . . Worked briefly with several clubs in O's farm system in effort to cure these problems . . . Has racked up 106-54 record since start of 1969 season . . . Spent 42 days on disabled list in 1969 with torn muscle in lower back but still compiled brilliant 16-4 record . . . Hurling no-hitter vs. Oakland August 13, 1969, just four days after coming off disabled list . . . Has pitched two one-hitters in O's career: May 12, 1967 vs. New York and July 27, 1973 vs. Cleveland . . . Hurling no-hitter for Aberdeen in Northern League in first pro season (1964) . . . Protected by O's as first-year player in 1965 . . . Led O's staff with 15 victories in pennant-winning season of 1966.

All-Star Games: Member of American League all-star squads in 1970, 1971 and 1972 . . . Has performed very well in all-star games, allowing no runs and three hits in eight innings . . . Started 1970 game at Cincinnati and 1972 game at Atlanta . . . Pitched one-hit ball in three innings of 1972 contest . . . Has eight strikeouts and two walks in all-star competition.

ALCS/WS: Has been winning pitcher in all four A.L. pennant-clinching games for O's . . . Beat Kansas City September 22, 1966 to wrap up first A.L. title for O's . . . Won final game in each of O's three-game ALCS sweeps 1969-70-71 . . . Blanked Oakland, 6-0, in first game of 1973 ALCS . . . Has 4-1 record in championship series competition, a 3-1 record in world series play . . . Defeated Dodgers, 6-0, in second game of 1966 Series to become youngest pitcher in series history to hurl a shutout . . . Losing pitcher in that game was Sandy Koufax in final major league appearance . . . Won opening game of 1970 Classic against Cincinnati and second game of 1971 Series against Pittsburgh . . . Only loss was to New York Mets in 1969 Series.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Signed to bonus contract with O's by Jim Russo and Jim Wilson . . . Outstanding three-sport athlete at Scottsdale High School, earning All-Arizona honors in baseball, basketball and football . . . Excellent golfer . . . Participated in Superstars competition in Florida in January, 1974 . . . Outstanding rebounder and scorer on Orioles' basketball team.

Actively serves as national sports chairman for Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation . . . Polished after-dinner speaker . . . He and his wife, Susan, were married February 25, 1964 and are the parents of two daughters: Jamie Michelle (11/16/66) and Kelly Christina (6/5/69).

Born in Lakeland, Fla., but grew up in Key West . . . Owns home in Baltimore, but lives in Miami during the off-season.

1974 Season: Sparkled during stretch drive in September after making few contributions earlier in the year . . . Won several games with key hits over the last three weeks of the season . . . Beat New York with 17th-inning single September 11; cracked 2-2 tie against Yankees with run-scoring single September 18 and O's went on to score seven runs in the inning, their biggest of the season; defeated Boston with a home run September 20; had three hits, including a homer, and drove in three runs to pace win over Red Sox, September 22 . . . Batted .351 (13-for-37) over the last three weeks of season with four home runs and nine runs batted in.

Hit 300th home run of career off Cleveland's Dick Bosman at Memorial Stadium on September 13 . . . Unloaded grand-slam against Chicago's Bart Johnson, August 13, the seventh of his career . . . Drove in four runs against California on July 10 . . . Batted .391 vs. New York with 18-for-46 . . . Accounted for win over Chicago June 15 with 11th-inning homer . . . Saw less action than in any season of 13-year career with O's.

Home Runs: O's all-time leader with 303 . . . Four of seven career grand slams have been hit at Memorial Stadium . . . Most prolific season was 1964 when he hit 39 . . . Has hit three homers in a game three times, the only player in club history to do it more than once, and all were on the road: 8/10/63 and 6/27/64 at RFK Stadium and 8/15/66 at Fenway Park . . . Has hit two in a game 15 times, five times at Memorial Stadium . . . Was last player to hit "Brooklyn Avenue" home run at Municipal Stadium in Kansas City (7/21/72) . . . Smashed homer over right field roof at Tiger Stadium (7/7/69) . . . First to hit home run over center field hedge at Memorial Stadium . . . It was a 469-foot blast off Boston's Don Schwall (6/22/62) . . . Harmon Killebrew later hit one two feet farther into same area.

Has hit 133 at home and 170 on road . . . Has hit homers in 16 of the 17 parks in which he has played . . . The only exception is Royals Stadium . . . Home runs at each park: Baltimore—133; Boston—20;

California—3 at Dodger Stadium, 11 at Anaheim; Chicago—14; Cleveland—17; Detroit—24; Kansas City—13 at Municipal Stadium, 0 at Royals Stadium; Milwaukee—4; Minnesota—13; New York—20 at Yankee Stadium, 1 at Shea; Oakland—5; Seattle—2; Texas—1; Washington (RFK)—22 . . . Hit 10 homers vs. Senators in 1964, eight of them in RFK . . . Belted 17 against Senators over two-year period ('63-'64).

He has hit more homers vs. the Tigers (38) than any other opponent just as he has hit more in Tiger Stadium than in any other stadium except Baltimore . . . Vs. each opponent: Boston—36, California—29, Chicago—32, Cleveland—36, Detroit—38, K.C. Royals—14, Milwaukee (nee Seattle)—9, Minnesota—20, New York—31, Oakland (nee K.C.)—25, Texas (nee Wash.)—33.

Honors: Named to A.L. all-star team every year between 1968 and 1971 . . . Selected as starter at first base in 1969, 1970 and 1971 but did not play in last game because of wrist injury . . . Has .111 average (18-for-9) in all-star competition . . . American League's "Most Valuable Player" in 1970 . . . Selected to American League all-star team by The Sporting News in 1966, 1968, 1969, and 1970 . . . Honored as "Most Valuable Oriole" in 1969 and 1970 . . . Named "Comeback Player of the Year" in the A.L. by TSN in 1966 . . . Selected to all-time favorite Orioles team in fan vote in 1969.

ALCS/WS: Has lifetime mark of .306 (15-for-49) with four home runs in five championship series . . . Hit two homers, despite injured wrist, in second game of 1971 ALCS vs. Oakland, both off Catfish Hunter . . . Hammered 9th-inning home run off Jim Perry that tied score in first championship series game ever played in 1969 and made possible O's 12th-inning win over Twins on Paul Blair's bunt . . . Has .234 average (18-for-77) in four world series and has played in all 21 series games O's have played . . . Led O's in hitting in 1966 and 1969 series . . . Batted .357 (5-for-14) in 1966, .263 (5-for-19) vs. Mets in 1969, .294 (5-for-17) in 1970 vs. Cincinnati and .111 (3-for-27) in 1971 against Pittsburgh . . . Had two home runs and five runs batted in against Reds in 1970.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Second to Brooks Robinson in Orioles history in tenure, games, hits, runs, doubles, and rbi (and first in homers as mentioned above) . . . Led American League in slugging percentage (.606) in 1964 . . . Tied A.L. record with 11 rbi in doubleheader vs. K.C. A's 7/6/66 . . . *Acquired from Montreal Expos along with outfielder Ken Singleton in deal for pitchers Dave McNally and Bill Kirkpatrick (assigned to Memphis) and outfielder Rich Coggins on 12/4/74.

Born in Topeka, Kan., makes home in Montreal, Canada.

1974 Season: Did not lose after August 6 while winning his last six in succession . . . Finished with 15 victories to tie Steve Rogers for Expos' staff lead . . . Blanked Philadelphia, 2-0, on four hits for final triumph of season September 27 . . . Started campaign with three straight wins before Los Angeles handed him first setback April 28 . . . Suffered first loss of career to Giants May 5 following seven straight wins . . . Permitted only 10 home runs in 186 innings.

Career: Has had several good years in majors, but has never put together two in a row . . . Best year was 1972 when he achieved career high in wins (16), complete games (13) and strikeouts (112) . . . Saw win production slip to nine the following season . . . Looked like sure-fire winner after posting 10-4 record for Cardinals in 1969, his first full year in majors . . . Career started to falter after that and eventually his contract was traded (June 15, 1971) to Montreal in exchange for pitcher Bob Reynolds, now with Orioles . . . Assigned by Expos to Winnipeg Club in International League.

Attributed success in 1974 to better concentration . . . Had impressive career records against several National League clubs: 12-6 vs. Philadelphia, 8-1 vs. San Diego and 7-2 vs. San Francisco.

Miscellaneous/Personal: Former baseball and basketball standout at Topeka High School . . . All-state baseball selection as schoolboy . . . Signed bonus contract with Cardinals . . . He and his wife, Danielle, were married October 26, 1974.

SPRING TRAINING NOTES

This is the 17th straight spring the Orioles have trained in Miami. Over the past 16 years 705,046 fans have watched the Birds in exhibitions at Miami Stadium.

The permanent seating capacity at Miami Stadium is 9,548, but the Orioles and Yankees drew 12,464 including standing room for a Sunday afternoon game on March 14, 1965.

Last year the Orioles batted .289 (217-for-751) as a team in pre-season games. No fewer than nine players hit over .300 including: Doug DeCinces (.409, 9-for-22), Mike Reinbach (.370, 10-for-27), Brooks Robinson (.350, 14-for-40), Bob Grich (.339, 20-for-59), Tommy Davis (.326, 14-for-43), Don Baylor (.333, 20-for-60) and Al Bumbry (.309, 17-for-55). Jim Fuller and Doug DeCinces paced the club in homers with two each and Grich was the rbi leader with 13.

The club era was a lofty 5.13 for the 22 spring games of which the O's won 11 and lost 11, and the staff hit yield was 2.25 in 195 innings. Jesse Jefferson, Dave McNally and Jim Palmer paced the club in wins with 3 each while Ross Grimsley led the staff in losses with three (vs. one win) . . . Jefferson had the best era (.225 in 16 innings).

Orioles spring training records, '54 thru '74: Hitting—Don Lenhardt (.462, 24-for-52) in '54; Al Pilarcik (.435, 40-for-92) in '58 . . . Home Runs—8, by Tito Francona in '56 and Frank Robinson in '66 . . . RBI—25, by Francona in '56 and Gus Triandos in '59.
