SYD THRIFT—VICE PRESIDENT, BASEBALL OPERATIONS

Syd Thrift enters his eighth season in the Orioles organization and his third as Vice President for Baseball Operations. Syd is in charge of the day-to-day baseball operations, overseeing the major league, minor league and scouting departments.

After serving as the Assistant General Manager of the Chicago Cubs from 1991-94, Syd joined the Orioles in 1995 as Director of Player Development. He remained in that position until being named Director of Player Personnel in January 1999. He was named Vice President for Baseball Operations on December 22, 1999.

Since taking over the baseball operations, Syd has dramatically increased the organization's scouting department at both the amateur and professional levels. He also has placed further emphasis on an individualized year-round conditioning program for players, which he began at the minor league level when he joined the ballclub in 1995.

As the 2000 season began, Thrift sought to augment the Orioles system not only with major league free agents but through the signing of six-year minor league free agents as well. One of those signees, RHP Jose Mercedes, was the American League's winningest pitcher over the second half of 2000 season and led the O's with 14 victories. Last season, Willis Roberts helped the Orioles in the starting rotation before emerging as a candidate for the closer role. In July 2000, Thrift engineered a series of trades that brought three regular position players - Brooke Fordyce, Melvin Mora and Chris Richard - to the major league team and began a dynamic overhaul of the club's 40-man roster. Subsequent moves included the selection of outfielder Jay Gibbons in the 2000 Rule V Draft; last June's waiver claim of third baseman Tony Batista from the Toronto Blue Jays; the signing of free agent Marty Cordova last November; and the acquisition of outfielder Chris Singleton from the Chicago White Sox in January. These trades and others also fortified the Orioles' depth at both the major and minor league levels, particularly among pitchers, with the addition of hurlers John Bale, Kris Foster, Jorge Julio and Luis Rivera among others. In all, 18 players on the 40-man roster that went to spring training in 2002 were acquired since Syd took over the Orioles' baseball operations. Fifteen other players on the 40-man squad were developed by the Orioles farm system since he joined the club as Director of Player Development.

Syd brought many innovative ideas into the baseball operations of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Kansas City Royals, Oakland A's, New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs before joining the Orioles. The former left-handed pitcher and first baseman began his professional playing career in the New York Yankees farm system in 1949. He began his post-playing baseball career as a scout for the Yankees and Pirates in the 1950s. In 1968 he joined the Kansas City Royals, where he served as Eastern Scouting Director and founding Director of the Royals' renowned Baseball Academy in 1970. The academy produced 14 major leaguers, including 8-time Gold Glove winner Frank White. He later served as Director of Player Personnel for the Oakland Athletics and as Senior Vice President of Baseball Operations for the New York Yankees. Long known for his ability as a talent evaluator, Syd was involved in the recruitment, signing and development of more than 30 players to appear in the major leagues, including White, Rickey Henderson, Moises Alou, Al Oliver and Bobby Bonilla.

In 1981, Thrift opened Syd Thrift and Associates, Inc. Realtors in Vienna, VA, serving as President and CEO. He remained active in baseball, however, and returned to the major leagues as General Manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1985 through 1988. He was instrumental in leading the Pirates from a last place team to a contender, and gave respected manager Jim Leyland his start as a major league skipper in 1985 with Pittsburgh.

In 1988 he was named Dapper Dan "Man of the Year" in Pittsburgh, the first non-player to be so honored. In 1987, Syd was honored by the Arthritis Foundation and was Vector's "Man of the Year" in sports. In 1990 he was awarded an honorary doctorate of law from his alma mater, Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, VA. He was presented the Edwin Rommel Award in 1995 for years of contribution to the game and in 1998, he was inducted into both the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame and the Randolph-Macon College Athletic Hall of Fame.

In 1990 he authored "The Game According to Syd," published by Simon and Schuster and co-written by Barry Shapiro. Numerous college, high school and youth baseball programs have used the teaching and training book.

A native of Locust Hill, VA, Thrift graduated from high school at the age of 16. He then attended Randolph-Macon College where he graduated at the age of 20. While in college, Syd played baseball and earned All-State honors. In June 1949, the left-handed pitcher signed with the New York Yankees organization.

Syd and his wife, Dolly, have two sons, Jim (39) and Mark (37). Jim is Coordinator of Research and Development and a Major League scout for the Cincinnati Reds. He and his wife, the former Michelle Fort, have five children: Ryan (10), Audrey (8), Brandon (7), Aaron (4) and Emma Coleen (born October 29, 2001).

DON BUFORD—DIRECTOR, MINOR LEAGUE OPERATIONS

Orioles Hall of Famer Don Buford begins his third season as Director of Minor League Operations, overseeing all aspects of the organization's farm system. He was named to his current position on January 3, 2000 and is the first African-American to head a department in the club's Baseball Operations Department.

Buford has worked for the team in a number of capacities since rejoining the organization in June 1988 as bench coach under manager Frank Robinson. He moved into the Player Development office in 1989 and served three years as Director of Field Operations before moving back into uniform as manager at AA Bowie for two years, where in 1993 he was voted to manage the Class AA All-Star Game. Buford joined the Orioles major league staff in 1994 as bench coach and defensive coordinator before moving back to the front office again in 1995 as Assistant Director of Player Development, where he remained until he was promoted to his current position.

A .264 career hitter, Buford spent five of his 10 major league seasons with the Orioles, 1968-72. As the Orioles leadoff batter and offensive catalyst, he had an on-base percentage over .400 from 1969 through 1971, helping the Orioles to three straight American League pennants and one World Championship in that time. He also made the 1971 AL All-Star team. In all, he played 17 years of professional baseball. He was the Chicago White Sox rookie of the year in 1964 and spent five years with the Sox before being traded to the Orioles on Nov. 29, 1967. He grounded into only 34 double plays in his career, and his GIDP rate of one every 133.9 at bats is the best in major league history. He retired in 1976 after playing four seasons in Japan.

Buford played three years of baseball and two years of football at the University of Southern California, graduating in 1959 with a B.S. degree in physical education. He was an all-Pacific Coast team running back and was named to the all-opponent team by both Notre Dame and UCLA. In baseball, he was a member of the Trojans' 1958 NCAA College World Series champs. In December 2000, he was elected to the USC Athletic Hall of Fame.

Don and his wife of 41 years, Alescia, make their permanent home in Sherman Oaks, CA. Alescia owns the public relations firm Alescia Buford and Associates. The couple have three sons, all tackling different aspects of athletics: Don Jr., an orthopedic surgeon specializing in sports medicine; Daryl, a sports attorney; and Damon, an outfielder with the Boston Red Sox. While serving as an assistant baseball coach at USC from 1985 through 1988, he coached both Don and Damon. In 1993, Buford was elected to the Orioles Hall of Fame.

TONY DEMACIO—DIRECTOR OF SCOUTING

Tony DeMacio, 57, begins his fourth season as the Orioles' Director of Scouting and already has left his mark on the organization's future. In the 1999 First Year Player Draft, he oversaw the Orioles' selection of seven of the first 50 picks, including four first round and three "sandwich" selections and was instrumental in the getting the organization's first 13 picks signed. The draft was widely hailed in baseball circles not just for the quantity of early picks, but for the quality of the selections. Three of those selections - Larry Bigbie, Mike Paradis and Brian Roberts - are currently on the Orioles' 40-man roster, and Bigbie and Roberts received significant playing time with the club last season.

DeMazio has further strengthened the farm system in subsequent drafts. In 2000, the Orioles signed first-round selection Beau Hale from the University of Texas, and in the 2001 draft, DeMazio oversaw two first round picks and one "sandwich" selection. All three - Chris Smith (7th overall), Mike Fontenot (19th overall) and Bryan Bass (1st selection in "sandwich" round) signed with the Orioles.

DeMazio was named to his current position on December 4, 1998, after spending four seasons (1995-98) as East Coast Scouting Supervisor with the Chicago Cubs. He began his baseball career with the Atlanta Braves and was with them for seven years, from 1983-90. Tom Glavine, a two-time Cy Young Award winner, was the first player that Tony signed for the Braves. The last player he signed before leaving the Braves was Chipper Jones.

Tony joined the Cleveland Indians organization in 1991 and was closely involved in drafts that brought future major leaguers Manny Ramirez, Chad Ogea, Albie Lopez, Jon Nunnally, Paul Shuey, Pep Harris, Paul Byrd and Herbert Perry to the Indians farm system. He served as National Crosschecker for the Cleveland Indians and in '94 he was a major league scout for Cleveland. Following the 1994 season, he joined the Cubs.

A Pittsburgh, PA native, he attended Parsons College in Fairfield, IA where he played four years of baseball. Tony and his wife, Diane, reside in Virginia Beach, VA. He has a daughter, Heather, who resides in Cockeysville, MD, and a son, Robert, who is a student at West Virginia University.

JOHN CLAIBORNE—ORIOLES TELEVISION NETWORK GENERAL MANAGER

John Claiborne begins his first season as General Manager of the Orioles Television Network. John will oversee the new media company created by the Orioles this past off-season. The Orioles Television Network will produce, sell and market Orioles game broadcasts and a weekly half-hour Orioles feature show to area television stations beginning this year.

John formerly worked as President and Chief Operating Office for the New England Sports Network (NESN). Prior to beginning a 20-year career in sports broadcasting and programming, John served as assistant general manager of the Oakland A's (1972-74) and Boston Red Sox (1975-78) and as senior vice president and general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals (1978-80).

Claiborne earned bachelor's and master's degrees from Washington University in St. Louis. He resides in Timonium.

ORIOLES TELEVISION NETWORK

During the past off-season, the Orioles created the Orioles Television Network, a media company that will produce, sell and market Orioles game broadcasts to area television stations beginning this year. WJZ-TV and WNUV-TV in Baltimore and WB50-TV in Washington, D.C., will be the network's flagship stations. In total, the network will be comprised of 10-12 broadcasting stations covering a 6 state region. Orioles Television will produce 74 game broadcasts this season, beginning with three spring training games in late March. Regular season coverage will begin on Opening Day, April 1 at 3:05 versus the New York Yankees.

In addition to games, the network will produce eighteen episodes of a weekly half-hour program that focuses on the intimacies of the Orioles organization, on and off the field. The show will deal with a range of subjects involved in the daily operations of the club, from players to front office employees and mascots to vendors. The series will begin in May and air prior to weekend Orioles broadcasts.

Orioles Television Network General Manager John Claiborne will supervise implementation of the broadcast project. Prior to joining the Orioles, Claiborne was president and chief operating officer for the New England Sports Network (NESN).

"The Orioles are proud to be a part of the groundswell of regional sports networks owned by a Major League team," said Claiborne. "The importance of this service to a franchise was proven in the appraisal of NESN's value in the sale of the Red Sox. Given the Orioles' broad regional fan base, it was obvious that we should take advantage of the opportunity to develop a new network. The Orioles will use the same on-air talent as our cable partner, Comcast SportsNet, but the games themselves will be produced separately, allowing us to give a distinct look to our broadcast."

Director of Operations and Programming Bob Whitlaw was also hired from NESN and has 35 years of experience in the broadcasting industry. He will develop an on-air look and oversee all aspects of production for the network.

Producer Chris Glass previously worked as an Executive Producer for the Sunshine Network in Florida. Glass also worked on Orioles broadcasts at Home Team Sports from 1985 - 1998.

The Orioles Television Network will operate out of a state-of-the-art production facility on the fifth floor of the Warehouse at Camden Yards.

ORIOLES IN THE COMMUNITY: BEYOND THE YARD

The support of the surrounding community has been integral to the success of the Baltimore Orioles franchise, and as a result, the Orioles have consistently sought to invest in many community-based programs and initiatives. Over the past 17 years, the Orioles have widened the scope of their community involvement to emphasize education-based programs. In 2001, the Orioles expanded to include cancer-based initiatives as well. Below is a brief summary of some of the many Orioles efforts undertaken in the community during the past season.

BALTIMORE ORIOLES CHARITABLE FOUNDATION & BALTIMORE ORIOLES, INC.

The Baltimore Orioles Charitable Foundation and the Baltimore Orioles, Inc. support many civic and charitable organizations with the goal of enriching the lives of fans in the community. Since the ownership group, headed by Peter Angelos, purchased the Orioles, the Baltimore Orioles Charitable Foundation and the Baltimore Orioles, Inc. have donated $5.8 million to support various organizations in the Orioles community.

ORIOLES ACADEMY

On January 31, 2001, the Orioles became the first Major League Baseball team to be affiliated with an academic academy by signing a three-year commitment with Communities in Schools and the Baltimore City Public School System. This academy provides at-risk middle school students with another chance to succeed academically and socially. The Orioles Academy is a self-contained learning center that provides teachers as well as counselors for the children. The Academy opened its doors on February 5 with the help of Orioles manager Mike Hargrove and second baseman Jerry Hairston.

THE JOHN STEADMAN CANCER INITIATIVE

In memory of John Steadman, the longtime Baltimore sportswriter who succumbed to cancer in January, the Orioles dedicated the 2001 season to promoting cancer awareness and raising funds for cancer research through The John Steadman Cancer Initiative.

As part of the John Steadman Cancer Initiative, the Orioles hosted "An Evening of Hope Gala" on June 23. It was the first-ever on-field gala held at Camden Yards. Orioles players and coaches mingled with guests on the infield, and dinner was served on the club level. Over $77,000 was raised for the American Cancer Society's Hope Lodge.

The Orioles hosted Cancer Survivors Night on August 24, with a portion of the proceeds from tickets sold benefiting the Greenebaum Cancer Center and the American Cancer Society. Cancer survivors and their friends and family members circled the infield as adult contemporary artist Tamara Walker sang an inspirational song.

ORIOLES APPEARANCES

Orioles players and coaches past and present make more than 250 appearances throughout the Orioles region. Clinics, schools, the Babe Ruth Museum, libraries and Little League organizations benefit from these visits. The Orioles Bird mascot also "flies" to events all over the region throughout the year. He makes more than 450 appearances in communities from Virginia to Pennsylvania.

TICKET DONATIONS

Orioles players purchase tickets to give children from charitable, non-profit youth organizations the opportunity to enjoy an Orioles game. More than 10,000 children benefited from the program in 2001. Players who established or continued programs last season included Sidney Ponson (Ponson's Pack), Pat Hentgen (Hentgen's Heroes), Alan Mills (Mills's Mob) and Scott Erickson (The Erickson Zone).

ORIOLES CHARITY GOLF OUTING

Each year, Orioles players, wives and corporate partners raise approximately $60,000 as they swing away for local charities at the Orioles Charity Golf Outing. Proceeds from the event benefit the wives' charitable project, the Oriole Advocates Charitable Foundation, which sponsors the Champion Little League for disabled children; and the Baltimore Orioles Charitable Foundation.

IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD

ORIOLES REVIVING BASEBALL IN THE INNER CITY (RBI) PROGRAM

RBI encourages young adults ages 13-18 to stay in school and develop self-esteem while learning the skills and enjoyment of baseball. RBI is a national Major League Baseball initiative administered and co-sponsored locally by the Orioles and Coca-Cola. Approximately 200 teenagers in Baltimore take part in this league each year.

BALTIMORE BASEBALL LEAGUE

Baltimore Baseball League provides over 800 fourth and fifth graders from 46 elementary schools the opportunity to play baseball for the first time. Each child must have a weekly academic score card filled out by his or her teacher in order to participate.

ORIOLES/COCA-COLA PITCH AND HIT CLINICS

The Orioles and Coca-Cola team up to provide children ages 6-12 the opportunity to learn pitching and hitting skills through regional clinics. Children get hands-on instruction from Orioles players and coaches.

SEPTEMBER 11 AUCTION

In the wake of the terrorist attacks on September 11, the Orioles held an auction at each of the final 8 home games for a game-used base, autographed by Cal Ripken and Brooks Robinson. The auctions raised $50,000 for the Major League Baseball Players Association's Disaster Relief Fund.

ORIOLES COMMUNITY PARTNERS BOOTH

During each game, the Orioles provide a community booth on the lower concourse for charitable, non-profit organizations to give out information, sell raffle tickets, register participants, or do health care screenings for Orioles fans.

CARDBOARD TO LEATHER

The Oriole Advocates' Cardboard to Leather program provides baseball equipment, collected from Orioles fans, to children in developing countries. This season, new and gently used equipment donations were sent to the Dominican Republic.

SUMMER READING PROGRAM

The Orioles Summer Reading incentive program is sponsored by the Baltimore Sun and was supported by Orioles shortstop Mike Bordick. The Orioles send bookmarks, posters and t-shirts to libraries in each of 19 Maryland counties that participate.

ORIOLES WIVES ORGANIZATION

The Orioles Wives chose the American Cancer Society's Camp Sunrise for children with cancer to benefit from their charitable efforts. In total, $25,000 was raised for the camp from the Orioles Charity Golf Outing and the Orioles Wives Raffle.

The Wives hosted their annual Food Drive to benefit the Maryland Food Bank and collected 4,000 pounds of food and $8,000 in contributions that was used to purchase turkeys for needy families during the Thanksgiving holiday.

YEAR IN REVIEW—THE ORIOLES IN 2001

The Orioles went 63-98 in 2001, their worst record and furthest they have been under .500 at any point in a season since finishing 1988 with a 54-107 record. It was only the sixth time in club history the Orioles have lost 90 games in a season. It was also the fourth straight season they finished in fourth place in the American League East and marked the first time in franchise history they had a losing record for four consecutive years.

The Orioles opened the 2001 season with a 2-1 win over the Boston Red Sox in 11 innings and won 3 of their first 5 games of the year. The Birds went 12-14 in April but then suffered a 6-game losing streak, May 2-8, and fell to 7 games under .500 on May 12 (15-22). They then went 8-3 on an 11-game homestand, May 15-28, marking the first time they had won 8 games on a homestand since July 31-August 1, 1993, when they went 8-1. The Orioles returned to .500 (24-24) following their season-high 5-game winning streak, May 20-27. The O's went 14-14 in June, their first non-losing month since April 2000. Before falling into fourth place in the last week of the first half, the Birds were in third place, the first time they were that high in the standings since August 1988.

Following their roadtrip to Toronto and Chicago, June 25-July 1, in which they won 5 of 7 games, the Orioles returned to Camden Yards for a six-game homestand to conclude the first half. The O's lost 6 of 7 games to begin a stretch in which they went 24-56 the remainder of the season and finished with the worst record in baseball in the second half (23-51). The Orioles went 6-21 in July, their worst record in a month since going 1-22 in April 1988. It was the Birds' fewest wins in a month since winning 6 of 22 games in April 1999. They went 33 straight games between consecutive wins from late June to early August, their longest such stretch since beginning the 1988 season with 21 consecutive losses. The Orioles lost 16 of 24 series in the second half and were swept 9 times.

The Orioles lost a season-high 10 straight games, September 1-19, the 9th losing streak of 10 games or more in club history. They dropped 16 of 17 games August 24 - September 19, having been outscored 106-29. They batted .173 (90-520) and scored 1.7 runs per game during that time. When the Birds ended the skid with a 3-game winning streak, September 20-22, they scored 30 runs, one more than they scored over their previous 17 games combined. The Orioles won 7 of 10 games after snapping their losing streak, played a tie game in New York and then lost 6 of 7 games on their final homestand of the year.

HITTING: The Orioles finished last in the American League with a .248 batting average and were next to last with 136 home runs, each their lowest totals since 1990. The Birds were also shut out a league-leading 14 times on the year and were held to 3 runs or less 68 times. They were shut out 8 times in their final 35 games, twice in their series against Toronto, August 24-26, marking the fewest runs they've scored in a 3-game series (one) since May 5-7, 1967. The Orioles went 38-44 in the games in which David Segui played, batting .261 and scoring 4.7 runs per game. Without Segui, the Birds went 25-54, batted .235 and scored 3.8 runs per game.

PITCHING: The Orioles were 10th in the American League with a 4.67 ERA, a significant improvement from the previous year when they were 12th in the AL with a 5.37 ERA. The Orioles were 7th in the league with a 4.43 ERA in the first half in 2001 and then posted a 4.96 ERA after the All-Star Break. The Birds were 4th in the league with 10 complete games. On June 29 & 30, the Orioles had back-to-back shutouts for the first time since September 7-8, 1999. STARTERS: Orioles starters went 48-71 with a 4.83 ERA. They were 30-32 with 8 complete games and a 4.24 ERA in the first half, while going 18-39 with 2 complete games and a 5.59 ERA after the break. They pitched 5.0 innings or more 132 times, including a stretch of 18 consecutive games, May 12-June 2. RELIEVERS: The Orioles bullpen went 17-27 with a 4.44 ERA and converted 31 of 50 saves. Relievers lost 13 straight decisions from May 18 through July 25. The O's bullpen posted a 4.94 ERA with 20 saves in the first half and improved by a whole run with a 3.94 ERA in the second half, while collecting only 11 saves. The Orioles went 24 consecutive games without a save from August 23 to September 27. They blew 5 of their last 6 save opportunities of the year.

FIELDING: The Orioles committed 125 errors and had a .979 fielding percentage, their most errors and lowest fielding percentage since 1986. The Birds committed 52 errors in a 46-game span, July 3 - August 23 leading to 43 unearned runs. The Orioles went 15-31 during that time. In games with shortstop Mike Bordick in the lineup, the Orioles went 27-31 with a .982 fielding percentage (2149 TC/38E). Without Bordick, mostly after June 13 when he was injured and lost for the season with a separated right shoulder, the Orioles went 36-67 with a .978 fielding percentage (3871 TC/87E).

NUMBER OF PLAYERS: The Orioles used 47 players in 2001 and matched a club record with 23 pitchers. (The figure includes pitcher Jay Spurgeon, who was on the active roster for a week in late June but never appeared in a game.) The Birds also used 23 pitchers in 1955, 1956 and 1998. The O's had 14 players spend time on the disabled list, with 9 players ending the season on the 60-day DL.

SUDDEN IMPACT: The Orioles set a club record with 18 rookies on the roster in 2001, surpassing their previous record of 16, set in 1955 and 2000. For the second consecutive season, 12 rookies made their major league debut. The Birds set a club record with 7 pitchers posting their first major league victory in the same season. Ryan Kohmeier, Willie Roberts, John Bale, Chad Paronto, Josh Towers, Jorge Julio and Sean Douglass all picked up their first wins, surpassing the club record set in 1989. Eight different Orioles batters - Larry Bigbie, Jay Gibbons, Geronimo Gil, Willie Harris, Jason Johnson, Tim Raines, Jr., Brian Roberts and Willis Roberts all recorded their first major league hit in 2001.

Rule 5 pick Jay Gibbons tied for the club lead with 15 home runs despite missing the final two months of the season. He set an Orioles rookie record with homers in four straight games, June 17-20. Towers was named American League Rookie of the Month in June after going 5-1 with a 1.49 ERA in 6 starts. He was the first Orioles rookie to win 5 games in a month since Bob Milacki in September 1989. Brian Roberts hit safely in 34 of his first 41 major league games and matched an Orioles rookie record with a 15-game hitting streak.

MOST VALUABLE ORIOLE: Jeff Conine was voted the winner of the 2001 Louis M. Haier Most Valuable Oriole Award, presented annually by the Sports Boosters of Maryland. Conine came within one vote of being a unanimous choice in balloting among 26 writers and broadcasters polled. He led the club with a .311 average, 97 RBI and 75 runs scored and was third in the American League with a .400 average with runners in scoring position. Conine reached base safely in 121 of 139 games, starting at four different positions. He started 101 straight games at the cleanup spot before batting third the final 18 games of the year. He had 12 stolen bases, only three shy of his career total entering the season.

NOMO'S NO-NO: In the second game of the season on April 4, the Boston's Hideo Nomo pitched the first no-hitter in Camden Yards history as the Red Sox defeated the Orioles, 3-0. It was the fifth no-hitter against the Orioles and first since Wilson Alvarez's in 1991. The O's and Sox combined for 9 runs in the 3-game series, with the Orioles winning two games. The Birds batted over .200 as a team for the first 11 games of the year.

LINEUP SHUFFLE: The Orioles used 139 different lineups in 2001, third-highest in the majors, behind the Mets (143) and Cubs (140). The Birds went 30 straight games with a different lineup, June 19-July 23. They went consecutive games with the same batting order only five times, including three straight games with the same lineup on two different occasions in late September.

TIE TO BE TIED: In their final road game of the season, on September 30 at New York, the Orioles played to a 1-1 tie through 15 innings with the Yankees before the game was postponed by rain. It was the 11th tie game in club history and the first since 1995.

POSTPONEMENTS: The Orioles had 14 games postponed in 2001, the most since 1979. Four games were postponed by rain, including a 1-1, 15-inning tie on September 30 at New York. The Birds had three games postponed, July 18-20, by a train derailment near Camden Yards. Makeups forced the Birds to play two doubleheaders in a span of four days and play 22 games over 20 consecutive days. Major League Baseball postponed games the week following terrorist attacks in New York and Washington, DC on September 11. The season was extended one week to make up the games and the Orioles concluded the year with a 7-game homestand against the Toronto Blue Jays and Boston Red Sox.

2001 HIGHLIGHTS: Texas won the season series, 7-2. After winning their first two games against the Rangers, the Orioles lost the last 7 games, matching the longest losing streak in series history. The Orioles won the first two games of their series in Baltimore, 5/25-26, but dropped the finale in Josh Towers' first major league start. Towers pitched 6 shutout innings before allowing back-to-back home runs by Frank Catalanotto and Andres Galaraga on their way to a 6-3 win. In the Rangers' next trip to town, Sean Douglas made his major league debut and lost the first game of a doubleheader on 7/18. The second game of the doubleheader and next two games were postponed by the dismantling of a CSX train carrying hazardous chemicals near Camden Yards. One of the games was rescheduled for the following week as part of a series the Orioles were playing in Texas. The Rangers won all four games in Arlington, marking their first four-game sweep of the Orioles. In the opener, Texas scored 7 runs in the final 3 innings in an 8-7 win. In a doubleheader the next day, the Rangers scored 5 runs in the first inning in the first game and rallied for all 5 runs in the final two innings of a win in the nightcap. The Rangers scored 7 of their 9 runs in the final 3 innings of their win in the finale. The last matchup game between the clubs was on July 30. The night after the Orioles returned from the West Coast. The Birds squandered a 4-0 lead and lost in 11 innings on a two-run single by Alex Rodriguez.

ALL-TIME SERIES NOTES: On 5/23/99, the Orioles scored a club record 10 runs in the first inning en route to a 15-6 win over the Rangers. Rafael Palmeiro became the first player to hit two home runs onto Eutaw Street in the same game when he accomplished the feat on 4/11/97. The Rangers scored 26 runs against the Orioles on 4/19/96, including 16 runs in the eighth inning, which set an O's record for most runs allowed in a game and inning. On 6/17/86, the Orioles and Rangers played to a 1-1 tie when rain forced play to stop in the sixth inning. The two teams set an AL record on 8/6/96 when the Orioles' Jim Dwyer and Larry Sheets and the Rangers' Toby Harlan combined to hit three grand slams in a single game. Despite hitting both of their grand slams in the same inning, the Orioles blew a five-run lead and lost, 13-11. The loss plummeted the Birds from 2 1/2 games out of first to a sitting in which they lost 42 of their final 56 games and finished in last place for the first time in club history. Cal Ripken hit for the cycle against the Rangers on 5/6/84, making him only the second Oriole to do so (Brooks Robinson was the other, 7/15/60 vs. Chicago). Texas and Baltimore combined for 41 hits (Rangers - 22, Orioles - 19) in 11 innings on 5/14/83.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE AWARD, PRESENTED BY JOHN HANCOCK

Since 1970, Major League Baseball has annually presented an award (originally known as "The Commissioner's Award") which recognizes the player who best exemplifies the game of baseball, sportsmanship, community involvement and the individual's contribution to his team. The award, now sponsored by John Hancock Financial Services, recognizes those individuals who truly understand the value of helping others.

In 1972, following the tragic death of Roberto Clemente, the award was renamed to honor the man whose spirit and goodwill will always be remembered. The 12-time All-Star and Hall of Famer was killed in a plane crash New Year's Eve, 1972, delivering food and medical supplies to earthquake victims of Nicaragua.

Early in the season, each team will be asked to submit three candidates to a panel formed by John Hancock Financial Services. The panel will select a nominee from each club. A panel of baseball dignitaries, including Vern Clemente and Commissioner Alan H. (Bud) Selig, will then select a winner from the list of 30 nominees. The winner of the Roberto Clemente Award will receive a $25,000 donation from John Hancock Financial Services for the local charity of his choice at an on-field ceremony during the World Series. John Hancock will also make a cash contribution to the Roberto Clemente Foundation and to each nominee's local charity.

Past winners include Curt Schilling (2001), Al Leiter, Tony Gwynn, Sammy Sosa, Willie Mays, Lou Brock, Ozzie Smith, Cal Ripken, Jr., Kirby Puckett and others.

John Hancock is a proud sponsor of Major League Baseball and the title sponsor of the John Hancock All-Star FanFest, an interactive "Baseball Heaven on Earth" held in conjunction with MLB's All-Star Game.

For the first time in club history, this year the Orioles will face teams from the National League West Division in interleague play. For the past five seasons, the Birds have played teams from the National League East Division, compiling a 37-49 record. The Orioles will continue to play the Philadelphia Phillies under the new rotation, with a trip to Veterans Stadium, June 14-15, and a series in Baltimore, June 28-30.

The Orioles will host the Los Angeles Dodgers (June 7-9) and San Diego Padres (June 10-12) for the first time for a regular season game. The Orioles swept the Dodgers in the 1996 World Series to capture their first championship. The two clubs have frequently played each other in spring training for much of the past 43 years, as the Orioles have trained mainly in Miami and Fort Lauderdale while the Dodgers play in Vero Beach. The series against the Padres will mark the first games ever between the two teams.

The Birds will travel to Arizona to play a three-game series against the World Champion Diamondbacks, June 18-20. It will be the first time the Orioles have played in Arizona since establishing spring training homes there in the early years of the franchise, having been based in Yuma in 1954 and Scottsdale, 1956-1958. In addition to playing the Diamondbacks for the first time, the Orioles will travel to Pac Bell Park, June 21-23, to take on the San Francisco Giants for the first time in club history. The Birds played several exhibition games against the New York Giants in the mid-1950's.

ORIOLES 2001 MINOR LEAGUE SUMMARY

The Orioles' six minor league affiliates combined for a 307-381 record in 2001, with two teams reaching the playoffs. Bluefield captured the Appalachian League Championship, their third title in the last six years. The Orioles major league team featured 20 players promoted from the minor league system in 2001, including 12 making their major league debut. Outfielder/second baseman Willie Harris (.305, 54 stolen bases), who made his major league debut with the Orioles in September, was named Organizational Player of the Year and RHP John Stephens (13-8, 2.51) was named Organizational Pitcher of the Year.

ROCHESTER (AAA)

The Red Wings went 60-84 in 2001 and finished in 5th place in the North Division of the International League, 32.0 games behind Buffalo. The Wings committed 197 errors, most in the league for the second straight year. Rochester had 15 players spend time with the Orioles. Rick Bauer led the team with 10 victories despite making his first start with the team on May 29. Sean Dougliss finished 2nd in the IL with 156 strikeouts and pitched at least 5.0 innings in 23 of his 27 starts. John Parmer finished 5th in the IL with 126 strikeouts. Jorge Julio had 19 saves between Rochester and Bowie and Kris Foster recorded a save in six of his nine games with the Wings over the final month of the season. Tim Ramez split time at three minor-league levels with his last stop in Rochester, batting a combined .274 with 9 home runs, 55 RBI and 54 stolen bases. Eddy Contreras was named the Orioles' co-Minor League Player of the Month in July when he hit .344 (.42-122). He led the team in runs (65), hits (138), doubles (29), triples (6) and stolen bases (24).

BOWIE (AA)

The Baysox went 55-82 in 2001 and finished in 6th place in the Southern Division of the Eastern League, 24.5 games behind Erie. Both of the Orioles Minor League Players of the Year played most of their season at Bowie. John Stephens was named Eastern League Pitcher of the Year after leading the league with a club record 1.84 ERA. He was named EL Player of the Month for July when he recorded the majority of a 33.0 scoreless innings streak that culminated in a no-hitter on July 31. Willie Harris was named to the Eastern League All-Star team after finishing 2nd in the league with 54 stolen bases and 6th with a .325 batting average. Frankly Figueroa concluded the season on a 44-for-91 (.484) tear to finish 8th in the league with a .300 average. Bedard, who missed almost two months with left shoulder soreness, had five double-digit strikeout games including a season-high 15 in 6.0 innings on May 13. He averaged 1.35 strikeouts per inning pitched. Bedard joined Sonny Garcia and Steve Bechler as selections to the Carolina League's mid-season All-Star team. El Whiteside, the Orioles' 6th round selection in last year's draft, debuted with the Birds on June 21 and finished second on the team with seven home runs. Matt Schwaner won his last five decisions and eight of his last nine with the Birds. He tied for 2nd in the SAL with four complete games, including back-to-back complete game victories to end the year. Sandy Real allowed three earned runs or less in 17 of 20 starts. ORIOLES DRAFT NOTES

This year's First Year Player Draft will be held June 4-6. The Orioles will have the 4th pick in the first round of the draft, their highest position since taking Jeffrey Hammonds with the 4th selection in the 1992 draft. The First Year Player Draft began in 1965. The first player selected by the Orioles who played for the parent club was their 6th round pick in that draft, RHP Bill Dillman, out of Wake Forest University. The most dazzling 1-2 picks in O's history came out of the '67 June draft: No. 1 Bobby Grich and No. 2 Don Baylor. The Orioles selected a record 4 players in the first round of the 1995 draft as compensation for free agents lost the previous year.
