Dear Galaxy Supporters:

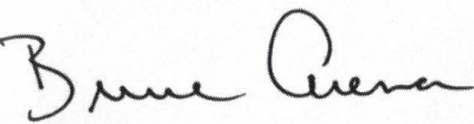

Today's game will be extremely challenging for our club. At times, the league scheduling can be quite puzzling. This will be our third game in eight days, with over 5,000 miles of travel added to the mix. On the other hand, our opponent, Sporting Kansas City, has sat idle for two weeks.

Despite these issues, our team will be focused. Our lineup will be a mix of the players from the past two games versus New York and Philadelphia, plus a few new faces. I know our players understand the importance of earning the three points at home and will be prepared to give a great effort over 90 minutes.

Kansas City is off to a slow start having had to play all of their games on the road while awaiting the opening of their new stadium. However, I believe they are a play-off team. They have an experienced goalkeeper in Jimmy Nielsen, great leadership with Davy Arnaud and a quartet of dangerous attackers in Teal Bunbury, Kei Kamara, C.J. Sapong, and Ryan Smith, not to mention Omar Bravo who has missed most of the season with an injury. They are a physical team that likes to press and will come at us hard from the opening kickoff, as we witnessed last year when they beat us here at The Home Depot Center.

This is game 12 of our 34-game schedule, and it is important that we get three points.

Enjoy the game and thank you for your support.

TONIGHT'S OPPONENT

Sporting Kansas City

A week after hosting Thierry Henry and Rafa Marquez, the LA Galaxy could welcome another one of Major League Soccer's Designated Players to The Home Depot Center: Sporting Kansas City forward Omar Bravo.

Bravo, a member of Mexico's World Cup team in 2006, has been sidelined for the past five weeks while recovering from Sports Hernia surgery. The talented goal scorer did train with the club last week and could make his return to the field tonight.

The former Chivas de Guadalajara legend, who signed with Kansas City last August, but remained with Chivas for the 2011/2012 Apertura season, is no stranger to the HDC. Bravo made his MLS debut at this stadium on March 19, scoring two goals in Sporting Kansas City's 3-2 win over Chivas USA.

Despite their 1-4-1 record, Sporting KC is a dangerous squad with many offensive weapons. Forwards Teal Bunbury and Kei Kamara share the team lead in scoring with three goals a piece, and Bravo, who hasn't played since March 26, is second on the squad with two. All together, the trio has combined to score eight of Kansas City's 10 goals this season.

Kamara, a Cal State Dominguez alum, is also the club's assists leader with two. Bunbury, a talented and speedy attacker, has also tallied one assist and is on Bob Bradley's radar to make the roster for this summer's Gold Cup tournament.

The explosive Sporting KC also count with rookie C.J. Sapong.

While Kansas City's offense has been impressive, their defense has been suspect, conceding 13 goals and allowing 35 shots on goal in their six games.

Even though they've allowed five goals in the last three games, there's been a slight improvement in Sporting KC's defense over that stretch, holding New York to just one goal in their last game, a 1-0 loss.

Defender Julio Cesar, who was signed on March 14, said this week that Kansas City was unlucky to have lost to New York. "I think all that was missing was luck... the result wasn't fair, we dominated the entire second half," he said. Cesar, Brazilian who's played for C.D. Marathon, Valladolid, Real Madrid, A.C. Milan and Tigres de Monterrey prior to coming to MLS, was brought in to help establish a strong anchor for a defense that also includes Aurelien Collin from France, Roger Espinoza from Honduras, Michael Harrington from the US and goalkeeper Jimmy Nielsen from Denmark.

Holding everything together for coach Peter Vermes side, quite literally, is midfielder Davy Arnaud. Arnaud, who is also Sporting Kansas City's captain, will likely be flanked by Stephane Auvray and Graham Zusi out on the field.

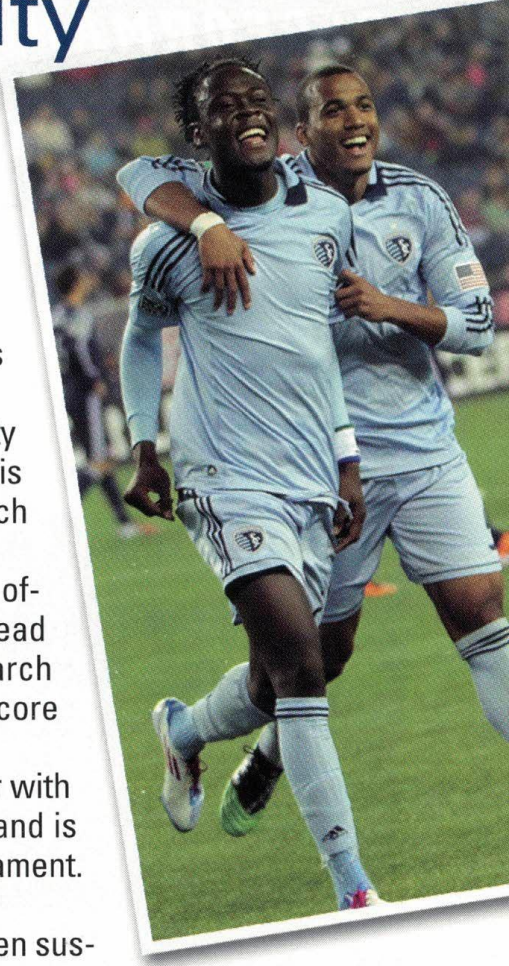

Nothing in this league is ever easy and Kansas City, with their trio of attackers, could give the Galaxy some fits. But if the Galaxy are able to play their game, and distribute the ball like it did against New York, LA could extend unbeaten streak at home to five.

Sporting Kansas City Expected Lineup (4-3-3):

Jimmy Nielsen; Michael Harrington, Aurelien Collin, Julio Cesar, Roger Espinoza; Stephane Auvray, Davy Arnaud ©, Graham Zusi; Omar Bravo, Teal Bunbury, Kei Kamara

Key Man: Kei Kamara

It's only appropriate that we shine the spotlight on Kei Kamara on Toro Night. A Cal State Dominguez Hills alum, Kamara comes into the game as Sporting Kansas City's leader in goals and assists with three and two, respectively. A dangerous striker, Kamara is one third of Peter Vermes' three man front line that includes Teal Bunbury and either Omar Bravo or rookie C.J. Sapong. He regularly lines up in the middle, where he will be marked by Omar Gonzalez, but likes to float out to the flanks as well. Tonight, Kamara will look to make the most of his homecoming on front of his fellow Toros, but not if the Galaxy backline has anything to say about it. •

One of the top young Heavyweight stars in boxing today, Chris “The Nightmare” Arreola had been recording knockout wins at a Tyson-like pace since debuting as a professional in September 2003, until his streak was interrupted in a World Championship Bout against WBC World Champion Vitali Klitschko in 2009.

At 6-foot-4, Arreola is one of the biggest Galaxy fans, literally. Last week, he was at The Home Depot Center to take part in the ceremonial coin toss prior to the start of the Nationally televised game between Galaxy and Red Bulls. Tonight, Arreola is back at the HDC to take on Nagy Aguilera in a 10-round bout taking place right next door at Tennis Stadium. The bout is part of the undercard to Showtime’s WBA Super Middleweight Championship fight between Andre Ward and Arthur Abraham.

In order to get to know him better, here are some interesting tidbits about Arreola:

GREATEST SPORTS MOMENT:

“When I won the National Golden Gloves in 2001. Also, when I was in Ramona High School and scored 31 points in a basketball game.”

PRE-FIGHT FEELING: “Anxious. Not so much nervous, but more anxious. Once I get in the ring and look at my daughter, it’s all over.”

HOBBIES/INTERESTS: “Besides drinking beer (laughing)? Video games. I love the PS3.”

FAVORITE MOVIE: “I love Scarface. Every guy loves Scarface.”

FAVORITE JUNK FOOD: “Oreos. I gotta get my Oreo fix once a week.”

FIRST JOB: “I worked for a restoration company as a carpenter. I restored houses.”

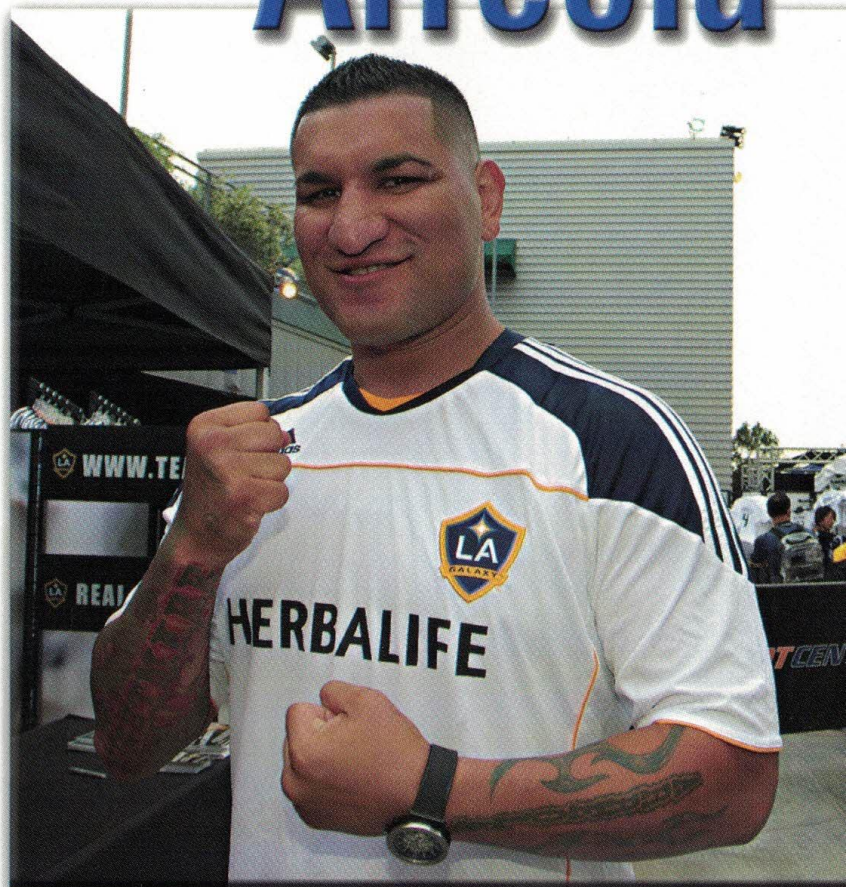

TOUGHEST OPPONENT: “Vitali Klitschko. He’s on the move more than Bekins, but still finds a way of throwing punches.”

FAVORITE FIGHT: “A few fights ago I fought Malcolm Tann. I showcased more of what I have to offer. I was throwing more combinations to the body and head and finally got him in the 8th round with a right hand and left hook and he was falling out of the ring.”

THINGS YOU WOULD LIKE GALAXY FANS TO KNOW ABOUT YOU: “I’m a cool, mellow guy. People think that I’m big and I look pretty intimidating, but I’m not. I’m a quiet guy.”

FINALLY... FAVORITE SOCCER TEAM: “Galaxy!” •

Get to Know Chris “The Nightmare” Arreola

Chad Barrett

On January 14, 2005, Chad Barrett was watching the MLS SuperDraft with a group of players from the U.S. Under-20 National Team, but he wasn't really paying much attention. Barrett knew where he was going, or so he thought.

With the first overall pick, Real Salt Lake select Nikolas Besagno, Generation adidas defender...

With the second overall pick, C.D. Chivas USA select Brad Guzan, University of South Carolina, goalkeeper...

Barrett, who decided to turn pro after a sensational sophomore season at UCLA, had been told by his agent he wasn't going to be selected with one of the top three picks. In fact, he wasn't likely to be selected by any team outside of the West Coast.

So, Barrett's mind started to wander. Hopes of staying in L.A. and playing for the Galaxy, who held the fifth pick, became more tangible after the first two picks came and went. No need to pay much attention to the first three picks of the draft, since he already knew his fate.

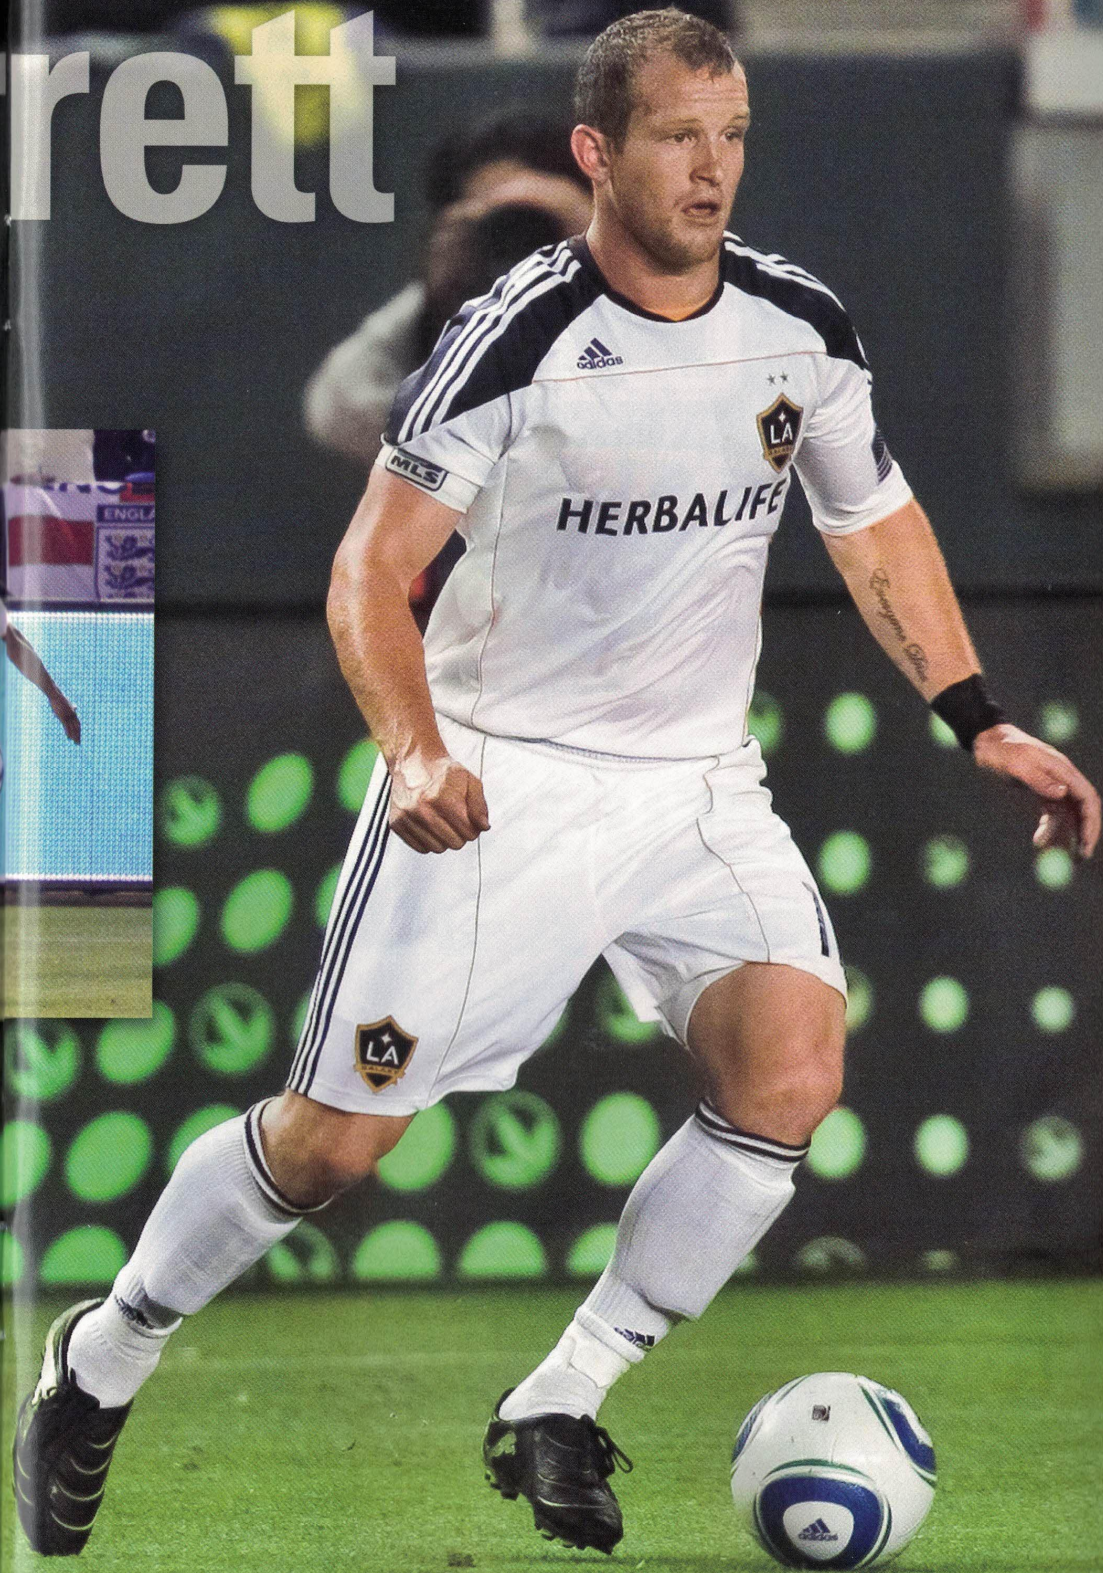

With the third overall pick, Chicago Fire select Chad Barrett, UCLA, forward...

"I was surprised," Barrett said. "I liked L.A. at the time, but I just had to switch my mindset and was more than happy to go anywhere and play professional soccer and live out my dream."

At first, Barrett thought the Fire had selected his college teammate, Mike Enfield, when he first heard the commissioner say UCLA. In a cruel twist of irony, the Galaxy got Enfield in the second round.

Barrett went on to have a fabulous run with the Fire. The 5-foot-11 striker would go on to score 18 regular goals in three and half seasons with Chicago. Despite his success, he was traded halfway through the 2008 season to Toronto FC in order to make room Brian McBride.

In Toronto, Barrett once again did well for himself, tallying 16 goals in two and half seasons. But the long winters were never his thing (famously telling LAGalaxy.com reporter Larry Morgan during preseason, "I'm not a snow bunny.").

"It was hard to adjust to the first two places, Chicago and Toronto, it was very hard on a personal level," Barrett said. "But it's easy coming back to L.A."

Barrett is now in L.A., he was acquired by the club as part of a draft day trade with Toronto FC. It took six years, but Barrett finally heard the Galaxy call his name at the draft.

"It was a great trade for me," he said. "I was coming to a place that had a great coach and great players. And once I found a place, it just all started coming together."

Barrett, who found a place close to the beach, has been rounding into form recently, scoring goals against his former team, the Fire, and the Portland Timbers. His work rate has been fantastic as well, always finding space and making smart runs toward the goal.

"I'm having a great time and it's still a process learning what my teammates like and don't like, but it's a fun process," he said.

One of the people who's seen the difference in Barrett's attitude, has been Galaxy Associate Head Coach Dave Sarachan, and not just recently but going back to his rookie year in 2005. Sarachan was Barrett's Head Coach with the Fire and they didn't always see eye to eye (Barrett said, "I felt like I deserved more than what I got.").

"I never knew if I'd ever play for Dave Sarachan again," Barrett said. "He (Sarachan) said since I got here he's seen a vast improvement, from the way I carry myself, take care of my body... and that's a pretty good compliment to tell me how much I've grown from when I was 19 to now. He's a coach I respect a lot."

There's no question Barrett is starting to get comfortable here in L.A. Not just on the field, but off the field as well.

It's almost as if he should have been here from the start. •

Miguel Lopez

This or That

We caught up with Argentina native Miguel Lopez for tonight's edition of This or That. The offseason acquisition has seamlessly acclimated himself to Los Angeles, with two assists in seven games played so far this season. But does LA compare to home? Do empanadas compare to tacos? We asked him this and many more questions in order to get to know the midfielder better.

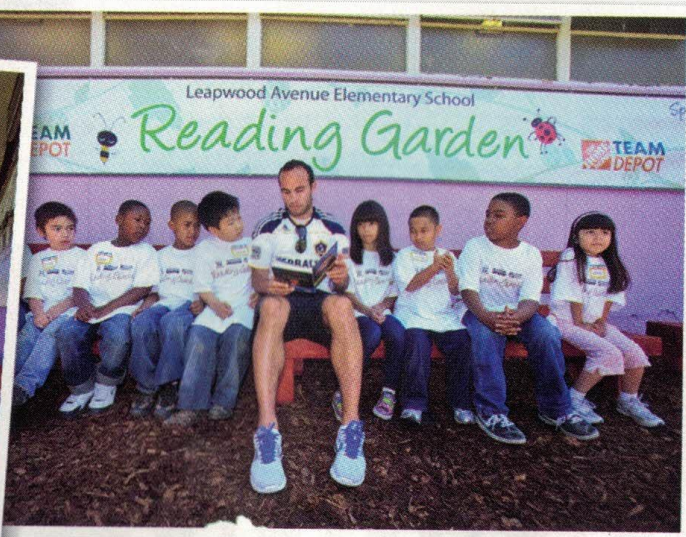

Boca Juniors	Club in Argentina	River Plate
Tacos	Bite	Empanadas
Chimichurri What's a chimichanga?	Chimi	Chimichanga
McDonald's	Hamburger	In-N-Out
Tango	Dance Style	Reggaeton Old people dance tango.
Laptop	Electronic Device	iPod
Beach	Pastime	Movies
Messi	#10	Maradona How can you ask me that? Maradona. Yes, Maradona.
Manu Ginobli (For the record: Miguel chose Manu first, but later changed his answer to Kobe.)	NBA Player	Kobe Bryant
Larissa	Riquelme	Juan Roman I vote for the soccer player.
Barcelona	Who will win?	Manchester United

Reading Garden

On April 28, the Los Angeles Galaxy Foundation, The Home Depot Center Charitable Foundation and The Home Depot built their 2011 Reading Garden at Leapwood Avenue Elementary School located in Carson. With volunteers from the LA Galaxy, The Home Depot Center, Watson Land Company, Levy Restaurants and The Home Depot stores in Carson and Lakewood, who painted, installed planters, stained benches and planted flowers, a simple grass area was transformed into a garden that fosters the love of reading and promotes literacy.

Galaxy players Landon Donovan, Todd Dunivant and Mike Magee visited the Reading Garden site to complete the finishing touches, read to the students and take part in the official board cutting ceremony. Additionally, Lakeshore Learning Materials donated seat cushions for the students to enjoy sitting in their new garden.

The Reading Garden is funded with proceeds from the August 2010 How Suite It Is! fundraiser, and contributions from the Los Angeles Galaxy Foundation, The Home Depot Center Charitable Foundation and The Home Depot. •

First XI

Chris Birchall

Known for cracking jokes, 'burying' Landon Donovan in sand and saying, 'space is high, mate,' Chris Birchall is always good for a chat. Now in his third year season with the Galaxy, the Port Vale product and Trinidad and Tobago international sat down with us for tonight's edition of First XI, eleven questions that will help you get to know the real Chris Birchall.

Best goal: Puntarenas (Preseason friendly in 2010)

Funniest teammate: Josh Saunders, we're neighbors as well as teammates so we have some funny moments.

Loudest teammate: I'd go with Frankie Hejduk. Since he came at the beginning of the season he's been so loud, but great when you come in every morning.

Welcome to MLS moment: When I first came, I think it was my first game, when I came on as a sub for one of my heroes, David Beckham. We won the game 3-1 and that's the moment I realized I was playing for the LA Galaxy.

Favorite Galaxy player of the past: Dema Kovalenko.

Favorite visiting city to play in: Toronto, I think it's a great retro city.

Biggest difference between MLS and the Championship: That's a tough one, the comparisons are getting a lot closer the more years go past in the MLS. I think, the biggest difference would be you do get a little more time on the ball here. Other than that, I can't think of anything. The facilities are great, the fans are great and the attendance is great. They are quite similar.

Best song to listen to pregame: We don't get much, we just get Becks putting his iPod on the speaker every chance he gets. He likes his hip-hop, his Jay-Z, his Kanye West. So, we start with that.

Do you have any superstitions: Not really. I used to have a stupid one. This is while I was in England, I could only use the same color underwrap, if I had a good game I'd have to use the same color (the next game).

Favorite memory from your time with the Galaxy: Every time we win. It's just a great feeling to know that you can relax for the weekend, you can be happy you've done a good job."

Best thing about playing in L.A.: Everything. You come to training everyday and like 300 days of the year it's sunny. It's a nice chilled out place, but we take it seriously on the pitch. •

LA GALAXY vs. CHIVAS USA

Saturday, May 21
7 p.m. – The Home Depot Center

The first leg of the 2011 SuperClasico between Chivas USA and the two-time MLS Cup champion LA Galaxy next week will mark the 21st edition of the rivalry in the regular season. Since Chivas USA entered the league in 2005, the Galaxy have been the superior club in this rivalry, winning 12 games, getting five draws and only losing on three occasions.

The Galaxy also won the only time the two clubs have met in the playoffs, the Western Conference Semifinals Series in 2009. Last year, the club won 2-0 as the home team and 2-1 as the visitors.

The Galaxy will be the visiting team for this game. If you are interested in sitting with Galaxy supporters, tickets are on sale now on lagalaxy.com/tickets.

Justin Dhillon is only 15, but he is already playing with the big boys. Literally.

Dhillon, a forward on the LA Galaxy Academy Team, trained this week with members from the First Team that didn't travel to Philadelphia. As surprising as that is, it's not the first time he's done it. He's even played with them as well— taking part in both of the Galaxy's Reserve League matches so far this season.

When he is not training or playing in Reserve League games with the first team, he is playing with the LA Galaxy Under-18 Academy Team.

We caught up with Dhillon, an Orange County resident, to discuss his experience with the Academy and First Team.

What was it like to train with the first team?

"I thought it was really cool, really good professional environment. It was a good learning experience. It kind of showed me where I am and where I need to be. The first time, it was shocking when I went into the locker room and saw all the pros, Donovan, Beckham, all of them. I was like, is this really happening?"

Is there a certain player on the first team who has been especially helpful?

"All the players, but Jovan Kirovski is like a leader and has been telling what I need to do to get better. So has Gregg Berhalter. Even though he's not on the first team, my brother, Sean, he's 17. Every time I come out he's always pushing me to do better as well."

How have you improved by training with the Galaxy?

"It's very intense out there and it's about always pushing myself to get better. I've learned to play quicker and to always work your hardest every single moment you can."

What's it been like to be moved up the ranks so fast?

"It's working well. Chris (Klein) told me I was performing well with the 16's so he moved me up to the 18's."

Has it been difficult to manage your time?

"It's difficult because I also live like an hour away from practice. But it helps me push myself more at school, make sure I get everything done in order to continue doing what I'm doing."

Best moment with Galaxy so far?

"I would say having the opportunity to play with the Reserves. It was really cool and exciting. Watching all the pros doing what they were was really exciting. It showed me it was a much faster pace than at the academy. I see their touch, compare it to my and I say to myself, I need to be better. I need to be a step faster. I need to work on it and get to where they are."

Has training with the Galaxy made the dream more real?

"It feels like it. It feels like I really have a shot at it. So yes, you can say that." •

5 - Most DPs in an MLS game

Last Saturday's game against the New York Red Bulls saw five Designated Players on the field at the same time at the start of the game – Juan Pablo Angel, David Beckham, Landon Donovan, Thierry Henry and Rafa Marquez – first time in Major League Soccer history five DPs have been on the field for kickoff.

11 – Club games between David Beckham and Thierry Henry

Last Saturday was the eleventh time David Beckham and Thierry Henry faced off at the club level, the first time, however, in MLS.

Beckham first faced Henry when he was with Manchester United and the Frenchman was with AS Monaco, playing against each other twice, and then again six times in the EPL when Henry moved to Arsenal and two more times in the UEFA Champions League when Beckham was with Real Madrid and Henry with Arsenal. Henry holds the lead in those games having won four, drawn five and lost two.

BEHIND the NUMBERS

Presented by  HERBALIFE

42% – Highest percentage of headed goals

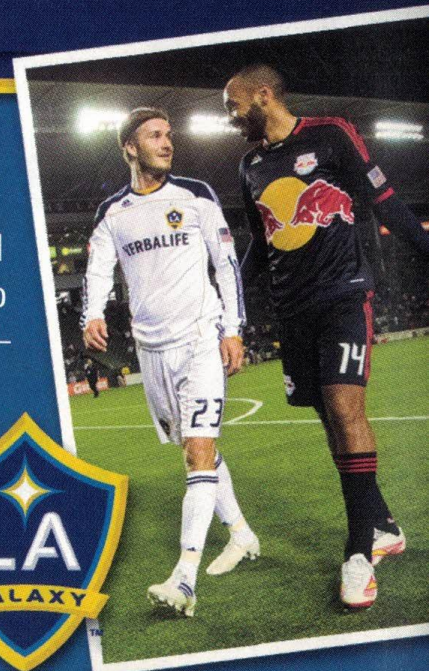

Of the Galaxy's 12 goals scored this season, five have been headers. The percentage of Galaxy goals scored on headers, 42 percent, is the highest in Major League Soccer this season. Now, that's using your head.

4 – Number of MLS Cups played at The Home Depot Center

On Tuesday, Major League Soccer awarded MLS Cup 2011 to the LA Galaxy and The Home Depot Center. The game, scheduled to be played November 20, will be the fourth time the championship match has been held at the stadium. The three previous MLS Cup matches held at the HDC were resounding successes with an average of five goals scored per game. In 2008, a sold out crowd of 27,000 – including vibrant supporters' sections for both clubs – witnessed a virtuoso performance by the Columbus Crew's Guillermo Barros Schelotto. The playmaker set up all of his team's goals in a 3-1 victory over the New York Red Bulls, and former Crew Captain and current Galaxy defender Frankie Hejduk nodded home the clincher. In 2004, D.C. United lifted the MLS Cup trophy after 3-2 win over the Kansas City Wizards. In 2003, another sold out crowd saw the San Jose Earthquakes defeat the Chicago Fire, 4-2, in a wide-open contest.

48,717 – Number of "Free Chicken" Pollo Campero coupons given out in April

In the month of April, 48,717 soccer fans visited The Cathedral of Soccer known as The Home Depot Center and walked away with a lot more than just memories. As is now tradition with the club following shutouts, fans that were in attendance for the Galaxy's 1-0 win over the Philadelphia Union on April 2 and 3-0 win against the Portland Timbers on April 23, were given a coupon for free chicken courtesy of Pollo Campero, which is valid at any participating Pollo Campero. •
