LA Galaxy launch new mobile app to enhance fan experience in collaboration with GlobalLogic

The LA Galaxy, in conjunction with official digital technology partner GlobalLogic, has announced the launch of the LA Galaxy App, a mobile platform that will offer fans access to the latest team news, stats and highlights in addition to several easy and accessible features to improve fan experiences – ticketing, concessions and merchandise – for fans at StubHub Center and abroad. The app, free of charge, is available to download now on mobile devices at the iOS store and for Android users.

“We are thrilled to launch the LA Galaxy App with GlobalLogic,” said LA Galaxy President Chris Klein. “Fan experience continues to be one of our primary objectives and we are excited to launch a comprehensive platform to offer our fans easier access, information and experiences at our stadium and abroad.

We are proud to have worked alongside GlobalLogic to create this innovative digital app for our fans.”

As part of the club’s investment in the digital experience, the LA Galaxy have also partnered with Flash Seats® to improve fans’ access to tickets through the new app, which is now also integrated and enabled with the team’s and venue’s official ticket resale partner, StubHub.

With the LA Galaxy App, Flash Seats® will be fully accessible as a method of ticket delivery. Fans can conveniently scan in with a mobile device upon entry to the stadium without paper tickets, ensuring that tickets cannot be lost or stolen. Also within the app, fans will be able to manage their LA Galaxy Season Ticket Membership inventory, post tickets directly to the team’s official resale marketplace, StubHub, and easily transfer tickets to others until the start time of each event.

Additionally, concessions access at StubHub Center will be improved through the LA Galaxy App through a new partnership with Tapin2, which offers fans a new and convenient way to order with a push of a button. Fans utilizing the LA Galaxy App can order food and beverages for delivery directly to their seats in certain sections of the stadium. Additionally, fans are now able to pre-order food and beverages for express pick-up at the Rock &

Brews stand on the Southeast corner of the concourse.

The LA Galaxy App will also offer fans new ways to receive merchandise from the LA Galaxy Team Store or to bid on exclusive memorabilia. Through the app, fans can order merchandise for delivery directly to their seats at StubHub Center. LA Galaxy Foundation auctions will also be available, giving fans the chance to win once-in-a-lifetime experiences or exclusive autographed memorabilia and prizes, with proceeds benefiting the LA Galaxy Foundation.

For each LA Galaxy match, fans can also be a part of selecting the LA Galaxy Man of the Match, sponsored by Allstate, by voting exclusively through the app. The LA Galaxy app will incorporate additional features in the coming months.

Last year, GlobalLogic and the LA Galaxy announced that the club selected GlobalLogic, a leader in digital product development services, as the official digital technology partner of the LA Galaxy. As part of this partnership, GlobalLogic and the LA Galaxy have worked together to design and build a next-generation digital platform and mobile application for enhanced fan engagement.

LA Galaxy II sign current and former LA Galaxy Academy talents

LA Galaxy II made two big moves last week. The first, signing 15-year-old Galaxy Academy starlet Efrain Alvarez, making him the youngest ever player to sign a USL contract. A day later, they signed formerly loaned defender and Galaxy Academy alum Jeffrey Payeras.

Alvarez, a native of Los Angeles, became the youngest signing in USL history at 15 years, one month and 14 days, topping the USL's previous record of 15 years, three months and three days when Vancouver Whitecaps FC 2 signed Alphonso Davies in February 2016. In November 2014, LA Galaxy II goalkeeper Eric Lopez became the youngest player to sign a USL contract at the age of 15 years and eight months.

LA Galaxy II sign Alvarez after he helped lead the LA Galaxy Academy U-17/18s to the USSDA Championships at StubHub Center in July, scoring in the team's quarterfinal, semifinal and championship matches.

Payeras, 23, returns to the organization after four seasons under contract with C.S.D. Municipal (Guatemala). He spent the 2016 season on loan with LA Galaxy II, where he impressed in 26 appearances for the USL side.

Payeras, born in Hawthorne, Calif., is the son of Guatemalan parents and has appeared in two World Cup Qualifiers for the Guatemalan National Team since earning his national team debut in a friendly against Panama last August.

Alvarez, Payeras and LA Galaxy II return to StubHub Center Track & Field Stadium on Sunday, Sept. 3. Get your tickets online at LAGalaxy.com/2.

LA Galaxy Foundation and Herbalife Nutrition donate $25,000 to A Place Called Home and surprise college-bound students with laptops

The LA Galaxy Foundation has partnered with Herbalife Nutrition to make a $25,000 donation to purchase laptops in support of A Place Called Home's (APCH) Shaheen Scholarship Program, which provides free laptops and awards over $300,000 annually in scholarships and other support to up to 30 freshmen college students from South Central Los Angeles. LA Galaxy forward, Gyasi Zardes and Herbalife Nutrition CEO, Rich Goudis, presented the check on Wednesday, Aug. 9 to APCH at their facility located at 2901 South Central Ave., in South Los Angeles.

At the event Gyasi Zardes shared his story with the college-bound students about the importance of education and the role it has played in his life. Zardes, 25, recently earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice from California State University, Dominguez Hills (CSUDH). Zardes joined the Galaxy and ultimately returned to school while playing professionally in order to receive a degree.

"Through our long-standing support of A Place Called Home and partnership with the LA Galaxy, we are honored to provide these motivated, college-bound students with a laptop to help them on their educational journey," said Rich Goudis, CEO of Herbalife Nutrition. "We wish them all the best as they enter this exciting new chapter in their life."

The donation is in conjunction with the Joint Community Program partnership between the LA Galaxy Foundation and Herbalife Nutrition that aims to improve the lives of children living in the underserved communities of Los Angeles.

"When we send a young person to college to create a new legacy for his or her family and go on to change the world, we prepare them to do the necessary work to graduate and succeed," said A Place Called Home Executive Director Jonathan Zeichner. "We are grateful that, with the partnership of Herbalife Nutrition and the LA Galaxy Foundation, each young scholar from APCH will be equipped to excel."

For more than four years, the LA Galaxy Foundation has partnered with APCH and supported a number of different events and causes, including the organization's annual Community Thanksgiving Dinner, A Place Called Home for the Holidays toy distribution, and installation of a new multipurpose sports field.

Herbalife Nutrition employees have been proud supporters of APCH through the Herbalife Family Foundation for more than 12 years, through volunteerism and monetary donations.
