LA GALAXY MEME OF THE MATCH

Welcome to #GalaxyMemes, a brand new addition to the LA Galaxy Gameday Program in 2018. Here at LA Galaxy, we love #memes and we know our fans do too. That's why we've started #GalaxyMemes, a forum for fans to express their creativity while spreading lols throughout the Galaxy fanbase. Much like a caption contest, #GalaxyMemes will name one winning meme each home game, with that meme being featured as the LA Galaxy Meme of the Match in the next home game's Gameday Program.

Additionally, the winner of #GalaxyMemes will receive two (2) tickets to the next LA Galaxy home game.

To submit a meme to #GalaxyMemes, here's what you need to do:

1. Take a picture of this week's meme.
2. Tweet the picture with your meme caption and the hashtag #GalaxyMemes.

A special Fourth of July surprise for a local military family

During the Galaxy's July 4 match vs. D.C. United at StubHub Center, the LA Galaxy and LA Galaxy Foundation partnered with Alaska Airlines to reunite a military family. Builder Constructionman Aaron Ballew, who is currently serving with the United States Navy in Okinawa, Japan, was secretly flown to Los Angeles by Alaska Airlines. During halftime, he surprised his sister, Kathleen, his wife, Jayde, and their 4-month-old daughter, Addison, on the field in front of a sold-out crowd at StubHub Center.

Builder Constructionman Ballew has been serving our country for over three years and has been on two deployments with the Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Five. Throughout his deployments, he has been working on various projects out of Camp Shields in Japan. He was able to spend only a very brief amount of time with his daughter, Addison, before being deployed again less than two weeks after her birth.

Chris Pontius finding his best form for the LA Galaxy with yet another goal in D.C. United draw

by Adam Serrano

Chris Pontius is rounding into form for the LA Galaxy. Pontius scored the second goal in the team's 2-2 draw with D.C. United on Wednesday, bringing his streak to five consecutive matches with at least a goal or an assist. For an offense that has been dependent on the scoring touch of Zlatan Ibrahimović and Ola Kamara, Pontius' flourish is a boost for Los Angeles.

"[Chris] Pontius has been good," head coach Sigi Schmid said. "We've asked him to play wide right in sort of a cockeyed 3-5-2. So, he's had to run the line, do a lot of running. He's been good for us; he's combined well with [Zlatan] Ibrahimović, He's connected a few goals with him as well, so I've been happy with him."

Pontius' tally against his former club was a thing of beauty as he expertly placed a right-footed blast into the far corner after a lovely bit of distribution by Jorgen Skjelvik. Despite the goal, however, the Galaxy conceded twice in the second half to see three points turn into just one for a second straight match.

"In the first half I thought I did pretty well and, on my goal, Jorgen [Skjelvik] plays me a good ball and I just caught it on the sweet spot," he said of his goals. "I wish we could continue carrying that first half on to the second half, just because I thought magic came pretty well in the first half minus a few things, obviously their goal."

Although the veteran striker is finding his form, he admits that he'd rather be winning.

"Both the last [two] games feel like losses. Especially this one at home. It's frustrating, it's not something we can let hang over because we have a game on Saturday. We have to have that short-term memory with this one."

Defensive issues plague the Galaxy again as another lead slips away

by Jorge Ramos

It was déjà vu all over again for the LA Galaxy as they surrendered another late goal to D.C. United in a 2-2 draw at Stub Hub Center Wednesday night on the Fourth of July.

The ending seemed all too familiar for Los Angeles as they gave up a similar late equalizing goal just four days ago up in San Jose.

In the California Clásico, the Galaxy had a 3-1 lead early in the first half and ended with a 3-3 draw. On Independence Day, Los Angeles had an early 2-0 lead and conceded an 85th-minute goal to D.C. United striker Darren Mattocks.

"We had a two-to-nothing lead and we give a goal to the opponent that allows them to resuscitate themselves and breathe life into their game, and that's something that we can't do," Galaxy coach Sigi Schmid said. "We need to be better. We as a coaching staff need to work harder, because obviously what we're doing hasn't been enough at this stage."

While the Galaxy did have a decent defensive showing, the one constant headache for the back four late in the match was D.C. United central midfielder Yamil Asad.

Asad finished the game with three created chances and 91% passing accuracy, completing a total of 78 passes. In addition, the D.C. United playmaker also won five fouls and had a game-high 102 touches, 19 more than any other player.

"I mean, just getting enough guys around him (Asad). Us as a backline communicating to the guys in front of us to put pressure on guys playing balls into him," Galaxy outside back Dave Romney said. "Us being tight on him, but with fatigued legs, it's tough."

Los Angeles is level with the Houston Dynamo, tied for seventh place with 22 points, and is below the playoff line after dropping points in two consecutive matches. However, if there is a silver lining for the home side, it's that Giovanni and Jonathan dos Santos will be joining the team sooner rather than later after their World Cup duty with Mexico.

"We got some guys back now, getting guys healthy, so the options are going to be there for us again. It's just a matter of us going out and executing," Galaxy forward Chris Pontius said. "It didn't matter who we had on the field tonight, we should have gone and killed that game off."
