CALVIN W. KUNZ, JR.

President

The Denver Broncos

The transition of the Denver Broncos from the ragtail collection which performed in the American Football League in 1960-61 to the present colorful, exciting aggregation which has captured the imagination of the entire Rocky Mountain area must be credited, almost wholly, to Calvin W. Kunz, Jr.

The 44-year-old former Marine colonel, headed a group of prominent Denver businessmen who purchased Rocky Mountain Empire Sports in the spring, 1961. He weathered that first season with amazing tranquility, but the final gun had hardly sounded that season before he began to turn the wheels.

His utter sincerity, his dynamic personality, his personal integrity combined to bring the Broncos to the heights they presently ride. A man who has his own business, Cal has devoted virtually all of his time to the Broncos and the Denver Bears of the Pacific Coast League during the past 2½ years and has resulted in the emergence of Cal as one of the most forceful sports personalities in America today.

Cal's personal background discloses that he attended the University of Denver and Harvard Business School. He served 39 months in the South Pacific during World War II where he was violently involved in the historic and bloody battles at Guadalcanal, Bougainville, Guam and Iwo Jima.

After the war Cal assumed the presidency of a farming business which involves corporate farming in Arizona and marketing in the eastern United States.

An ardent disciple of all sports, both as a spectator and a participant, Kunz' emergence as the Number One man in the Denver Broncos is a natural follow-up to a lifetime of outdoor living and a zest for improving his native community, Denver.

Cal and his wife, Missy, have three daughters and reside in Denver.

JACK FAULKNER

General Manager - Head Coach

The prime reason behind the revitalized Denver Broncos has to be the youthful-appearing, but experienced-packed fellow who handles the dual posts of General Manager and Head Coach. Starting his second year in this job Jack faces 1963 with the bubbling confidence which startled the football world as he brought the Broncos into contention as a power in the sturdy American Football League.

His rebuilding of the Broncos into a contender for the AFL title brought him many honors in 1962. He was named AFL coach of the Year by both the Associated Press and United Press International and his own state, Colorado, paid tribute to him for the "Sports Achievement of the Year".

Jack wasn't satisfied with 1962 even though it saw the Broncos play to a 7-7 record and draw 175,413 in seven home games. This was a 125% increase over the 1961 attendance and more than watched the Broncos play in Denver in the first two years combined. This was due, of course, to the accelerated calibre of play by the club, but a large measure must be credited to the indefatigable Faulkner who spent almost every moment away from his desk in public appearances.

Jack was born April 4, 1926, at Youngstown, Ohio, where he attended public school. He interrupted his education to enlist in the U. S. Marines during World War II where he saw action in the South Pacific as a private first class with the Second Division at Saipan and Okinawa. After the war he continued his high school education, matriculating at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. There he first came in contact with Sid Gillman who was his football coach. Jack also found time at Miami to letter in baseball and track.

A dedicated football man Jack joined Gillman as an assistant coach at the University of Cincinnati, moving with him in 1955 to the Los Angeles Rams and from there to the Los Angeles and then San Diego Chargers of the AFL.

It was at the latter city that Jack developed the fabulous "Seven Pirates", a larcenous crew of pass interceptors, with 49 interceptions in 1961, an all-time professional record.

Jack came to Denver in January, 1962, and the Broncos' biography of him last year said "Jack is gregarious by nature with an infectious laugh and a ready wit. He is a one-man public relations department. These qualities insure that Jack Faulkner will soon be a name to be reckoned with among football fans of the nation."

Jack and his wife, Betty, have two children, Cathy, 11, and Jon, who was born in July, 1962.

Robert N.
(Red) Miller

Offensive
End Coach

The personable redhead from Macomb, Ill., comes to Denver with eminent qualifications. It was Red Miller who fashioned the formidable lines of the Boston Patriots, and the Buffalo Bills.

Bob was born Oct 31, 1927, and after high school graduation he attended Western Illinois University where he earned a B.S. in Education. He was a four-year letterman at defensive guard and linebacker and was voted Western's Most Valuable Player over 3 consecutive seasons.

Immediately after graduation the 6-0, 215 pound Miller became head football coach at Astoria, Ill., High School. He stayed 2 years, then moved to Canton High as line coach and thence to Carthage High School.

Returning to Western in 1957 to study toward a Masters Degree he became line coach under Lou Saban, winning 21 of 26 games including a 16-game winning streak.

Red and his wife, Nancy Sue, have been married 11 years. They have 2 children, Stephen Michael, 8, and Lana Sue, 6.

Mac Speedie

Line Coach

The addition of Speedie was a vital move by Jack Faulkner because it was Mac who developed the fine receivers of the Houston Oilers to capture the American Football League titles the first two years. Speedie, 43, was born in Odell, Ill., but was raised in Salt Lake City and starred at the University of Utah where he was an All-Conference end for three seasons. After serving in the army he joined the Cleveland Browns where he played from 1946-53, leading the old All-American Conference in receptions from 1946-1949 and the NFL in 1952. He went to Canada and was with Regina in 1954-55 and Vancouver in 1956. Mac and his wife live in Broomfield, Colo., and have two children.

Dale Dodrill
Defensive
Line Coach

A former Colorado State University and Pittsburgh Steeler great, Dodrill, 36, is serving his fourth year as Defensive Line Coach. Dodrill was one of the top middle guards and linebackers in the National Football League for nine years. An All-Pro defensive choice from 1954-55, he spent his entire playing career with the Steelers and holds the Pittsburgh record for the longest blocked kick return . . . an 83 yard run against the Los Angeles Rams in 1952. Dodrill makes his home in the Lakewood section of Denver where he is an insurance salesman in the off-season.

Ed Hughes

Defensive Backfield Coach

Ed Hughes holds the unique distinction of being the only person in the history of professional football to be either a coach or a player in every overtime game played. His first experience came when he was a defensive back for the L. A. Rams. His next when with the New York Giants in the NFL championship game against the Baltimore Colts in 1958.

Another opportunity to win in extra period came last August in Fort Worth when he was coaching the Dallas Texans. Next was the big one in the fantastic "6-quarter" championship game between the Texans and the Oilers Dec. 23, 1962.

A native of Buffalo, N. Y., Hughes attended North Carolina State and earned his degree from the University of Tulsa. He was the Rams' 10th draft choice and played with them in 1954-55, joining the Giants after a trade and remaining through 1958. He then returned to Tulsa as an assistant coach in 1959. He was one of Hank Stram's original coaching staff.

Ray Malavasi
Chief Talent Scout

Ray was born Nov. 8, 1930 at Clifton, N. J. He earned many All-State honors while playing high school ball and then entered the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1949. A dogged and determined lineman he won honorable mention on several All-Americans in 1950.

In 1951 he switched to Mississippi State and received his degree in civil engineering in 1952. After one season with the Philadelphia Eagles Malavasi entered the Army and coached and played football at Fort Belvoir, Va. He holds the reserve rank of captain.

After service he became an assistant coach at Mississippi State and went to Minnesota in a similar capacity for two years. From there he went to Memphis State for three seasons and served as defensive line coach.

He was named chief assistant to coach Billy Hildebrand at Wake Forest two years ago, resigning that post to join the Broncos.

Ray is married to the former Mary Fleming and they have four children.

BRIEF BRONCO HISTORY

Denver was a charter member of the American Football League, one of the five original cities. The present owners, a group of prominent Denver business men and civic leaders headed by Calvin W. Kunz, Jr., took over the operation of the club on June 1, 1961, and hired the present General Manager and Head Coach Jack Faulkner in early 1962. Faulkner led the Broncos to the runner-up post in the Western Division in 1962 and earned for himself the title of Coach of the Year by both AP and UPI.

Rocky Mountain Empire Sports, Inc., operating company, is unique in that it operates the Denver Bears baseball team of the Pacific Coast League and owns Bears Stadium. Thus, the Broncos are the only pro football team which owns its own stadium. Bears Stadium seats 34,264 for football and 25,000 for baseball.

Other owners include Gerald H. Phipps, contractor; chairman of the board; Ed Hirschfeld, printing company executive; James E. Stokes, Real Estate; Walter Emery, Bank President; Charles W. Schoelzel, Vice-president brokerage house; Ben F. Stapleton, Jr., attorney; Robert Person, president, utility company.

NOTES ON BRONCOS

Denver's rookies met the Houston Oiler rookies in a first-time-ever game at Colorado College on July 18, 1963. Over 6,000 fans were in attendance as the Broncos' first year men won 17-14.

The 1963 season will find Denver's weekly television highlights show being produced and televised in color. All games, including 5 pre-season and 14 championship games, will be in color on KOA-TV, Denver, and KOAA-TV, Pueblo, Colo., at 3:30 p.m. (MST) Saturdays. They will be repeated during Jan-March, 1964 on the same two stations.

Halfbacks Charlie Mitchell of Washington and Tommy Janik of Texas A & I, and tackle Tom Nomina of Miami (Ohio) represented Denver in the All-Star game in Chicago in August. It was the first time Denver had players in this late summer classic.

The Broncos, traveling entirely by chartered planes from Continental and United Airlines, will log the equivalent of 41½ times around the earth in passenger miles.

Denver is the only professional football club in either league to own its own stadium, Bears Stadium.
