In 2003, the Patriots launched a media-only Web site to further assist local and national media in covering the team. The site is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week and will serve as the team's primary media credentialing system in 2004. In addition, the site contains all of the Patriots' up-to-date press releases, statistics, transcripts and other reference material. All of the Patriots' media materials from the past two seasons are available in the site's archives. Visit http://media.patriots.com to register for access.

CHAIRMAN AND OWNER

SUPER BOWLS: 01 03

CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIPS: 96 01 03

DIVISION CHAMPIONSHIPS: 96 97 01 03

"My objective in buying the Patriots is to help bring a championship to New England."

— Robert Kraft, Jan. 21, 1994

Robert Kraft announced his intentions to bring New England a championship the day he bought the New England Patriots in 1994. It didn't take long for him to deliver. Since taking ownership just a decade ago, no NFL team has won as many conference championships or more Super Bowl championships than the Patriots. Kraft has presided over a remarkable transformation for the once fatalistic franchise that was known more for its folly than its football. After winning two of the last three Super Bowls, the New England Patriots are now viewed as a model NFL franchise.

Since 1994, the Patriots have enjoyed the most prosperous period in franchise history, eclipsing in just a decade the accomplishments of the team's previous 34 seasons. Over the last 10 seasons, the Patriots have appeared in 13 playoff games with six different teams that produced four division championships, three conference championships and two Super Bowl championships. It is a stark contrast from the 10 playoff games by six different teams in the franchise's first 34 years of operation. Those teams produced just three division titles and one conference title.

When Kraft purchased the team, the Patriots were last in the NFL in both revenue and attendance and were a distant fourth among the Boston area's professional sports teams, both in terms of local interest and overall success of the franchises. Since then, the Patriots are the only New England franchise to have won multiple conference and league titles and they own the highest winning percentage of the region's four professional teams over the past decade. The Patriots are also among the NFL's elite in revenue and enter the 2004 season with a 10-year consecutive sellout streak that will extend to 114 games by season's end.

Kraft has also become one of the NFL's most influential and respected owners in a short period of time. It took just four seasons before he was appointed the chairman of the league's finance committee in 1998. He also played a leading role as a member of the television and broadcast committee that negotiated the most lucrative broadcast contract in the history of sports. He was instrumental in putting together a deal that made New England-headquartered Reebok International, Ltd. the official and exclusive apparel manufacturer for the NFL, helping to create a new model for the sports license apparel industry. In 2002, he was recognized as the Sports Executive of the Year and Sports Industrialist of the Year by two national publications. He currently serves on the league's most prominent committees, including the broadcast, finance, audit, investment, Los Angeles working group, business operations and NFL business ventures committees.

Last year, the Kraft family enjoyed a historic 10th anniversary season that culminated with another championship celebration just two seasons after winning the first title in team history. After suffering a season-opening loss, the Patriots rebounded to win 17 of their next 18 games, including a season-ending 15-game win streak, the longest in franchise history and the sixth longest in NFL history. For the first time, the Patriots were undefeated at home, including preseason, regular season and postseason games (12-0). The team hosted their second AFC Championship Game in franchise history and defeated the Indianapolis Colts, 24-14, to claim their third conference title in eight years. The final coronation of the anniversary season came just two weeks later, when the Patriots scored another dramatic, last-second victory in a 32-29 triumph over the Carolina Panthers in Super Bowl XXXVIII. The game was the most-watched television broadcast in history, drawing an astronomical audience of 144.4 million Americans. Two days later, the Patriots were welcomed home by 1.5 million fans who lined the streets of Boston to celebrate the team's second Super Bowl championship in three seasons and to recognize the accomplishment of the team's 17-2 overall record, the third-best record in NFL history.

In 2002, the Kraft family enjoyed the most memorable season-opener in franchise history when they celebrated the grand opening of Gillette Stadium with the unveiling of New England's first Super Bowl championship banner on the Monday Night Football season premiere. The Patriots defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers, 30-14, that night before the largest home crowd in franchise history. Since its opening, the Patriots are 15-3 at Gillette Stadium and have already recorded some of the most dramatic and memorable games in the team's history.

As a 31-year season ticket holder and a 14-year stadium operator, Kraft was uniquely qualified to make Gillette Stadium the most fan-friendly, state-of-the-art football facility of its kind. His $325 million private investment remains the highest-priced, privately-financed sports venue of its kind. The commitment from Kraft has given the franchise a solid foundation on which to build for the first time in its nomadic history. Finally, fans have a venue that they are proud to call home.

In 2001, the Patriots made their final season in Foxboro Stadium a memorable one. After a 1-3 start, the Patriots won 10 of their last 11 regular season games to claim their first division title in four years. In the final game at the 31-year-old stadium, the Patriots hosted the Oakland Raiders in a divisional playoff matchup. A heavy snowfall throughout the game created a heavenly ambience, as Adam Vinatieri was credited with game-tying and game-winning field goals in a 16-13 overtime victory over the Raiders. It was described by many as one of the greatest, most memorable games in NFL history. The victory propelled the Patriots through one of the greatest playoff runs in NFL history, as they advanced to score dramatic victories over two heavily favored opponents in championship games, including a 24-17 victory over the Steelers in the AFC Championship Game in Pittsburgh and a 20-17 victory over the St. Louis Rams on the final play in Super Bowl XXXVI.

Throughout Kraft's professional career, many of his biggest risks have returned his greatest rewards. In 1988, he took a tremendous risk when he out-bid his competition to purchase the stadium in which the Patriots played. It was a calculated first step in his pursuit to acquire the team. When that opportunity came in 1994, he paid the highest price for a sports franchise in history for one of the lowest-valued franchises in the league. In 2000, his controversial decision to surrender a first-round draft choice to acquire the services of Head Coach Bill Belichick was heavily criticized at the time and thought to be too high a price. Just four years later, Belichick is the reigning NFL Coach of the Year and has led the Patriots to two Super Bowl championships in the past three seasons.

In January of 1994, Kraft faced a difficult business decision. He could commit nearly $200 million of family resources to purchase the Patriots or accept a $75 million buyout offer to void the final years of the team's stadium lease, which would enable the team to move out of New England.

On Jan. 21, 1994, Kraft passed on the buyout offer, choosing instead to make an 11th-hour bid to buy the team. The sale met league approval on Feb. 25, 1994. The following day, season tickets for the 1994 season went on sale and Patriots fans showed their support of Kraft's decision in record numbers. By the end of that first business day, amidst a winter nor'easter, 5,958 season ticket orders had been made, shattering the previous single-day sales record of 979. That show of support validated Kraft's decision to buy the team and gave him the confidence to focus on another long-term project: the construction of a state-of-the-art football facility.

Kraft first became a fan of the Boston Patriots in their AFL days during the early 1960s. He attended games at each of the team's Boston venues, which included Boston University Field, Fenway Park, Boston College Alumni Stadium and Harvard Stadium. When the team moved to Foxborough, he invested in season tickets for his family in 1971. It is the memories and experiences shared with other Patriots fans over those first 42 years that gives Kraft such satisfaction in building a new stadium that the players and fans can be proud to call home.

A New Era

Prior to 1994, the Patriots qualified for the playoffs just six times during their first 34 years seasons (1960-93). In the 10 seasons since Robert Kraft has taken ownership, the Patriots have qualified for the playoffs six times, four times as division champions, and have won three conference titles and two Super Bowl Championships. Their three conference titles are more than any other team over the past decade. A comparison of past Patriots eras are listed below:

In 1994, Kraft inherited a team whose payroll in 1993 was the lowest in the NFL. Upon taking ownership, Kraft immediately provided the financial resources needed to build a championship-contending team. As a result, the Patriots fielded four playoff teams in Kraft's first five seasons of ownership and won two division titles and a conference title. His personal investment in the team restored the faith of Patriots fans and rejuvenated interest throughout New England. In 1994, season ticket sales soared to new heights, eclipsing 40,000 for the first time in franchise history. By the start of his first season, every game was sold out, a feat that had not been accomplished in the franchise's previous 34 seasons. That meant that the local broadcast blackouts would be lifted and every Patriots game, home and away, would be televised throughout New England for the first time in team history.

In his first year of ownership, Patriots fans were rewarded with a dramatic playoff race when the team put together a season-ending seven-game win streak that propelled them into the playoffs for the first time in eight years. In just one year, the Patriots had taken a quantum leap.

In 1996, the Patriots won their first division title in 10 years and hosted just their second playoff game in franchise history, scoring a resounding 28-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. The following week, the Patriots hosted the franchise's first conference championship game and advanced to Super Bowl XXXI with a 20-6 victory over Jacksonville.

In 1997, the Patriots repeated as division champions for the first time in franchise history and hosted Miami in the first round of the playoffs. The Patriots improved to 3-0 in home playoff games during Kraft's ownership with a 17-3 victory. A one-point loss in the divisional playoff game at Pittsburgh the following week kept the Patriots from hosting their second consecutive AFC Championship Game and from defending their conference title. In 1998, the Patriots returned to the playoffs for a third consecutive year, another franchise first.

A native of Brookline, Mass., Kraft attended local public schools before entering Columbia University on an academic scholarship. Upon graduation, he received a fellowship to attend the Harvard Business School, where he earned a master's degree in business administration.

Kraft began his business career with the Rand-Whitney Group, Inc. of Worcester, Mass., a company he later acquired. In 1972, he founded International Forest Products, a trader of paper commodities that now does business in over 80 countries around the world. Together, Rand-Whitney and International Forest Products comprise one of the largest privately-owned paper and packaging companies in the United States. In 1998, he founded the Kraft Group to serve as the holding company for the family's varied business interests, whose holdings include the Rand-Whitney Group, Rand-Whitney Containerboard, International Forest Products, the New England Revolution and a portfolio of more than 30 private equity investments.

Over the past three decades, the Kraft family has been one of New England's most philanthropic families, donating millions of dollars in support of local charities and civic affairs. In 2004, the family received the Lifetime Achievement Award during an

Sports Industrialists of the Year

Robert and Jonathan Kraft welcome Patriots fans to the Grand Opening of the privately-financed Gillette Stadium on Sept. 9, 2002. It was one of the major accomplishments which earned the Krafts Sports Business Daily's 2002 Sports Industrialists of the Year award.

For Robert Kraft and his son Jonathan, 2002 was a year they will never forget. In January, they celebrated the closing of Foxboro Stadium with the most memorable game in franchise history, as the Patriots knocked off the Oakland Raiders in a dramatic, come-from-behind victory in overtime. In February, they celebrated New England's first Super Bowl Championship with a game-winning field goal as time expired to give the Patriots a stunning 20-17 victory over the St. Louis Rams. In May, they received the Environmental Merit Award from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for their outstanding efforts in preserving New England's environment during the construction of Gillette Stadium, which included the daylighting and restoration of the Neponset River. Later that month, they celebrated a New England Revolution 2-0 victory over the Dallas Burn in the first official event at their new, privately-financed $325 million stadium. Also in May, the Krafts received another high honor when Rand-Whitney Containerboard received the 2002 U.S. Postal Service Quality Supplier Award. In August, they announced a new naming rights deal, partnering with the Boston-based Gillette Company. In October, the Krafts witnessed the rise of the Revolution, as the team advanced through the playoffs and into the MLS Cup. The championship game was hosted at Gillette Stadium and played before a record-shattering soccer crowd of 61,316 fans. In December, their year-long accomplishments were recognized by two of the sports industry's top trade publications. Both the Sports Business Journal and the Sports Business Daily selected the Krafts for their highest honors. The Sports Business Journal named Robert Kraft their Sports Executive of the Year, while the Sports Business Daily presented their Sports Industrialists of the Year award to both Robert and Jonathan Kraft. Past award winners include NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue (2000) and NBA Commissioner David Stern (1995), as well as television executives George Bodenheimer (2001) and David Hill (1997).

annual sports legends event called The Tradition in Boston. They were also recognized as Boston's most powerful family by Boston magazine. Robert serves on the executive committee of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, where he established the Robert K. Kraft Family Blood Donor Center. He is a trustee of his alma mater at Columbia University. He has served on the board of directors of numerous institutions, including the board of overseers of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and has received honorary degrees from a variety of New England universities. In 2004, he delivered the commencement address at Johnson & Wales University in Providence, R.I.

JONATHAN KRAFT

When Robert Kraft purchased the New England Patriots in 1994, it was his son Jonathan whose behind-the-scenes negotiating skills helped finalize the deal and secure the risk-filled financing that was needed for the Kraft family to purchase the team for what was then the highest price ever paid for a sports franchise.

Years later, it was Jonathan once again who developed a creative financing strategy that enabled the family to privately-finance the entire $325 million construction project of Gillette Stadium without the popularly utilized personal seat licenses that are used by many publicly-financed stadiums. Many financial experts dismissed the viability of the plan, but Kraft's business acumen, foresight and willingness to expand and take risks have made the New England Patriots one of the NFL's most innovative and successful franchises.

In 10 seasons since the family purchased the team, Kraft's hands-on approach has helped the organization find previously untapped financial resources that have contributed to making the Patriots one of the league's most consistent and competitive teams in a league environment that promotes and rewards parity.

As vice chairman, he oversees the overall development of each department within the organization and assists in their strategic planning. He also works closely with his father to represent the Patriots in all league matters and is on two NFL owner committees. In addition to the Patriots, Kraft also plays a leading role in each of the family's other business pursuits as the president and chief operating officer of the Kraft Group. The Kraft Group is the holding company of Rand-Whitney Containerboard, the Rand-Whitney Group, International Forest Products, the New England Revolution and a portfolio of more than 30 private-equity investments.

Throughout the stadium initiative, Kraft engineered the organization's efforts in the planning, development, construction and eventual opening of Gillette Stadium. He worked closely with stadium designers throughout the project in an effort to create a world-class sports and entertainment facility that would also feature designs indigenous to New England. Together, they created a fan-friendly facility that is unique to New England and will serve as a model for future stadium projects worldwide. The 68,756-seat stadium, the proud home of both the New England Patriots and the New England Revolution, is one of the premier sports and entertainment facilities in the world.

An important part of the overall financing plan for the stadium was the utilization of the stadium's Fidelity Investments Clubhouse. With over 120,000 square feet of function space in the clubhouse, Gillette Stadium operates as a year-round convention center, offering club members access to the facility for private or corporate functions 365 days per year.

The construction project also drew praise for its innovative environmental practices, including the daylighting and restoration of the Neponset River as well as the recycling of rock, on-site resources and materials that were re-used throughout construction. In addition, the site also features a new wastewater treatment facility that more efficiently recycles the stadium's water. In June of 2001, the Environmental Business Council presented the Kraft Group with the Environmental Award for Corporate Leadership. Then, in May of 2002, the Kraft Group received New England's Environmental Merit Award from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for the development and construction of Gillette Stadium.

In 2002, Jonathan and Robert Kraft were recipients of the 2002 Sports Industrialists of the Year award, which was presented by the Sports Business Daily in recognition of one of the most successful years a sports owner has ever enjoyed. The award is the highest honor presented by the publication. In 2002, the Krafts not only unveiled their privately-financed, state-of-the-art stadium but did so as Super Bowl champions, presenting it to their fans with a spectacular grand opening celebration on the 2002 season premiere of Monday Night Football. In October, the New England Revolution qualified for the MLS Cup, which was played at Gillette Stadium and drew 61,316 fans, the largest crowd in MLS history.

As a lifelong Patriots fan, Kraft is committed to expanding the Patriots fan base through innovative multi-media outreach. Under Kraft's directive, the Patriots were World Wide Web pioneers, launching the first official Web site for a professional sports team, www.patriots.com, in March of 1995. In April of 1995, the Patriots began publishing the franchise's first full-color team newspaper, Patriots Football Weekly. It was the first full-color weekly publication offered by a sports team. It appears on newsstands throughout New England and is distributed to Patriots fans throughout the world.

In 1997, the team's Web site launched the first nightly streaming video, a produced video segment called Patriots Video News (PVN). Patriots Video News airs nightly and is catalogued for viewing throughout the season. The technology is also used to broadcast "Patriots Live!," which features live feeds of every Patriots press conference.

The Patriots' Internet growth also includes a highly successful e-commerce division, providing Patriots fans around the world easy access to Patriots merchandise and apparel. Following the Super Bowl XXXVI championship, Kraft commissioned the production of a DVD entitled "3 Games to Glory," providing fans an opportunity to re-live three of the most glorious games in franchise history. Just two years later, he oversaw the production of its sequel, "3 Games to Glory II," which features over five hours of behind-the-scenes bonus footage of the 2003 Super Bowl Champions on a two-disc DVD. The Patriots remain the only team to have ever produced and sold such a commemorative DVD.

Prior to building Gillette Stadium, the Kraft family had owned and operated Foxboro Stadium since 1988. During that time, Kraft helped bring many world-class events to Foxborough, including international soccer events and a variety of major concerts. Past performers include The Rolling Stones, Aerosmith, Elton John, Billy Joel, Pink Floyd and The Dave Matthews Band. For his efforts, the Greater Boston Convention and Visitors Bureau, Inc. presented him with the "Spirit of Tourism" award for promoting tourism and economic activity in the Commonwealth.

A Williams College graduate, Kraft received his MBA from the Harvard Business School. He is on the board of directors for several organizations, including the U.S. Soccer Federation and Children's Hospital Trust. He is also on the board of trustees at Williams College, the Belmont Hill School and Park School.

Jonathan and his wife, Patti, have three children.

Andy Wasynczuk

Andy Wasynczuk, now in his 11th season with the New England Patriots, has been instrumental in building a championship atmosphere for the organization, both on and off the field. As senior vice president and chief operating officer (COO), he oversees the daily business operations of each department in the organization and has been instrumental to the Kraft family in rebuilding the Patriots organization into a model NFL franchise. In the past eight years, the Patriots have won four division titles, three conference titles and two Super Bowl titles, an unrivaled distinction in the NFL.

He is actively involved in all stages of the organization's decision making. With his guidance, the organization has evolved into a highly efficient and productive operation, improving its stature both publicly and privately. The scope of his responsibilities extends from the very visible marketing, media and community relations strategies to the behind-the-scenes efforts of stadium and football operations.

In recent years, Wasynczuk played a critical role in the organization's supervision of every stage of the planning and construction of Gillette Stadium. He worked with stadium designers to ensure that the majestic, state-of-the-art stadium would feature unique fan amenities. As the organization's primary representative, he also worked with public officials to ensure that all concerns and requirements were addressed appropriately throughout the planning and construction process. Under his constant supervision, the privately-financed, $325 million project was completed on time and under budget. Since joining the Patriots in 1994, Wasynczuk has been committed to making the Patriots organization one of the most effective operations in all of sports, and in 2002 the organization celebrated the grand opening of Gillette Stadium with their fans by raising the franchise's first Super Bowl Championship banner.

Since the opening of Gillette Stadium, Wasynczuk's scope of responsibilities has expanded to include the overall operation of the stadium complex, not only as a premier sports and entertainment venue but also as one of New England's premier conference and convention centers. Through the utilization of the stadium's Fidelity Investments Clubhouse, Gillette Stadium now hosts private functions nearly every day of the year.

In 2003, Wasynczuk oversaw the expansion and development of the stadium complex's year-round football and soccer practice facilities. The new indoor and improved outdoor practice facilities enabled the Patriots to host their first training camp in Foxborough, allowing more fans than ever to attend and enjoy Patriots practices throughout the summer.

Since the 1993 Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) was approved, salary cap management has become critical to a team's success. Wasynczuk's negotiating expertise, understanding of the CBA and financial prowess not only helped put the Patriots into position to win its first Super Bowl Championship but also created a model that would allow the team to compete for future titles. Over the past decade, his involvement has ranged from high-profile player negotiations to creating the team's salary cap management strategies. During this time, he oversaw the development of the various cap management tools, which are instrumental to the team's ongoing leadership in this area.

Prior to joining the Krafts' organization, Wasynczuk was a consultant at Bain & Company in Boston, an internationally recognized consulting firm. At Bain, he developed marketing strategies and business plans for international corporations in the packaging and financial service industries. In January 1989, he joined Foxboro Stadium Associates as the chief operating officer. For the next 14 years, prior to the construction of Gillette Stadium, his responsibilities in that capacity included the overall management of Foxboro Stadium and the long-term development of the stadium complex. During that time, Foxboro Stadium was among the busiest outdoor stadium entertainment venues in the world. As home to the New England Patriots and New England Revolution, the stadium hosted hundreds of sporting events, as well as some of the largest touring concerts in the nation. In 1994, Wasynczuk played an important role in attracting the World Cup to Foxborough, a site that has since become a constant for World Cup matches and international soccer.

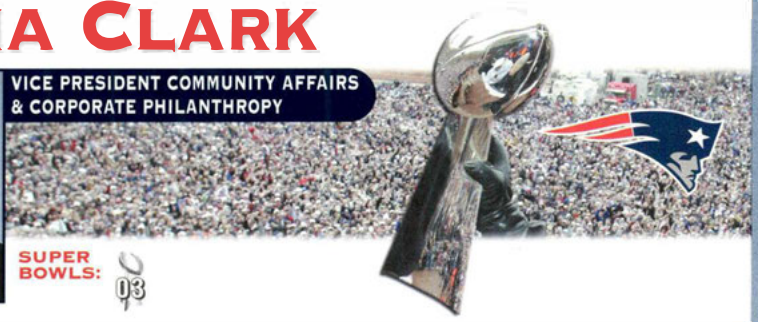

Wasynczuk earned a bachelor's and a master's degree in electrical engineering from Case Western Reserve University. In 1983, he added a second master's degree in business administration from the Harvard Business School.

He is active in a variety of community activities, including the board of directors for the Marketplace Network. He is a frequent guest speaker at local community service organizations and various academic institutions.

Andy and his wife, Rebecca, have three children and reside in Westwood, Mass.

Rena Clark

Rena Clark joined the Kraft Group and the New England Patriots on May 1, 2003, as vice president of community affairs and corporate philanthropy. In her role, Clark is responsible for all team-related community initiatives and outreach programs. She also oversees all the charitable giving efforts for the New England Patriots Charitable Foundation (NEPCF) and similar activities for the Kraft Group. In her first year, the foundation contributed over $1 million in grants, scholarships and in-kind donations to non-profit organizations throughout New England. In addition to charitable donations, the foundation also sponsors the team's community initiatives, youth football programs and player development programs.

Clark has more than 16 years of corporate managerial experience ranging in a wide variety of environments in both the for-profit and not-for-profit sectors. She spent four years at General Electric and a year at Bain & Company in Boston before returning to Harvard Business School as the director of MBA program administration and chief operating officer in 1991. Prior to joining the Patriots, Clark acquired, built and operated two middle-market-sized manufacturing companies.

She actively participates in a variety of community organizations and currently serves on the board of overseers for the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston, the Boston Symphony Orchestra and on the board of directors for Junior Achievement of Northern New England. She is a community volunteer with the United Way Massachusetts Bay and serves on the Community Impact Committee.

Clark graduated from Lamar University with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering and holds a master's degree in business administration from the Harvard Business School.

He serves on a number of boards and charitable committees. He also frequently lectures at Boston College and other New England universities

Lou and his wife, Patricia, have two children, Victoria and Antonio.

SCOTT PIOLI

Scott Pioli joined the New England Patriots on Feb. 10, 2000 and has worked in concert with Head Coach Bill Belichick to orchestrate one of the most successful performances in NFL history. It took the pair just two seasons to rebuild the foundation of the team and to successfully implement their shared football philosophy. By 2001, the Patriots had acquired 21 veteran free agents who helped form the nucleus of the franchise's first Super Bowl Championship team. Just two years later, the Patriots claimed their second Super Bowl title in three seasons, capping a franchise-best 14-2 regular season record with the third-best record in NFL history, 17-2. Forty-six of the 53 players on the team's Super Bowl XXXVIII roster were acquired since 2000, including 19 starters. The team's success brought national acclaim to many individual contributors, including Pioli, who became the youngest person to ever earn NFL Executive of the Year honors.

In the past three seasons (2001-03), the Patriots have recorded 40 victories, totaling not only the most for any three-year period in franchise history, but also the most in the NFL during that time. New England has won two division titles to qualify for the playoffs and has gone undefeated through the playoffs both years, claiming two conference titles and two Super Bowl Championships. The team's renaissance was achieved by developing team leadership and the depth of the roster. By the end of the 2003 season, 56 of the 64 players who contributed to the historic success of the team were acquired since 2000. Of the 17 Pioli/Belichick draft choices who were on the active roster in 2003, 15 started at least one game. The same was true for eight of the 16 veterans acquired in 2003.

In 2003, no team relied on their depth and team leadership more than the New England Patriots. New England used 42 different starters during the regular season, the most ever by a division winner. The Patriots opened the 2003 season with a devastating defeat to a division rival, followed by a rash of injuries that claimed five opening-day starters in the first few weeks of the season, including four who missed the remainder of the season on injured reserve. Players who started during the 2003 season missed a combined total of 103 games, forcing the Patriots to utilize their entire roster throughout the season. The team had a different combination of 22 starters for each game, starting 15 different lineups on offense and 10 different lineups on defense. Yet, the Patriots rebounded from their season-opening loss to win 17 of their next 18 games, culminating with another dramatic, last-second field goal to claim a 32-29 victory in Super Bowl XXXVIII. Only the 1985 Chicago Bears and the 1984 San Francisco 49ers won more games (18) than the 2003 Patriots.

For Pioli, the 2003 NFL Executive of the Year honor was actually the second time he had been recognized for such an honor. After the Patriots won Super Bowl XXXVI, the Dallas Morning News named Pioli their 2001 NFL Executive of the Year. In 2003, a variety of national publications came to the same conclusion, as Pro Football Weekly (voted on by the media), The Sporting News (voted on by NFL executives) and Sports Illustrated all tabbed Pioli as their honoree.

As vice president of player personnel, Pioli's responsibilities include overseeing the college draft and free agency, as well as negotiating most of the Patriots' free agent contracts. Since he arrived in New England, he has shown a propensity for finding veteran free agents who can contribute and play important roles in building playoff-contending teams. Since 2000, the Patriots have signed dozens of veteran free agents. In 2001 alone, the team's class of 17 veteran free agents produced two team captains, seven full-time starters, three special teams specialists and two veteran nickel backs. The veteran leadership was critical to the Patriots' success that year, as the team completed its divisional worst-to-first turnaround and set the then-franchise record of nine consecutive victories to close out the season as Super Bowl Champions. His successes that season earned him league-wide recognition as one of the best young personnel evaluators in the game.

In 2003, the Patriots signed a dozen veteran free agents, including Rodney Harrison and Tyrone Poole, and traded a fourth-round draft choice for Ted Washington to help fortify a defense that led the league and set a franchise record by allowing just 14.9 points per game (238 total) and posted three shutouts to establish another team record. In addition, the team drafted seven players who made first-year contributions, including two who became season-long starters.

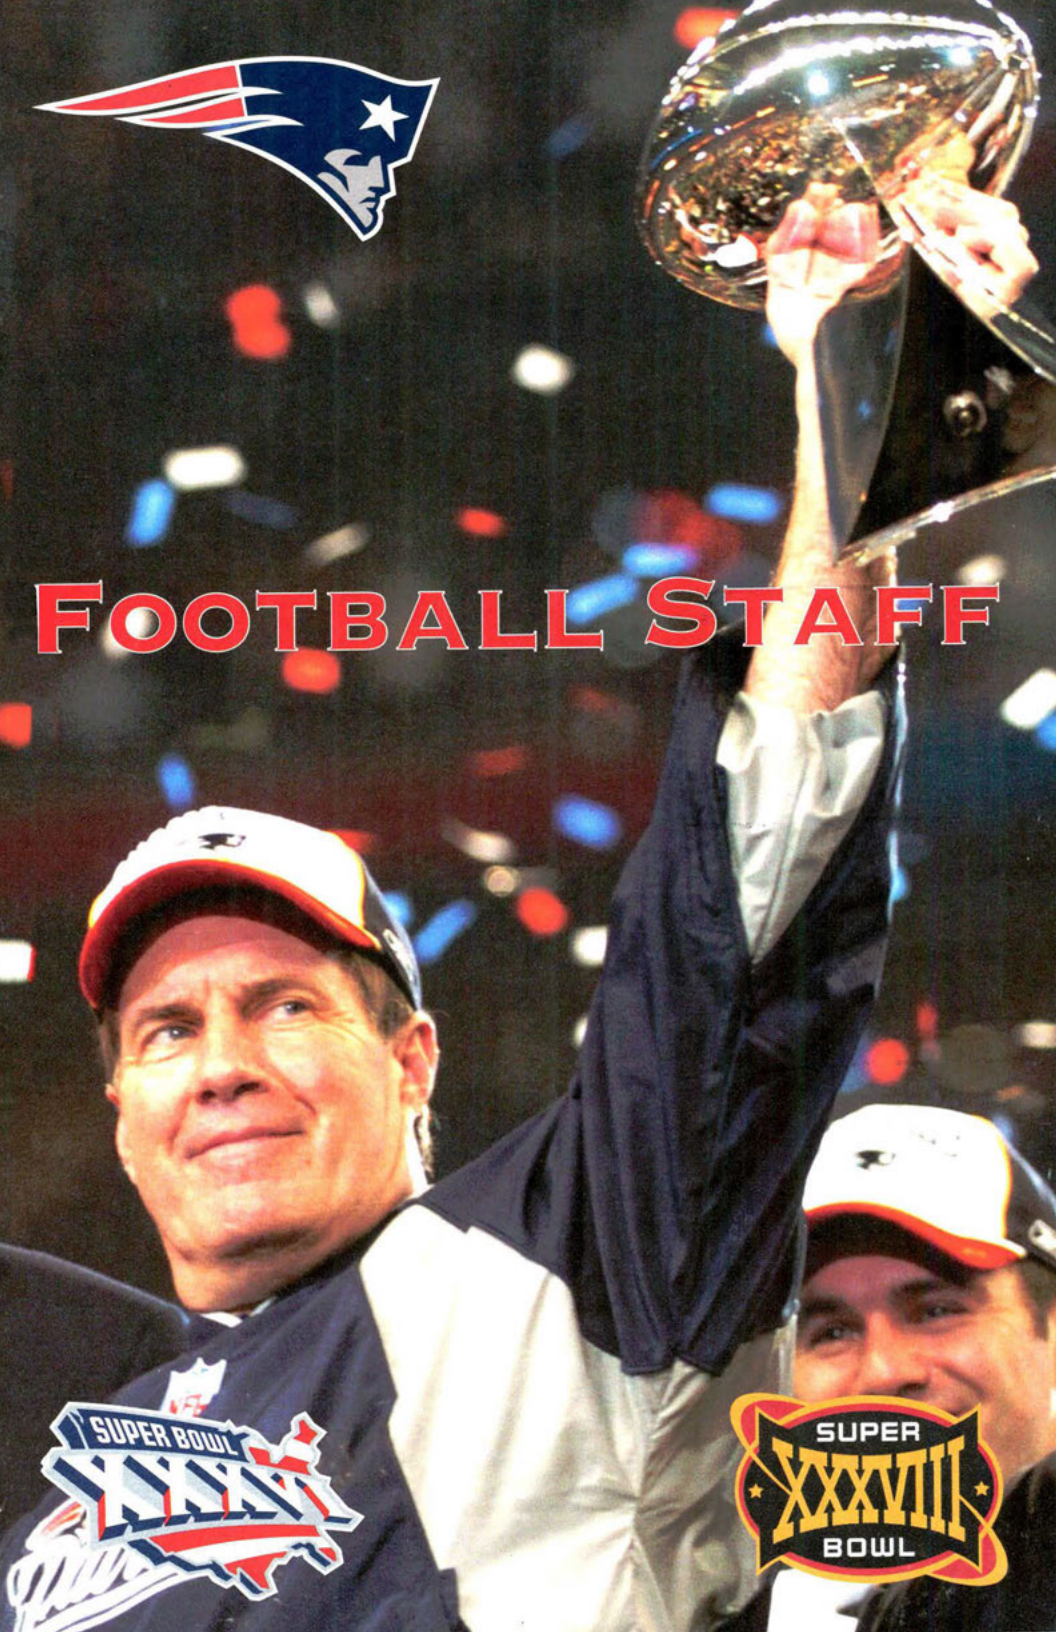

Pioli began his NFL career when Belichick hired him as the pro personnel assistant of the Cleveland Browns in 1992. In Cleveland, he was responsible for the evaluation of both college prospects and veteran free agents as well as negotiating various player contracts. He also coordinated all player tryouts. He was promoted to director of pro personnel after the Cleveland franchise moved to Baltimore in 1996. He spent one season with the Baltimore Ravens, where he oversaw all aspects of pro personnel and negotiated the contracts of free agents and several draft choices.

In 1997, while serving as head coach of the Jets, Belichick hired Pioli as the director of pro personnel. He was credited with the signing of a number of veteran free agents who played critical roles in the Jets' rebuilding process. In just two seasons, the Jets completed a worst-to-first turnaround, rebounding from 1-15 in 1996 to 12-4 in 1998. The 12 wins were the most in franchise history and gave the Jets their first division title since 1968.

Pioli played defensive tackle at Central Connecticut State (1983-87), where he was a three-time Division II All-New England selection. After graduating with a degree in communications, he accepted a two-year graduate assistant position at Syracuse University beginning in 1988.

He accepted a full-time coaching opportunity at Murray State, where he spent one season as the offensive line coach (1990) and one season as the defensive line coach (1991). He left the coaching ranks to join the Browns personnel department in 1992.

Scott was born on March 31, 1965 in Washingtonville, N.Y. He is an avid baseball fan. Pioli currently serves on the board of directors for various non-profit foundations and was recently named to the board of directors for the Foundation for Excellent Schools, a national non-profit organization that partners with public schools in high-need communities to raise student aspirations and performance. He remains actively involved in fund raising for several organizations in his hometown (Washingtonville, N.Y.) and participates in Eric Mangini's annual Football Fundamentals Mini-Camp in Hartford, Conn. He established the Rose Pioli Scholarship in the name of his grandmother to benefit children of educators, professional firefighters, police and other emergency medical service providers. Scott and his wife, Dallas, celebrated the birth of their first child, Mia Costa Pioli, on July 1, 2003.

Bill Belichick returned to New England when Patriots owner Robert Kraft named him the 14th head coach in Patriots history on Jan. 27, 2000. Belichick, who was a defensive assistant and assistant head coach for the Patriots when the team won a conference title in 1996, took over and quickly molded the Patriots into one of the elite teams in the NFL. On Feb. 3, 2002, he became the first head coach in the franchise's 42-year history to lead the team to a league title, AFL or NFL, with a dramatic 20-17 victory over the St. Louis Rams in Super Bowl XXXVI. Then, on Feb. 1, 2004, after the Patriots defeated the Carolina Panthers, 32-29, in Super Bowl XXXVIII. He became just the sixth head coach in NFL history to win two Super Bowls in a three year span.

The Super Bowl XXXVIII victory improved Belichick's record in the playoffs to 6-0 since joining the Patriots in 2000 and gave him seven career playoff victories in eight postseason games. His current six-game postseason win streak is the third longest in NFL history. To put that into perspective, consider that in the franchise's first 40 seasons, the team had only won seven of its 17 playoff games. Belichick's three playoff victories last season improved his career winning percentage in the playoffs to .875. The only coach to enjoy a better rate of success in the playoffs is the coach whose name is now emblazoned on the Super Bowl trophy, Vince Lombardi. Lombardi won nine of his 10 playoff appearances, including the league's first two Super Bowl titles while coaching the Green Bay Packers.

With his Super Bowl XXXVIII triumph, Belichick became just the 12th head coach in NFL history to win multiple Super Bowl titles. Chuck Noll (4), Joe Gibbs (3) and Bill Walsh (3) are the only head coaches in the history of the game to have won more Super Bowls than Belichick.

The recent Super Bowl win was the fourth of Belichick's distinguished NFL career, a career that began in 1975. Now in his 30th season in the NFL, he has more years of NFL experience than any of the other 31 head coaches. In his first 29 seasons, his teams qualified for the playoffs 13 times and won nine division titles, five conference championships and four Super Bowls. He won his first two Super Bowls as the defensive coordinator for the New York Giants in 1986 and again in 1990 before claiming his two Super Bowl championships with the Patriots in the past three years. George Seifert is the only other man to have won multiple Super Bowls both as a head coach and as an assistant coach.

Entering his fifth season as the Patriots head coach, Belichick already owns the franchise's highest career winning percentage (.643) and needs just nine more wins to move ahead of Mike Holovak's (1961-68) franchise record of 53 wins. In 2001, he rebounded from a 5-11 record the previous season to improve to 11-5, tying the then franchise regular season record for wins. With a 20-17 victory over the Rams in the Super Bowl, the Patriots tied the franchise's record of 14 wins in a season and set another record with a nine-game season-ending win streak. In 2003, the Patriots eclipsed each of those marks, posting a 14-2 record in the regular season and notching 17 total wins on the season, including a season-ending 15-game win streak. The 15 consecutive

NFL Seniority

Coach Belichick began his coaching career as a special assistant with the Baltimore Colts in 1975 at the age of 23. This year, he enters his 30th consecutive season in the NFL and owns the distinction of having the most NFL coaching experience among current head coaches. The head coaches with the most NFL experience are listed below:

Years	Name	NFL Coaching Tenures
30	Bill Belichick	1975-2004
28	Marty Schottenheimer	1975-98, 2001-04
24	Tony Dungy	1981-2004
21	Mike Shanahan	1984-2004
21	Joe Gibbs	1973-92, 2004

wins in a single season is the second-longest streak in NFL history (Miami's 17-0 in 1972). The team's 17-2 overall record in 2003 was also the third-best in NFL history, trailing the 1985 Chicago Bears (18-1) and the 1984 San Francisco 49ers (18-1).

In Belichick's last three seasons, the Patriots have won 40 games, claimed two division titles, two conference titles and two Super Bowl titles. His 40 wins during that time (2001-03) are not only the most in the NFL, but also the most during any three-year span in Patriots history. Both championship seasons were met with early season adversity and relied on the depth of the roster to overcome injuries. In 2001, the Patriots opened the season 0-2 before rebounding to win 14 of the next 17 games. In 2003, a 31-0 season-opening setback in Buffalo was answered triumphantly, as the team rebounded to win 17 of the next 18 games, including a 15-game season-ending win streak.

The 2003 squad featured one of the most talented defensive units in franchise history. On November 16, the Patriots recorded their first shutout victory in seven years with a 12-0 victory over the Dallas Cowboys. It was the first of three shutouts in 2003, including a 31-0 payback when they hosted the Buffalo Bills in the regular-season finale. The three shutouts set a franchise record and brought the Patriots' points allowed average for the season to a league-low 14.9 points per game (238 points for the season). In their last six regular-season home games, the Patriots allowed just one touchdown and a lowly average of 3.7 points per game. The defense was a ball-hawking, opportunistic unit that was credited with interceptions in 15 of their 16 regular season games and led the NFL with 29 interceptions, the second-highest total in franchise history. They also recovered 12 fumbles for a total of 41 takeaways, which led the AFC and ranked second in the NFL. With just 24 turnovers surrendered, the Patriots finished the year with a plus-17 turnover ratio, the second highest in the league and the highest in team history.

The Patriots were 12-0 when recording a positive turnover ratio and 10-0 against teams with winning records, including the playoffs. For the first time in franchise history, the team was also undefeated at home, 10-0, including the postseason.

Coach Belichick's accomplishments were lauded, as Associated Press was one of the first to name him their 2003 NFL Coach of the Year. It was just the second time in the franchise's history that a Patriots coach received the AP honor. It was the first of many NFL Coach of the Year awards, including honors from The Sporting News, Sports Illustrated, SI.com, NFL.com, Dallas Morning News, San Francisco Chronicle, NFL Alumni, FOX TV/Terry Bradshaw, the Victor Awards and the AFC Coach of the Year honors presented by the 101 Football Awards in Kansas City, just to name a few.

Over the past three seasons, the Patriots have been the best in the league at maintaining a lead late in the game. Since 2001, the Patriots have won 27 consecutive regular season games when leading after three quarters. Only Tennessee (19), Kansas City (15) and Dallas (10) have double digit streaks going into the 2004 season. In addition, the Patriots have played their best football late in the season. Since 2001, the Patriots have a 28-4 (.875) overall record in games played after November 1.

When the Patriots announced Belichick's hiring, many regarded him as one of the premier defensive strategists in the game. That reputation was earned over a 25-year NFL coaching career that included Super Bowl titles as the defensive architect of the New York Giants in 1986 and 1990 and a conference championship as the assistant head coach and defensive assistant for the Patriots in 1996. When he returned to the Patriots in 2000, he followed a sound architectural plan, fortifying the foundation of the roster with team-oriented free agents who would support his overall team philosophy. After directing the Patriots from a worst-to-first turnaround in 2001 and claiming two Super Bowl titles in the past three years, many now regard him as the premier head coach in the game. He enters the 2004 season ranked ninth among the league's active head coaches with 82 career wins, including a 7-1 record in the playoffs.

Overcoming Adversity

In 2003, no team met and overcame adversity with the consistency of the New England Patriots. Injuries early in the season forced a number of inexperienced players into key roles, both on offense and defense. By the end of the season, Belichick and his staff had employed 42 different starters. The most ever by an NFL division winner. Players who started for the Patriots during the 2003 season missed a combined total of 103 games due to injury, including six opening-day starters who ended the season on injured reserve.

Honors and Awards

Coach Belichick and his New England Patriots celebrated one of the greatest seasons in pro football history in 2003, winning 17 of their final 18 games. In all, the Patriots utilized 42 different starters in 2003, the most by a division winner in NFL history. In recognition for the Patriots' success, Coach Belichick won various NFL Coach of the Year honors, including the following:

In 2002, the Patriots valiantly defended their title and remained in playoff contention through the final game of the regular season. A dramatic come-from-behind victory over the Miami Dolphins in the 2002 season finale gave the Patriots their ninth win of the season and a chance to qualify for the playoffs. Unfortunately, just three hours later, the Patriots were eliminated from the postseason when the New York Jets upset the Green Bay Packers to claim the remaining playoff position.

After an unspectacular 1-3 start in 2001, the Patriots rebounded to win 10 of their last 12 games to claim the division title for the first time in four years. A six-game win streak propelled the Patriots into the playoffs, where their team-first philosophy earned national acclaim. In each playoff game, the offense, defense and special teams units played critical roles, enabling the Patriots to systematically defeat three favored opponents throughout the playoffs with wins over the Oakland Raiders, Pittsburgh Steelers and St. Louis Rams. The victories extended their streak to a then-franchise record nine games and earned the team New England's first Lombardi Trophy. That season, the Patriots averaged 23.2 points per game while surrendering just 17 points per contest. The 23.2 point average was the highest by a Patriots team since 1996 (26.1 ppg), while the 17 points allowed was the lowest since 1977 (15.5 ppg.)

During the 2000 season, Belichick started the rebuilding process with the acquisition of 30 new players. That year, the Patriots set a team record by having 13 of their 16 games played decided by eight points or less. Never had so many Patriots games been decided by such a small margin during the course of a season, but the Patriots were only 4-9 in those games. One marked area of improvement was the team's overall reduction in turnovers, dropping from 33 in 1999 to just 25 in 2000 (fourth-best in franchise history).

Belichick returned to the Patriots as head coach after three seasons with the New York Jets, where his defenses were credited for New York's intra-division success against the high-octane offenses of the Patriots, Dolphins, Bills and Colts. He was also credited for successfully defusing the Indianapolis Colts' offensive arsenal, limiting the conference's most prolific offense to an average of just 14.5 points in their two matchups. That year, the Colts averaged over 28 points per game in their 14 other games.

In 1998, the Jets surrendered just 266 points, one point shy of Miami's league-leading 265. The 16.6 points allowed per game was the third lowest season average in Jets history and propelled the team to their first division title with a franchise-best 12-4 overall record. The Jets advanced to the AFC Championship game, but were defeated by the returning Super Bowl Champion Denver Broncos, who went on to repeat as champions.

Following the season, Belichick filled in for Bill Parcells as the head coach of the AFC's squad in the 1999 Pro Bowl. The AFC won the matchup, a game in which Ty Law was named co-MVP.

Belichick was named head coach of the New York Jets on Feb. 3, 1997, an interim position he held until Parcells was formally announced as head coach a week later. During that week, Belichick hired Scott Pioli as his director of pro personnel. After Parcells was named head coach, Belichick became the assistant head coach/secondary coach responsible for calling the team's defensive signals. In his first season with the Jets, his defense surrendered just 287 points, an average of 17.9 points per game. That marked a significant 10.5-point improvement per game from 1996. The 287 points allowed ranked second in the AFC, sixth overall, and was critical to the Jets' rise from 1-15 in 1996 to 9-7 in 1997. In three seasons in New York, his defenses were credited with 90 takeaways, improving each season from 25 in 1997 to 30 in 1998 to 35 in 1999.

Patriots fans witnessed his impact on a team firsthand in 1996 when Belichick joined the Patriots after five seasons as the head coach of the Cleveland Browns. That year, the Patriots claimed their first division title in 10 years with an 11-5 record and won their first two playoff games at Foxboro Stadium to advance to Super Bowl XXXI. Characteristically, Belichick's defensive influence was credited for the team's overall defensive success down the stretch and through the playoffs. That year, the Patriots' defense allowed just 19.6 points per game and forced 34 turnovers, second in the AFC. The defense was at its best in the "red zone," finishing second in the AFC by allowing touchdowns just 42.3 percent of the time. In two playoff games, the defense allowed just nine points combined, propelling the Patriots to victories over Pittsburgh (28-3) and Jacksonville (20-6). Their victory over Jacksonville gave the Patriots their second AFC Championship and a return to New Orleans for Super Bowl XXXI vs. Green Bay.

Prior to joining the Patriots, he spent five seasons (1991-95) rebuilding the Cleveland Browns, whose 3-13 finish in 1990 was the worst in the history of the franchise. By 1994, the Browns were again one of the elite teams in the NFL, boasting the second-best record in the AFC. That head coaching opportunity came following the 1990 season, when Belichick's defensive efforts with the New York Giants helped claim a second Super Bowl title in five years. Cleveland wasted no time in hiring the talented young defensive coordinator, naming him the franchise's 10th head coach on Feb. 5, 1991. At the age of 38, he became the NFL's youngest head coach. In his first season, he began the rebuilding process by restoring the foundation of the aging squad he inherited. In 1991, the Browns improved to 6-10 and played in 11 games that were decided by a touchdown or less. The most dramatic improvement came in the category of turnovers. In 1990, the Browns surrendered 46 turnovers. In Belichick's first season as head coach, the team established a franchise record by turning the ball over just 18 times - four shy of the NFL record set by the Super Bowl Champion New York Giants the previous season. The Browns led the AFC with a plus-15 turnover

Most publications that waited until after Super Bowl XXXVI to announce their annual awards named Head Coach Bill Belichick as the NFL's Coach of the Year. In 2001, he led the Patriots from a worst-to-first divisional turnaround to qualify for the playoffs and systematically eliminated the Oakland Raiders, Pittsburgh Steelers and St. Louis Rams in the postseason to claim New England's first Super Bowl title. A sampling of his honors and awards from 2001 are listed below:

ratio, a remarkable 39-turnover improvement from their NFL-low negative-24 ratio the year before.

Following back-to-back 7-9 campaigns in 1992 and 1993, the Browns improved to 11-5 in 1994. Only Pittsburgh, who won the division with a 12-4 record, had a better record in the AFC that season. In their return to the playoffs, the Browns eliminated Parcells' Patriots, 20-13, in a first-round wild-card game on New Year's Day 1995. The Browns advanced to the divisional playoff round before being bumped by the Steelers. The 1994 squad was defined by its defense, which allowed a league-low 204 points (12.8 ppg) and just 301.6 yards per game, second in the AFC.

The 1995 season was disrupted by the mid-season announcement that the franchise would be moved to Baltimore at the conclusion of the season. The announcement caused an inextricable mid-season distraction resulting in a 5-11 finish. Belichick did not accompany the franchise's move to Baltimore after the 1995 season.

Belichick originally began his coaching career after graduating from Wesleyan University and accepting a staff assistant position with the Baltimore Colts in 1975. At the age of 23, he was named special assistant to Head Coach Ted Marchibroda.

In 1976, he joined Rick Forzano's staff with the Detroit Lions as an assistant special teams coach. The following year, he was given his first positional coaching assignment as the Lions' tight ends and receivers coach. In 1978, Denver Broncos Head Coach Red Miller hired Belichick as the assistant special teams coach and assistant to defensive coordinator Joe Collier.

In 1979, he joined Ray Perkins' staff with the New York Giants as a defensive assistant and special teams coach, launching a 12-year tenure with the Giants. After the 1980 campaign, he drew the added responsibility of coaching the Giants linebackers. In 1983, he began coordinating the defense on Bill Parcells' staff and continued coaching the linebackers, a unit that would become known as one of the most dominant groups of all-time. He was officially appointed defensive coordinator in 1985, a position he held for the next six seasons. During his time as the defensive signal caller, his units were never ranked lower than 11th in the NFL and finished as high as second in the league three times, including the Super Bowl seasons of 1986 and 1990. His contributions with the Giants throughout the 1980s brought him national recognition as one of the best young assistant coaches in the NFL. His reward came just nine days after Super Bowl XXV when the Cleveland Browns hired him as their head coach.

Coach Belichick's Place in NFL History

Only one head coach in NFL history has a higher winning percentage in the postseason than Coach Belichick, and his name is the one emblazoned on the Super Bowl trophy. The three winningest coaches in the postseason in NFL history are listed below:

He and his wife, Debby, have been long-time advocates and contributors to local charities. While in Cleveland, the two launched a charity foundation in their names. The foundation benefited the Zelma George Home, a shelter for the homeless women and children in Cleveland. In 2001, the two established the Bill and Debby Belichick Scholarship, an annual stipend awarded to an Annapolis High School senior for academic and athletic achievement. Annually, Coach Belichick generously donates time and money to support local charities. Since returning to New England in 2000, he has participated in dozens of community events, including the March of Dimes Walk America, the Rodman Ride for Kids, the Roxbury Comprehensive (RoxComp) Community Center's Reading is the Best Medicine Program and the Mayors Cup Regatta on the Charles River to benefit AccesSportAmerica, a charity dedicated to fitness of children and adults with disabilities. He also participates in Eric Mangini's annual Football Fundamentals Mini-Camp in Hartford, Conn., which drew over 600 teenage children this year. At Wesleyan's commencement in 2002, he received the prestigious Baldwin Medal, awarded annually by the Wesleyan University Alumni Association. It recognizes the outstanding contributions to public interest and to Wesleyan. He was also honored at Phillips Academy, where the school declared a day in his honor.

Coach Belichick's Place in Franchise History

In just four seasons, Coach Belichick has already become the franchise's all-time winningest coach based on winning percentage (.643). He enters his fifth season with the Patriots ranked fourth in franchise history in career wins, but needs just nine more to move ahead of Mike Holovak (53 career wins) as the franchise's all-time career leader.

Daunting Defenses

Since Coach Belichick was first named a defensive coordinator in 1985, his defenses have annually been among the stingiest in the NFL. Last season's 238 points allowed (14.9 ppg.) was the lowest in the league. It was the third time a Belichick defense finished first in fewest points allowed and the 11th time his defenses have finished among the top 10 in the league. Over the past 19 seasons, his teams have limited opponents to a season average of fewer than 20 points per game 16 times.

ROMEO CRENNEL

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

- 24th NFL Season
- 8th Patriots Season

SUPER BOWLS: 86 90 01 03

COACHING

Romeo Crennel is recognized as one of the top assistant coaches in the NFL. Last season, Crennel served as the coordinator of a record-setting defensive unit while celebrating his fourth Super Bowl championship. He was recognized by the Pro Football Writers of America as the NFL's Assistant Coach of the Year in 2003.

Now in his 24th season in the league, he returned to the New England Patriots when he was named the defensive coordinator on Bill Belichick's staff on Feb. 1, 2001. The hire reunited the two coaches, who began coaching together as assistants on Ray Perkins' staff for the New York Giants in 1981. This season will be their 18th campaign together, during which time they have earned four Super Bowl titles, five conference titles and seven division titles. While with the Patriots, Crennel and Belichick have contributed to victories in Super Bowls XXXVI and XXXVIII in addition to New England's AFC title in 1996.

In 2003, the New England defense was among the best units in NFL history, propelling the Patriots to a 15-game winning streak that culminated with a victory in Super Bowl XXXVIII. New England allowed a league-low and franchise-record 14.9 points per game, while also leading the league with 29 interceptions. The dominance of the defense was evidenced by the team's three shutouts, equaling the franchise shutout total from the previous 17 seasons combined. The Patriots defense was at its best at Gillette Stadium, where it allowed only 9.6 points per game and surrendered just four touchdowns in the regular season. Over one stretch, the Patriots did not allow a touchdown on 62 consecutive opponents' possessions in Foxborough, a streak that spanned more than five games worth of clock time. New England was the first team in 65 years to keep its opponent out of the end zone in four consecutive home games in a season. While proving adept at stopping opponents' offenses, the Patriots defense provided some potent offense of its own, leading the NFL with six defensive touchdowns, including five interceptions returned for scores, tying a team record.

Crennel began his latest tenure with the Patriots in 2001, and in that season – much like it did in 2003 – the defense played an integral role in propelling the Patriots to a season-ending win streak to claim the first Super Bowl title for the franchise. The 2001 Patriots surrendered just 272 points (17.0 ppg), ranking sixth in the league and fourth in franchise history for fewest points allowed. By the end of the season, the defense was in a zone, especially in the "Red Zone." In their last five regular season games, the defense surrendered just seven field goals and one touchdown. The Patriots won all five of those games and qualified for the playoffs for the first time in three years.

The Patriots defense created opportunities for the offense in 2001 by recording 22 interceptions (second in the AFC, sixth in the NFL), 12 more than they had in 2000. Five of those interceptions were returned for touchdowns, setting a single-season franchise record. In the playoffs, Ty Law added another interception, which he returned 47 yards for a touchdown in the 20-17 victory over the St. Louis Rams in Super Bowl XXXVI.

Crennel, who was the defensive line coach for the Patriots from 1993 to 1996, returned to the Patriots sidelines in 2001 after three seasons with the New York Jets (1997-99) and a season as the defensive coordinator with the Cleveland Browns (2000). During his season in Cleveland, the Browns recorded 42 sacks, a 17-sack improvement from the 1999 season.

In his three seasons as the Jets' defensive line coach, the New York defense was among the stingiest in the NFL, never allowing more than 20 points per game for a season. In 1997, he successfully incorporated a rotation of six new defensive linemen on a unit that allowed just 287 total points (17.9 points per game), second in the AFC and sixth in the NFL. The following season, he added four new linemen to his rotation, and the formula contributed to an improvement from the year before as the defense allowed just 16.6 points per game, finishing second in the league.

His first tenure in New England was a four-year assignment as Bill Parcells' defensive line coach, beginning in 1993 and ending with an AFC Championship and Super Bowl XXXI appearance in January of 1997. In 1994, the Patriots qualified for the playoffs for the first time in eight years after winning their last seven games of the regular season. The defense allowed just 13.3 points per game during that seven-game stretch. In 1996, the Patriots defense allowed just 12.8 points per game in the final five contests of the regular season to propel the team back to the playoffs. The Patriots were victorious by scores of 28-3 and 20-6, respectively, in two playoff games to claim their second conference title in franchise history and advance to Super Bowl XXXI.

Crennel began his professional coaching career in 1981 as a special assignments/special teams/defensive assistant coach with the New York Giants. He became the special teams coach in 1983 and was assigned the defensive line position in 1990, a position he has since coached for 14 seasons. In 12 seasons in New York (1981-92), the Giants qualified for the playoffs six times, won three division titles and two Super Bowl championships. In his first season in New York, the Giants qualified for the playoffs for the first time since 1963 with a 9-7 record. It was their first winning record in nine seasons.

He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Western Kentucky, in 1970. He was named defensive line coach the following season in 1971. In 1975, he started a three-year tenure at Texas Tech as a defensive assistant on Parcells' defensive staff. In 1978, he was named the defensive ends coach at Mississippi. After two seasons at Ole Miss, he accepted a position at Georgia Tech in 1980, where he spent his final season in the collegiate ranks before being hired by the Giants in 1981.

Playing

Crennel was a four-year starter (1966-69) as a defensive lineman at Western Kentucky. After three seasons as one of the Hilltoppers top tacklers, he was elected team captain as a senior. When the Western Kentucky offense struggled early in the season, Crennel willingly gave up what would have been a sure shot at all-conference honors as a defensive lineman to fill in at offensive tackle. The move helped solidify the offensive line and earned Crennel team MVP honors.

The Patriots ended the 2003 season with 15 victories in a row, compiling the second longest single-season winning streak in NFL history including playoff games. The first 11 wins in the Patriots' streak were all by 14 points or fewer, making them the first team in league history to win so many games by such a narrow margin.

COACHING

Brian Daboll is now in his fifth season with the Patriots and is serving as the wide receivers coach on Bill Belichick's staff for the third consecutive year. Since assuming his current responsibilities prior to the 2002 season, Daboll has successfully blended veteran talent with up-and-coming young receivers. His approach has helped to develop a receiving corps with big-play ability that helped New England win its second championship in three seasons.

In 2003, wide receivers Deion Branch and David Givens enjoyed breakout years to compliment the experience of veteran Troy Brown. In just his second year as a pro, Branch led the team with a career-high 57 receptions and 803 receiving yards, while Givens, a 2002 seventh-round draft pick, paced the club with six touchdown receptions in the regular season. Givens and Brown tied for the team and league lead with 17 postseason receptions. New England's wide receivers showed their big-play ability by catching nine passes for gains of 40 yards or more, including three touchdown catches of more than 50 yards. Brown provided one of the season's greatest moments when he hauled in a season-long 82-yard touchdown pass to give the Patriots an overtime win at Miami.

New England's receiving corps played a major role in the team's postseason success, as the trio of Branch, Brown and Givens combined for 49 receptions in the Patriots' three playoff games, good for 63 percent of the team's total postseason catches. In Super Bowl XXXVIII, Branch led all receivers with 10 receptions, the third-most by any receiver in Super Bowl history, just behind Dan Ross and Jerry Rice (11 catches). Branch also gained a career-high 143 receiving yards in the Super Bowl, setting a Patriots postseason record.

In 2002, Brown, David Patten and Branch finished the season ranked 1-2-3 respectively among the team's leading receivers. It was the first time three wide receivers held the top three positions since 1999 and just the second time in 13 seasons. Brown led the team for the third consecutive season with 97 receptions, and his 6.9 receptions per game set a franchise record. Patten set career highs with 61 receptions for 824 yards and led the team with a 13.5-yard average per reception.

Daboll originally joined the Patriots in February of 2000 when he was named a defensive coaching assistant. Daboll held that role for two seasons and was primarily responsible for preparing film breakdowns for each upcoming opponent, including comprehensive opponent scouting charts for Coach Belichick and the defensive coaches. The preparation and study of opponent offensive game tendencies during his first two seasons with the Patriots provided unique training for his first positional responsibilities in 2002.

Prior to joining the Patriots, Daboll worked as a graduate assistant for head coach Nick Saban at Michigan State. He started as an administrative graduate assistant in 1998 but spent the entire 1999 season assisting the defensive coaches, working primarily with the defensive backs. He began his coaching career as a restricted earnings coach, assisting the defensive coaches at William & Mary in 1997.

PLAYING

Daboll attended the University of Rochester, where he was a two-year starter at free safety. Daboll recorded three interceptions in one game during his senior year.

PERSONAL

Brian Daboll was born in Welland, Ontario. He attended St. Francis High in Buffalo where he lettered in football. Brian and his wife, Onalee, have one son, Christian.

Coaching

Jeff Davidson is in his 14th season in the NFL, including his 10th as an NFL assistant coach. He is currently enjoying his eighth season on the Patriots sidelines, where he has contributed to four playoff performances, including three division titles, two conference titles and two Super Bowl titles. Davidson moved into his current role as tight ends/ assistant offensive line coach prior to the 2002 season, and the Patriots have seen improvement from their tight ends each season since then.

Davidson originally joined the Patriots as the tight ends coach in 1997. That year, tight end Ben Coates led the team with 66 receptions. The following season, he accepted the responsibilities as an assistant offensive line coach, returning his focus to a position he played professionally for four seasons before pursuing his coaching career.

He was retained as the assistant offensive line coach when he joined Bill Belichick's coaching staff in 2000. Prior to the 2002 season, he resumed the tight end responsibilities, and the Patriots received 58 catches from the position, more than three times their production in 2001. Christian Fauria led the team with seven touchdowns in 2002, the most by a Patriots tight end since Coates had eight in 1997. In 2003, the tight ends improved their offensive production yet again with second-year pro Daniel Graham combining with Fauria for 66 receptions and six touchdowns. In addition, the Patriots offensive line did not allow a sack in any of their three postseason games as New England claimed its second title in three seasons with a victory in Super Bowl XXXVIII.

Davidson began his NFL coaching career in 1995 with the New Orleans Saints as a volunteer assistant. He gained valuable coaching experience under the guidance of offensive line coach Jon Matsko on Jim Mora's staff. In 1996, he was named offensive assistant, responsible for a multitude of functions, including the breakdown of game tapes, opponent scouting and self-scouting. He also maintained a number of on-field coaching responsibilities.

Playing

Davidson earned All-Big Ten honors as a senior and was a four-year letterman as an offensive lineman at Ohio State. He was drafted in the fifth round of the 1990 NFL draft by the Denver Broncos and moved into the starting lineup in just his second season. He started 16 games, including two playoff games, at left tackle. In 1992, he started every game at left guard. He was released by the Broncos in 1993 and was signed by the New Orleans Saints as a free agent in 1994. He was on the active roster for the first seven games of the season, but suffered a shoulder injury that sidelined him for much of the season and ultimately brought an end to his playing career.

Personal

Jeffrey John Davidson was born Oct. 3, 1967 in Akron, Ohio. He attended Westerville (Ohio) North High School where he earned Parade All-American honors as a senior. He was a three-sport prep letterman, starring in football (3 letters), track (4) and basketball (1). Jeff and his wife, Judi, have two sons, Nicholas and Alexander.

Coaching

Ivan Fears, a 28-year coaching veteran, is now enjoying his 14th season in the NFL and his eighth with the New England Patriots. He returned to New England in 1999 and since then has enjoyed two division championships, two conference titles and a pair of Super Bowl championships. He is in his third season as running backs coach, after having coached New England's wide receivers from 1999-2001 and previously from 1991-92.

In 2003, the Patriots exceeded the 100-yard rushing plateau as a team in eight of 16 regular-season games, an improvement on their five games exceeding the century mark in 2002. The Patriots also passed the 100-yard mark in two of three postseason contests, including a 127-yard output in their victory in Super Bowl XXXVIII. Running back Kevin Faulk led the Patriots in the 2003 regular-season with 1,078 yards from scrimmage, finishing second on the team in both rushes (178) and receptions (48).

Fears took on running backs duties in 2002, and in his first season the position produced 1,508 yards rushing – the second highest total by the Patriots since 1996. The Patriots averaged 3.8 yards per carry, tying 2001's average as the highest since 1995.

As receivers coach in 2001, Fears helped both Troy Brown and David Patten produce career years. Brown established a franchise record with 101 receptions for a career-high 1,199 yards and earned his first trip to the Pro Bowl. It was Brown's first 1,000-yard season of his eight-year career. Patten, who entered the season with just 71 career receptions in four seasons, claimed the starting role opposite Brown and was credited with 51 receptions for 749 yards and four touchdowns. He also provided touchdowns in both the AFC Championship Game victory over Pittsburgh (24-17) and the Super Bowl triumph over the Rams (20-17), scoring two of the Patriots' three offensive touchdowns during the playoffs.

Fears originally joined the professional coaching ranks as the receivers coach on Dick MacPherson's staff with the Patriots in 1991. After two seasons in New England, he accepted a position with the Bears in Chicago, where he coached the receivers for six seasons (1993-98) before returning to New England in 1999.

In 1991, his receiving corps featured Irving Fryar, Greg McMurtry and Michael Timpson. That year, Fryar turned in his first 1,000-yard season of his career, finishing with 1,014 yards on 68 receptions (14.9).

In 1993, he joined the Chicago Bears and inherited the team's first-round selection, Curtis Conway. In 1994, the Bears added Jeff Graham, a reserve receiver from the Steelers, and Fears helped develop the two into one of the premier receiving tandems in the league over a two-year span. In his first year with the Bears, Graham started 15 games and led the team with 68 receptions for 944 yards. In 1995, Conway and Graham became the first receiving tandem in franchise history to each record over 1,000 yards receiving in a single season. In 1996, Conway produced a career-high 81 receptions for 1,049 yards and became the first Bear in franchise history to record back-to-back 1,000-yard seasons. In 1998, Bobby Engram emerged as the team leader, nearly eclipsing the 1,000-yard plateau with 987 yards on 64 receptions.

Fears began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at William & Mary in 1976. In 1977, he drew his first positional responsibilities coaching receivers. During the next two seasons (1978-79), he coached quarterbacks before accepting the role of receivers coach at Syracuse in 1980, a position he held for the next 11 seasons.

Playing

A three-year letterman as a running back at William & Mary (1973-75), his playing career was cut short after undergoing three knee operations during his collegiate career.

Personal

Ivan Fears was born Nov. 15, 1954 in Portsmouth, Va. He grew up in Suffolk, Va., where he starred at John Yates High and was twice named the school's Outstanding Player of the Year. Coaching Pepper Johnson is enjoying his 18th season in the NFL, including his fifth season on Bill Belichick's coaching staff. Johnson has been a part of four Super Bowl championship teams, earning a pair of rings during his illustrious 13-year playing career and also contributing to two championship teams as a Patriots assistant coach. All four of his championship rings have been earned while teamed with Coach Belichick. In 2004, Johnson will bring his enthusiastic coaching style to the defensive line after spending three seasons as the Patriots' inside linebackers coach.

In 2003, Johnson coached an inside linebackers unit that formed a key part of a defense that held its opponents to a franchise-record and NFL-best 14.9 points per game. Inside linebacker Tedy Bruschi finished second on the team with 138 tackles, while Roman Phifer finished third with 133 stops. The inside linebacking corps was a major reason the Patriots ranked fourth in the NFL in run defense, up from 31st in the league in 2002. In addition, Bruschi returned two interceptions for touchdowns and credited one of Johnson's practice drills with improving his nose for the ball.

Johnson originally joined Coach Belichick's staff as part of the NFL's minority coaching fellowship in the summer of 2000. He spent the season with the Patriots as a defensive assistant, working primarily with the linebackers. In 2001, he joined the staff as the inside linebackers coach, a position at which he excelled for 13 NFL seasons. After injuries sidelined Ted Johnson and Bryan Cox in 2001, Bruschi made the transition from outside to inside linebacker and helped fuel the Patriots defense through a season-ending win streak that culminated with a 20-17 victory over the St. Louis Rams in Super Bowl XXXVI. The 2001 squad allowed just 17 points per game (sixth in the NFL). In 2002, linebackers Phifer and Ted Johnson finished first and second in tackles with 109 and 96 tackles, respectively. It was the first time two linebackers led the Patriots in tackles since 1994.

Playing

Johnson started 158 of 193 regular season games and played for four different teams during his 13-year NFL career. The two-time Pro Bowl performer won two Super Bowl titles as a member of the New York Giants in 1986 and again in 1990. His presence helped form one of the most dominant defensive units in the history of the game. In 13 seasons, he totaled over 1,200 tackles, including 25.5 sacks. He also forced 12 fumbles, recovering eight, and intercepted 14 passes, including two that he returned for touchdowns. In a game against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1991, he set a franchise record with 4.5 sacks. He played seven seasons with the Giants (1986-92) before joining the Cleveland Browns in 1993. In 1994, Johnson recorded a career-high 207 tackles for the Browns. He signed with the Detroit Lions for one season in 1996 before being reunited with Bill Belichick in New York when he signed with the Jets in 1997. He played two seasons with the Jets before retiring in 1999. In his first season with the Jets, he was voted team captain before the start of the regular season. A midseason injury vs. New England (10/19/97) sidelined him for the remainder of the season, but he returned as team captain and started every game for the Jets in 1998.

A two-time co-captain and defensive MVP at Ohio State, Johnson was drafted by the New York Giants in the second round of the 1986 NFL draft after an All-American campaign as a senior in 1985.

Personal

Thomas "Pepper" Johnson was born July 29, 1964 in Detroit, Mich. He was nicknamed "Pepper" by an aunt who observed his ritual of sprinkling pepper on his breakfast cereal as a youngster. After an all-star prep career at MacKenzie High in Detroit, Johnson became a scholar-athlete at Ohio State where he majored in counseling and physical education. In 1999, his alma mater named him to the school's all-century team. In 2001, he was inducted into the Ohio State Hall of Fame. He formed Pepper Johnson Enterprises, a non-profit community organization that operates in Detroit to support youth and anti-crime programs. Johnson's many philanthropic endeavors have earned him honors for his work with Special Olympics, the March of Dimes, the Make-a-Wish Foundation, Children's Leukemia Foundation and Pepper Johnson's Youth Foundation. He is also a supporter of the Michael Landon Foundation, the Carol M. Baldwin Breast Cancer Research Foundation, Dylan MalaMala Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and the Trey Whitfield Foundation. While in New York, he sponsored a charity golf tournament on Long Island to benefit a home for babies born to drug-addicted mothers. Pepper has a son, Dionte, and resides in Providence, R.I.

COACHING

Eric Mangini, a coaching veteran of 12 seasons, enters his 10th season in the NFL and has been a part of three division titles, two conference titles and a pair of Super Bowl championships in his career. He has served as New England's defensive backs coach since joining Bill Belichick's staff on Feb. 1, 2000. In his first four seasons with the Patriots, he has tutored a secondary that has earned five Pro Bowl selections and evolved into one of the NFL's most successful defensive backfields.

The secondary was an integral part of a dominating Patriots defense that led the NFL in 2003 by allowing a franchise-record 14.9 points per game as the Patriots ended the season with 15 consecutive wins and claimed the Super Bowl XXXVIII title. New England's pass defense led the NFL in four key categories including interceptions (29), fewest touchdown receptions allowed (11), opponents' passer rating (56.2) and pass deflections (121). The Patriots' 29 interceptions were the second most in franchise history and the most by a Patriots team in 40 years (1963, 31 picks). In the entire 2003 regular season, the Patriots gave up just one pass play of over 50 yards and did not give up a rushing play longer than 23 yards.

Mangini was able to help guide the secondary to success in 2003 despite the fact that only one of the top five defensive backs was with the team in 2002. In all, the 2003 secondary produced 21 interceptions and 73 pass defenses – an improvement of 13 interceptions and 41 pass deflections over the 2002 unit. Starting cornerbacks Ty Law and Tyrone Poole tied for the team lead with six interceptions each, and safety Rodney Harrison paced the club with 140 tackles, the highest total of his 10-year career. Press box statisticians credited Harrison with 125 tackles, a figure that led all NFL defensive backs, while Law led all NFL defenders with 23 pass deflections. New England's secondary also played a key part in the Patriots' postseason success, with Law recording three interceptions in the AFC Championship Game and Harrison picking off a pair of postseason passes.

In 2002, the secondary produced three of the team's top five tacklers in Lawyer Milloy (91 tackles), Victor Green (84) and Ty Law (77). Collectively, the defense forced 29 turnovers, including 18 interceptions. Nineteen of those 29 turnovers were credited to the secondary.

In 2001, the Patriots defense was again among the stingiest in franchise history and one of the most opportunistic in the NFL. As a unit, the defense allowed just 17 points per game, a result of many potential opponent scoring drives ending in turnovers. The Patriots recorded 35 takeaways, including 22 interceptions (12 more than in 2000). Five of those 22 interceptions were returned for touchdowns, tops in the NFL, and defensive backs scored all five touchdowns. Law added another interception in Super Bowl XXXVI which he returned 47 yards for a touchdown.

Mangini joined the Patriots after three seasons (1997-99) as the defensive assistant/quality control coach for the New York Jets. Mangini was also responsible for advance opponent film breakdowns and analysis. During that time, he worked closely with Belichick, who was the Jets assistant head coach/secondary. In 1999, the Jets defense ranked third in the AFC with 24 interceptions, the team's highest total since 1969 (29). The defensive backs recorded 18 of those 24 interceptions. In 1998, the Jets defense surrendered just 16.6 points per game, ranking third in franchise history and helping the Jets to a 12-4 overall record and their first division title.

Mangini's first coaching opportunity came in 1995 as an assistant on Belichick's staff in Cleveland. Ted Marchibroda retained him when the franchise moved to Baltimore in 1996, working as a quality control/offensive assistant. The Ravens averaged 357.7 yards per game during the 1996 season – third in the NFL.

PLAYING

Mangini played nose tackle and earned four letters (1989-90, 92-93) at Wesleyan University in Connecticut. He set a school record with 36.5 sacks, including 22 during his final two seasons. Upon graduation in 1993, he ranked second in school history in total tackles. He was voted a first-team all-star by NESCAC and ECAC-New England Division III. Mangini also earned third-team All-American honors and All-East Coast in 1992-93. He graduated from Wesleyan in 1994 with a degree in political science.

PERSONAL

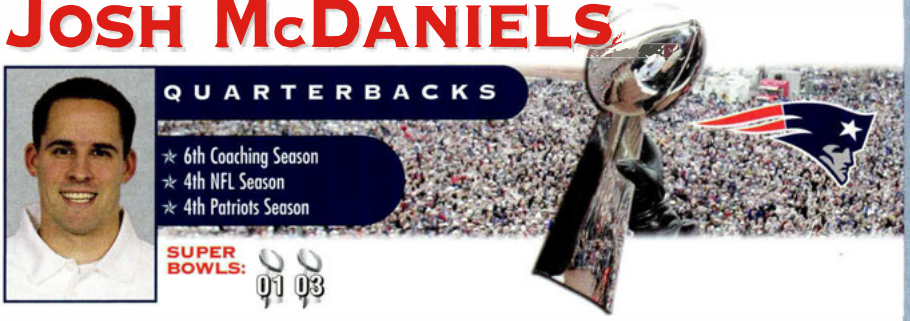

Eric Mangini was born Jan. 19, 1971 in Hartford, Conn. He attended Bulkeley (Conn.) High, where he received the Brian Piccolo Award for outstanding athletic and academic achievement and was named the Scholar Athlete of the Year as a senior. As an undergraduate at Wesleyan, he spent the second semester of his junior and senior years studying abroad in Melbourne, Australia, serving as the head coach/defensive coordinator for the Kew Colts, a semi-professional football team. He also worked as an intern for the New England Crusaders, a minor league football team in his hometown of Hartford, Conn. In 1998, he received the scholar-athlete award from the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame (Northern Connecticut Chapter). For the past three seasons, he has teamed up with fellow Connecticut native Tebucky Jones to host a football camp for athletes in grades eight through 12. A staff of over 30 NFL coaches and players have annually taught hundreds of students during the one-day session. The camp raises money for the Carmine & Frank Mangini Foundation. The CFM Foundation supports children's causes in the Greater Hartford, Conn. area. Eric and his wife, Julie, were married in June of 2001. The couple celebrated the birth of their first child, Jake, in Feb. 2003.

COACHING

Markus Paul is a seven-year coaching veteran, now in his fifth season with the Patriots. He joined the Patriots on Feb. 16, 2000 as the assistant strength and conditioning coach on Bill Belichick's staff. He assists strength and conditioning coach Mike Woicik, a position he held for two seasons in New Orleans prior to joining the Patriots. Paul is responsible for assisting in player conditioning and also draws additional responsibility in coordinating the Patriots player development programs.

Paul has celebrated two Super Bowl championships since arriving in New England, as the Patriots achieved overall records of 17-2 in 2003 and 14-5 in 2001. In both of their championship seasons, the Patriots were able to maintain strong conditioning to keep the team on top of its game at the end of NFL seasons that spanned 23 games (including preseason) and more than six months. New England has consistently stayed strong down the stretch, compiling a 28-4 record in games played after November 1 over the last three seasons.

Woicik gave Paul his first coaching opportunity at the NFL level while on Mike Ditka's staff with the Saints in 1998. For two seasons, he assisted Woicik in the implementation of the Saints conditioning program. His responsibilities included the monitoring of each player's workout routines throughout the year.

Paul first became familiar with Woicik's conditioning program at Syracuse University when Paul was a student-athlete and trained in Woicik's program.

PLAYING

Paul was originally a fourth-round draft choice of the Chicago Bears in 1989. He spent five seasons in Chicago before playing his final game as a member of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1993. He started 30 of 71 games in Chicago, including 15 at each safety position. He intercepted seven passes during his career, which he returned for a total of 100 yards. A four-year starter at Syracuse (1985-88), Paul set a school record with 19 career interceptions. As a senior in 1988, he earned first-team All-American honors from The Sporting News and Football News.

PERSONAL

Markus Paul was born on April 1, 1966, in Orlando, Fla. He was an all-state quarterback and defensive back at Osceola (Fla.) High and led his team to the high school Citrus Bowl in 1983. Markus and his wife Patricia have a son, Jairus, and a daughter, Tabitha.

FANTASTIC FINISHES

One of the oldest mantras in sports is that it doesn't matter where you start a season, but it does matter where you finish it. The Patriots have done a remarkable job of finishing strong over the past two-plus seasons, as they have compiled a 28-4 (.875) record after November 1 since the 2001 season. In 2003, the Patriots hit their groove as the calendar turned to the 11th month, winning all 11 games after Nov. 1, en route to the Super Bowl XXXVIII title.

Coaching

Dean Pees, a 31-year coaching veteran, enters his first season in the NFL serving as the Patriots linebackers coach in 2004. He joins Bill Belichick's staff after serving for six seasons as the head coach at Kent State. His extensive background in college coaching includes 15 seasons as a defensive coordinator, including a three-year stint at Michigan State from 1995-97 during which he also coached inside linebackers.

Pees was hired as the head coach at Kent State on December 17, 1997, faced with the challenge of rebuilding a program that had not produced a winning season in 10 years and had not won more than three games in a season for six years. Once his system was fully implemented, the Golden Flashes showed significant improvement, winning more games in his final three seasons than the school had won in the previous decade (1991-2000).

In 2001, Pees led the Golden Flashes to a 6-5 record, notching the school's best mark in 14 years. He followed that with a five-win season in 2003, including four wins in the Mid-American Conference and victories in two of his final three games at Kent State. Pees' six-year tenure with the Golden Flashes made him the longest-serving head coach in the program's last 40 years.

Prior to securing the head job at Kent State, Pees was the defensive coordinator and inside linebackers coach on Nick Saban's staff at Michigan State. The Spartans qualified for a postseason bowl game in each of Pees' three seasons in East Lansing and finished with the 13th-ranked overall defense in the nation in his final season. While with the Spartans, Pees assisted in the development of linebacker Ike Reese, now with the Philadelphia Eagles. Reese was the only two-time captain in Michigan State history and finished his career third on the school's all-time tackles list.

Pees joined Michigan State after serving as secondary coach on Lou Holtz's staff at Notre Dame during the 1994 season. While in South Bend, Pees coached Eagles Pro Bowl cornerback Bobby Taylor during his senior season in which Taylor was named to numerous All-American teams. He also coached Dolphins safety Shawn Wooden at Notre Dame. He joined the Fighting Irish after four seasons as the defensive coordinator at the University of Toledo, where he was first hired by Saban in 1990. In 1992, Pees' defense allowed just 13.9 points per game as Toledo posted an 8-3 record, including two shutout victories. Pees also served a three-year stint as the secondary coach at the Naval Academy (1987-89). He began his college coaching career as the defensive coordinator/ secondary coach for the University of Findlay (1979-82) and then held the same title at Miami (Ohio) University (1983-86).

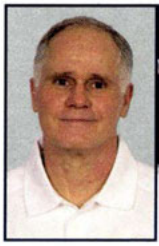

Personal

Dean Pees is a native of Dunkirk, Ohio and is a graduate of Bowling Green State University. Pees and his wife Melody have six children – Laura, Meredith, Steffani, Matt, Elli and Tarrin – and a grandchild, Kade.

DANTE SCARNECCHIA

ASST. HEAD COACH
OFFENSIVE LINE

- 35th Coaching Season
- 23rd NFL Season
- 21st Patriots Season

SUPER BOWLS: 01 03

Coaching

Dante Scarnecchia is a 35-year coaching veteran who is enjoying his 23rd season as an NFL assistant. He owns the longest coaching tenure in Patriots history, now entering his 21st season on the sidelines in Foxborough. Since joining the Patriots in 1982, he has spent all but two seasons (1989-90) in New England. Scarnecchia has the distinction of being the only coach in franchise history to be a member of all four Super Bowl appearances (XX in 1985, XXXI in 1996, XXXVI in 2001 and XXXVIII in 2003). He has been on the Patriots coaching staff during nine of the franchise's 12 playoff appearances and has coached in 19 of the 23 playoff games in team history.

For the sixth consecutive season, Scarnecchia's primary responsibility will be the offensive line, a position he has coached for 19 of his 35 seasons in the profession. Bill Belichick named Scarnecchia the Patriots assistant head coach/offensive line coach on Feb. 1, 2000.

Offensive line cohesion and consistency have been important factors in the Patriots' season-ending winning streaks that led to Super Bowl titles in 2001 and 2003. New England started the same five offensive linemen in the final 12 games of the 2003 regular season, coinciding with the team's 12-game winning streak to enter the playoffs. In the playoffs, the offensive line did not allow a sack in any of the team's three games despite 126 pass attempts.

In 2003, Scarnecchia guided the offensive line to a solid season despite three of the five opening day starters ending the season on injured reserve. Despite the injuries that led to three new starters, the offensive line was a force in Super Bowl XXXVIII, holding the heralded Carolina Panthers defensive line to zero sacks and opening lanes for New England to rush for 127 yards and a touchdown.

In 2001, he worked with a unit that featured three new starters, including two young offensive tackles, but still produced a powerful rushing attack and a balanced passing attack. Running back Antowain Smith rushed for 1,157 yards, the most by a Patriot back in the last six years, and powered the Patriots to 14 wins, including the region's first Super Bowl championship.

Prior to coaching the offensive line, Scarnecchia handled the Patriots special team units for two seasons (1997-98). In 1998, kicker Adam Vinatieri scored a career-high 127 points, sixth in franchise history and the most by a Patriot since Tony Franklin's 140 points in 1986.

In 1997, Scarnecchia's special teams units produced the league's second-best punter (Tupa), fifth-best kick returner (David Meggett) and the AFC's special teams Pro Bowl representative (Larry Whigham). Tupa set a franchise record and led the AFC with a 45.8-yard average (gross) per punt. It was the first time in franchise history that a Patriots punter led the conference in punting.

Scarnecchia originally joined the Patriots and made his NFL coaching debut in 1982 as a member of Ron Meyer's staff. He coached the tight ends and special teams for the Patriots for seven seasons (1982-88) before moving on to Indianapolis with Meyer in 1989. He rejoined the Patriots in 1991 after spending two seasons (1989-90) as the Colts' offensive line coach. From 1991 to 1992, he coached the tight ends and special teams on Dick MacPherson's staff. On Nov. 4, 1992, MacPherson fell ill and appointed Scarnecchia to serve as the team's spokesman in his absence. Scarnecchia fulfilled the obligation for seven of the Patriots' final eight games and held the responsibilities of the head coach for both of the Patriots victories that season.

In 1993, he was the only Patriots assistant retained from the previous staff. He was appointed special assistant from 1993-94, which was re-defined as defensive assistant from 1995-96. During that time, he assisted defensive coordinator Al Groh with the development of the team's linebacking corps.

His coaching career began in 1970 as the offensive line coach at California Western University. He moved to Iowa State in 1973, where he served as the assistant offensive line and defensive backfield coach. He spent the 1975 and 1976 campaigns at Southern Methodist University, before becoming the University of Pacific's offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator from 1977 through 1978. In 1979, Scarnecchia coached at Northern Arizona and then accepted an opportunity to return to Meyer's staff at SMU as the offensive line coach in 1980 and 1981. In 1982, Meyer was hired as the head coach of the New England Patriots and Scarnecchia was among a number of the SMU assistants who joined Meyer's staff in New England.

Playing

Scarnecchia played offensive guard and center at California Western University from 1968-70. He began his collegiate career at Taft Junior College in 1966 before transferring to California Western.

Personal

Dante Scarnecchia was born Feb. 15, 1948, in Los Angeles, Calif. He holds a master's degree in physical education from U.S. International. Dante and his wife Susan have a daughter, Lisa, and a son, Steve.

Brad Seely

Coaching

Brad Seely is a 27-year coaching veteran who is enjoying his 16th season in the NFL, including his sixth with the Patriots. He joined the Patriots as the special teams coach on Jan. 27, 1999 and has celebrated two Super Bowl championships as a member of Bill Belichick's staff.

Since Seely arrived in New England, the Patriots special teams have consistently contributed to the team's accomplishments, reflecting Coach Belichick's emphasis on special teams as a major factor in building a championship team. In the last three seasons, New England has sent two special teamers to the Pro Bowl and has successfully converted two game-winning field goals in the Super Bowl. In each of the last two seasons, the Patriots have produced the AFC's leading kickoff returner and have led the AFC in field goal defense.

In 2003, New England's special teams units led the AFC in three categories. New England produced the AFC's leading kickoff returner for the second consecutive season, as rookie Bethel Johnson averaged 28.2 yards per return, including a 92-yard return for a touchdown at Indianapolis. Johnson recorded five returns of 50 yards or more, as he consistently gave the New England offense good field position. New England's punt coverage unit led the AFC and ranked second in the NFL by allowing just 6.3 yards per punt return. The Patriots also led the AFC in field goal defense, forcing opponents to miss 10 kicks.

In 2002, the Patriots' special teams units were among the best in the league and sent two representatives to the Pro Bowl, kicker Adam Vinatieri and special teams coverage specialist Larry Izzo. Vinatieri converted 27 of 30 field goal attempts (.900), setting a new franchise record for accuracy. As a team, the Patriots led the league in both field goal percentage categories, converting 90 percent while holding their opponents to just 58.8 percent (20-of-34). Kevin Faulk led the AFC and ranked second in the league in kick returns with a 27.9-yard average.

Seely earned Special Teams Coach of the Year honors in 1996 as an assistant with the Carolina Panthers but may have had his most complete season in 2001, based on the rankings and performances of each of his special teams units. The Patriots coverage units ranked first in punt returns (allowing just 4.8 yards per return), first in gross punt average (allowing just 39.5 yards per punt) and first in net punt average (limiting opponents to 31.6 net yards per punt). Troy Brown led the league with a 14.2-yard average per punt return (second in franchise history). He returned his third punt for a touchdown at Pittsburgh in the AFC Championship Game to give the Patriots a 7-0 lead and helped secure the victory when he scooped up a blocked field goal attempt and lateraled it to Antwan Harris who returned it for another touchdown in a 24-17 victory.

In 2000, only St. Louis had a better kickoff return average (25.1 yards per return) than the Patriots (24.2), while New England's punt return average ranked ninth in the league (10.3). Brown led the team and finished fifth in the AFC with a 10.7-yard punt return average.

Prior to joining the Patriots, Seely spent four seasons with the Carolina Panthers, where he helped groom an expansion team into a team that competed for the NFC Championship. In 1996 and 1997, Panthers kickoff returner Michael Bates became the first player in 35 years to lead the league in kick return average in consecutive seasons. He also earned two consecutive trips to the Pro Bowl for his efforts.

In 1996, not only did Seely help produce the NFL's best kick return specialist, but he also had the league's best kicker, as John Kasay set an NFL single-season record with 37 field goals. In addition to the success of Bates and Kasay, Carolina also boasted one of the league's top coverage units, ranking first or second in nearly every statistical category. Special teams played a big part in the team's overall success, as Carolina claimed their first division title in just their second season with a 12-4 overall record.

Seely began his coaching career in 1978 at South Dakota State, the alma mater of Patriots placekicker Adam Vinatieri. The following year, he accepted a graduate assistant position at Colorado State, where he was later hired as the offensive line coach in 1980. In 1981, he was named the assistant offensive line coach (assisting Dante Scarnecchia) on Ron Meyer's staff at Southern Methodist. He helped coach a line that opened holes for SMU's "Pony Express" backfield of Eric Dickerson and Craig James. The next year, he coached at North Carolina State before coaching at Pacific in 1983. In 1984, he started a five-year stint as the offensive line coach at Oklahoma State, which helped produce the likes of Thurman Thomas and 1988 Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders.

He made the transition to the professional ranks in 1989 when he was named the special teams and tight ends coach of the Indianapolis Colts. During that five-year tenure, he assisted in the development of Stark and return specialist Clarence Verdin. Both players became Pro Bowl performers for the Colts. In addition, his special teams units were annually ranked among the top coverage units in football. In 1993, they led the league by allowing just 14.9 yards per kick return. In 1994, he accepted the special teams assignment with the Jets. He left the Jets in 1995 when he was named the special teams coach of the expansion Carolina Panthers.

Playing

Seely earned a degree in economics and physical education while earning all-conference honors as an offensive guard at South Dakota State.

Personal

Brad Seely was born Sept. 6, 1956 in Vinton, Iowa. Brad and his wife, Patti, have three daughters, Sarah, Hannah and Brynn.

Charlie Weis

Coaching

Charlie Weis, a 26-year coaching veteran, including 15 seasons in the NFL, is enjoying his ninth season with the New England Patriots and his fifth as the team's offensive coordinator. In 15 NFL seasons, his coaching contributions have helped produce three Super Bowl Championships, four conference titles and five division titles. Weis has experienced success at each stop in his coaching career and has gained widespread respect as one of the NFL's most creative offensive coordinators.

Throughout his career, Weis has shown the ability to develop successful offensive players through his teaching methods. He has helped to advance the careers of Curtis Martin, Keyshawn Johnson, Ben Coates and, most recently, two-time Super Bowl MVP quarterback Tom Brady. Under Weis' tutelage, the former sixth-round draft choice has become one of the NFL's premier signal callers in just three seasons as a starter. Including the playoffs, Brady has compiled a 40-12 record as a starting quarterback since stepping in early in 2001, at which time Weis was also serving as New England's quarterbacks coach.

Weis drew additional responsibilities mentoring the quarterbacks from 2001 to 2002, a role he accepted after suffering the personal loss of quarterbacks coach Dick Rehbein, one of his closest friends and coaching confidants, who died in August of 2001. That season, Drew Bledsoe started the first two games of the season before being sidelined with a serious chest injury. By the third week of the season, Weis was preparing Brady for his first NFL start, and over the course of the season, Brady blossomed into a Pro Bowl performer and earned the MVP award in Super Bowl XXXVI. From there, Brady continued to improve, leading the NFL with 28 touchdown passes in 2002, then turning in another Super Bowl MVP performance in 2003.

In recent seasons, Weis' offense has allowed young offensive players such as Brady, Deion Branch, David Givens and Kevin Faulk to develop. In addition to helping the Patriots' young stars emerge, Weis's offense has allowed veterans such as Troy Brown, Christian Fauria and David Patten enjoy resurgences in their careers. Brown set a franchise record with 101 receptions in 2001, earning his first Pro Bowl nod in his ninth season in the league. Fauria led the team with seven touchdowns in 2002 (his eighth professional season), while Patten's 61 catches in 2002 were the most of his seven-year career.

Weis also used contributions from a pair of 2002 draft picks to help the team to its second championship in 2003. In his second pro season, Branch led the team with 57 receptions, while fellow second-year player Givens paced the club with six receiving touchdowns. In the postseason, Givens added a pair of scores, while Branch's 10 catches in Super Bowl XXXVIII tied for the third-most in Super Bowl history.

Weis began his professional coaching career with the New York Giants in 1990. After working in the Giants pro personnel department in 1989, Weis was named defensive assistant and assistant special teams coach. In his first season on the Giants coaching staff, the Giants claimed the Super Bowl title with a 16-3 overall record. In 1991, Ray Handley took over as coach of the Giants and named Weis his running backs coach. After two seasons on Handley's staff, Weis began a four-year stint in New England.

In Weis' previous tenure with the Patriots from 1993-96, he helped to develop some of the franchise's best individual single-season performances from Coates, Martin and Terry Glenn, respectively. During his first four seasons in New England, he coached three different positions – tight ends, running backs and wide receivers. In 1993 and 1994, he served as the team's tight ends coach, and in his second season at the position, Coates set an NFL record for receptions by a tight end with 96 and earned his first trip to the Pro Bowl. In 1995, Weis coached the Patriots' running backs and was credited with developing Martin, a third-round '95 draft pick, into one of the premier running backs in the NFL. That year, Martin won Rookie of the Year honors and set franchise rushing records with 1,487 yards and 14 touchdowns. In 1996, Weis coached the team's receivers, and under his tutelage, Glenn led the team and set an NFL rookie reception record with 90 catches for 1,132 yards and six touchdowns.

From 1997 to 1999, Weis called the offensive plays for the New York Jets. In his first season with the Jets, New York improved from 1-15 in 1996 to 9-7 in 1997. The eight-game improvement was the best in franchise history. In 1998, Weis was named the offensive coordinator/wide receivers coach after a year of handling the dual responsibilities. By season's end, his offense ranked among the greatest in franchise history and led the team to their first division title. The team scored 416 points, the second highest total in franchise history (419 points in 1968) and averaged 357.2 yards per game. It was the second-best season average in Jets history (368.5 ypg in 1985). Both of Weis' starting receivers, Johnson (1,131) and Chrebet (1,083), eclipsed the 1,000-yard receiving plateau for the first time in their respective careers. It also marked the first time since 1986 that two Jets receivers reached that milestone in one season.

In 1999, Weis' offense produced the league's second-leading rusher and the AFC's fourth ranked receiver. Martin rushed for 1,464 yards, falling just 90 yards shy of the rushing title. Johnson led the team and established career-highs with 89 receptions for 1,170 yards. He earned his second consecutive Pro Bowl nod at the end of the season.

Weis has enjoyed tremendous coaching success at all levels, including high school, college and in the pros. The Trenton native began his coaching career in 1979 at a high school in New Jersey. In 1985, he was hired as an assistant at the University of South Carolina, where he coached for four seasons before returning to New Jersey as the head coach at Franklin Township High in 1989. That year, he directed them to the New Jersey State Championship. In 1990, he launched his professional coaching career with the New York Giants and celebrated his first Super Bowl championship.

Coaching

Mike Woicik was named the Patriots strength and conditioning coach on Bill Belichick's staff on Feb. 16, 2000. The 27-year coaching veteran is now in his 15th season in the NFL and has initiated strength and conditioning programs that have contributed to the success of five Super Bowl Championship teams, three with the Dallas Cowboys and two with the Patriots. Woicik's year-round conditioning program has proven to be a significant factor in the Patriots season-ending successes in 2001 and 2003. The Patriots closed out each of their championship seasons with lengthy, late-season win streaks and stayed well conditioned down the stretch. Since 2001, New England has compiled a sparkling 28-4 record in games played after November 1.

Woicik entered the NFL coaching ranks with the Dallas Cowboys in 1990 and was voted the NFL's "Strength Coach of the Year" in 1992. During his seven seasons (1990-96) with the Cowboys, the team totaled an 89-38 record, including 12 playoff victories and three Super Bowl championships. Like it has in New England, conditioning played a big part in the Cowboys' overall success. In his final six seasons with Dallas, they had a cumulative 35-11 (.761) record from Thanksgiving until the end of the playoffs.

Prior to joining the Patriots, he spent three seasons with the New Orleans Saints (1997-99).

Woicik began his strength and conditioning training at Springfield College in 1978. He served as the track coach and weight room coordinator from 1978-80. In 1980, he was hired by Syracuse University, where he developed the strength and conditioning programs for the university for the next decade (1980-89).

Personal

Mike Woicik was born Sept. 26, 1956 in Baltimore, Md. and was raised in Westwood, Mass. He graduated from Westwood (Mass.) High and starred on the track and football teams. He earned a bachelor's degree in history from Boston College and a master's degree in physical education from Springfield College. Woicik was an outstanding discus thrower at Boston College, setting a school record of 180 feet, 5 inches. He also earned All-East honors and qualified for the NCAA Championships while competing in the discus at Boston College. In addition to the discus, he also competed in the shot put and hammer throw.

His primary responsibilities are as a defensive staff assistant and include film breakdown and scouting chart preparations for the staff. Undlin came to New England from Fresno State, where he assisted with the defensive backs and was a graduate assistant for two years. Prior to joining Fresno State, he spent five seasons as a coach at Cal Lutheran University beginning in 1998. He served as the defensive coordinator from 2000-2002 after a two-year stint coaching the team's linebackers. He attended Cal Lutheran and played football from 1990-94. Cory and his wife Amy have one son, Caden.

Matt Patricia joined the Patriots on March 1, 2004 as a coaching assistant on Coach Belichick's staff. His primary responsibilities are as an offensive staff assistant and include breaking down opponent film, scouting preparations, and practice assistance. He joined the Patriots from Syracuse University where he was the offensive graduate assistant. Prior to joining the Orangemen, Patricia coached at Amherst College and R.P.I. The Sherrill, N.Y. native attended Vernon-Verona-Sherrill Central School where he lettered in football and wrestling. He earned his undergraduate degree in aeronautical engineering from R.P.I. in Troy, N.Y. At R.P.I., Patricia played center and guard, helping his senior class to a 31-8 record and three E.C.A.C. Thomas Dimitroff

DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE SCOUTING

Thomas Dimitroff Jr. is now in his 15th season in player personnel and is in his third year with the Patriots. After serving the 2002 season as the team's national scout, he was named the director of college scouting on June 11, 2003. He oversees a staff of area scouts who are responsible for evaluating all of the nation's eligible college prospects. He also monitors the development and availability of recently drafted players.

He joined the Patriots after serving the previous nine seasons in the scouting departments of three different NFL teams. His first NFL personnel opportunity came in 1993 as an area scout for the Kansas City Chiefs. In 1994, he was given an opportunity to serve as an area scout for the Detroit Lions, a position he held through 1997. Prior to joining the Patriots, he gained four seasons of experience working in the scouting department of the Cleveland Browns (1998-01).

Dimitroff spent three years scouting two other pro football leagues before his first NFL opportunity. He spent the 1990 and 1991 seasons in the Canadian Football League, followed by a season in the World League in 1992. His season in the World League was spent scouting all NFL, CFL and World League rosters and tracking player transactions. His two seasons in the CFL prior to that were served as the Canadian scouting coordinator for the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Thomas Dimitroff Jr. was born in Barberton, Ohio. He played football throughout college and captained his University of Guelph (Canada) football team from 1987-89. His father, Tom, was a long-time personnel scout for the Cleveland Browns.

Lionel Vital

ASST. DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE SCOUTING

Lionel Vital is in his 15th season as a personnel evaluator, including his fifth with the Patriots. He joined the Patriots personnel department on May 18, 2000 when he was named the team's national college scout. A year later, he was promoted to assistant director of college scouting. In his current position, he assists Thomas Dimitroff in overseeing all college scouting and will share in the responsibilities for the evaluations of the nation's top college prospects. His contributions since joining the Patriots have been important to rebuilding them into a championship-caliber team.

In joining the Patriots, Vital was reunited with head coach Bill Belichick and vice president of player personnel Scott Pioli, a working relationship that began in Cleveland in 1992. Prior to joining the Patriots, Vital spent three seasons with the New York Jets as a talent scout in the college scouting department. In New York, his responsibilities included the highly coveted Southeast region.

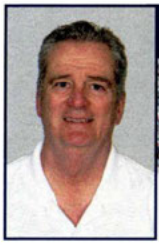

Belichick first hired Vital as a talent scout for the Cleveland Browns in 1991, after two seasons as the director of player personnel for the Montreal Machine of the World League of American Football (1990-91). Vital remained with the team through the 1995 season and accompanied the franchise's move to Baltimore in 1996. In 1997, he rejoined Belichick and Pioli with the Jets in New York.

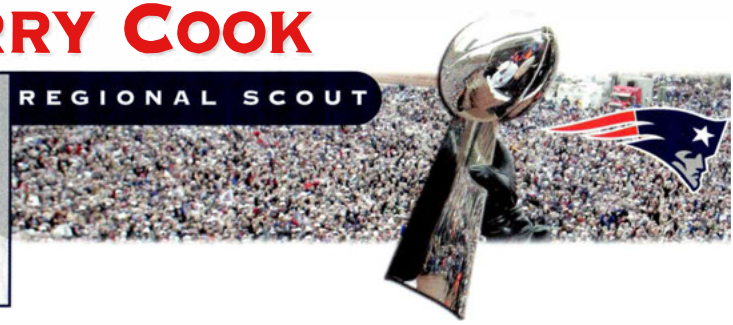

Vital exhausted his professional playing career options in football and baseball before pursuing a career in scouting. After establishing a school rushing record at Nichols State, Vital was drafted by the Washington Redskins in the seventh round of the 1985 NFL draft. He missed his rookie season due to an injury and was waived in 1986. In 1987, he re-signed with Washington and appeared in three games, rushing for 346 yards and two touchdowns on just 80 carries (4.3 avg.). Following the season, he signed a contract with the Chicago White Sox as an outfielder but soon returned to the NFL to pursue his football career. He enjoyed short stints at Buffalo and Detroit before completing his playing career with the Saskatchewan Rough Riders of the CFL from 1989-90.

Lionel Vital was born July 15, 1963 in New Iberia, La. He attended Loreauville (La.) High and earned all-district honors in football and all-state honors in baseball. He attended Nichols State, where he majored in criminal justice.

Larry Cook

Larry Cook is enjoying his 42nd year in football, including his 24th as a member of the Patriots personnel department. He was named regional scout on June 11, 2003 after serving six years as the director of college scouting. As a regional scout, he will now concentrate more of his time on the gathering of information on the top college prospects in a specific region.

In 24 years with the Patriots, he has celebrated each of the Patriots' four Super Bowl appearances and has been an important contributor to the team's scouting department for over two decades.

Cook originally joined the Patriots scouting department as a personnel scout on Dick Steinberg's staff on Feb. 1, 1985, after a 16-year coaching career. Became an unrestricted free agent (02/11/00) ... Re-signed with the Patriots (03/23/00).

Career Highlights

★ Career GP/GS: 120/72 (12/7)

★ Bruschi ranked second on the team with 137 tackles (87 solo) in 2003, just three shy of Rodney Harrison's team-leading 140 stops. His 137 hits were just one short of his career high, set in 1999.

★ In 2003, Bruschi was a captain of a Patriots defense that became the first defensive unit in 65 years not to allow a touchdown in four consecutive home games in one season. The last team to accomplish the feat was the 1938 New York Giants.

★ Bruschi has returned four interceptions for touchdowns over the past two seasons, tying him with Tampa Bay's Derrick Brooks for the NFL lead over that span. His four career picks returned for a score rank second on the franchise's all-time list (Ty Law, 6).

★ Bruschi was named the AFC Defensive Player of the Week twice in 2003, following his contributions to Patriots victories in Week Two at Philadelphia and in the AFC East-clinching victory over Miami in Week 14.

★ Bruschi was voted a defensive captain in both 2002 and 2003 by his teammates.

★ Bruschi returned two interceptions for touchdowns during both the 2002 and 2003 seasons. He became just the seventh player in franchise history to return two interceptions for scores in a season, as well as the first linebacker to accomplish the feat.

★ Bruschi tied a career-high and ranked third on the team with 4.5 sacks in 2002.

★ Bruschi started nine of 15 games in 2001 and finished third on the team with 73 tackles.

★ Recorded 15 tackles (13 solos), including 1.5 sacks during the 2001 postseason.

★ Started all 16 games at linebacker in 2000 and finished the season with 105 tackles (68 solos). It was his second consecutive season with over 100 tackles (138 in 1999).

★ Started 14 games in 1999 and finished second on the team with 138 total tackles, including two sacks.

★ Bruschi recorded a career-high 14 tackles twice during the 1999 season, at N.Y. Jets (09/12/99) and at Buffalo (11/28/99).

★ Accepted the starting outside linebacker responsibilities at mid-season in 1998 and finished fourth on the team with 81 tackles.

A Winning Tradition

The Patriots joined an elite group in winning their third conference championship since 1996. New England is one of 11 teams in the Super Bowl Era (since 1966) to win three conference championships in a span of eight seasons. The Patriots appeared in Super Bowl XXXI after the 1996 season, Super Bowl XXXVI after the 2001 season and Super Bowl XXXVIII following the 2003 season.

Extra Points

Adam has kicked two game-winning field goals in the Super Bowl, helping him earn the reputation as one of the greatest clutch kickers in NFL history. He nailed a 41-yard kick with four seconds left in Super Bowl XXXVIII to give the Patriots a 32-29 win over Carolina just two seasons after he kicked a 48-yard field goal as time expired to give the Patriots a 20-17 victory over St. Louis in Super Bowl XXXVI.

★ Vrabel capped off 2003 with a strong postseason, finishing with three sacks, including two in Super Bowl XXXVIII. He also lined up as a tight end in the Super Bowl and caught the Patriots' final touchdown of the game on a one-yard play from Tom Brady in the fourth quarter.

★ Vrabel applied pressure to Rams quarterback Kurt Warner in Super Bowl XXXVI, forcing an errant pass that was intercepted by Ty Law and returned 47 yards for a touchdown, giving the Patriots an early 7-0 advantage.

★ Vrabel recorded one of the biggest plays for the Pittsburgh Steelers during the 1997 playoffs, when he sacked Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe and forced him to fumble with less than two minutes remaining in the game. Football is easy.

All you have to do is throw a ball to a guy running down the field.
45 yards down the field.

With 5 to 8 enormous guys thundering toward you.

Hoping to hit you so hard,
you can't remember your name.

Which is exactly what will happen if you don't throw before 3-Mississippi.

Well, football looks easy
when you know how.

Proud sponsor of the Patriots and of knowing how.

THE HOME DEPOT

You can do it.
We can help.

Historical Capsule

Professional football arrived in New England on Nov. 16, 1959, when a group of local businessmen, led by former public relations executive William H. "Billy" Sullivan Jr. was awarded the eighth and final franchise in the new American Football League. One week later, Northwestern University running back Ron Burton was selected as the franchise's first draft choice and Syracuse running back Gerhardt Schwedes was selected as the team's first territorial choice.

Three key personnel decisions were made in the winter of 1960. First, former Boston College head coach Mike Holovak was named director of player personnel. Ed McKeever was hired as the team's first general manager and he selected Lou Saban as the team's first head coach.

One of the first orders of business of the management group was giving the franchise a name and that was accomplished through a public contest. Thousands of entries were submitted to name the team and 74 fans suggested the winning name, the Boston Patriots. Shortly after the franchise name was chosen, Boston Globe artist Phil Bissell drew a cartoon of a Minuteman preparing to snap a football and owner Sullivan liked the drawing so much that he selected "Pat Patriot" as the team logo. On April 1, 1960, Boston University Field - the former home of the Boston Braves - was selected as the first home of the Boston Patriots.

The organization's first training camp opened on July 4, 1960 at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Approximately 350 players reported to the opening of camp, including a large contingent from Boston College. This group was trimmed to 35 for the start of the regular season. The team's first preseason game was held on July 30 and the Patriots defeated the Buffalo Bills 28-7 at War Memorial Stadium in Buffalo. Patriots defensive end Bob Dee recovered a fumble during the game and scored the AFL's first touchdown. The first "home" game was held two weeks later before 11,000 fans at Harvard Stadium and the Patriots lost 24-14 to the Dallas Texans. The team's regular season home opener came on Sept. 9 and 21,597 fans at Boston University field watched the team lose to the Denver Broncos 13-10.

The 1963 season saw the Patriots move to Fenway Park for home games, where they claimed their first division crown with a 7-6-1 record. The team lost the AFL title game, 51-10, to the San Diego Chargers. A number of Patriots players emerged as stars in the AFL during the 1960s, including wide receiver and kicker Gino Cappelletti, running back Jim Nance, quarterback Babe Parilli, linebacker Nick Buoniconti, defensive linemen Houston Antwine, Bob Dee, Larry Eisenhauer and Jim Lee Hunt and center Jon Morris.

In 1970, after a decade of playing at four different sites, including Boston University Field, Harvard Stadium, Fenway Park and Boston College Alumni Stadium, the Patriots selected Foxborough as the new home of the team. In March 1971, the team was renamed the New England Patriots. On Aug. 15, 1971, the Patriots played their first game at Schaefer Stadium in Foxborough, defeating the New York Giants 20-14 before a crowd of 60,423 in a preseason contest.

In 1976, the Patriots earned a wild-card playoff berth, but lost to the eventual Super Bowl Champion Oakland Raiders, 24-21. In 1978, the Patriots won their first outright division title in franchise history, but lost to the Houston Oilers on Dec. 31, 31-14, in the franchise's first home playoff game. During the 1970s, several Patriots were regarded to be among the most outstanding players in the league at their positions, including offensive tackle John Hannah, cornerback Mike Haynes and tight end Russ Francis.

In 1982, Schaefer Stadium was renamed Sullivan Stadium. In 1985, the Patriots gained a wild-card berth in the playoffs and went on to defeat the New York Jets, Los Angeles Raiders and the Miami Dolphins on the road to win their first AFC Championship and a trip to Super Bowl XX. Unfortunately, the Patriots faced one of the dominant teams of the '80s as the Chicago Bears rolled to a 46-10 Super Bowl victory. Following that season, Patriot greats John Hannah and Julius Adams retired.

On July 28, 1988, Remington Products, Inc. CEO Victor Kiam purchased the Patriots from the Sullivan family and retained the team for four years. On Nov. 23, 1988, Robert Kraft purchased Sullivan Stadium out of bankruptcy court.

In 1990, Sullivan Stadium was renamed Foxboro Stadium and the following season natural grass was installed in the stadium for the first time. On July 27 1991, Hannah became the first Patriot to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

In 1992, St. Louis businessman James B. Orthwein purchased controlling interest of the Patriots and made some dramatic changes, both on and off the field. In 1993, he hired former New York Giants head coach Bill Parcells and a new coaching staff. In addition, he also made some cosmetic changes that spring with the unveiling of a new Patriots logo and the change of primary color from red to blue.

On Jan. 21, 1994, Robert K. Kraft became the franchise's fourth owner when he purchased the team from Orthwein, saving the team from an impending move. That season, the Patriots closed out the season with a seven-game winning streak to qualify for their first playoff berth since 1985. In 1995, the Patriots became the first professional sports team to launch their own Web site - www.patriots.com.

The Patriots continued their rise during a memorable 1996 season, winning the AFC Championship and returning to the Super Bowl for the second time in team history. The Patriots finished 11-5 and scored two home playoff wins, 28-3 vs. Pittsburgh and 20-6 vs. Jacksonville, winning the AFC Championship in front of a sold out Foxboro Stadium crowd. The Patriots were defeated by the Green Bay Packers in Super Bowl XXXI, 35-21.

In 1997, the Patriots defended their AFC East division title with a 7-1 record in the division and a 10-6 overall record. It was the first time in team history that New England won back-to-back division titles.

The Patriots finished 9-7 in 1998 and qualified for the playoffs, marking the third consecutive season they qualified for the postseason - a team record.

A new era began in Patriots history in 2000 when the team unveiled designs for their new stadium. The new 68,436-seat facility opened in May, 2002 and celebrated its Grand Opening on Sept. 9, 2002.

When Kraft purchased the Patriots, he promised the fans of New England that he would bring home a championship, and in his first 10 years of ownership, he delivered not just one, but two titles to New England.

The Patriots began the most prosperous era in team history when Kraft hired Bill Belichick as the club's 14th head coach on Jan. 27, 2000. After taking a year to implement his system, Belichick molded the Patriots into one of the NFL's elite teams. He led the Patriots to the best record in the league over a three-year span from 2001-03 (40-14), en route to winning two Super Bowl titles in those three seasons.

The Patriots capped off an 11-5 regular season in 2001 with three playoff wins for the ages and the first Super Bowl title in team history. In the divisional round of the playoffs, the Patriots defeated the Oakland Raiders 16-13 in overtime during a driving snowstorm in the final game at Foxboro Stadium. Adam Vinatieri kicked a 45-yard field goal to tie the game late in regulation and then added a 23-yard kick in overtime to win, 16-13. The following week in Pittsburgh, the Patriots defeated the favored Steelers 24-17 in the AFC Championship Game to advance to their third Super Bowl.

In Super Bowl XXXVI at the Superdome in New Orleans on Feb. 3, 2002, the Patriots defeated the St. Louis Rams, 20-17, in one of the most dramatic Super Bowl finishes in history. After the Patriots took a 17-3 lead into the fourth quarter, St. Louis rallied to tie the game at 17. But quarterback Tom Brady marched the Patriots into Vinatieri's field goal range and his 48-yard kick sailed through the uprights as time expired to give New England its first NFL Championship. The Patriots were welcomed home with a rally in Boston attended by nearly 1.5 million people and took the Lombardi Trophy to rallies in all of the New England states.

In 2002, the Patriots celebrated the opening of their world-class new home, Gillette Stadium. In the Grand Opening on Sept. 9, the Super Bowl XXXVI banner was unveiled as the Patriots defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers, 30-14, before a national audience on Monday Night Football.

In 2003, just two seasons after winning its first Super Bowl, New England put together one of the finest seasons in pro football history, finishing with a 17-2 record and a victory in Super Bowl XXXVIII. After posting a 2-2 record in September, the Patriots became the first NFL team in 31 years to close the season with 15 consecutive wins, including three playoff victories. After fighting through a rash of injuries and finishing the regular-season with a franchise-best and league-leading 14-2 record, the Patriots produced another memorable three-game playoff run culminating in a championship.

In the divisional round of the 2003 playoffs, the Patriots defeated the Tennessee Titans 17-14 in the first playoff game at Gillette Stadium in the coldest game in team history (four degrees at kickoff). The next week, New England hosted the AFC Championship Game for the second time in team history and dispatched the Indianapolis Colts and league co-MVP Peyton Manning, 24-14, to claim their third conference title in eight years and advance to the Super Bowl for the fourth time in team history.

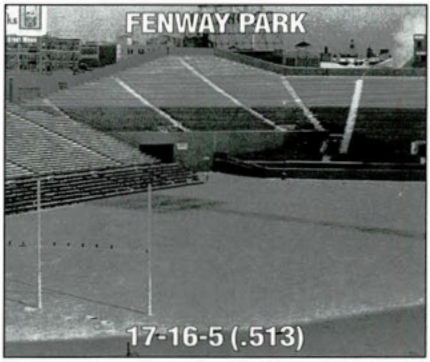

Two years after winning Super Bowl XXXVI in dramatic fashion, the Patriots saw fit to thrill their fans in a similar way with a 32-29 win over the Carolina Panthers in Super Bowl XXXVIII on Feb. 1, 2004 at Reliant Stadium in Houston Texas. In the game, New England jumped out to a 21-10 fourth-quarter lead, but Carolina rallied to take a 22-21 lead, then answered the Patriots' counterpunch by tying the game at 29 with just 1:08 left in the game. But Brady once again showed grace under pressure in driving the Patriots down the field and Vinatieri's clutch 41-yard boot with four seconds left gave the Patriots a 32-29 victory and their second Super Bowl title in three seasons.

Patriots Overtime Games

The Patriots are 17-18 all-time in overtime games during their 44-year history, including the playoffs. New England enters the 2004 season with an eight-game overtime winning streak (including playoffs), setting an all-time NFL record for consecutive overtime victories. The Patriots are 11-15 when the game is decided by a field goal and 5-3 when a touchdown is the deciding factor. Below is a brief description of each overtime game.

09/26/77 ..at Cleveland 30, Patriots 27 L
John Smith sent the game into overtime with a 28-yard field goal with no time remaining in regulation. Cleveland's Don Cockroft capped a 10-play, 53-yard drive with a 35-yard game winning field goal after 4:45 of overtime.

09/03/79 ..Pittsburgh 16, at Patriots 13.....L
Pittsburgh's Matt Bahr drilled a 41-yard field goal to give the Steelers the victory at the 5:10 mark in overtime. The clutch field goal came on Bahr's first professional attempt of his career.

11/25/79 ..Buffalo 16, at Patriots 13.....L
Buffalo's Nick Mike-Mayer kicked a 29-yard field goal 4:45 into overtime to give the Bills the victory.

12/08/80 ..at Miami 16, Patriots 13 L
Uwe von Schamann kicked his third field goal of the day, a 23-yard game-winner, which gave Miami the three point victory, 3:20 into overtime.

09/27/81 ..at Pittsburgh 27, Patriots 21.....L
The Patriots scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to recover from a 21-7 deficit. Unfortunately, Terry Bradshaw hit Lynn Swann with a 24-yard touchdown pass 3:19 into overtime to thwart the Patriots hopes for victory.

Playoff Tie Breakers

The following procedures will be used to break standings ties for postseason playoffs. Note: Tie games count as one-half win and one-half loss for both clubs.

TO BREAK A TIE WITHIN A DIVISION

If, at the end of the regular season, two or more clubs in the same division finish with the best won-lost-tied percentage, the following steps will be taken until a champion is determined:

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games between the clubs.)
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
5. Strength of victory.

7. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.
9. Best net points in common games.
10. Best net points in all games.
11. Best net touchdowns in all games
12. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

(Note: If two clubs remain tied after a third club is eliminated during any step, tie-breaker reverts to Step 1 of the two-club format.)

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games among the clubs.)
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
5. Strength of victory.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.

TO BREAK A TIE FOR THE WILD-CARD TEAM

If it is necessary to break ties to determine the two Wild Card clubs from each conference, the following steps will be taken:

A. If all the tied clubs are from the same division, apply division tie-breaker.

B. If the tied clubs are from different divisions, apply the following steps:

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head, if applicable.
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in the games played within the conference.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
4. Strength of victory.
5. Strength of schedule.
6. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
7. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best net points in conference games.
9. Best net points in all games.
10. Best net touchdowns in all games.
11. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

1. Apply division tie-breaker to eliminate all but highest ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to Step 2. The original seeding within a division upon application of the division tie-breaker remains the same for all subsequent applications of the procedure that are necessary to identify the Wild Card participants.
2. Head-to-head sweep (apply only if one club has defeated each of the others or one club has lost to each of the others.)
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
5. Strength of victory.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.
9. Best net points in conference games.
10. Best net points in all games.
11. Best net touchdowns in all games.
12. Coin toss.

When the first Wild Card team has been identified, the procedure is repeated to name the second Wild Card (i.e., eliminate all but the highest ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to Step 2.) In situations where three teams from the same division are involved in the procedure, the original seeding of the teams remains the same for subsequent applications of the tie-breaker if the top-ranked team in that division qualifies for a Wild Card berth.

OTHER TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURES

1. Only one club advances to the playoffs in any tie-breaking step. Remaining tied clubs revert to the first step of the applicable division or Wild Card tie-breakers. As an example, if two clubs remain tied in any tie-breaker step after all other clubs have been eliminated, the procedure reverts to Step 1 of the two-club format to determine the winner. When one club wins the tie-breaker, all other clubs revert to Step 1 of the applicable two-club or three-club format.
2. In comparing records against common opponents among tied teams, the best won-lost-tied percentage is the deciding factor since teams may have played an unequal number of games.
3. To determine home-field priority among division-titlists, apply Wild Card tie-breakers.
4. To determine home-field priority for Wild Card qualifiers, apply division tie-breakers (if teams are from the same division) or Wild Card tie-breakers (if teams are from different divisions).

- This was the first of four championship games involving the Patriots. (Super Bowls XX following the 1985 season, XXXI following 1996 and XXXVI following 2001.)
- The 610 yards yielded by the Patriots defense still ranks as the highest total ever given up by the Patriots.
- The Patriots committed only one penalty versus the Chargers. It is the lowest single game total in team playoff history (tied with Dec. 28, 1985 at NY Jets).

GAME NOTES

- The game was marred by a controversial roughing the passer call on NT Ray Hamilton. The Patriots had seemingly stopped the Raiders when a Ken Stabler pass on a 3rd and 18 fell incomplete. However, penalty flags were thrown and the Raiders had a first and ten at the Patriot 13. Five plays later Stabler rolled around left end for the winning score.

- The Patriots finished the season 11-3, rebounding from a 3-11 record in 1975.

WBCN's Rock Radio Network

Gil Santos

WBCN 104.1 FM

Gino Cappelletti

This season, WBCN 104.1 FM in Boston will celebrate its 10th anniversary season as the official flagship station of the defending Super Bowl Champion New England Patriots. As a flagship, WBCN was one of the FM broadcasting pioneers in professional sports. For the past decade, football fans in greater Boston have had the pleasure of listening to the call of every Patriots game in stereo sound without static interruption. With FM clarity and stereo surround sound, WBCN has brought fans closer to the action, delivering the many sideline sounds of each game.

In 2004, fans throughout New England can once again catch all the Patriots action by tuning into one of 35 different radio affiliates that simulcast each game on WBCN's Patriots Rock Radio Network. As the network's flagship, WBCN offers Patriots fans the most complete and comprehensive coverage on the dial. In all, they commit over eight hours of programming to each and every Patriots game, kicking off three hours before each game and wrapping up with a two-hour post-game show.

When fans tune in for each Patriots game on WBCN, they are treated to two world-class teams – the one on the field and the one in the broadcast booth. For the past 14 consecutive seasons, Gil Santos and Gino Cappelletti have teamed together to provide fans with in-depth game analysis and complete play-by-play detail of every Patriots game. This year, they will celebrate their 21st season together.

For most Patriots fans, there has been but one "Voice of the New England Patriots" and it belongs to Gil Santos. For 28 of the last 39 seasons, Santos has articulated the sights, sounds and all the play-by-play action of over 400 games to millions of Patriots fans. Now in his 28th year as voice of the Patriots, Santos is tied with the Philadelphia Eagles' veteran play-by-play announcer, Merrill Reese, as the two most tenured radio broadcasters in the NFL. He began calling games for the Boston Patriots at Fenway Park in 1966. He was the voice of the Patriots for the next 14 seasons (1966-79). He returned to the booth in 1991 and has broadcast every Patriots game since then. The veteran play-by-play broadcaster is also the sports director at WBCN's sister station, WBZ news radio in Boston, where he has earned dozens of honors and awards for his reporting, sportscasting and play-by-play excellence.

If Santos is recognized as the "voice" of the New England Patriots, his long-time broadcast partner Gino Cappelletti might simply be the most recognized Patriot in franchise history. Cappelletti, who is entering his 24th season as a broadcast analyst, first joined the team as one of the original Boston Patriots in 1960. Since then, Cappelletti has been affiliated with the team for 38 of the last 45 seasons as a player (11 years), coach (3) and broadcaster (24). It would be hard to find anyone more knowledgeable on the subject of the Patriots than Cappelletti. After an 11-year all-star career (1960-70) as a wide receiver and a kicker, he retired as both the franchise's and the AFL's all-time leading scorer with 1,130 points. He currently ranks sixth among the Patriots all-time leading receivers entering the 2004 season. Following his playing career, he spent nine seasons (1972-78) in the broadcast booth with Santos before returning to the sidelines for three seasons (1979-81) as the special teams coach on Ron Erhardt's staff. He returned to the broadcast booth in 1988 and was re-united with Santos in 1991. Together, the two have developed an on-air rapport that is unrivaled in the NFL, to the delight of Patriots fans everywhere.

Coverage on WBCN 104.1 FM begins three hours before each game and will conclude with a two-hour post-game show. Gary Tanguay will host both the pre- and post-game shows along with former Patriots greats Pete Brock and Tim Fox. The three co-hosts will welcome weekly guests who will offer unique insight and analysis prior to and immediately following each game.

Now That's Entertainment!

Patriots CHEERLEADERS™

The New England Patriots Cheerleaders have been entertaining fans at Patriots games for years. But, their work as goodwill ambassadors for the team extends far beyond the sidelines of Gillette Stadium. Collectively, the squad makes over 600 individual public appearances per year, spreading cheer to fans at a variety of events throughout New England. Their appearances range from corporate functions to parades, from in-store promotions to out-of-state performances. In addition to their charitable work, the Patriots Cheerleaders also make hundreds of personal appearances annually for local businesses. Those bookings include sales meetings, trade shows, award ceremonies, autograph sessions and Monday Night Football promotions, just to name a few.

While the Patriots Cheerleaders have become accustomed to entertaining thousands of Patriots fans from the sidelines, since 2001, members of the squad have regularly traveled overseas to entertain thousands of Patriots from the front lines as featured performers at various military bases on U.S.O. Tours. In 2001, members of the squad traveled with Clint Black and Al Franken on the Citizen Patriot Tour, visiting troops in Germany, Kosovo, Bosnia and Italy. In 2002, members of the squad traveled to the North Arabian Sea to perform on the U.S.S. John F. Kennedy, as part of Operation Enduring Freedom. In 2003, their Operation Seasons Greetings tour took them to Germany, Italy, Turkey, Portugal and England. In 2004, the squad committed to two tours, including an Operation Pacific Greetings tour in May with visits to bases in Japan, South Korea and Hawaii. The squad performed for the troops with Hootie and the Blowfish.

In addition to their U.S.O. Tours and regular visits throughout the six states of New England, the squad has also performed in New York, New Jersey, New Orleans, Florida, Texas, Hawaii, Mexico, Japan and the Grand Bahama Islands. Some of those appearances included performances in Super Bowls, Pro Bowls and American Bowls.

Over 400 hopefuls competed for the opportunity to join the 2004 New England Patriots Cheerleaders. The 24 most talented young women earned that honor, including 11 returning veterans. This year's squad will continue to serve not only as day-of-game entertainers, but also as Patriots ambassadors throughout New England and around the world.

Patriots Cheerleaders and Pat Patriot mascot appearances can make functions more memorable for everyone. For more information on booking the Patriots Cheerleaders or Pat Patriot Mascot, please contact Tracy Sormanti at (508) 384-9101.

The Patriots and the Community: A Winning Team

THE NEW ENGLAND PATRIOTS CHARITABLE FOUNDATION

The New England Patriots (NEP) Charitable Foundation is the vehicle through which the Super Bowl Champion New England Patriots and the New England Revolution make donations to charitable and non-profit organizations throughout New England. These contributions come in the form of direct grants, donations of tickets, auction items and player appearances. In 2003 alone, donations by the foundation were valued in excess of $1 million.

The NEP Charitable Foundation, which was established shortly after Robert Kraft purchased the team in 1994, is a legal 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. The foundation underscores the Kraft family's deep commitment to charitable activities in this area. Its primary goal is to support the youth and families of the New England region by assisting programs that foster cultural diversity, education, family and health. The foundation has taken special interest in youth programs that encourage education, creativity and development of character.

Over the past decade, the foundation has made donations to thousands of non-profit organizations in New England. It annually partners with a variety of local community groups to raise funds or to lend support to increase awareness to their causes. In 2003, for example, the foundation partnered with the American Red Cross to host a regional blood drive and attracted over 1,000 attendees. Around the holidays, the foundation has a few long-standing partners who assist in spreading some holiday cheer. Every Thanksgiving, Patriots players "Adopt-A-Family" for the holidays, as players donate money that is used to purchase and prepare baskets of food for a holiday feast. Players then attend a holiday function at Morgan Memorial/Goodwill in Boston to present the baskets of food to the families in need. In 2003, over 200 families received holiday baskets, complete with turkeys and all the traditional Thanksgiving trimmings. Each Christmas, Patriots players attend the Salvation Army Holiday Party, where nearly 200 in-need children receive food, gifts and lots of holiday cheer.

Robert Kraft and Josh Kraft meet with youth football players from Chelsea, Mass. The Patriots and the NFL helped to install a new synthetic turf football field at Chelsea High School in November, 2003.

Tom Brady conducted a practice with the Dorchester Eagles Pop Warner team in December, 2003. Brady surprised the young players by presenting them with a check on behalf of the Kraft Family and the Patriots Charitable Foundation to send the team to the Pop Warner Super Bowl in Orlando, Fla.

The NEP Charitable Foundation also has long-standing partnerships with the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston, the Boys & Girls Club of Chelsea, the R.O.S.E. Fund and the United Way, among others. In recent years, the foundation has also expanded its concentration into the development of youth football programs throughout New England. Through the foundation, the Patriots dedicated a new Field Turf football field at Chelsea High School, conducted multiple football clinics, donated $10,000 to local high schools through their Coach of the Week program, hosted the regional Punt, Pass & Kick finals and teamed up with the Roxbury High School football team to serve others at the Pine Street Inn. The foundation plans to continue to expand its support for youth football and to promote programs that encourage good sportsmanship and leadership skills.

Last season, Rodney Harrison and several of his teammates joined 20 football players from Madison Park Vocational Tech in Roxbury, Mass., to prepare and serve dinner to clients of the Pine Street Inn, a homeless shelter in Boston.

Through requests facilitated by the NEP Charitable Foundation, Patriots and Revolution players make a tremendous impact in the community through the hundreds of appearances they make each year. In 2003, 59 different Patriots players made public appearances, visiting fans of all ages.

For the past 10 years, the NEP Charitable Foundation has donated thousands of tickets to support numerous charitable organizations, including the Boys & Girls Clubs of Boston, enabling hundreds of inner-city children to attend Patriots games every year. In addition, the foundation has teamed up with the Chelsea Boys & Girls Club to support their focus on the educational, emotional, physical and social development of inner-city youth.

Robert Kraft presents Patriots guard Joe Andruzzi with the first annual New England Patriots Ron Burton Community Service Award. The award recognizes the Patriots player who best embodies the qualities of Burton, the first Patriots player drafted in 1959, and his commitment to the community and to helping others.

The foundation also supports numerous educational institutions and heath care initiatives, including the Blood Center at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute and the Center for Compassionate Care.

The NEP Charitable Foundation hosts two annual fundraisers. In the spring, fans have an opportunity to play a round of golf with their favorite Patriots players and coaches in the team's annual golf tournament. Then, just prior to the start of the regular season, Patriots players break bread with their fans in the Kickoff Gala in the Fidelity Investments Clubhouse at Gillette Stadium. Requests for more information should be made in writing to: Patriots Charitable Foundation, One Patriot Place, Foxborough, MA 02035.

Larry Izzo, Matt Chatham and Stephen Neal visited patients at Children's Hospital in Boston during the 2003 season.

Gillette Stadium

Gillette Stadium is New England's premier sports and entertainment venue. Since the stadium opened in 2002, the Patriots have enjoyed one of the NFL's greatest home-field advantages at Gillette Stadium, having amassed an overall record of 19-3, including preseason, regular-season and postseason games. In 2003, the Patriots recorded the first perfect home season in franchise history, winning all 12 games.

The 2003 season at Gillette Stadium provided some of the franchise's most memorable moments, including a 12-0 shutout win over Miami to clinch New England's second AFC East title in three years. The snowy celebrations following that historic win provided a picturesque display and firmly established Gillette Stadium as one of the most unique and envied environments in sports.

Gillette Stadium was designed with fans' satisfaction at the forefront. Gathering areas throughout the stadium offer fans spacious areas to enjoy the action from every angle, including end zone plazas where fans can gather to socialize before, during and after games. Gillette Stadium offers unobstructed views from the entire length of each of its wide concourses, ensuring a great view of the field from practically anywhere inside the turnstiles. Once at their seats, guests can relax in their theater-style chairs, each one coming complete with a drink holder. For the ultimate in creature comforts, the Fidelity Investments Clubhouse offers over 6,000 club members access to 120,000 square feet of space to enjoy not just on game days, but year-round as well. In addition to the Clubhouse areas, the stadium's 87 luxury suites are the largest in the NFL, ranging from 800 to 2,700 square feet. Each suite offers luxurious furnishings as well as private bars and restrooms.

Gillette Stadium celebrates New England's heritage with a unique display of local flavor. A stylized lighthouse and bridge greet fans entering from the Bank of America Gate and create the stadium's recognizable signature view. Fans gathering in the Bank of America Plaza can enjoy a granite map of New England made of stone from each of the six states. The coastal heritage of the region is represented in a seascape scene that complements the bridge and lighthouse and flanks the players' entrance to the field. Guests can experience a unique view of the action from atop the bridge, which connects the east and west concourses at the base of the lighthouse.

Each Patriots game at Gillette Stadium has been sold out, with the Patriots' home-field sellout streak set to reach 114 games by the end of the 2004 season. With one of the most state-of-the art and fan-friendly playing venues in the National Football League, the Patriots and their fans will look to continue to capitalize on their home-field advantage and bring another Super Bowl championship to New England.
