JOHN W. MECOM, JR.

PRESIDENT OF THE NEW ORLEANS SAINTS

The year of 1970 was a turbulent one for John W. Mecom, Jr. and the Saints. It was a year in which many changes were necessitated and in many cases change can be a painful undertaking. Through all of the action — both on and off the field — John, at a youthful 32, undoubtedly emerged as a stronger figure. From this point the energetic Texan hopes that his organization's grid fortunes will rocket upward. The launching may have been somewhat delayed but the bossman is optimistic and feels that his team is due a few of the better breaks along the way.

One of the changes that was affected during the past season was a self-imposed one by John himself. At mid-season, as J. D. Roberts replaced Tom Fears as head coach, John shifted his game location from his usual spot on the sidelines to the press box. In his first game from this vantage point Tom Dempsey booted his history-making 63-yard field goal to subdue Detroit on the final play, 19-17. John didn't return to the field for the rest of the campaign.

The Saints now receive John's full attention and he's become a transplanted Texan, having shifted his base of operations from Houston to New Orleans during the past four years. He's gotten himself involved in a number of New Orleans projects, including serving on the Board of Regents of Loyola University. And although he's been connected with many other endeavors, including a variety of successful businesses and racing autos and boats, there's no question that his major interest is the Saints — and the eventual winning of a NFL championship.

While attending the University of Oklahoma, John, who also attended the University of Texas, met Katsy Mullendore of Pawhuska, Okla., and subsequently married her in 1962. They now have four children, John III, 7; Katsy Kathleen, 4½; Mary Elizabeth, 3½; and Kathleen, infant. Needless to say, all of the Mecoms are very much a part of the Saints' scene every Sunday they're at home in the fall.

THE G.M.

THE HEAD COACH

VICTOR E. SCHWENK, General Manager

A long-time veteran of professional football, Vic kicked off the Saints' NFL venture as its initial employee, the director of player personnel—the man who would be in charge of recruiting the people from both college and pro ranks who would bring the Saints to life in New Orleans. His selections and acquisitions helped the Saints get off to the best three-year start in expansion-club history.

In the spring of 1968 Schwenk was rewarded for his efforts by being named the Saints' general manager, a post that he continues to hold with distinction while coping with the many administrative problems that are characteristic of pro football.

A former player at UCLA and Occidental College, he coached high school football in California for ten years before returning to Occidental as head coach in 1960. During a four-year term his teams posted a 23-12 record and captured two conference titles. In Dec., 1963 he took over as director of player personnel for the Los Angeles Rams, an organization for which he had previously been a part-time scout for 12 years. In 1964 he became the Rams' offensive coach and in Jan., 1966 he was named general manager of the Edmonton Eskimos club in the Canadian League, an assignment that was cut short due to illness in his family. Upon returning to Los Angeles he was rehired by the Rams as a special game scout for head coach George Allen.

Respected for being tough and honest, Vic is now completely dedicated to the reconstruction of the Saints. It's a tremendous task but don't bet against him getting it done.

Vic lives in Metairie, La., with his wife Arlene and daughters Vicki, 18, and Kandi, 11.

J. D. ON THE JOB

Midway through the Saints' lamentable 1970 season President John W. Mecom, Jr. beckoned to the bullpen for J. D. Roberts to take over his team as head coach. The bullpen, of course, was located in Richmond, Va., where Roberts was serving his second term as head coach of the ex-Roadrunners, now Saints, in the Atlantic Coast Football League. There he'd had the opportunity to groom several prospects for the New Orleans club. When his former players arrived on the Saints' scene they were characterized by their zest for work and their joy of combat. They were athletes who were willing to pay a price to make the team—and the Saints, in their fourth year of existence, wanted to go with this type of performer.

A one-time All-American guard at Oklahoma, where he was a keen student of coaching master Bud Wilkinson, Roberts made an immediate pitch for uniformity in the ranks and didn't wait long to make changes in the coaching routine and the game preparations. He ripped into the situation in a manner that would be expected of an ex-Marine. Each week as veteran players hit the waiver lists youngsters—mostly former high draft choices who'd been late cuts in the NFL—would be recruited and either added to the roster or the future list. The pattern was established. This would be Roberts' team with Roberts' type players.

Hired as an interim coach, succeeding Tom Fears, who'd been the Saints' only previous head coach, J. D. (for John David) was resigned to a multi-year contract at the close of the hectic season. It's now Roberts' task to produce victories with his own style youth program. President Mecom shares J.D.'s confidence that it can be done—though certainly not overnight. He's a no-nonsense operator with a fanatical attachment to football.

The 38-year-old Roberts actually began his association with the Saints in 1967 as a scout and linebacker coach, then was assigned to the Richmond club in 1969 for his baptism into the head coaching ranks. After leaving Oklahoma he played a year with Hamilton in the Canadian League, then entered the Marine Corps and served as a playing coach for the Quantico (Va.) team in 1955-56. The following year he made his college coaching debut at the University of Denver as line mentor. In 1958 he returned to his alma mater as an assistant. Since 1960 he's worked as either a defensive or offensive assistant at the U. S. Naval Academy, Auburn and the University of Houston. He was a New York Jets scout for two years beginning in 1965, then it was on to New Orleans.

J.D., who was born in Oklahoma City and grew up in Dallas, now resides in Metairie, La., with wife June and children Gregory David 13, Rebecca Anne 12, Melinda 11, Mark Vincent 9, Neil Charles 8.

THE COACHING STAFF

JIM CHAMPION, Defensive Coordinator and Defensive Line

The 44-year-old Champion previously toiled in the NFL as a tackle with the New York Yanks (1950-51) and the Dallas Texans (1952) and as a defensive line coach of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1966.

A one-time standout tackle at Mississippi State (1946-49) — who was named the most valuable lineman for the Grey team in the 1949 Blue-Grey game — Jim began his coaching career at Greenwood

CHAMPION

ROYER

(Miss.) High School in 1953 and through four years compiled a 24-2-2 record. He then returned to Mississippi State and served as an assistant from 1957 until he joined the Vancouver (B.C.) Lions of the Canadian League as an assistant in 1961. In this capacity he was given considerable credit for developing one of the strongest defensive teams in Canadian League history. The British Columbia Lions won the League's Western Conference championship in 1963-64 and the coveted Grey Cup the latter season.

After the 1965 campaign Champion shifted to the Cardinals, only to heed the call back to Vancouver as head coach in 1967 — a job that he retained through three seasons.

Jim and his wife Sara have three sons — Greg, 18; Keith, 16; and Joseph, 6.

MARV MATUSZAK, Linebackers

A veteran of ten campaigns as a pro linebacker, the 40-year-old Matuszak served the past three years as an assistant coach with the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian League. Immediately prior to that assignment he'd handled the dual position of head coach - general manager of the minor league Alabama (Huntsville) Hawks.

After starring in football at Washington High School in his native South Bend, Indiana, Matuszak went on to twice gain All-America honors as a Tulsa University linebacker. Drafted third by Pittsburgh in 1953, Marv put in a two-year Army hitch — earning All-Army acclaim both seasons at Fort Sill, Oklahoma — before returning to the Steelers in 1956. Traded to San Francisco in 1957, he made the All-NFL team before being swapped to Baltimore in 1959. Following three seasons with the Colts he finished up with the Buffalo Bills — being selected for the All-AFL team — and the Denver Broncos, where he served as a player-coach. He spent the 1965-66 campaigns in Denver as a full-time assistant, being in charge of the club's overall defense in his last year. In 1967 his Alabama team won the Professional Football League Western Division Championship with a 9-3 record.

Marv and his wife Noreen have two children, Linda, 17, and Robert, 4.

JIM ROYER, Offensive Line Coach

Like J. D. Roberts, Royer was serving his second season as a coach with the Richmond ACFL team when the call to the Saints, from newly-appointed head coach Roberts, came midway through the 1970 campaign. Hired to assist the offensive line, Jim was the lone member of last year's staff to retain his position in 1971.

The 38-year-old Baltimorean was an offensive lineman at the Naval Academy, then served in the Marine Corps for four years prior to returning to the Academy as an assistant coach in 1959. Two years later he became the offensive line coach at the University of Buffalo and in 1962 he moved to Tulane for a two-year hitch on the Green Wave staff. In 1964 he went back to the Navy as varsity scout, followed in 1966 by a three-year tour of duty as an assistant at the University of Pittsburgh and the hook-up with J. D. in Richmond in 1969. Jim's married (Corine) and lives in Metairie, La.

KEN SHIPP, Offensive Coordinator and Receivers

Ken is serving as the club's offensive coordinator, with primary concentration on the quarterbacks and receivers. In 1970 he completed a three-year tour of duty with the St. Louis Cardinals, where he was in charge of the pass offense. Throughout his coaching career, which began at his alma mater, Middle Tennessee State College in Murfreesboro, Tenn., also his home town, he's worked with the attack troops.

A top-flight halfback himself in college, Shipp left Middle Tennessee after the 1953 season to accept his second coaching assignment, at Trinity College in San Antonio. He remained there until 1956 when he entered the pro ranks as an assistant for the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian League. In 1958 he shifted to Tulsa University, where he had the distinction of enlisting the crack pass-catch combination of quarterback Jerry Rhome and end Howard Twilley on the same recruiting trip. Tulsa led the nation's colleges in pass offense during his stay.

Three years later Shipp accepted a similar position at South Carolina, then moved to the University of Miami (Fla.) in 1963. He joined Charley Winner's staff at the Cardinals in 1968. Last year's Big Red team finished second in the NFC in total offense, only 32 yards behind the leader, San Francisco.

SHIPP

TATE

WHITEHEAD

CHARLIE TATE, Offensive Backfield

A veteran college mentor, Tate resigned his duties as head football coach at the University of Miami shortly after the start of his seventh season on the job last fall. He had also held the post of director of athletics since June, 1968.

Originally from Tracy City, Tennessee, Tate proceeded to earn All-Southeastern Conference distinction as a blocking back in the University of Florida's single wing attack. He embarked on his coaching career at Miami Senior High School in 1951, his teams compiling an amazing 43-6-1 record and capturing four state titles.

Charlie then spent the 1956 campaign as freshman coach at Florida before taking on the same assignment at Georgia Tech in 1957. After two years he became an assistant to Tech's varsity coach Bobby Dodd and remained at the task for five years, heading the overall defense the last three years. Then in 1964 he advanced to Miami, where he produced three winning teams and two bowl (Bluebonnet) elevens.

Charlie and his wife Annie Lee have three sons — Charles, Jr., Richard and Robert, and three daughters — Kathy, Susie and Connie.

BUD WHITEHEAD, Defensive Backfield

A defensive back during his playing days at Florida State and the San Diego Chargers, Whitehead has been coaching the offensive backfield at Florida State the past two years. He had been both an offensive and defensive back at Florida State from 1958 thru 1960, leading the nation's colleges in pass interceptions as a senior.

Following graduation he joined the San Diego Chargers in the American Football League and during his eight years on the job served at all four defensive backfield positions, intercepting a total of 15 passes. Also as a Charger he participated in four AFL championship games, being on the winning side against the Boston Patriots in 1963 (51-10).

From Marianna, Fla., Bud is married (Diana), and has three children — Brian 7, Todd 3, and Lisa 1.

HENRY LEE PARKER, Director of Player Personnel

A charter employee of the Saints, Parker broke in with the club as an assistant to personnel director Vic Schwenk, then was moved to the top job in 1968.

Generally recognized to be a keen observer of football talent, the very affable Parker is exceptionally popular throughout the ranks of college and professional football.

A product of Holly Springs, Miss., Henry Lee played football at Mississippi State, then, after graduating in 1948, coached a year at Corinth (Miss.) High School and seven years at Natchez (Miss.) High School before becoming an assistant coach at Mississippi State in 1956.

He remained at his alma mater for eleven years then answered the call to New Orleans.

He and his wife Martha Ann have two daughters, 19-year-old Susan, who's currently attending Mississippi State, and 12-year-old Kathy.

DEAN KLEINSCHMIDT, Trainer

The assistant trainer for the past two seasons, Dean was named head trainer of the Saints last February. He had been acting in that capacity since the resignation of Warren Atrial at the end of the 1970 season.

A 23-year-old native of Morgan, Minn., Kleinschmidt holds a bachelor of science degree in health and safety, with major emphasis in athletic training, from the University of Indiana. He served as a student trainer at Indiana, 1965-66-67, and in 1968 he became assistant trainer. During the summers of 1967 and 1968, Kleinschmidt was on the training staff of the Green Bay Packers. He joined the Saints in 1969.

The Saints hired 21-year-old George Borden to serve as assistant trainer. He had been working as head trainer at Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, Va., while attending the school as an undergraduate. He'd gained previous experience while working in the same capacity as a student at Thomas Jefferson High School in Richmond.

From 1966 through the 1970 season Borden served as assistant trainer for the Richmond (Va.) minor league team, being associated with Saints head coach J. D. Roberts during part of that period.

CHUCK ZIOBER, Equipment Manager

This will mark the quietly efficient Ziober's second season at work for the Saints. He did an excellent job in all respects after taking over for Charlie Shepherd following the latter's transferral to the scouting department. Included among Chuck's duties is management of the Saints' basketball team.

The 50-year-old Ziober has handled equipment before during the course of a colorful career that has had him involved in soccer and baseball—where he made it as high as the New York Yankees' AAA farm team in Newark as a pre-World War II catcher—as well as football. Then, too, there was the U. S. Marine Corps to which he dedicated 23 years.

Following his service stint Chuck served as the equipment manager for the Denver Broncos in 1964-65 and for the Miami Dolphins in 1966-67. With the San Diego Toros pro soccer team in 1968 he was the equipment manager, assistant general manager and trainer. He also sold sporting goods before joining the Saints.

He and his wife Peggy reside in Metairie, La.

HARRY HULMES,

Assistant to the General Manager and Director of Public Relations

This is the second year on the job for Hulmes in New Orleans after spending most of his pro football career with the Baltimore Colts, whom he joined as business manager in March, 1958. Harry also served the Colts as publicity director, assistant general manager and general manager before heading South in February, 1970.

A native of Philadelphia, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and a veteran of three years service in the U. S. Navy, the 44-year-old Hulmes broke into pro sports as assistant business manager of baseball's Baltimore Orioles in 1954. After three seasons he shifted to Bucknell University to become athletic publicity director—then came the move to Baltimore.

Harry and his wife Barbara have three children—Linda 16, Terry 12 and Richie 8—and live in Metairie.

EDDIE JONES, Business Manager

Easy-to-get-along-with, imperturbable and gets-the-job-done are terms often applied to Eddie Jones. Previously associated with a New Orleans accounting firm, he's now in his fourth year with the Saints. In addition to keeping the books, purchasing and various other financial responsibilities, he also handles all of the team's travel arrangements.

Although born a Texan, the 33-year-old Jones moved to Denham Springs, La., in time to attend high school there. A four-year hitch in the Air Force then preceded his entrance at Louisiana State. He received his accounting degree in 1963 and two years later earned C.P.A. status.

Eddie lives in Metairie, La., with his wife Marilyn and daughter Wendy, age 6.

HENRY SIMONEAUX, Ticket Manager

Another one of the few remaining original Saints employees, Simoneaux has done a fine job of handling a most difficult ticket situation in New Orleans—one that finds a possible crowd fluctuation of between approximately 55,000 to 80,000 for each home game.

Soon after graduating from New Orleans' Behrman High School in 1950 he worked as assistant to the ticket manager at Tulane. A two-year tour of Army duty interrupted his career but he returned to Tulane as ticket manager in 1954. An oil company assignment intervened in 1956 and five years later he came back to Tulane as ticket manager and assistant business manager.

Henry and his wife Earline and son Henry III, age 11, live in New Orleans.

LARRY LIDDELL, Assistant Public Relations Director

Liddell took over as the Saints' assistant public relations director last April. He had been serving as assistant sports information director at the University of Mississippi since January, 1968. In New Orleans he will be working with some familiar Ole Miss people in punter Julian Fagan and linebacker Hap Farber, both returning for their second pro seasons, and rookies Archie Manning and Wimpy Winther.

A product of Shreveport, La., Larry attended Delta State College in Cleveland, Miss., at the same time serving as the school's sports information director and as the editor of the school's newspaper. Following his graduation in 1964, he worked as sports editor of the Clarksdale (Miss.) Press Register prior to moving on to Ole Miss.

Liddell is listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest and is a member of the National Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

ERBY AUCOIN, Photographer

A former award-winning newspaper and television photographer, Aucoin was hired in 1968 to set up the Saints' photographic department. He has made considerable contribution to the club's on-the-field and public relations activities with his films and still shots. Erby shoots and personally handles all of the team's coaching footage. His crew is very much in evidence on game day, working on various types of coaching film and game action photos for publicity. He has at his disposal at the Saints' offices all the equipment necessary for processing, printing, etc.

A graduate of L.S.U. and originally from Napoleonville, La., Erby and his wife Rosalie and children Erby III, 16; Jayne Marie, 15; Cynthia Ann, 14; Patricia Lynn, 13; Albert Anthony, 10; Deidra Ann, 7; Michele Rose, 3, and Douglas Leon, 1, live in New Orleans.

SAINTS TO TRAIN AT SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI

The New Orleans Saints will train at the University of Southern Mississippi at Hattiesburg in 1971.

The Saints will be housed in Vann Hall, the athletic dormitory which consists of 81 rooms, for 162 athletes, and a cafeteria. The dorm is close to the training and dressing areas where the team will dress.

The practice area includes three practice fields on the east side of the USM Stadium and two areas on the baseball field.

For indoor work during bad weather Southern offers the Sports Arena which is located immediately behind the practice fields on the east side of the stadium.

Hattiesburg is located some 105 miles east-northeast of the New Orleans area via Interstate 59. To get to the University from I-59, take Highway 49 South and USM will appear on the right at the second traffic light.

The University of Southern Mississippi has a student body of 8,000 on-campus residents and a total enrollment of 10,000 including research center enrollment.

W. D. McCain is Southern's President and Reed Green serves as Athletic Director.

BARRINGTON

PRO: A knee problem caused Dick to sit out the first four games in 1970 but he charged back to start and play his very best game at San Francisco in the fifth outing. He went the remainder of the season in the middle and is listed to open at that position again in 1971, although there has been some consideration of shifting him to an outside linebacker post . . . an outstanding athlete, he was a pro baseball prospect in college and is a top scorer on the Saints' basketball team . . . Drafted fifth by Philadelphia in 1967, he proceeded to serve brief stints with Washington, Atlanta and Los Angeles, with most of his activity being confined to placekicking—at which he is very adept—until he was signed by the Saints after being cut by the Rams during '69 training camp . . . the Saints and Sinners Grid Club named him the team's most valuable defensive player following the 1969 campaign.

COLLEGE: Captain of Maryland team as senior as well as All-Atlantic Coast and participant in Blue-Gray Game and Senior Bowl . . . Played tight end as sophomore and junior, catching 55 passes for 650 yards . . . Defensive end as senior . . . College coach was Lou Saban, now at Denver.

 Born February 16, 1945 at Fort Madison, Iowa.
 Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1968

PRO: Injuries played havoc with Tony's 1970 season . . . The hurts came in several varieties but it was a balky knee that finally did him in, forcing an operation following the season's ninth game (in Miami) . . . Despite the surgery-shortened campaign, Tony still managed to limp to a team-leading 337 yards rushing, averaging a respectable 4.1 yards per carry . . . In his top performance last season he netted 98 yards on 17 hauls in St. Louis . . . a strong, tough, slashing runner, he can gouge out those first down yards or accelerate to go all the way if given some space . . . in 1969, his first full pro season, his 4.8 yards per carry average was the NFL's best . . . A shoulder separation in the 1968 season opener vs. Cleveland wiped him out of that campaign after he'd earned a starting job with a brilliant pre-season showing (4.9 average for 37 carries) . . . The Saints signed Baker as a free agent after he'd led the Professional Football League of America in rushing with the Des Moines Warriors in 1967 . . . He played on the East Squad in the (January) 1970 Pro Bowl Game . . . The Saints are counting on his complete return from his operation for the 1971 campaign.

He's expected to bid for the same job again this year. Although not quite as big as a model linebacker could be, he's quick enough and hits with authority . . . Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1969

PRO: The record-breaking and history-making 63-yard field goal that nipped Detroit, 19-17, on the game's final play was the highlight of a pretty fair season for burly Tom. In that same contest he kicked four field goals—for the third time in his two-year hitch with New Orleans. He also booted three-pointers from 50 and 54 yards out in Los Angeles, where the previous season he'd connected from 55 yards . . . During one spell last season, Tom's foot accounted for 25 straight Saints points as they were held without a touchdown for 14 consecutive periods . . . A pulled leg muscle idled him throughout most all of the training camp period and contributed to a disappointing start . . . Tom was the Married (Carlene).

Born Sept. 15, 1948 at Washington, D.C.
Joined Saints: Waivers (from Cincinnati), 1970

PRO: A transformation from running back to wide receiver could make a great difference in Bill's pro career . . . Drafted second a year ago by Houston as a running back—and tested there—he was cut loose by the Oilers and hired by Cincinnati, where once again he was checked as a ball-carrier, plus a very brief look as a receiver . . . The Saints, in a position to screen personnel while the battles raged, claimed him from the Bengals, gave him four cracks at the line (six yards) and shifted him to the outside as a pass-catcher. They didn't employ him there in any of his eight games, however . . . he did return ten kickoffs for 183 yards.

COLLEGE: A small-college All-American his senior year after four years at running back . . . All-Conference (CIAA) two years and the conference MVP his senior year . . . In college he gained 2,136 yards rushing and 842 yards receiving.

FAGAN, JULIAN, 6-3, 205, Punter, 2nd Year, Mississippi

He proceeded to lead the NFC as a rookie, with his 77 punts averaging 42.5 yards, despite having a pair blocked . . . He drives the ball high as well as deep and should be even more effective this year.

He also tallied 22 touchdowns and caught 107 throws for 1,213 yards . . . In addition to his strong running, he's also a powerful blocker who excels at providing protection for the passer . . . Born June 26, 1947 at Marietta, Texas

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 16, 1969

PRO: In 1970, his second pro campaign, Edd started four games and relieved in six others. His 175 throws (78 completions) represented a big jump in activity over the 52 he unleashed in 1969 . . . He's a mechanically sound quarterback, with good actions and a strong arm that is particularly accurate at short range . . . Although only a fair scrambler, he won't often force his pass into a covered area when the defense is pressuring him . . . An intelligent, able leader, he'll go to 1971 training camp as the number one signal-caller . . . Even as a relief man, he's demonstrated his ability to come off the bench and ignite his offense.

COLLEGE: In three years at Texas A&M, completed 403 of 821 passes for 40 TDs . . . Established 20 Aggie records, seven SWC records . . . Played in Blue-Gray Game and Coaches' All-American Game . . . All-SWC Player of the Year as a junior.

HOLLAS, HUGO, 6-1, 190, Defensive Back, 2nd Year, Rice

Born Nov. 30, 1945 at Schulenburg, Tex.

Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1970

PRO: In 1968 Dallas tagged Hugo as a free agent but an injured thumb ruined whatever chances he had of sticking with the Cowboys. A year later he reported to coach J. D. Roberts and the Richmond Roadrunners of the ACFL and led league in interceptions . . . As a Saints rookie last autumn he logged considerable playing time at both safety and cornerback and paced the team with five interceptions and 79 yards in returns . . . He also raced back 22 yards with four punts . . . Although his versatility is a plus, his best chance for 1971 seems to be at free safety.

COLLEGE: Three-year starter at Rice . . . Never out of a collegiate game due to injury . . . All-Southwest Conference selection junior and senior years . . . Selected Rice's MVP following senior season.

PERSONAL: Earned a B.S. Degree at Rice in Education with a minor in biology . . . Married (Jerlyn) and one child, Shane 1 . . . Teaches school in New Orleans.

HOWARD, GENE, 6-0, 190, Cornerback, 4th Year, Langston (Okla.)

Born Dec. 22, 1946 at Little Rock, Ark.

Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 7b, 1968

PRO: After a most impressive getaway at cornerback in his third season with the Saints, Gene tore a groin muscle returning a punt in the fifth game, at San Francisco. He was sidelined for six weeks, then came back to play, at less than 100%, in the final three games. The Howard who opened in 1970 could be a very valuable defender this season . . . He might also regain his runback responsibilities—on punts and/or kickoffs . . . The Saints and Sinners Grid Club named him the team's outstanding rookie in 1968.

COLLEGE: Led Oklahoma Collegiate Conference in passes caught, yards gained receiving and in touchdown passes caught . . . In track competition, was conference's high hurdles champion for three years and a member of Langston's record-setting 440 relay team . . . Has high-jumped 6-9.

PERSONAL: Attended Scipio Jones High in North Little Rock . . . Married (Bobbie), one son Gene, Jr., 1 1/2 . . . Resides in North Little Rock.

There are hopes that he'll develop into a top-notch pass-rusher with the increased experience . . . Joined Saints: Free Agent, 1968

PRO: During mid-season in 1969 Dave was shifted from the wide receiver post he'd held his first 5 1/2 years in the NFL to the tight end role he now fills . . . At a peak weight of 210 pounds, he's a small tight end, but he can block effectively and he provides the Saints with a third exceptional pass target. He knows how to get open and he's an excellent ball-carrier once he's made the catch . . . Dave missed only one game last fall, due to aching leg muscles . . . His best 1970 effort came in St. Louis when he grabbed seven throws for 114 yards and a TD . . . PRO: It's been strictly a matter of hard work for Bob, undrafted following his three-year college career . . . He parlayed his all-out effort with excellent speed and earned a job with coach J. D. Roberts' Richmond team in 1969, concentrating on the wide receiver post . . . He managed to hang on with the Saints' taxi unit last year—and eventually was activated—long enough to participate in four games and catch a pass vs. Cincinnati for 49 yards.

Born March 1, 1947 at Hartford, Wis.
Joined Saints: Draft Choice No. 1, 1969

PRO: Patience and perseverance finally paid off for jolting John last season as he started the Saints last four games at right guard after missing five weeks with a dislocated elbow. He's slated to man the same station in 1971 . . . In a pinch he could play offensive tackle—and did during some of the 1970 pre-season . . . A knee injury sustained in the 1969 College All-Star Game and follow-up surgery limited his Saints activity to the final two contests on special teams duty . . . If he can lick the injury jinx he should live up to his first draft choice expectations.

COLLEGE: Named to Time Magazine, NEA, Sporting News All-American teams following senior season . . . Played in Senior Bowl, North-South Shrine Game, Coaches All-America and College All-Star game.

He played in six games that season with the Bears, catching one pass for six yards, before entering the Army for two years of active duty . . . The Oilers acquired him from Chicago last summer, then traded him to New Orleans in the Dave Rowe-Ken Burrough deal . . . The Saints will probably check him as both a tackle and tight end.

Has strength and size going for him.

He's also been mentioned as having an outside chance as a middle linebacker . . . Wherever he works he'll hustle all the way.

COLLEGE: Named South's outstanding defensive player in North-South game at Miami in 1969 . . . Lettered four years at Arkansas State . . . All-Conference three years; and Conference outstanding player two seasons.

Born March 1, 1940 at Louisville, Miss.
Joined Saints: Trade with Atlanta, 1969

PRO: If he continues to perform as he did at the close of last season, Don should be the Saints' number one offensive left tackle for a third straight year in 1971 . . . Since being obtained in trade from Atlanta in 1969 he's played 28 consecutive league games with New Orleans—and last fall that meant going on a bum knee that required a post-season operation . . . Dallas drafted him eighth as a future and he played as a rookie in 1962 before spending the next two years in military service . . . In 1965 he returned to play for the Cowboys, then went to Atlanta in the expansion draft a year later . . . He was a three-season starter with the Falcons before the swap to the Saints.

He was a starter for each of his five seasons in Houston and was named to the AFL's Eastern All-Stars in 1968 and 1969 . . . An excellent blocker and pass protector, he's been regarded by many as possibly the quickest offensive tackle in pro football . . . Hines came to New Orleans in the Mike Tilleman trade.

The injuries forced him to miss the 1968 and 1970 campaigns—he underwent a knee operation last year . . . He did see some action with the Chiefs as a reserve defensive end and special teams man in 1969 . . . If he's ready physically he should make a strong pitch for a defensive end berth with the Saints.

PRO: A solid, dependable player regardless of where he's employed, Del made the transition from right guard—where he'd been a Saints starter for 3½ seasons—to center without a hitch with four games to go last fall . . . What's more, he was most impressive in the new position and will line up there again in 1971 . . . A quick-moving, tenacious blocker, he adds considerable mobility to the Saints' attack from his pivot post . . . Del was somewhat unusual last season in that he didn't require surgery and suffered nothing worse than bruises and contusions . . . He replaced the departed Errol Linden as the Saints' player representative.

Although handicapped by various injuries in college, he suffered only a pulled leg muscle last season and spent only a few minutes on the bench . . . In fact, he progressed to the point where he was named Ball State's Co-MVP for the 1970 season, after catching 25 passes for 353 yards and three touchdowns . . . The Saints' scouts, appraising him for his tight end ability, reported, "A quick starter with quick feet and some fine moves when releasing from the line (to beat that linebacker). He sustains his blocks well and has hands that will hang onto the ball in heavy traffic. His speed is good enough to run deep patterns (4.8 in 40) and he can be elusive when carrying the ball." . . . He also earned varsity letters in baseball . . . Married—wife, Vicki, and has daughter, Angela Leigh, two . . . Attended Southport High School in Indianapolis, Ind. . . Born: March 17, 1949.

He also received the Hering Award as the outstanding varsity offensive lineman for two consecutive spring sessions (1969-70). Of his 1970 co-captain, coach Ara Parseghian said, "Larry has that certain football smartness and leadership quality that makes him a top-notch performer both on the field and off." A government major, he was a member of the campus Blue Circle Honor Society . . . According to the Saints' scouts, "He gets a real quick start, delivers a solid initial blow and sustains his blocks well.

The Saints' scouts cited his "quickness with good speed (4.5 for 40 yards) and good reaction. He can cover long and short on man-to-man defense. A consistent player who can diagnose the running game well and gives that second effort on all plays". During the 1970 season he was credited with 51 individual tackles and 18 assists, directly caused three fumbles and intercepted three passes—two in the end zone—for a college career total of 10 interceptions . . . His speed, agility and jumping ability, all useful on the basketball court, contributed to his immediate success in the secondary—where he intercepted a school record six passes in 1969 . . . The scouts' rundown on Ron: "Has strength, speed (4.7 in 40) and quickness and changes directions well. He has the knack of hawking the ball in flight and he'll support the running play—hitting with authority." . . . Married—wife, Sandra . . . GRAVES, BART, Defensive End, 6-4, 240, Tulane (D15-'71)

Upon his recovery he continued to see a lot of action and according to the Saints' scouts, "He has the physical traits necessary to be a player, including size and strength and quickness and speed. He moves his feet well and always gives you 100 percent effort." . . . Graves had played one season for Northeast Oklahoma A&M's national junior college

An elusive runner with good balance, he's almost as effective inside as he is running outside. Bob's a smart ball-carrier with good hands, excellent vision of the field and a great desire to improve." . . . A 4.7-for-40-yards speedster, he concluded his college career last fall by rushing for 866 yards on 140 carries (6.2 average), scoring eight touchdowns, catching eight passes for 94 yards and returning 15 kickoffs for a total of 376 yards. As a junior he'd cracked the line 206 times for 1,155 yards and finished with a West Virginia career record total of 2,181 ground yards . . . Even as a high school phenom Gresham ran for 1,500 yards and tallied 130 points . . . Attended Big Creek (W. Va.) High School . . . Born: July 9, 1948.

HOLDEN, SAM, Offensive Tackle, 6-3, 258, Grambling (D2-71)

The Saints drafted Holden with a strong feeling that he could develop into a starting offensive tackle by the time the regular season begins. An All-SWAC choice last fall, the Saints scouts were impressed by his techniques, quickness, balance, strength and speed downfield (4.9 for 40 yards). Sam's head coach at Grambling, the highly-regarded Eddie Robinson, testified, "He's extremely coachable with a strong desire to play football. An outstanding trapper, he can also go crossfield and mow down the safeties and cornerbacks. As our team captain he set an example with his performance—always being the first to arrive at practice and the last to leave and always working hard. If he had to he could play equally as well on defense." . . . Holden transferred to Grambling after a year at Southern Illinois . . . Married—wife, Adelaide, one child—Marc Antony . . . Attended Xavier Prep and St. Augustine High School in New Orleans . . . Born: February 24, 1947.

He went on to gain All-SWAC acclaim each of his last three seasons and was a Little All-American selection while serving as team captain each of the last two campaigns. His team's MVP in 1970, he climaxed the year by playing in the North-South Shrine Game in Miami. In 1969 he dashed a Cotton Bowl record 105 yards with an interception vs. Bishop. Bivian also competed in track at Prairie View and was president of both the Panther Club and the Lettermen's Club . . . The scouts appraised him thusly: "Lee reads the plays well and reacts quickly. He'll come and force the ground play and is a good tackler who will fight off blocks and keep his feet." . . . Married—wife, Loretta . . . Attended Emile High School in Bastrop, Texas . . . Born: August 3, 1948.

MANNING, ARCHIE, Quarterback, 6-3, 204, Ole Miss (D1-71)

In the opinion of the Saints' scouts, "Manning is greatly endowed with special talents. He's equipped to become the heart of a pro team. His arm is strong and accurate whether throwing from the pocket or on the run. He has a good touch and puts zip on his passes. An exceptional scrambler who very seldom takes a loss, he has the knack of making the big play—both passing and running. He's a fine all-around athlete with great poise and leadership ability. Archie's a swift (4.7 for 40), elusive ball-carrier and relentless competitor who's capable of transforming disaster into success on any play." . . . Although handicapped during the 1970 season by a pulled groin muscle and a fractured left forearm (missing two games due to the latter injury), he managed to complete 121 of 233 aerials (51.9%) for 1,481 yards and 14 touchdowns. He thus boosted his three-year career output to 412 completions of 761 throws (54.1%) for 4,753 yards and 31 scores—all representing Ole Miss records. His three-year total offense of 5,576 yards also established a new SEC mark. An All-SEC choice in 1969-70, he was also an All-American pick in the former season—when he also collected a variety of awards, including outstanding player in his team's Sugar Bowl win over Arkansas at the close of that campaign. He reaped similar honors in the Rebels' Gator Bowl loss to Auburn in January, 1971. Archie shattered the Ole Miss single game standards when he accounted for 540 yards total offense—436 by completing 33 passes—vs. Alabama in 1969 . . . The co-captain of his team, he is also a fine baseball player, being drafted by Chicago of the American League . . . Married—wife, Olivia . . . Attended Drew (Miss.) High School . . . He has the necessary soft hands and times his throws well, particularly in traffic. He runs excellent patterns and maintains fine body control. A well disciplined receiver with fluid moves and the ability to get open quickly." . . . A 9.9 sprinter (100 yards) and a district high hurdle champion in high school, he sprained an ankle in his first college game and had to sit out the next three contests. From there, however, he went on to smash Oregon individual records for career receptions, 125, and yards gained receiving, 1,941. He also established school season

He was a transfer from Oregon . . . Born: August 3, 1949.

POLLARD, BOB, Defensive End, 6-3, 245, Weber State (D11-'71)

After playing at Texas Southern, Pollard red-shirted a year before getting in his last two seasons at Weber State as a defensive end, the same position at which the Saints will try him. Possessing fine speed, he's run the 40 in 4.8, he was labeled by scouts as "an aggressive player who uses his hands effectively, gets off the ball quickly, has good pop and extension, gets rid of the blocker in a hurry and is a strong pass-rusher with good lateral pursuit. He's very coachable, a leader on the field and he plays with pain." Attended Hebert High School in Beaumont, Texas . . . Born: December 30, 1948.

ROBINSON, CRAIG, Offensive Tackle, 6-4, 250, Houston (D16-'71)

Scott also hurled for 32 TDs over three seasons . . . Bobby was generally an underrated quarterback in the SEC with a team that had never been renowned for its air attack . . . His offensive coach at Tennessee, Jim Wright, testified, "I've found no one who does more things well than Scott. He has a quarterback's personality, commands respect in the huddle and is above average in intelligence which allows him to better interpret defenses." . . . He concluded his senior season by being named the MVP in the 1971 Sugar Bowl Game . . . Attended Rossville (Ga.) High School . . . Born: April 2, 1949.

WINTHER, WIMPY, Off. Tackle-Center, 6-4, 261, Ole Miss (D4B-'71)

Kinard, then the Rebels' line coach, "Wimpy is the finest center we've had since I've been here. He's both the largest and strongest, superior in providing protection for the passer and as a close-line blocker. He makes the long snap well and is a 100% battler." He also took a brief turn at defensive tackle before returning to stay at the pivot post . . . The Saints scouts confirm, "Winther's a hustler and enthusiastic player. He likes to play the game and is a tough competitor." Winther played in the Senior Bowl game. Married—wife, Katherine . . . Attended Biloxi (Miss.) High School . . . Born: October 22, 1947.

SAINTS IN PRO BOWL

In the team's four-year history, six players have been tapped for action in the Pro Bowl: 1967—safety Dave Whitsell; 1968—defensive tackle Baker Rowe; 1969—kicker Tom Dempsey, guard Jake Kupp, and running backs Tony Baker and Andy Livingston. In addition, Tom Fears coached the East squad in the 1969 game, and Saints assistants Jack Faulkner, Don Heinrich, Ed Khayat and Brad Ecklund along with trainer Warren Arial served with Fears.

THE SAINTS' FUTURE FOES

According to the schedule released by the National Football League, the New Orleans Saints will play all 25 league opponents at least once before 1979.

The Eastern Division will furnish competition from Baltimore, Boston, Buffalo, Miami and the New York Jets twice each, while from the Western Division, San Diego and Kansas City will be met twice, Oakland three times and Denver once.

From the National Football Conference (NFC), the Central Division furnishes opposition from Chicago, Detroit, Green Bay and Minnesota six times each while the Eastern Division sends Dallas, Philadelphia, Washington, the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals against the Saints three times each.

New Orleans will, of course, play a home-and-home schedule with fellow Western Division teams Atlanta, Los Angeles and San Francisco through 1978.
