Frank Vogel made an immediate impact on the franchise after joining the team in May 2019, leading Los Angeles to its first NBA title since 2010 in his first season.

With Vogel at the helm, the Lakers advanced to the NBA Finals after winning each of their first three playoff series in five games. The Miami HEAT forced a sixth game in the Finals, where the Lakers became the third team in the last 50 seasons to clinch an NBA title in a wire-to-wire win, while leading by as many as 36 points in the contest.

Vogel - the 27th head coach in Lakers franchise history and the 23rd in the Los Angeles era - guided the Lakers to the league's best regular season start and was recognized with Western Conference Coach of the Month honors for games played in October/November. The 17-2 record that Vogel's team accumulated over that span tied the franchise's best 19-game start in team history, and 14 wins in November marked the most by the Lakers in a calendar month since March 2000. The quick start was merely a sign of what was to come, as Vogel and his coaching staff later led Team LeBron to a victory at the 2020 NBA All-Star Game in Chicago, having earned his second career distinction to an all-star bench by compiling the Western Conference's best overall record through January.

In a shortened 71-game regular season, Vogel's Lakers amassed a 52-19 record, clinching the No. 1 seed in the Western Conference and earning the franchise's 24th Pacific Division title. The team shot a league-leading 48.0 percent from the field, blocked a league-high 6.6 shots per game and ranked third in defensive rating (106.1). Additionally, the Lakers tallied 13 consecutive road victories, tied for the third-best road streak of all time. L.A. went on to set an NBA record by defeating 18 consecutive Western Conference opponents on the road, thoroughly outmatching the previous record of 13 that has been held by the Lakers since the 1972-73 season.

Prior to joining the Lakers, Vogel accumulated a 250-181 record as the head coach in Indiana and was a four-time NBA Eastern Conference Coach of the Month from 2010-16, leading them to five NBA Playoff appearances, two Central Division championships and back-to-back trips to the Eastern Conference Finals in 2013 and 2014. His 250 regular season wins remain as the most for a Pacers head coach in the team's NBA history. Vogel then led the Orlando Magic for two seasons from 2016-18 and guided the team to a 54-110 record while overseeing a young and developing roster.

Vogel is a graduate of the University of Kentucky with a degree in biology. He initially attended Juniata College in Huntington, PA, where he was a three-year starter for the school's Division-III basketball team. An admirer of then-Kentucky head coach Rick Pitino, Vogel transferred to UK and became a student manager, playing on the junior varsity team in 1996.

After graduating from Kentucky, Vogel soon moved into a video coordinator role with the Wildcats. He got his start in the NBA soon thereafter as the head video coordinator with the Boston Celtics, again working under the future Hall-of-Famer Pitino from 1997-2001, before earning his first assistant coach role with the Celtics during the 2001-02 season.

Vogel has been an assistant with Boston (2001-04), Philadelphia (2004-05) and Indiana (2007-11), while also previously holding advance scouting roles with the Lakers (2005-06) and Wizards (2006-07). He remained as an assistant coach until the 2010-11 season, when he took the reigns as interim head coach for the Pacers and led the team to the playoffs later that season.

A native of Wildwood Crest, NJ, Vogel and his wife Jenifer have two daughters, Alexa and Arianna.
