Leslie L. Alexander

Owner

Leslie Alexander assumed ownership of the Houston Rockets on July 30, 1993, and – over the last 21 years – has devoted his efforts to making his teams champions both on the basketball court and in the community. Alexander’s dedication to winning has resulted in two NBA championships with the Rockets and four WNBA titles during his 10-year (1997-2006) operation of the Houston Comets, giving Houston its first major professional sports championships. Only three other NBA teams have posted more winning seasons than the Rockets (17) during Alexander’s tenure as owner. Additionally, Houston’s winning percentage (.561, 940-734) is the seventh best in the league over that same 21-season time frame. Off the court, the Rockets franchise has set the standard for community involvement.

“I’ve always believed that sports teams are in the unique position to make a real difference in their communities,” Alexander said. “When I bought the Rockets, that was my dream. I hoped to make a difference for the people of Houston, both emotionally and financially.”

In 2008, Forbes recognized the integral role Alexander has played in his team’s success by naming him the NBA’s best owner. Alexander was also named by SI.com (Sports Illustrated) as one of the five best owners in the league in 2008-09. Alexander, who has held the longest ownership tenure in franchise history, continues to strive for peak success both on and off the court.

Now 21 seasons into his ownership, Alexander has taken his championship tandem of Hakeem Olajuwon and Clyde Drexler and molded it into the current pairing of Dwight Howard and James Harden. The dominant center and dynamic guard combination that delivered a second consecutive title in 1995 has been reborn with that same aspiration of bringing another championship to Houston.

An active participant in all phases of the team’s operations, Alexander has continually proven his commitment to success. Since naming Daryl Morey as the successor to Carroll Dawson as general manager of the team, Alexander’s Rockets have recorded the third-longest winning streak in NBA history (22 in a row: 1/29/08-3/16/08) and posted 50-plus victories in three consecutive seasons (2006-09) for the first time in club annals. On June 1, 2011, Alexander hired Hall-of-Famer Kevin McHale as just the 12th head coach in team history.

Since Alexander’s arrival, he has spared no expense in engineering numerous bold moves designed to make the Rockets a perennial contender:

- In 1995, Alexander orchestrated a deal with Portland to acquire Houston native Drexler. The trade helped to deliver Houston’s second consecutive title just four months later.
- In 1996, Alexander signed Olajuwon to a long-term contract extension and obtained NBA All-Star Charles Barkley from Phoenix.
- In 1999, Alexander acquired the draft rights to Steve Francis from Vancouver.
- In 2002, the Rockets made history with the top pick in the 2002 NBA Draft by selecting Yao Ming, making him the first-ever player from an international league to be drafted first overall.
- In 2004, Alexander approved a seven-player trade with Orlando to bring in two-time NBA scoring champion Tracy McGrady.
- In 2005, Alexander signed Yao to a multi-year contract extension.

- In 2006, Alexander endorsed the acquisition of Shane Battier from Memphis.
- In 2007, Alexander authorized the trade for international-star Luis Scola.
- In 2008, Alexander approved the trade for Ron Artest from Sacramento.
- In 2010, Alexander authorized a three-team, nine-player trade that netted Kevin Martin from Sacramento and sent McGrady to New York.
- In 2011, Alexander named McHale as head coach.
- In 2012, Alexander brought in restricted free agents Jeremy Lin and Omer Asik, as well as signing off on the blockbuster deal to acquire Harden
- In 2013, Alexander signed unrestricted free agent Howard.

Since 1993, Alexander has dedicated himself to building the Rockets in every area. His vision to construct a downtown arena took shape in Nov. 2000, as Harris County voters approved a referendum to build a new home for the Rockets. Groundbreaking for the arena took place on July 31, 2001. Alexander’s tireless efforts became a reality in Sept. 2003 with the opening of Toyota Center – Houston’s state-of-the-art, multi-purpose facility.

In 2010, Alexander and Toyota Center earned LEED Silver Certification for Existing Buildings: Operations & Maintenance from the U.S. Green Building Council (USGBC), making Toyota Center the first professional sports facility in Texas to receive a LEED Certification. Awarded by the USGBC under its Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design program, the certification identifies and rewards best practices by a building in areas that include energy conservation, environmental awareness, water efficiency and natural resource performance.

While Alexander’s teams have enjoyed success on the basketball court, unique to the Houston franchise is its off-the-court commitment to the community. Building a better quality of life for Houstonians is a driving force for Alexander and his organization.

In 1995, Alexander established the Clutch City Foundation with the goal of providing help, hope and inspiration to those who might otherwise be forgotten. The Clutch City Foundation funds and operates comprehensive programs benefiting thousands of children each year, as well as serving as the umbrella organization for all Rockets community initiatives. Over 18 years of active community involvement has resulted in over $15 million raised for local charities, allowing the Rockets to impact tens of thousands of Houstonians each year. One of its premier fundraising events is the Clutch City Foundation Tux & Tennies Charity Gala, which has raised over $5 million since 1996. Alexander and the Clutch City Foundation have also aided international efforts spearheaded by Yao Ming and Dikembe Mutombo, committing $850,000 to help those devastated by the earthquake in China on May 12, 2008, and to assist in building the Women & Children’s Center within the Biamba Marie Mutombo Hospital and Research Center located in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

“It’s so important to me that the Rockets find a way to thank the fans for their overwhelming support,” Alexander said. “One way we try to do that is by reaching out to young people and those who are under-served in our community through our community programs and fundraising initiatives.”

Alexander and the Rockets organization have received numerous community service awards, including the Pro Team Community Award in 1997, given by the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame. The award recognizes one professional team each year that exemplifies community service and acts as a catalyst for community pride and spirit.

In 1998, Alexander's organization was awarded the Leadership Houston "Leadership in Action" Award for outstanding community service to education, one year after winning the same award for outstanding community service to youth.

Alexander and the Rockets were also honored with the 2005 Texas Association of Partners in Education "Outstanding Business Partnership" award in the Houston Independent School District (HISD). The Clutch City Foundation was also inducted into the HISD Partners Hall of Fame for understanding the value of education, as well as an active commitment to enhancing the educational experiences of HISD students.

When flooding from Tropical Storm Allison devastated the Houston area in June 2001, the franchise helped to raise over $230,000 for flood relief by auctioning off hundreds of memorabilia items, including authentic rings from each of the organization's six championships. In addition to donating all of the memorabilia for the auction along with the funds raised, Alexander, the NBA and WNBA contributed $150,000 to the flood relief effort.

Since 2002, Alexander has donated over $1 million to the Houston Chronicle project, Goodfellows, which provides holiday gifts to needy children. In addition to several of the largest single contributions in the program's history, Alexander hosts an annual holiday party for the Goodfellows children and their families.

In Sept. 2005, just days after Hurricane Katrina ravaged many parts of Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi, Alexander immediately stepped in to assist the thousands of displaced residents who took shelter in Houston by organizing Houston HopeFest. The unprecedented three-day relief effort held at Toyota Center consisted of a day-long donation drive, followed by two days of providing basic humanitarian assistance, which included job skills training and placement services, housing assistance, as well as medical and counseling services.

After Hurricane Ike hit the Houston area in Sept. 2008, Alexander quickly responded to help those individuals affected by the storm. In conjunction with Feed the Children, Alexander purchased several semi-truck loads of pre-packaged, non-perishable food and basic essential toiletries. Rockets players and staff then distributed those supplies to area residents on Sept. 18, 2008. Alexander also named the Bush-Clinton Coastal Recovery Fund as a beneficiary of the 2009 Tux & Tennies Charity Gala, raising an additional $100,000 to assist with the rebuilding efforts in Houston and along the Gulf Coast.

In 2009, Alexander's organization teamed with Memorial Hermann and The University of Texas Medical School at Houston to create the Memorial Hermann Foundation – HEARTS program (Houston Early Age Risk Testing and Screening). A first-of-its-kind program in the United States, HEARTS aims to reach out to children who may be, or already are, at-risk for life threatening but correctable heart abnormalities. This integrated youth screening program helps to detect potential heart problems that without the program might go undetected.

In July 2011, Alexander and the team launched the Rockets Give Back community outreach. Rockets Give Back launched with the "10,000 Hugs-to-Help" fundraising campaign to assist the three surviving children of Houston residents Joshua and Robin Berry, who were killed in a tragic automobile accident in July 2011, as well as a Charity of the Month program where team members spend time volunteering in the community.

Alexander and the Rockets also raised $65,000 to support 100 military families in need of assistance during the holidays by donating proceeds of all single-game ticket sales from the 2011 preseason opener vs. San Antonio (12/17/11). The Rockets partnered with the Veteran's Administration Hospital to identify families of service members in need.

Alexander is Chairman of the Board of the Clutch City Foundation and sits on the Board of Directors of Memorial Hermann Children's Hospital, as well as the Houston Police Foundation. He was also the recipient of the 2009 American Advertising Federation-Houston Trailblazer Award, which recognizes an influential business leader for enhancing the overall image of Houston through marketing. In addition, Alexander is a staunch animal-rights advocate, and founded the Evelyn Alexander Home for Animals Foundation, which strives to provide a permanent home to abandoned and abused animals. Alexander has also donated $2.5 million to the Humane Society of the United States and millions of dollars to other charitable causes worldwide.

Through the Clutch City Foundation, Alexander and his organization will continue to make a difference in the lives of Houstonians for years to come.

Kevin McHale

Kevin McHale was named the 12th head coach in Rockets history on June 1, 2011, joining Houston after spending the prior two seasons as an analyst for NBA TV and Turner Sports. McHale's time in the NBA spans over three decades as a player, executive, coach and television commentator. He currently stands as one of six members from Boston's 1985-86 championship team to serve as an NBA head coach (Larry Bird, Danny Ainge, Dennis Johnson, Sam Vincent and Rick Carlisle). Overall, McHale owns a record of 172-152 (.531) in five seasons as head coach of the Minnesota Timberwolves (39-55) and Houston Rockets (133-97).

In 2013-14, McHale took Rockets to their second consecutive playoff berth, finishing with a mark of 54-28 (.659) in his third season at the helm. This marked the fifth best season in franchise history by winning percentage. Overall, the Rockets ranked second in the NBA in points per game (107.7) and third in the NBA in blocked shots per game on the defensive end (5.6). After setting the NBA record for three point field goals made in 2012-13 (867 three point field goals), Houston again led the entire NBA in three point field goals per game (9.5).

In his each of McHale's three campaigns with the Houston Rockets, he has made significant leaps in both total wins and winning percentage. After finishing the lockout shortened 2011-12 season 34-32 (.515), McHale led the team to a 45-37 (.549) in his second season. After a 54-28 (.659) season in 2013-14, the Rockets have witnessed win improvements of 11 wins and nine wins in each new season under McHale.

McHale previously recorded a 39-55 (.415) mark in two stints as head coach of Minnesota. He became the sixth head coach in Timberwolves annals on Feb. 12, 2005, taking over after Flip Saunders was relieved of his coaching duties. He compiled a 19-12 record over the remainder of the 2004-05 season. On Dec. 8, 2008, McHale stepped down as Vice President of Basketball Operations and transitioned into his second stint as head coach of the Timberwolves by taking over for Randy Wittman. Beginning with a victory at New York (12/26/08), McHale helped the Timberwolves rebound with a 12-4 mark over their next 16 outings, which included a five-game winning streak (1/2/09-1/10/09). McHale was also named Western Conference Coach of the Month for Jan. 2009 after guiding the Timberwolves to a 10-4 mark during that month.

Upon his retirement as an NBA player, McHale joined the Timberwolves as a television analyst and special assistant. On Aug. 18, 1994, Timberwolves Owner Glen Taylor promoted him to Assistant General Manager. He continued to broadcast Minnesota games and work as an executive until May 11, 1995, when he succeeded Jack McCloskey as Vice President of Basketball Operations. In this role, McHale was credited for hiring Saunders as head coach and made the decision to draft high school phenom Kevin Garnett with the fifth-overall pick of the 1995 NBA Draft. Overall, all eight playoff appearances by Minnesota and all four 50-win squads in team history came while he was overseeing team personnel.

His biggest transaction came on July 31, 2007, when McHale acquired an up-and-coming Al Jefferson from Boston in a trade that sent Garnett to the Celtics. McHale and his staff also signed Jefferson to a multi-year deal to remain with Minnesota. The next big splash came on June 26, 2008, when McHale orchestrated a draft-night deal that netted the Timberwolves a talented big man in forward Kevin Love and veteran sharpshooter Mike Miller from the Memphis Grizzlies in exchange for the draft rights to O.J. Mayo. Through deals with Boston, Miami, Philadelphia and Houston, McHale also acquired a number of future draft picks, including three additional first-round selections and another three second-round picks.

Prior to his NBA front office career, McHale displayed a history of success in the game of basketball. On Oct. 1, 1999, McHale was recognized for his achievements on the court with induction into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. On July 8, 2000, he was inducted into the National High School Sports Hall of Fame. During the 1997 NBA All-Star Game, he was honored as one of the NBA's Top-50 Players for the league's first half-century. To coincide with the University of Minnesota's 100th Anniversary, he was selected as top player in the history of Minnesota men's basketball on Feb. 18, 1995. McHale's #32 jersey was retired by the Boston Celtics on Jan. 30, 1994. In 1992, McHale was elected to the Minnesota State High School League Hall of Fame.

McHale played 13 seasons for Boston before retiring in the spring of 1993. A seven-time NBA All-Star (1984, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990 and 1991), McHale helped lead the Celtics to three NBA championships (1981, 1984 and 1986), five Eastern Conference titles and eight Atlantic Division crowns. He was voted the NBA's Sixth Man of the Year twice (1984 and 1985) and was selected to the All-NBA First Team in 1987. He was also named to the NBA All-Defensive First Team three times (1986, 1987 and 1988) and the Second Team on another three occasions (1983, 1989 and 1990). Overall, the 6-10 forward/center averaged 17.9 points and 7.3 rebounds in 971 career regular season games. In 169 playoff contests, McHale increased his averages to 18.8 points and 7.4 rebounds. A first-round selection (third overall) by the Celtics in the 1980 NBA Draft, McHale went on to earn First-Team NBA All-Rookie accolades in 1981.

As a collegian, McHale posted career averages of 15.2 points and 8.5 rebounds per game in four seasons at Minnesota, earning First-Team All-Big Ten honors in 1979 and 1980. In high school, McHale was named Minnesota Mr. Basketball of 1976 and led his squad to a runner-up finish in the Minnesota Class AA State Basketball Championship Game.

McHale and his wife, Lynn, have five children, Kristyn, Michael, Joseph, Thomas and the late Sasha (10/27/89-11/24/12).

Clutch "The Rokekts Bear"

Now in his 20th season as the Rockets mascot, Clutch the Bear has become one of the most celebrated mascots in sports. With his imaginative skits and mischievous antics, Clutch personifies NBA entertainment at its best. Clutch also enjoys inspiring Houston youth to make future-oriented decisions by performing over 120 annual Building A Future Elementary School Shows with over 1,500 performed over the past two decades in front of more than 1 MILLION students.

Clutch is HOUSTON'S #1 FAN and can be seen cheering on his team at all Rockets home games. Whether he is creating impromptu comedy, cheerleading, signing autographs, dancing with the Power Dancers, doling out hugs, or performing on-court skits, Clutch is always a fan favorite. While Clutch loves entertaining fans at Toyota Center, he also makes close to 300 appearances each year, visiting fans in Houston and around the world having performed across the U.S. and internationally in ten countries. In addition to being an accomplished performer, the character has also authored seven children's books, which are distributed at school shows and appearances city-wide with almost a 1/2 million books distributed free to students. Clutch was named the first-ever NBA Mascot of the Year in 2005 and took the award home again in 2013. He was inducted into the Mascot Hall of Fame in 2006. In 2009, Clutch had a story published in Chicken Soup for the Soul: Inside Basketball, which is available in bookstores nationwide. This ostentatious Houston icon also brought home back-to-back NBA Mascot Leadership Awards in 2009, 2010, and most recently in 2014. In addition to scores of yearly Rockets Community Service events and projects, Clutch is heavily involved with and fundraises for Life Gift, which is an organ donor awareness organization. In Jan. 2014 Clutch ran the entire Houston 1/2 Marathon, all 13.1 miles "In Full Gear", raising tens of thousands of dollars for the cause and creating countless stories in the media inspiring many to register as official organ donors. You can register to be a donor in Texas at donatelifetexas.org.

Clutch is equally entertaining in front of an arena filled with tens of thousands of fans, a school cafeteria filled with hundreds of students, a meeting room filled with a 100 business people, or a living room filled with 10 kids. Perfect for every occasion where fun is the agenda, Clutch is available for your next function. You can schedule Clutch for an appearance by calling his right hand man, Dominic Davila at (713) 758-7347.

Rockets Power Dancers

The Rockets Power Dancers have long been fan favorites at Rockets games and in the Greater Houston area for their tremendous energy, hard-hitting routines and love for the game. This world-class group of dancers has inspired Rockets fans in rooting for the home team since the 1994-95 season. The team comprised of business professionals and students perform at all home games and at numerous community, corporate and private events. The dancers join with the Rockets players, coaches and business team to help make a difference in the lives of children in the local community. In addition to the time they spend with fans at local events, in recent years, the dancers have been proud to represent the Rockets at the NBA All-Star Game, as well as at international events throughout mainland China, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Taiwan, Bosnia, Kosovo and the United Kingdom. These versatile ladies have been featured on SportsCenter, CNN, Fox and FSN, as well as in Sports Illustrated, Maxim and Complex magazines. The Rockets Power Dancers are led by Entertainment Manager Natalie Alvarado. This former seven-year member of RPD also toured the nation as a music performer with Universal Records. Rockets Entertainers

Rockets Launch Crew

The Rockets Launch Crew took off in 2004-05 and hasn't looked back. This group of talented tumblers, break dancers, pop-lockers and cheer stunters are the best in the business. You can see them performing explosive routines, throwing t-shirts to fans and helping with on-court contests, all while bringing their special brand of spirit. The Launch Crew team members show their skills at home games, performing during timeouts and energizing the crowd at key moments in the game. They also make numerous community and corporate appearances throughout the year. Launch Crew has been invited to represent the Rockets at the NBA All-Star Game 6 years in a row. In 2013, the Launch Crew was named, "The Best Entertainment Team in Sports" by Gameops.com.

Rockets Little Dippers

The Little Dippers are the cutest addition to Rockets game entertainment. This coed squad of talented kids, ages 7-14, debuted in 2006-07 and was an immediate hit. The group of all-star kids from all over Houston perform hip-hop and novelty dance routines at weekend and special games throughout the year. Their energetic performances include tumbling, stunting and break dancing which always bring the crowd to its feet. The Little Dippers love to participate in the Rockets game experience and also perform at community events..

Rockets Space City Seniors

The Space City Seniors are another performance group for the Rockets. Consisting of several "young at heart" retirees, these seniors wow Toyota Center crowds on a regular basis with their current and old-school hip hop moves. Their high energy and enthusiasm for dance and the Rockets are unmatched in the NBA.

Sonic Boom Drumline

The Sonic Boom Drumline is the newest and loudest Entertainment Group of the Houston Rockets. It is comprised of snare, bass, tenor drums and cymbals. The Sonic Boom Drumline produces energy from their instruments to create shock waves of pandemonium in the arena. Whether it's standing alone as a unit or providing an explosive beat for the other Entertainment Groups, they never fail to bring the boom!

Clutch City Foundation

Established by Rockets Owner Leslie Alexander in 1995, the Clutch City Foundation provides hope, help and inspiration for those who might otherwise be forgotten. The Clutch City Foundation serves as the umbrella organization for all Rockets community initiatives. Through the foundation, Rockets players, coaches and staff participate in a myriad of programs for those who are in need; especially children. Since its inception, the Clutch Foundation has raised over $15 million for those in need here in Houston and throughout the world.

Tux & Tennies Charity Gala

Recognized as the premier fundraising event of the Clutch City Foundation, and held on the Rockets court at Toyota Center, more than 400 annual guests wear their favorite sneakers, spend time with the Rockets team and bid on exclusive and rare autographed memorabilia in the silent auction.

Rockets Give Back Program

Houston Rockets and Toyota Center employees take part in the Rockets Give Back Program by volunteering with our community partners. Last season, more than 800 volunteer hours were spent serving homeless families, assisting in food pantries, delivering meals to children, playing basketball and video games with youth, and helping out in animal shelters – just to name a few projects.

United Way of Greater Houston

The Rockets are committed to working with the United Way of Greater Houston in its efforts to provide a safety net for thousands of Houstonians who depend on social agencies for support. Over the past 10 years, Owner Leslie Alexander and Rockets employees have contributed over $950,000 to the United Way Annual Campaign. In addition, the organization participates in the annual Days of Caring, a city-wide, two-day community service initiative dedicated to helping non-profit organizations with projects that enhance their facilities, including painting, landscaping, construction and other projects.

Food for Families - Food Drive

For the past three seasons, the Rockets have hosted "Food for Families" Food Drive in support of families who need support. Held in October as part of "Rockets Launch" activities, Rockets and Toyota Center employees, school partners and fans donate more than 50,000 non-perishable goods to Casa deEsperanza and Target Hunger to replenish their food pantries.

A Season of Giving

During the holiday season, Rockets players, coaches and staff host a series of events for members of the community who are less fortunate. Each year, hundreds of children and their families are the recipients of private parties, gifts and surprise visits by players.

Houston Rockets Player Ticket Program

Charity begins at home for Rockets players, so each year many purchase blocks of season tickets to be donated to underserved children and their families. Non-profit or community groups that serve underprivileged youth and families, please visit the online community section at www.rockets.com and complete the application, or send a written request on your organization's letterhead to: Houston Rockets, Community Relations, 1510 Polk St., Houston, TX 77002 or by fax to (713) 758-7358.

Grassroots Basketball

Rockets grassroots basketball programs provide opportunities and resources for youth to remain active and physically fit by participating in basketball related activities. From camps, to clinics, to leagues, hundreds of children each year enroll in Rockets year-round grassroots basketball programs.

Grass Roots Programs

Students at 11 Boys & Girls Club locations participate in the Best Shot Basketball League, a 10-week after-school program that provides students with academic tutoring, cultural awareness workshops and drug prevention education. More than 1,400 students participate annually.

Houston Rockets Skills Camps

Continuing to expand upon grassroots basketball initiatives, the Rockets host a series of Skills Camps throughout the year. Each camp offers specialized training in basketball fundamentals, while teaching the importance of teamwork and good sportsmanship. Visit the community section at www.rockets.com for dates and locations.

Be Fit Challenge with Memorial Hermann

The Be Fit Challenge is implemented in Houston schools and provides children with nutritional and activity tips. It also includes a Be Fit game where students can win Rockets prizes. Additionally, one school is rewarded with an exciting Be Fit Rally, starring Rockets entertainment and Memorial Hermann fitness and nutrition experts.

Grassroots Education

The Rockets are committed to partnering with local school districts and education experts in an effort to help improve student academic performance. Therefore, the Rockets implement educational programs in collaboration with school administrators and educators that are designed around existing school curriculum.

Programs include:

Save Smart, Score Big Presented by East West Bank

Teaching elementary students the importance of financial literacy is a newly added education initiative. The program teaches basic money concepts, such as saving money, banking and dangers of credit. SMSB targets 5th grade students in low social economic neighborhoods who may not have been exposed to the idea of saving money.

Rockets Read Nation

The Rockets are proud to present the Read Nation program to elementary students throughout Greater Houston. The program is designed to promote the value and fun of reading. Participating students are rewarded with Rockets prizes and have the opportunity to host reading time outs at their school.

The SAT Training Camp provides a full menu of information to help guide parents and students through the college application process. Workshops include admissions, financial aid, SAT/PSAT prep classes, test dates and much more.

Honorees and their guests are hosted in the Heroes Suite during the game and are recognized on-court for their contributions.

Block Out Violence - Dwight Howard/D12 Foundation

Dwight Howard launched "Block Out Violence" as a personal mission to stem the tide of violence and bullying amongst youth. As part of the program, junior and senior high schools hosts campus-wide campaigns that encourage tolerance and acceptance. In addition to on-campus BOV events, thousands of students launch vigorous social media campaigns on FB, Twitter, and Instagram to help spread the positive message of non-violence. Winning schools are rewarded with a "Block Party" school rally hosted by Dwight.

The History

History of the Rockets

The Rockets franchise entered the NBA as the San Diego Rockets prior to the 1967-68 season, along with the Seattle SuperSonics, as the league expanded to 12 teams. The Rockets received their team name because it kept with San Diego's then-theme of a "city in motion," while reflecting the growth of space-age industries in San Diego. The 1967-68 Rockets compiled a league-worst 15-67 record, but were able to select University of Houston's Elvin Hayes with the first overall pick in the 1968 NBA Draft. As a rookie, Hayes scored an NBA-leading 28.4 points per game, helping the team to a 37-45 record and a playoff berth. The Rockets drafted Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy in the 1970 NBA Draft, but were unable to produce a winning record in any of their four seasons in San Diego.

In June 1971, a group named Texas Sports Investments bought the Rockets franchise for $5.6 million and moved the team to Houston. During their first year in Texas, the Rockets played home games in Houston, San Antonio and Waco. In 1972, Hayes was traded to Baltimore. The 1974-75 Rockets produced the franchise's first season at .500 or better and first playoff series win. The franchise further improved two seasons later with the additions of John Lucas, the top pick in the 1976 NBA Draft, and Moses Malone, who had starred in the ABA the previous two years. The 1976-77 Rockets registered a 49-33 record and won their first division title, as 1977 NBA Coach of the Year Tom Nissalke guided them to the Conference Finals. Houston's record slipped the following season, as the team played most of the year without an injured Tomjanovich. He returned the following season to join Malone and Murphy in the 1979 NBA All-Star Game. That season, Malone averaged 24.8 points and an NBA-leading 17.6 rebounds to give the Rockets their first-ever NBA MVP. After the 1978-79 Rockets were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs, Del Harris was hired as head coach. In Harris' first season, the Rockets advanced to the Conference Semifinals.

The 1980-81 Rockets qualified for the playoffs in the season's final weekend with a 40-42 record. Malone averaged 27.8 points and an NBA-best 14.8 rebounds, while Murphy set NBA records with 78 consecutive free throws made and a single-season free-throw percentage of .958. Despite their sub-.500 record, the Rockets advanced to their first-ever NBA Finals, losing to Boston but becoming the first team from Houston to play for a championship in basketball, football or baseball. The following season, Hayes returned to replace a retired Tomjanovich, but the Rockets were unable to recapture the postseason magic. Despite Malone winning his second NBA MVP award with averages of 31.1 points and 14.7 rebounds, the 1981-82 Rockets lost in the first round of the playoffs. Malone was then traded to Philadelphia and the 1982-83 Rockets logged a franchise-worst 14-68 record. The Rockets replaced Del Harris with Bill Fitch as head coach at the season's end.

Houston used back-to-back poor seasons to obtain the first overall selection in both the 1983 and 1984 NBA Drafts. The Rockets picked 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson in 1983 and 7-foot Hakeem Olajuwon from the University of Houston the following year to assemble the tallest frontcourt the league had ever known. Sampson won the NBA Rookie of the Year award in his first season, while Olajuwon finished second in balloting to Michael Jordan a year later. The 1984-85 Rockets compiled a 48-34 record during Sampson's and Olajuwon's first season together, but were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs. The following year, the Rockets rolled to a 51-31 record, won the Midwest Division, and upset the defending NBA Champion L.A. Lakers to advance to the NBA Finals, where the team fell to Boston for the second time in six years.

The 1986-87 Rockets advanced to the Conference Semifinals, as Olajuwon earned his first of three straight All-NBA First-Team selections and Sampson struggled with injuries. The next year Houston traded Sampson and Steve Harris to Golden State for Joe Barry Carroll and Eric "Sleepy" Floyd, marking the first time that two first overall selections had been traded for one another. After the 1987-88 Rockets lost in the first round of the playoffs, Don Chaney replaced Fitch as head coach. During the 1988-89 season, Olajuwon became the first player to collect 200 steals and 200 blocks in the same season. Despite the addition of Otis Thorpe, the 1988-89 Rockets lost in the first round of the playoffs. The following season, a trade for Vernon Maxwell could not prevent another first-round exit. With the addition of Kenny Smith, the 1990-91 Rockets overcame losing Olajuwon to injury for 26 games to finish with a 52-30 record and earn Don Chaney NBA Coach of the Year honors. A first-round exit followed by a 26-26 start to the 1991-92 season cost Chaney his job. Tomjanovich was promoted from assistant coach to interim head coach during the season before being named permanent head coach at the season's end. That offseason, the Rockets added Robert Horry via the 1992 NBA Draft.

Beginning with the 1992-93 season, Olajuwon's All-Star play elevated to an even higher level for a four-year stretch. In 1993, he won the first of consecutive Defensive Player of the Year awards, finished second in MVP voting, and earned the first of consecutive selections to the All-NBA First Team. The 1992-93 Rockets set a franchise record with an NBA season-best 15 consecutive wins and won the Midwest Division with a 55-27 record before losing in the Conference Semifinals.

History of the Rockets

On July 30, 1993, Leslie Alexander purchased the Rockets. The 1993-94 Rockets opened the year by tying an NBA record with a perfect 15-0 start. Houston went on to set the franchise record for wins with a 58-24 record, claiming the Midwest Division title. Olajuwon averaged 27.3 points, 11.9 rebounds and 3.71 blocked shots to win both the NBA MVP award and the NBA Defensive Player of the Year award. In the Conference Semifinals, two home losses to Phoenix prompted a Houston newspaper to post the headline "Choke City," but the Rockets responded to win the seven-game series and earn the moniker "Clutch City." Houston then defeated Utah in the Conference Finals to advance to the 1994 NBA Finals against the New York Knicks. No team reached 100 points in any game in the Finals and every contest was decided by less than 10 points. The Rockets won the seven-game series to secure the first-ever professional championship for a sports team from Houston. Olajuwon earned the Finals MVP award, becoming the first player to ever win this honor along with both the regular season MVP award and the Defensive Player of the Year award in the same season.

With another NBA Championship in 1995, the Rockets became the fifth franchise in league history to boast back-to-back titles. The Rockets played the role of underdog in their bid to repeat as champions, entering the postseason as the sixth seed in the conference with a 47-35 record. The Rockets midseason trade of Thorpe reunited Houston native Clyde Drexler with Olajuwon, his former teammate at the University of Houston. The Rockets became the lowest seed ever to win a title and the first team to ever eliminate four teams that had each won 50 or more regular-season games, knocking off Utah, Phoenix, San Antonio and Orlando. The Rockets swept Orlando in the 1995 NBA Finals, as Olajuwon repeated as the NBA Finals MVP.

During the 1995-96 season, Olajuwon became the NBA's all-time blocked shots leader and Tomjanovich became the franchise's all-time winningest coach. In the playoffs, the Rockets were unable to repeat as champions, falling in the Conference Semifinals. Prior to the 1996-97 season, the Rockets acquired Charles Barkley, whose addition propelled Houston to a 57-25 record and the Conference Finals. The 1997-98 Rockets hoped to make one last championship run in Drexler's final season, but Barkley tore a tricep muscle and Houston bowed out in the first round. The next year, the Rockets added Scottie Pippen to fill out the frontcourt of Olajuwon and Barkley. The Rockets notched their 15th consecutive winning season, but lost in the first round of the playoffs. Pippen was then traded to Portland in the offseason.

In the 1999-2000 season, Barkley played his final season and Steve Francis earned NBA Co-Rookie of the Year honors. The following season marked Houston's last year with Olajuwon, who requested a trade at the season's end. One year later, the Rockets found a new center with the first overall pick in the 2002 NBA Draft. Houston selected China's Yao Ming, who became the first-ever, number-one pick to come from an international basketball league. Following the 2002-03 season, Tomjanovich stepped down as head coach with a franchise-record 503 victories in 900 games.

On June 11, 2003, Jeff Van Gundy became the 10th head coach in Rockets history. In Van Gundy's first season, the Rockets moved into their new home Toyota Center, set several defensive records and returned to the playoffs for the first time in five years. On June 29, 2004, Houston acquired Tracy McGrady, trading its backcourt of Francis and Cuttino Mobley in a seven-player deal for the 25-year-old two-time NBA scoring champion. In his inaugural season in Houston, McGrady became the first player in Rockets history to reach 2,000 points, 400 rebounds and 400 assists in a single season. McGrady also became the first-ever Houston player to earn Player-of-the-Week recognition four times in the same campaign. Overall in 2004-05, the tandem of McGrady and Yao helped lead the Rockets to a 51-31 mark and a first-round playoff series with Dallas, where the Mavericks prevailed in a decisive Game Seven at American Airlines Center.

The 2005-06 campaign was highlighted with Houston hosting the 2006 NBA All-Star Game, which marked the second time the contest was played in "Space City." Houston first held the midseason classic in 1989 before a then-record crowd of 44,735 at the Astrodome. McGrady scored a game-high 36 points for the West, while Yao led all players in votes received for a second straight season. The Rockets finished 2005-06 with a 34-48 mark, as McGrady and Yao played in just 31 games together due to injuries suffered by both players.

On April 3, 2006, Alexander named Daryl Morey as the team's Assistant General Manager. The Rockets also acquired Shane Battier from the Memphis Grizzlies in exchange for Stromile Swift and the draft rights to Connecticut forward Rudy Gay on July 12, 2006. With the addition of Battier along with strong play from Yao and McGrady, the 2006-07 Rockets blasted off to one of their best starts in recent years. Yao was named Western Conference Player of the Month for games played through Nov., becoming the first Rockets player to receive this recognition since Olajuwon. When Yao suffered a small fracture on his right anterior medial tibial plateau vs. the L.A. Clippers on Dec. 23, McGrady put the team on his back and helped lead the Rockets to a 20-12 record over the 32 games Yao was out with the injury. Also playing a huge role was reserve center Dikembe Mutombo, who moved past Kareem Abdul-Jabbar into second on the NBA's all-time blocked shots list. Houston finished the season with a 52-30 mark, but lost a heartbreaking Game Seven to the Utah Jazz in the opening round of the 2007 NBA Playoffs.

On May 10, 2007, Alexander announced that Morey officially assumed his role as General Manager of the franchise. Morey took over the position from retiring Carroll Dawson, who was honored by Alexander with "Carroll Dawson Tribute Night" on April 16, 2007, where a banner bearing his name was hung from the rafters of Toyota Center in tribute to Dawson's 27 seasons with the Rockets organization. The offseason changes did not stop there, as the team and Van Gundy decided to part ways. Alexander then hired Rick Adelman as head coach and commissioned Morey to build a roster to fit his system. In the 2007 NBA Draft, Morey selected Aaron Brooks in the first round and traded for the draft rights to Carl Landry. The team also acquired from San Antonio the draft rights to Argentine forward Luis Scola on July 12, 2007.

In his first season, Adelman led the 2007-08 Rockets to a 55-27 mark. Houston actually captured 22 victories in a row (1/29/08-3/16/08), which stands as the third-longest winning streak in NBA history. The team went 13-0 in Feb. 2008, while recording 12 consecutive wins away from Toyota Center (1/4/08-3/12/08) to mark the longest road winning streak in club annals. The accomplishments were even more noteworthy since Yao was lost for the remainder of the season after undergoing surgery to repair a stress fracture in his left foot on March 3, 2008. Another highlight during this record-setting season was Alexander honoring Olajuwon for his many contributions to the Rockets organization with the unveiling of a commissioned bronze sculpture in front of Toyota Center during a special ceremony on April 11, 2008. Despite a growing number of injuries, Houston battled to the end, but dropped their opening-round series with Utah in the 2008 NBA Playoffs.

The Rockets began the 2008-09 campaign by trading for Ron Artest and completed their run by taking the eventual NBA Champion L.A. Lakers to a Game Seven of the 2009 Western Conference Semifinals. Led by the scoring of Brooks, Houston went the full seven games with the Lakers despite playing without McGrady (microfracture surgery on left knee) and losing the services of Yao (broken bone in left foot) for the final four contests of the series. The Rockets advanced to face the Lakers by defeating Portland in the opening round, which marked the club's first series win in the playoffs since 1997. The memorable postseason came after a 53-29 regular season, which gave Houston its third consecutive 50-win campaign for the first time in franchise history.

Despite playing the entire 2009-10 campaign without Yao (foot surgery), Houston registered a 42-40 mark to become the only team in the past 20 NBA seasons to finish above .500 without an All-Star. It marked just the 26th time in NBA history for a team to finish a season with a winning record and not make the playoffs. Brooks became the sixth player in league annals to make at least 200 3-pointers (209) and dish out 400 or more assists (434) in the same season en route to capturing the NBA's 2009-10 Most Improved Player award. The Rockets were also involved in a three-team, nine-player trade that brought Kevin Martin to Houston from Sacramento on Feb. 18, 2010, while sending McGrady to the New York Knicks and Landry to the Kings.

The Rockets secured a 43-39 mark in 2010-11, joining the 1970-71 and 1971-72 Phoenix Suns as the only two teams to miss the playoffs in two straight seasons despite finishing with a winning record in both campaigns. Houston's 2010-11 season also marked one of change, which began with Yao enduring yet another season-ending surgery. The Rockets transition continued at the trade deadline with Battier rejoining the Grizzlies and the acquisition of Goran Dragic from the Suns in exchange for Brooks. Following the season, the Rockets and Adelman mutually agreed to part ways.

Houston would name Hall-of-Famer Kevin McHale as the 12th head coach in team history on June 1, 2011. Yao, who established himself as one of the top centers in the NBA and a global phenomenon, also announced his retirement from the NBA in his hometown of Shanghai, China on July 20, 2011. In his first campaign with Houston, McHale guided the 2011-12 Rockets to a 34-32 record. Second-round draft pick Chandler Parsons moved into a starting role and captured 2011-12 NBA All-Rookie Second Team accolades.

In 2012-13, the Rockets began the start of a new era with the signing of restricted free agents Jeremy Lin and Omir Asik, while seeing the departures of Scola and Dragic. On Oct. 27, 2012, Houston made a blockbuster deal to acquire James Harden from Oklahoma City and sent Martin to the Thunder. Led by this new core of players, the Rockets went 45-37 and made a return trip to the postseason. Harden recorded one of the most dynamic offensive campaigns in Rockets history by setting the team single-season record for free throws made (674) and becoming just the fifth player in club annals to reach 2,000 points in one campaign (2,023). The NBA All-Star Game returned to Houston in 2013, where Harden was selected to his first game. Harden also went on to collect 2012-13 All-NBA Third Team. In addition, Asik led the NBA in total rebounds (956).

After reaching the 2013 NBA Playoffs with the youngest team in the NBA, Alexander and his Rockets made yet another bold move to become one of the most promising young contenders in the league. Houston highlighted the 2013 NBA free agency period with the signing of three-time NBA Defensive Player of the Year Dwight Howard.

The Rockets made the playoffs for the second consecutive time in 2013-14 with the fifth best regular season record in franchise history at 54-28. The season saw All-Star appearances by James Harden and Dwight Howard as well as First Team (Harden) and Second Team (Howard) All-NBA appearances. Additionally, second-year guard Patrick Beverley provided grit to the Rockets and was named to the NBA All-Defensive Second Team.

Houston's native son, Clyde Drexler, originally gained fame with Hakeem Olajuwon on "Phi Slama Jama" at the University of Houston. Over a decade later, "The Glide" returned to his hometown to team up with "The Dream" to deliver the Rockets second consecutive NBA Championship.

On Feb. 14, 1995, Drexler was traded to Houston with Tracy Murray for Otis Thorpe and the rights to Marcelo Nicola on Feb. 14, 1995. In 35 regular season games with Houston during the 1994-95 season, Drexler averaged 21.4 points on .506 shooting with 7.0 rebounds. Drexler's value soared higher for the Rockets in the 1995 NBA Playoffs, when he served as the Rockets second-leading scorer during their second consecutive championship run. Drexler averaged 20.5 points, 7.0 rebounds and 5.0 assists in 22 playoff games for Houston, as the Rockets became the first-ever sixth seed to win an NBA title. In Houston's 1995 NBA Finals sweep of Shaquille O'Neal and the Orlando Magic, Drexler posted averages of 21.5 points, 9.5 rebounds and 6.8 assists.

Following the Rockets championship run of 1995, Drexler signed a contract extension to play with Houston for three more seasons. He became the 24th player in NBA history to register 20,000 career points on Nov. 24, 1996, at the L.A. Lakers. That same season he earned selection to the NBA's 50th Anniversary All-Time Team during the 1997 NBA All-Star Weekend. On Feb. 16, 1998, Drexler joined John Havlicek and Oscar Robertson as the only players in NBA history to collect 20,000 points, 6,000 rebounds and 6,000 assists in a career. In his final season with the Rockets, Drexler teamed with Houston Comets guard Cynthia Cooper to win the first-ever All-Star 2ball competition during the 1998 All-Star Weekend.

In 219 games with the Rockets, Drexler averaged 19.0 points, 6.1 rebounds, 5.4 assists and 1.88 steals. In Rockets history, his scoring average ranks tied for ninth all-time, his 363 3-pointers rank 11th and his 1,072 3-pointers attempted rank 10th. Drexler will best be remembered for his playoff performances with the Rockets, as he averaged 18.6 points, 6.5 rebounds and 4.9 assists in 51 playoff games with Houston. In Rockets playoff history, he stands tied for second in 3-pointers attempted, third in 3-pointers made, third in free throws made and attempted, sixth in scoring average, fourth in steals, fourth in assists, fourth in points, fifth in field goals made and attempted, seventh in rebounds, and ninth in blocks. Drexler teamed with Olajuwon to become the third teammate duo in NBA playoff history to each reach 40 points in the same game when he scored 41 points in Game Four of the 1995 Western Conference First Round vs. Utah.

After leading the Rockets in scoring during the 1997-98 season, Drexler retired from the NBA with career averages of 20.4 points, 6.1 rebounds, 5.6 assists and 2.03 steals in 15 seasons with Portland and Houston. He ranks 28th in NBA history with 22,195 career points and seventh with 2,207 career steals. Before being traded to Houston, Drexler played for 11-and-a-half seasons in Portland, leaving as the Blazers all-time leader in games played, minutes played, scoring, field goals made and attempted, free throws made and attempted, total rebounds, offensive rebounds and steals. He was named to the All-NBA First Team in 1992 and played on the gold-medal-winning "Dream Team" in the Olympics following that season. He received both All-NBA Second-Team (1988, 1991) and Third-Team (1990, 1995) honors twice. He was also named to the Rockets 1990s All-Decade Team. The 10-time NBA All-Star collected 25 career triple-doubles, with his last seven coming with the Rockets. Drexler participated in the playoffs in every year he played, placing him among the all-time NBA leaders in postseasons played. He reached the NBA Finals three times, as his Blazers lost to Detroit in 1990 and Chicago in 1992 before he won with the Rockets. His NBA Finals scoring average of 24.5 points per game ranks 11th in NBA history. He ranks 24th among all-time NBA career playoff scorers with 2,963 points.

Prior to entering the NBA, Drexler averaged 14.4 points and 9.9 rebounds per game in three seasons at the University of Houston. He teamed with Olajuwon and Larry Micheaux to form the "Phi Slama Jama" frontcourt that led the Cougars to the NCAA Final Four in 1982 and 1983. Drexler finished as Houston's all-time leader in steals with 268 career thefts. He had his #22 retired by the University of Houston along with Olajuwon's #34 in February 1997. Following his NBA career, Drexler served as the head coach at the University of Houston, as an assistant coach for the Denver Nuggets and currently serves as a broadcaster for the Rockets.

The fifth-leading rebounder and seventh-leading scorer in NBA history, Moses Malone is a legend that not only made a big impact on the game of basketball, but left a lasting impression with the City of Houston. A two-time NBAMVP in Houston, Malone averaged 24.0 points and a franchise-record 15.0 rebounds in six seasons with the Rockets. Malone also set the franchise single-season record for points in 1982 and rebounds in 1979. Malone was honored for his accomplishments in 2001 with his induction into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame.

"When you look back over the 25 years that I played, the game did me good," Malone said following his selection to the Hall of Fame. "The opportunity to be an All-Star for so many years, to be one of the 50 greatest players and then to get the call to be in the Hall of Fame."

After being named Parade High School Player of the Year in Petersburg, Virginia, Malone bypassed college and went directly into the American Basketball Association (ABA), playing with the Utah Stars and the St. Louis Spirits from 1974-76. Malone found himself on the Buffalo Braves roster when the ABA merged with the NBA in 1976. However, Malone only played two games with the Braves before he was sent to the Rockets on Oct. 24, 1976, in exchange for two first-round draft picks. During his first NBA season, Malone averaged 13.2 points and 13.1 rebounds, leading the league in offensive rebounds.

During the 1978-79 season, Malone won his first of three NBA MVP awards by averaging 24.8 points and a league-best 17.6 rebounds per game. The 1978-79 season also marked the first of four consecutive years in which Malone led Houston in points, rebounds and blocked shots.

Malone and his Rockets teammates made history together during the 1980-81 season as the second team ever to win a conference championship and reach the NBA Finals with a losing record. Despite Malone averaging 27.8 points and 14.8 rebounds per game in the 1980-81 season, most people didn't expect the Rockets to get past the first round with a 40-42 regular season record. However, the Rockets upset the reigning NBA Champion Lakers in the first round. Despite the Rockets inspired play in the playoffs, they fell to Larry Bird and the Celtics in the 1981 NBA Finals.

Malone averaged 31.1 points and a league-leading 14.7 rebounds en route to his second MVP award in the 1981-82 season. During that season, he set Rockets records with 13 consecutive 30-point games and three consecutive 40-point games.

On Sept. 15, 1982, Malone was traded to the Philadelphia 76ers in exchange for Caldwell Jones and their 1983 first-round draft pick. Malone claimed MVP honors for the regular season and the NBA Finals in his first season with the 76ers, teaming with Julius Erving to win the NBA title for Philadelphia.

After leaving Houston, Malone played 13 more seasons, including stints with Philadelphia, Washington, Atlanta, Milwaukee and San Antonio. He retired in 1995 with 29,580 points and 17,834 rebounds in 1,455 ABA and NBA games, ranking seventh all-time in major league points and third all-time in rebounds.

A 12-time NBA All-Star, Malone led the NBA in rebounding six times and averaged more than 20 points per game for 11 consecutive seasons. A three-time NBA MVP, Malone was named to the All-NBA First Team four times and the All-NBA Second Team four times. He was named NBA All-Defensive First Team once and All-Defensive Second Team once. Malone earned selection to the NBA's 50th Anniversary All-Time Team during the 1997 NBA All-Star Weekend. He was also named to the Rockets 1970s All-Decade Team in 2012. During his 19-year NBA career, Malone scored 27,409 points and grabbed 16,212 rebounds. In 1,329 regular season games, he averaged 20.6 points and 12.2 rebounds. In 94 playoff games, he averaged 22.1 points and 13.8 boards.

Malone holds a number of NBA records, including the career record for most offensive rebounds (6,731); single-season record for most offensive rebounds (587); single-game record for most offensive rebounds (21). He also ranks second all-time for most free throws made (8,531); fourth most free throws attempted (11,090); sixth most defensive rebounds (9,481); 10th most games played (1,329); and 13th most minutes played (45,071). He also holds the single-game record for most offensive rebounds in the playoffs (15).

- Inducted into Basketball Hall of Fame in 1993
- Retired as a player prior to the 1983-84 season; Number (23) was retired on March 17, 1984

Calvin Murphy enjoyed one of the greatest moments of his life on May 10, 1993, when he was inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame.

"My only dream was that I wanted to start for my high school basketball team, the Norwalk High School Bears," said Murphy, who played his entire 13-year NBA career with the Rockets from 1970-83. "Going to the Hall of Fame was beyond my wildest dreams."

Murphy became the first Hall of Famer to play his entire career with the Rockets, as he averaged 17.9 points and 4.4 assists in 1,002 career games. In 2012, he was named to the Rockets 1970s All-Decade Team. He still ranks seventh on the all-time NBA free throw percentage list at .892. In 1980-81, Murphy posted a free throw percentage of .958 (206-215 FT), which was the NBA single-season record until Jose Calderon of Toronto hit .981 (151-154 FT) from the line in 2008-09. During Murphy's 1980-81 campaign, he also set a then-NBA record by making 78 consecutive free throws from Dec. 27-Feb. 20, which stood for over a decade until Micheal Williams of Minnesota made 84 straight at the end of the 1992-93 season.

The 5-foot-9 Murphy, who scored 17,949 career points, stands with Avery Johnson as the only two players under six feet to play in 1,000 NBA games. Murphy still owns the Rockets career record with 4,402 assists and holds the eighth best field goal percentage (.482) among NBA guards who have scored at least 15,000 points.

Murphy led the NBA in free throw percentage twice (1980-81, 1982-83) and finished among the top five in nine other seasons. Murphy, Ray Allen, Rick Barry, Chauncey Billups, Reggie Miller, Steve Nash and Mark Price are the only players in league history to have shot .900 or better from the line in six or more seasons.

Murphy stands with Hakeem Olajuwon and Kevin Martin as the only Rockets to rank in the NBA top-10 in four statistical categories in one season, as the Rockets guard accomplished this feat during the 1973-74 season. That year, Murphy ranked second in the NBA with 7.4 assists per game, fourth with a field goal percentage of .522, sixth with a free throw percentage of .868 and ninth with 1.94 steals per game. He also finished that season ranked 19th among scoring leaders with 20.4 points per game.

The San Diego Rockets selected Murphy in the second round in 1970 with the 18th overall pick. The former Niagara University star went on to earn NBA All-Rookie First-Team honors (other First-Team members: Pete Maravich, Bob Lanier, Dave Cowens and Geoff Petrie) and finish fourth in the Rookie of the Year balloting.

Murphy's best year came during the 1977-78 season, when he ranked fifth in the NBA with a career-high 25.6 points per game. He reached 30 points 23 times and scored 40 points three times during that year, including the Rockets single-game scoring record of 57 points vs. New Jersey on March 18, 1978. Murphy averaged better than 20 points in five of 13 seasons, including three consecutive years from 1977-80. In a season, he led the Rockets in points twice, assists three times, steals five times and free throw percentage 10 times.

Murphy scored better than 40 points seven times during the regular season in his NBA career – only Olajuwon (32), Elvin Hayes (25), Moses Malone (22) and Tracy McGrady (15) have had more 40-point games in Rockets history.

A 1979 NBA All-Star, Murphy had one of the most brilliant careers in NCAA Division I history. He was a three-time consensus All-American (First Team 1969 and 1970, Second Team 1968). Murphy averaged 33.1 points in 77 games – still the fourth-best average in Division I history (44.2 by Pete Maravich of LSU, 34.6 by Austin Carr of Notre Dame, 33.8 by Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati). His 68 points on Dec. 7, 1968 vs. Syracuse is still the third-best mark against a Division I opponent. Only five players in NCAA history averaged more points in a season than Murphy, who scored 38.2 points per game during the 1967-68 season. He scored 30 or more points in 42 of the 77 games he played for Niagara, reaching 40 points on 19 occasions and 50 points six times.

Murphy averaged double figures in points during every season he played organized basketball, spanning from high school to the NBA. Following his retirement as a player, he has worked with the Rockets organization as an assistant coach, a broadcaster and a community services advisor.

In 2001, Olajuwon finished his 17-year career with the Rockets as the franchise's all-time leader in 26 regular season and postseason statistical categories.

Rockets Owner Leslie Alexander honored Olajuwon for his many contributions to the Rockets organization with the unveiling of a commissioned bronze sculpture in front of Toyota Center during a special ceremony on April 11, 2008.

Inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 2008, Olajuwon also received several honors during his tenure with the Rockets. Upon entering the league, he was named to the NBA All-Rookie Team with Michael Jordan and Charles Barkley in 1985. Over the next 14 years, he was selected to All-NBA First Team six times (1987-89, 1993-94, 1997), Second Team three times (1986, 1990, 1996), and Third Team three times (1991, 1995, 1999). In 1994, Olajuwon became the first player in league history to win the NBA MVP, Defensive Player of the Year and NBA Finals MVP in the same season. This also marked his second consecutive Defensive Player of the Year award and the first of two consecutive NBA Finals MVP awards.

Born in Nigeria, Olajuwon earned American citizenship and represented his country as a member of the gold-medal-winning 1996 United States Olympic Team. Selected to the Rockets 30-Year Team in 1998, he was also named to the Rockets All-Decade Teams of the 1980s and 1990s, and was chosen one of the 50 Greatest Players in NBA History on Oct. 29, 1996.

He scored a career-high 42 points against Buffalo on Jan. 13, 1974. During the 1974-75 season, Tomjanovich led Houston with 20.7 points per game and guided the Rockets to their first-ever playoff series win. He averaged a team-leading 21.6 points for the 1976-77 Rockets and helped Houston to its first division title. Tomjanovich played only 23 games the next year, as he suffered a facial fracture on Dec. 9, 1977 versus the Lakers. Tomjanovich returned to the All-Star Game in 1979, averaging 19.0 points and 7.7 rebounds with Houston in his comeback season.

After Houston advanced to the 1981 NBA Finals, Tomjanovich retired on Oct. 2, 1981, having spent his entire playing career with the Rockets. His jersey #45 was retired on Jan. 28, 1982. In 2012, he was named to the Rockets 1970s All-Decade Team.

Beginning with the 1981-82 season, Tomjanovich spent two years as a Rockets scout. He became an assistant coach in 1983 and served in that role until being named interim head coach on Feb. 18, 1992. In the first 15 games with Tomjanovich at the helm, the Rockets responded with an 11-4 record — the best start for any coach in franchise annals.

Officially named the ninth head coach in Rockets history on May 20, 1992, Tomjanovich became the first coach in NBA history to guide his team from the lottery to a division title in his first full season. His coaching peers voted him The Sporting News NBA Coach of the Year in 1993. He was also named head coach of the Western Conference for the 1997 NBA All-Star Game and received NBA Coach of the Month recognition three times with Houston.

Tomjanovich posted a 503-397 (.559) regular season mark and 51-39 (.567) playoff record in 12 seasons with Houston, departing with franchise records for career wins and winning percentage. Tomjanovich resigned as Houston's coach following the 2002-03 season while undergoing successful treatment for bladder cancer. He was hired to coach the L.A. Lakers during the summer of 2004 before stepping aside later that season for health reasons. On the career coaching wins list, he ranks 26th all-time in NBA history with 525 victories.

Aside from his success in the NBA, Tomjanovich coached the United States Senior National Team on two occasions. He guided the United States Men's Basketball Team to a gold medal and an undefeated record in the 2000 Summer Olympics. Prior to the Olympics, Tomjanovich led a United States team of non-NBA players to a bronze medal at the 1998 World Championship of Basketball.

Tomjanovich stands with Basketball Hall of Famers Lenny Wilkins and the late Chuck Daly as the only people to coach teams to an NBA Championship and an Olympic gold medal. He also stands as one of eight coaches in NBA history to possess 500 career wins and multiple NBA championships.

- Inducted into the Paris Junior College Hall of Fame in 1991
- Enshrined in the Baylor University Hall of Fame in 1998
- Entered the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame in 2001
- Inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in 2003
- Retired as General Manager after the 2006-07 season
- Honored with "Carroll Dawson Tribute Night" on April 16, 2007

Affectionately known as "CD," Carroll Dawson was honored by Houston Rockets Owner Leslie Alexander with "Carroll Dawson Tribute Night" on April 16, 2007, where a banner bearing his name was hung from the rafters of Toyota Center in honor of Dawson's 27 seasons with the Rockets organization as General Manager and as an assistant coach.

Dawson completed his 11th and final campaign as General Manager of the franchise in 2006-07. Prior to moving into the front office on July 26, 1996, Dawson worked as an assistant coach under four Rockets head coaches, aiding Del Harris from 1980-83, Bill Fitch from 1983-88, Don Chaney from 1988-92 and Rudy Tomjanovich from 1992-96.

Recognized as one of the top executives in the NBA, Dawson finished second in voting for The Sporting News NBA Executive of the Year in 2006-07. As General Manager, Dawson showed the ability to both bolster a playoff contender with veterans and acquire emerging talent as part of a youth movement. In his first few years, he made trades for Charles Barkley and Scottie Pippen to give a team led by Hakeem Olajuwon even more experience. Dawson then helped the Rockets acquire several young talents in the following years, including Cuttino Mobley, Steve Francis and Yao Ming.

In the summer of 2005, Dawson worked with Alexander to sign Yao to a maximum-value contract extension. In the summer of 2004, Dawson changed the face of the franchise by obtaining one of the NBA's top players in Tracy McGrady. The two-time scoring champion was acquired from Orlando in a seven-player deal that included Francis and Mobley.

Dawson holds the distinction of being the only person on the coaching staffs of all four Rockets teams that advanced to the NBA Finals, as Houston played for a championship in 1981, 1986, 1994 and 1995. He will always be known throughout the NBA for his work with frontcourt players and was credited with teaching Olajuwon his famous jump hook. Dawson coached many NBA All-Stars during his years in Houston, including Elvin Hayes, Moses Malone, Ralph Sampson and Tomjanovich.

Dawson's knowledge of the game was not limited to the NBA. Prior to the inaugural 1997 WNBA season, Dawson was commissioned by Alexander to help assemble the first Houston Comets team. He guided the efforts to bring Sheryl Swoopes and Cynthia Cooper to Houston, and then drafted Janeth Arcain in the WNBA Elite Draft. Dawson was also instrumental in the selection of Tina Thompson with the first pick of the Inaugural WNBA Draft. Finally, he worked with Alexander to hire Naismith Hall of Famer and WNBA All-Decade Coach Van Chancellor. Dawson served as Chancellor's top advisor as the Comets Executive Vice President of Basketball from 1997-2006 and helped craft the four-time WNBA Champions (1997-2000).

A native Texan, Dawson hails from Alba, a town with a population of 200 that sits about 75 miles east of Dallas. As a 6-foot-5 high school center, he led Alba High School to a 44-3 record as a senior. He then went on to win Junior College All-America honors at Paris Junior College (Texas) under Head Coach Boyd Converse. After two seasons at Paris, Dawson moved on to Baylor University, where he led Bill Henderson's Baylor Bears in scoring and rebounding in each of his two seasons. In 1960, he averaged 16.4 points as a senior to earn All-Southwest Conference honors.

In 1963, he returned to Baylor as an assistant to Head Coach Bill Menefee. He later succeeded Menefee as head coach in 1973, remaining in that position for more than three seasons. After spending two years as a scout for the Dallas Cowboys at the call of executive Gil Brandt, Dawson started a career as a salesman for Converse Shoe Company.

Dawson has been honored with induction into the Paris Junior College Hall of Fame in 1991, the Baylor University Hall of Fame in 1998, the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame in 2001, and the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in 2003. He was also named Mr. Sportsman 2005 by Interfaith Charities in Houston. In 2010, Dawson was honored as a Baylor Basketball Legend by the 'B' Association. In addition, he was named the President of the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

Remaining with the Rockets as a Senior Consultant, Dawson resides in Houston with his wife, Sharon. Sharon has a daughter, Elizabeth, and a son, Michael.

NBA Personnel Facts

Active List

Each team is able to maintain 13 players on its Active List, but must have a minimum of eight players dressed and able to participate in all preseason and regular season games or nine players for playoff games. A team may periodically carry 11 or 12 players on its Active List, but for no more than two consecutive weeks at a time. Each team is responsible for delivering the team's Active List to the Official Scorer prior to each game.

Inactive List

A team may carry a maximum of two players on its Inactive List (subject to hardship rules). Teams with 11 or 12 active players are required to maintain at least one player on the Inactive List for all regular season games. These teams may carry zero players on the Inactive List, but for no more than two consecutive weeks at a time. A team that has 13 players on its Active List is not required to have a player on its Inactive List. Players may move freely between the Active List and Inactive List.

10-Day Contract

A player can be signed to a 10-day contract beginning on Jan. 6 or the next business day if Jan. 6 is not a business day. No team may be a party at any time to more 10-day contracts than the number of players on its Inactive List. Players signed to 10-day contracts can be placed on either the Active List or the Inactive List.

NBA D-League Assignment

Any player who is assigned by his team to the NBA D-League must be placed and maintained on his NBA team's Inactive List for the duration of his D-League assignment.

Waivers

From Aug. 15 to the end of the regular season, clubs may claim waived players within 48 hours after notice. Players waived any other time may be claimed within seven days. If no teams claim the waived player, he becomes a free agent. If more than one club claims a waived player, the one with the lesser record at that time claims the player.

Guaranteed Contract Date

On Jan. 10 of the regular season, all player contracts become guaranteed for the remainder of the season.
