ABOUT THE TEAM

DASH EXECUTIVES

President - C.J. Johnson

C.J. became president and general manager of the Winston-Salem Dash on October 13, 2017, following the departure of longtime president Geoff Lassiter, who is now the current president of the Carolina League.

In Johnson's first year at the helm, the Dash were selected as the Freitas Award winner by Baseball America as the top organization among 60 Class A teams, marking the first time Winston-Salem won this award. Winston-Salem also topped High-A baseball in attendance last year by bringing 292,774 fans out to BB&T Ballpark.

C.J. rejoined the Dash in August 2012 as the team's Vice President of Ticket Sales, a position he previously held with the club during the 2009 season. In this role, he was responsible for the oversight of all season and group ticket sales as well as the operations of the BB&T Ballpark Box Office. Under C.J.'s leadership as the VP of Ticket Sales, the Dash finished either first or second in attendance out of 30 teams in Class A-Advanced Baseball every season.

Prior to joining the Dash, C.J. worked in the business development department for the Trenton Thunder, a New York Yankees affiliate. He also worked for several years with the Hagerstown Suns, starting out as an intern and working his way up to assistant general manager. A native of Cumberland, Md., C.J. received a B.A. in journalism with a minor in history from West Virginia University in 2003.

He currently resides in Clemmons with his wife, Jaci, and their daughters, Allison and Avery.

Ryan joined the Winston-Salem staff in 1999 as a group sales associate and was promoted to General Manager of Baseball Operations after the 2003 season. Ryan's contributions were recognized in 2010 when he was named the winner of the Calvin Falwell Executive of the Year Award, becoming the first Winston-Salem executive to win the award.

Vice President - Chief Financial Officer: Kurt Gehsmann

Kurt, who joined the team in March of 2003, is responsible for all aspects of company accounting, financing, financial analysis and budget preparation. He also handles human resource, information technology and business insurance activities for the Dash. Originally from New City, N.Y., Kurt also serves as the liaison between the Dash and Legends Hospitality Management, the team concessionaire, on all financial activity and reporting. THE DASH ERA

2009: A NEW LOOK IN WINSTON-SALEM

After 14 years under the Warthogs nickname, the Winston-Salem organization announced its name change on December 4, 2008. Winston and Salem became one city in 1913, and the "Dash" symbolizes the special connection that these two communities created more than 100 years ago and still strengthens each day.

Though the move to BB&T Ballpark would wait until 2010, Winston-Salem unveiled the new Dash look, along with the purple color scheme, while playing its final season at Ernie Shore Field.

Winston-Salem overcame a sluggish start to the season. The Dash were just 21-24 on May 27 before zooming through the final 23 games with 17 wins. As a result, Winston finished six-and-a-half games better than second-place Salem for the first-half Southern Division championship. This stellar run included a season-best eight-game win streak from May 30 to June 7, during which Winston-Salem claimed four victories by a single tally.

atop the standings with a 35-35 mark, which set up a Southern Division Championship Series duel.

Even though the Dash posted the league's second-best record during the regular season, they could not muster a playoff win. The Red Sox claimed a 7-2 victory in the series opener behind a strong outing from big league rehabber Daisuke Matsuzaka, who worked into the seventh inning and whiffed seven. Salem parlayed that momentum into consecutive 6-4 wins, the second of which took place in the Roanoke Valley, to punch its ticket to the Mills Cup Finals, where the Sox would fall to Lynchburg in three games.

The first season of Dash baseball was still a resounding success. In his first of two phenomenal seasons in the Dash purple, skipper Joe McEwing, now a member of the Major League staff for the White Sox, earned the circuit's Manager of the Year honor. Third baseman Brent Morel was the squad's most dangerous hitter. The former big league pitcher was tied with Salvador Sanchez for the team lead in homers with 16, while his 79 RBIs paced all Dash hitters.

The franchise's final game at Ernie Shore Field was the aforementioned Game 2 loss to Salem in the SDCS on September 10. During the offseason, the organization would build and move into beautiful BB&T Ballpark in downtown Winston-Salem.

THE DASH ERA

2010: DASHING DOWNTOWN

From a sparkling new stadium to a tremendously successful season, 2010 was special for the Winston-Salem franchise. On April 13, the Dash officially opened BB&T Ballpark and lost a tough 5-4, 12-inning game to Potomac in front of a sold-out crowd.

That result belied the tone of the 2010 season on the field. Winston-Salem blitzed through the regular season, winning the first- and second-half crowns and posting the 14th 80-plus win season in franchise history. The Dash's overall mark of 81-58 was at least seven-and-a-half games better than any other CL foe, and Winston competed in the Southern Division, which featured the three best teams on the circuit in the regular season.

The Dash were at their best when they played inside the new downtown facility. Winston-Salem's 47-22 home mark trailed only the Northwest Arkansas Naturals (48-21), the Royals' Double-A affiliate, among all 120 full-season Minor League clubs. The Dash hit an even .300 and scored almost six runs per game at BB&T Ballpark, and they logged a remarkable 11 walk-off wins.

Overall, Winston-Salem was the best offense in the CL by a wide margin. The Dash's .288 overall batting average was 21 points higher than the next-closest competitor (Frederick). Winston also led the way in home runs (112), runs per game (5.3), slugging percentage (.435) and on-base percentage (.350).

Once the postseason rolled around, Winston-Salem swept away Kinston in the Southern Division Championship Series. The Dash won a pair of low-scoring contests at home before clinching the set in a 10-5 decision in Game 3 at Grainger Stadium.

The Dash pushed their postseason win streak to four games by claiming the Mills Cup Finals opener against Potomac. However, the P-Nats bounced back to win three consecutive games, including a thrilling 2-1 affair in the deciding Game 4, to complete the upset.

This squad received a midseason boost from left-hander Chris Sale, the White Sox first-round pick in that June's MLB Draft. Sale stormed all the way to "The Show" in 2010, and he has finished in the top six of Cy Young voting in the American League in each of the last seven seasons.

Sale headlines a group of nine players from that 2010 roster who have reached Major League Baseball. A Dash era-record seven players earned Midseason All-Star selections, while five men were on the postseason All-Star list.

Skipper Joe McEwing also became the fourth man in CL history to earn the Manager of the Year honor in consecutive seasons. McEwing was named Triple-A Charlotte's skipper in 2011 before earning the Third Base Coach role with the White Sox in 2012. Before the 2017 season, McEwing became the club's Bench Coach under new manager Rick Renteria.

THE DASH ERA

2011: THE GAC ATTACK

A pair of magical seasons sandwiched the 2011 campaign, but the second go-around at BB&T Ballpark still featured its fair share of excitement and success.

In the first half, the Dash could not overcome a tough 9-18 start and finished in third place. This snapped a streak of four consecutive halves that the Dash claimed at least a share of the Southern Division title.

The Dash turned things around in the second half and contended for a division championship until moments into the club's second-to-last game, when Kinston wrapped up a playoff berth in its final season within the Carolina League until its rebirth in 2017.

Winston-Salem saw its winning-season streak come to an end at three, but the club continued its success at BB&T Ballpark. The Dash were 39-32 (.549) in home games, and they paced all Carolina League clubs in home runs (71) and runs per game (5.2) at home.

The catalyst for this strong offensive showing was Ian Gac. The slugger logged one of the greatest seasons in Winston-Salem baseball history.

Ian Gac's home run (33) and RBI (96) totals in 2011 have not been matched by another Dash player.

The Seattle native's 33 home runs are easily the most in the Dash era, and they are second in franchise history to Ed Olivares' 35 blasts in 1960. Gac also owns the Dash single-season records for RBIs (96), total bases (276) and games played (140). He is the only player in the Carolina League to play in all 140 of his team's games since Winston-Salem's nickname change prior to the 2009 campaign.

Gac collected the CL's Most Valuable Player Award, which jump-started a run of three consecutive MVP honors for Winston-Salem sluggers. First baseman Dan Black garnered the award in 2012, while infielder Chris Curley accomplished the feat in 2013.

While the team fell short of its ultimate goal of reaching the playoffs, several individuals collected Dash-era records. Cameron Bayne's 12 wins is tied for the most by a Winston-Salem pitcher during the Dash era (Matt Heidenreich, 2015). Taylor Thompson wrapped up a record 15 saves over 41 strong outings.

2012: BEST IN FULL-SEASON MiLB

The 2012 season was one for the record books. Winston-Salem claimed both the first- and second-half Southern Division championships, hosted the California-Carolina League All-Star Game, recorded the best record in full-season Minor League Baseball and advanced to the Mills Cup Championship Series.

Winston and Salem waged quite a battle for the first-half crown. The Dash rattled off victories in nine of their last 10 games to hold off a Salem squad that won 41 games before the All-Star Break.

Three Dash players—outfielders Michael Earley and Brady Shoemaker and right-hander Matt Heidenreich—started in the Midsummer Classic, which took place at BB&T Ballpark for the first time. Shoemaker won the pregame Home Run Derby, and the Carolina League cruised to a 9-1 victory.

In the second half, the Dash's roster experienced significant changes, but the club kept rolling. Winston-Salem graduated 22 players to either Double-A Birmingham or Triple-A Charlotte during the season. At one point in the second half, Winston won 20 of 24 games (July 23-August 17), and the club only endured consecutive losses once in the final 40 contests of the regular season.

On the penultimate day of the regular season, the Dash won their 87th game and clinched the best mark among all 120 full-season Minor League clubs. Winston-Salem nipped Asheville (88-52; Low-A, Colorado) and Indianapolis (89-55; Triple-A, Pittsburgh) for the top spot. Winston-Salem's .630 winning percentage was the second-best showing for the franchise since it joined the Carolina League as a charter member in 1945. Only the 1950 Winston-Salem Cardinals had a better mark. The Cardinals' 106-47 (.693) record is the best in CL history. In the 100-plus seasons of Winston-Salem baseball, only the 1911 (72-37, .661) and 1950 clubs have recorded better winning percentages than the 2012 Dash.

Myrtle Beach proved to be a significant challenge for Winston-Salem in the SDCS, but the Dash overcame a Game 1 loss and a seventh-inning deficit in Game 2 to emerge victorious in the best-of-three set. However, Lynchburg sprung the upset in the Mills Cup Finals by splitting the first two games in the Triad and escaping with a pair of one-run victories in Virginia. The Dash led by a run in the ninth inning of Game 4, but Lynchburg forced extras before walking off with the Mills Cup on a sacrifice fly in the 11th.

The Dash set the tone for this remarkable season by defending their home field better than any Minor League club. Winston-Salem's 48-23 (.676) home record was also the best in full-season Minor League Baseball. Winston-Salem went 15-3-3 in home series, and the Dash took all 10 home games from Potomac.

As one would expect, the Dash dominated the league's postseason awards. Dan Black earned the league's MVP honor (.315, 17 HRs, 88 RBIs). He was one of five year-end All-Stars, joining infielder Carlos Sanchez and outfielders Michael Earley, Brady Shoemaker and Trayce Thompson. Plus, Tommy Thompson was named the CL's Manager of the Year.

THE DASH ERA

2013: ONE IN A MILLION

While Winston-Salem was once again a playoff contender on the field, the 2013 season belonged to the fans and their remarkable support of the franchise since its move into BB&T Ballpark. On May 16, the Dash welcomed the one millionth fan in BB&T Ballpark's history.

BB&T Ballpark reached this milestone quicker than any facility in Class A-Advanced history. That night marked just the 222nd Dash game in BB&T Ballpark history, and the Dash had averaged better than 4,500 fans per night over three-plus seasons to accomplish the record-setting feat.

To celebrate the occasion, the Dash gave one lucky fan the chance to win one million dollars. Alisa Keegan was the randomly-selected fan who played a game of chance on the field. Keegan did not win the grand prize, but she did go home with two Dash tickets for life.

the second half until an eight-game losing streak from August 11-18. This included the first sweep for an opponent in BB&T Ballpark's history (August 14-16 vs. Salem), which snapped a run of 81 home sets without suffering the wrong end of a brooming.

However, the Dash, playing for pride, immediately responded with a 10-game win streak. This surge included a walk-off grand slam by Joey DeMichele, the first hit of its kind in BB&T Ballpark's history, on August 24.

Steady infielder Chris Curley capped the Dash's run of three consecutive MVP awards by leading the Carolina League with 24 homers and 92 RBIs, the latter of which represents the second-highest mark in the Dash era. He also finished atop the circuit in runs, while the former Braves farmhand was third in hits (149), extra-base hits (51) and slugging percentage (.471).

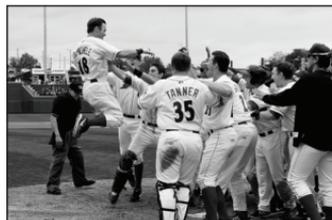

Not only did Winston-Salem boast some strong players that season, but former Dash stars made their presence felt at the highest level. Eight Dash alumni graduated to the big leagues during that season, one shy of a Dash-era record. All eight of these players debuted with the Sox.

As the community continued its unrivaled support, the Dash were once again a factor in the playoff hunt. Despite winning eight of their last 11 before the All-Star break, the Dash fell two-and-a-half games short of the Pelicans.

2014: FIRST-ROUND FUN

Even though the Dash's record was not what the players and coaching staff wanted at the start of the season, the club boasted one of the most prospect-laden rosters in Minor League Baseball in 2014. Winston-Salem was the only team in all of Minor League Baseball to have its parent club's first draft selection from the 2012, 2013 and 2014 June Draft on its roster.

Outfielder Courtney Hawkins (13th overall, 2012) spent the entire season with the Dash, and he led the club in both home runs (19) and RBIs (84). He also raised his batting average from .178 to .249 after a tough initial go-around in the Carolina League in 2013, his first full professional season.

Shortstop Tim Anderson (17th overall, 2013) was one of the most dynamic players in the CL. His .297 average would have been fourth-best on the circuit had he recorded enough plate appearances to qualify. He also registered one of the Dash's two walk-off homers on June 2 against Lynchburg.

Anderson signed a long-term contract with the White Sox prior to the 2017 season.

Southpaw Carlos Rodon (3rd overall, 2014) stormed through the White Sox system and ended the campaign in Triple-A Charlotte. Rodon, the Sox highest selection since Harold Baines was the number one overall pick in 1977, shined during his three-year college career at North Carolina State. The Holly Springs, N.C., native is one of four pitchers in ACC history to record more than 400 strikeouts (436). Rodon guided the Wolfpack to the NCAA Tournament in 2012 and 2013. He became the first freshman to win ACC Pitcher of the Year in 2012. One year later, Rodon led the program to its first College World Series appearance since 1968. After a strong rookie season (9-6, 3.75 ERA in 26 appearances) in 2015, he is now a key cog within the White Sox starting rotation.

Former NC State star Carlos Rodon shined for Winston-Salem over four dominant outings during the season's second half.

Not only did the Dash have these three players, but all three were on the roster throughout Rodon's stint in Winston-Salem (July 30-August 16), though Anderson was on the disabled list during this time.

This talented trio's presence in the Triad did not lead to many wins, however. The club endured its worst season in the Dash era. The Dash lost their season series to every Carolina League foe, save playoff qualifier Salem (11-9). Winston-Salem never enjoyed sole possession of first place. The Dash's home record dipped below .500 for the first time in BB&T Ballpark's history (34-35).

THE DASH ERA

2015: THE PLAYOFF DASH

At the end of a disappointing first half, during which the Dash posted a CL-worst 30-40 record, the team created a new rally cry for the rest of the season--the Playoff Dash. Most members of the 2015 Dash had never experienced playoff baseball at the professional level. However, their efforts in the second half would not only yield them a postseason berth, but they resulted in one of the most remarkable turnarounds in league history.

Winston-Salem's 30-40 first half record was the worst of the Dash era, and the club remained in sole possession of last place for the final 50 days of the first half. In the second half, however, the Dash enjoyed at least a share of the top spot in the Southern Division for all but one day (August 19).

A key to the Dash's success was their ability to win close games. Winston-Salem was a league-leading 17-3 in one-run games after the All-Star Break. During that span, Winston boasted a 33-15 mark in games decided by three runs or less. Thanks to a 14-3 sprint to the finish, Winston-Salem's season-ending lead in the division (5.5 games) was its biggest of the half.

This great work earned the Dash a spot in the Southern Division Championship Series against Myrtle Beach. Winston-Salem doubled up the Pelicans 4-2 in Game 1 at BB&T Ballpark, but the Dash dropped a pair of one-run decisions in South Carolina to fall in the best-of-three set. In both losses, the Dash had the potential tying run at third base in the ninth inning. The Pelicans went on to sweep Wilmington en route to the Mills Cup title.

Even though Winston-Salem fell short of its first championship since 2003, the club still posted the 19th-best single-half record in league history. Since the CL went to the split-season format in 1970, only eight other teams followed up a 40-loss first half with a 40-win second half. The Dash's 45-23 mark after the All-Star Break was this circuit's best second-half showing since Salem's 47-23 effort in 1987.

Many key cogs to this turnaround were rewarded for their efforts. Five Winston-Salem players earned a spot on the league's Year-End All-Star Team: outfielder Adam Engel, right-hander Matt Heidenreich, third baseman Trey Michalczewski, catcher Omar Narvaez and second baseman Jake Peter. Heidenreich became the first Winston-Salem product to claim the CL's Pitcher of the Year Award since Dave Pavlas in 1986. Heidenreich led the CL with 12 wins and finished second among qualifiers with a 2.76 ERA.

The Dash had never clinched a playoff spot at BB&T Ballpark until August 29, 2015, which capped one of the biggest turnarounds in Carolina League history.

2016: DASHING HIGH AND LOW

Several Winston-Salem stars put together league-leading and record-setting seasons statistically during an up-and-down 2016 season for the Dash.

For the second time in five years, the Dash boasted the two top hitters in the Carolina League. Mason Robbins posted a .314 average, while Nick Basto finished with a .308 mark. On the rubber, Dash right-hander Jordan Stephens racked up 155 strikeouts, the most by a Winston-Salem hurler in Dash history and the highest by a Carolina Leaguer since 2012.

Stephens was part of a strong Opening Day starting rotation for Winston-Salem. While the aforementioned right-hander was the only member to remain with the Dash the entire year, the other four starters all reached Double-A Birmingham by the end of the season. Midseason Carolina League All-Star Matt Cooper led the Minor Leagues in strikeouts after his final outing with Winston-Salem (95 through June

The 2016 season was another milestone year for BB&T Ballpark. With a crowd of 6,304 on hand for a July 13 contest against Potomac, the downtown facility surpassed two million fans to become the second-quietest facility in Class A-Advanced history to hit that plateau. Also, BB&T Ballpark was voted the best High-A stadium by Ballpark Digest.

For just the second time in franchise history, someone with past Major League managerial experience was the Winston-Salem skipper. Joel Skinner, who was Cleveland's interim manager during the second half of the 2002 season, took over the reins in 2016.

Ultimately, the Dash never found their footing. After finishing 28-42 in the first half, the team went just 28-41 in the second half. At 56-83 overall, it was the worst showing for the Winston-Salem franchise since going 50-90 in 2002.

Nonetheless, the Dash achieved new feats throughout the season. Third baseman Gerson Montilla, who finished second in the Minors with 11 sacrifice flies, hit for the first cycle in the Dash era on April 22 at Salem. Five days later, the aforementioned Robbins accomplished the same feat at home against Lynchburg. Also, on July 27 at BB&T Ballpark, the team accomplished a Dash first by stringing together three consecutive home runs (Basto, Marcus Davis and Telvin Nash) against Frederick.

While Winston-Salem struggled on the field, a record-setting nine Dash alumni earned their first promotions to the Major Leagues throughout the 2016 season. This group included former White Sox first-round picks Carson Fulmer and Tim Anderson.

THE DASH ERA

2017: ELOY AND COMPANY

Not even a 56-84 overall record, the worst mark of the Dash era, could overshadow the abundance of talent that made its way through Winston-Salem in 2017.

Headlining the star-studded cast was Carolina League Year-End All-Star Eloy Jimenez, who set the circuit on fire during his short time in the Dash purple. On July 13, Jimenez was dealt to the Chicago White Sox from the Chicago Cubs in a trade that included infielders Matt Rose and Bryant Flete and right-handed pitcher Dylan Cease in exchange for big league left-hander Jose Quintana.

After already earning CL Midseason All-Star honors prior to the trade, Jimenez continued to dominate, blasting eight homers and collecting 26 RBIs in 29 games as a member of the Dash. The right-handed slugger was named White Sox Minor League Co-Player of the Month for August, and he compiled a slash line of .345/.410/.682 during his brief stint in Winston-Salem.

Jimenez would be promoted to Double-A Birmingham at the same time as another top prospect – catcher Zack Collins. The 10th overall pick in the 2016 MLB Draft, Collins spent more than half of the 2017 season with Winston-Salem. In 101 games with the Dash, the catcher swatted 17 home runs and posted an .808 OPS. He was also one of three White Sox prospects to represent the parent club in the 2017 SiriusXM All-Star Futures Game.

The backstop provided one of the highlights of the season, blasting a walk-off grand slam against the Carolina Mudcats on July 10, only one day after playing in the Futures Game.

On the mound, Winston-Salem sported two of the top strikeout threats in the Minors. Right-hander Alec Hansen, who led all MiLB hurlers with 191 strikeouts, made 11 starts at the High-A level and went 4-5 with a 2.93 ERA and 82 punchouts. Fellow right-hander Dane Dunning also made his presence known with the Dash. Dunning, who was acquired by Chicago during the previous offseason from Washington, finished tied for 11th in the Minors with 168 strikeouts.

However, Winston-Salem struggled to string together wins on a consistent basis for a second straight year. The Dash were in last place throughout the entire first half, finishing 24-46. The club managed to increase their win total by eight in the second half, but they still ended up being six games back of the eventual Carolina League co-champion Down East Wood Ducks.

2018: AN AWARD-WINNING SEASON

2018 proved to be a banner year for the Dash franchise. Armed with one of the most talented teams in all of Minor League Baseball, the Dash topped the Carolina League in wins, clinched a first- and second-half Southern Division title and received a circuit-best four CL Year-End awards.

Leading the club was Carolina League Manager of the Year Omar Vizquel, a former three-time MLB All-Star and 11-time Gold Glove winner. Making his managerial debut, Vizquel guided the team to an 84-54 overall record, good for the fourth-best winning percentage in full-season Minor League Baseball.

On the field, a staggering 16 of the White Sox top 30 prospects per MLB Pipeline last year suited up in the Dash purple, including CL Year-End All-Stars Blake Rutherford and Micker Adolfo, former Wake Forest star Gavin Sheets and 2018 MLB Pipeline Pitcher of the Year Dylan Cease, who led the Carolina League with 89 strikeouts before his promotion to Double-A Birmingham.

the first four-homer inning in Dash history as part of a 6-5, walk-off win.

Thanks to a 12-2 stretch in early June, Winston-Salem clinched a first-half Southern Division title, their first since 2012. With their magic number down to two entering play on June 14, the Dash defeated Wilmington 8-2 and second-place Buies Creek lost to Potomac. Winston-Salem finished the first half with a 41-29 record, which was the best mark in the league.

Despite seven players graduating to Double-A Birmingham at the halfway point, the Dash managed to play even better in the second half. First-half Kannapolis stars Blake Battenfield, Luis Gonzalez, Lincoln Henzman, Tyler Johnson, and Laz Rivera continued their impressive seasons at the High-A level. Meanwhile, uber-prospect Luis Robert and the White Sox 2018 first-round pick Nick Madrigal joined the club permanently later in the year.

Similar to the first-half team, the second-half Dash posted several signature wins, including a 14-5 win over the Down East Wood Ducks on July 4th in front of a BB&T Ballpark-record 9,011 fans. On the final day of the season, Winston-Salem clinched a second-half Southern Division championship by beating Down East 5-3 in Kinston.

However, the Dash's postseason run came to a quick halt in the best-of-five Southern Division Championship Series against the Astros, the eventual Carolina League champion. Winston-Salem dropped the first two games at Jim Perry Stadium by a combined margin of three runs before falling at home 6-5 in Game 3.

Justin Jirschele, who played for the Dash in 2014 and 2015, will serve as Winston-Salem's manager in 2019. The 28-year-old was previously the skipper for the Low-A Kannapolis Intimidators, where he led the franchise to back-to-back playoff appearances in 2017 and 2018.

Only 28 years old, Justin Jirschele is the 48th manager in Winston-Salem's franchise history, and he is the first former player in the Dash era (2009-present) to become the team's skipper. Prior to joining the Dash, Jirschele served as the manager of the Low-A Kannapolis Intimidators for the previous two seasons, helping the team reach the playoffs in back-to-back years. Jirschele was named the White Sox Minor League Coach of the Year in 2017. He will be the youngest manager in full-season Minor League Baseball this year.

Before joining the coaching ranks, Jirschele, the son of Kansas City Royals third base coach Mike Jirschele, played in the White Sox system from 2012-2015. Jirschele recorded a .315 average with the Dash in 2014, and he played two games in Winston in 2015. Jirschele reached as high as Triple-A in his career, logging stints with the Charlotte Knights in 2014 and 2015.

MEDIA RULES & REGULATIONS

PARKING: Media parking is available behind the players lot on South Green Street. This is also our "Pepsi Carolina Plan" parking lot, which does fill up during most home games. Please present your parking pass to the attendant and indicate that you are a member of the media. If you have significant equipment (cameras, lighting, TV truck, etc.), we do have very limited parking along Ballpark Way, near the groundskeeping entrance and the right-field foul pole. Please give the Dash at least 8 hours notice if you would like to request a spot along the curb in this area.

2019 CREDENTIALS: Credentials are for working media only and are property of the Winston-Salem Dash. They may be revoked at any time. Credentials must be worn and visible at all times.

DAILY CREDENTIALS: Credentials will be issued to news gathering organizations which do not qualify for, or request, season credentials. To obtain credentials, your request must be made via email to the Dash Media Relations Department. Once your initial request has been approved, you may phone-in subsequent requests. All single-game credential requests MUST be submitted to the Dash Media Relations Department via email (joe.weil@wsdash.com) by noon on the day of all 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. games. If the Dash have an afternoon game (first pitch of 4 p.m. or earlier), the request must be made by 9 a.m. on that day.

ADMISSION: Members of the working media can only gain entrance to BB&T Ballpark through the main gates in right-center field, below the scoreboard. Those who need to pick up daily credentials may do so through the Will Call window at the Dash Box Office, located behind the scoreboard. Upon picking up their daily credentials, media must enter BB&T Ballpark through either the Flow Club entrance or the main entrance near the Box Office. Credentials will not be honored at any other entrance.

VIDEOTAPING: Videotaping during games is limited to designated filming areas of BB&T Ballpark. During pregame and postgame, taping on the field and dugout is at the discretion of the Dash Field Staff and Media Relations Staff.

FIELD LEVEL: Only credentialed members of the media are allowed on the field level at BB&T Ballpark. While on the field, media must remain on the warning track and off the grass. Media must clear the field at least thirty (30) minutes prior to scheduled game time.

CLUBHOUSE: The clubhouse is off-limits to the media an hour before game time and until ten (10) minutes following a game. Please allow a member of the Dash Media Relations Staff to arrange all requested postgame interviews. Availability to the clubhouse is at the discretion of the Dash Field Staff and cannot always be guaranteed during normal open times. Contact a member of the Dash Media Relations Staff regarding clubhouse access. The training room is strictly off-limits at all times. Also, please note that there is no media availability between games of a doubleheader or during rain delays.

PRESS BOX: The press box is located on the main concourse level of BB&T Ballpark behind home plate. No food or drink is allowed to leave the press box area. The press box is available to the working media only. No spouses, guests, or children of credentialed media will be allowed in the press box. The press box closes one (1) hour after the conclusion of the game. During select games, the media workspace will shift into the television box on the first-base side of the press box.

STATISTICS & INFORMATION: Game notes and statistical information will be available in the press box at least two hours before game time. If specific information is needed beforehand, please contact the Dash Media Relations Department.

INTERVIEWS: Pregame interviews take place after batting practice, which can vary from day to day. All interview requests should be submitted to the Dash Media Relations Staff 24 hours before the desired interview time. Check with the Dash Media Relations Staff regarding interviews during road trips or at times aside from the regular clubhouse hours. Players are not available for interviews on team off days, including the All-Star Break.

BATTING PRACTICE: Members of the media are welcome to attend batting practice but cannot interview players during batting practice. A Dash representative will be on the field at all times during batting practice to answer questions and monitor activity. While on the field, media members must stay in foul territory and off the grass to avoid injury.

AUTOGRAPHS: Members of the media are prohibited from seeking autographs at BB&T Ballpark.

QUESTIONS & OTHER MEDIA INFORMATION: If a media member has any questions regarding policies, credentials, interviews, photo requests or any other media concerns, they may contact Joe Weil at (336) 714-6874 or joe.weil@wsdash.com.

Broadcast and Media Relations Director: Joe Weil

Joe enters the 2019 as the second-year voice of the Winston-Salem Dash. In the offseason, he works as a studio host for Learfield IMG College, where he anchors pregame, halftime and postgame coverage for all Notre Dame football and Gonzaga men's basketball broadcasts. An alumnus of Boston University, Joe provided on-air coverage for two NCAA Division I basketball National Championship games (Villanova vs. UNC in 2016 & Gonzaga vs. UNC in 2017) and the Irish's College Football Playoff Semifinal game in 2018.

Broadcast and Media Relations Assistant: Conor Clingen
