PORTS
PUM

S REMEMBER MPSIE, ERNIE

The Stockton Ports are saddened to learn two former players passed earlier this month.

"It was a pleasure to get to know both Pumpsie and Ernie and host them for multiple visits to the ballpark," Ports President Pat Filippone said. "They both were outstanding ambassadors of not only the Stockton Ports, but of the game of baseball as a whole. They will both be dearly missed."

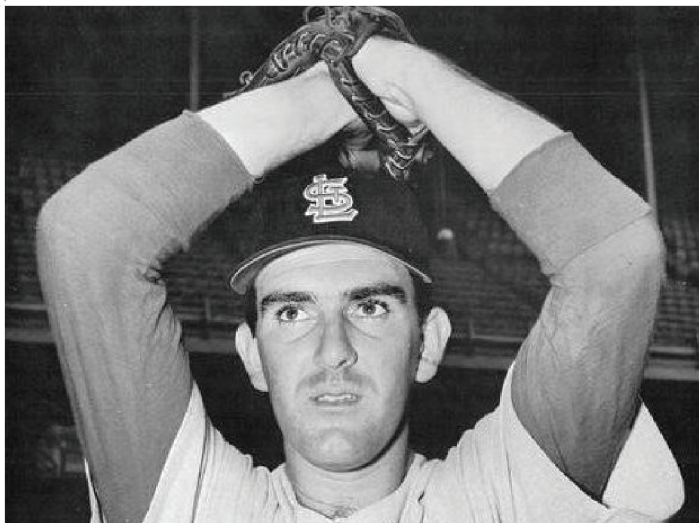

Elijah "Pumpsie" Green was born on October 27, 1933, and grew up in Oakland, California. As a child, he listened to Oakland Oaks games and dreamed of playing in the Pacific Coast League--the League which gave rise to such athletes as Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio.

While playing baseball with the Contra Costa Community College, Green attended an open tryout held by the Oakland Oaks, a Pacific Coast League team. He was signed, and eventually sent to the Stockton Ports team in 1955.

The shortstop had a terrific season with the Ports in 1955. He batted .319 with 31 doubles, 11 triples, 12 home runs and 83 RBI. He also stole 31 bases that season. For his performance, Green was named the California League post-season All-Star shortstop and selected as the California League MVP.

But Green never made it up to the Oakland Oaks. His contract was purchased by the Boston Red Sox in the middle of the 1955 season. Rather than heading to Montgomery, Ala. to play in the Red Sox organization, Green requested to finish the season with the Ports.

In 1956, Green traveled to Sarasota, Fla. to participate in Spring Training. He played in the Eastern League and Texas League, before moving up to play for the San Francisco Seals in 1957. With a .333 batting average, he helped the Seals capture the PCL crown.

In 1959, Green went to Spring Training in Scottsdale, Ariz., still facing the team's segregation and racism. But Green made his major league debut on July 21, 1959. He became the first African American to play with the Boston Red Sox, the last major league team to integrate. More than a decade before, the great Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier in 1947 with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Green finished the 1959 season with a .233 average, with most of his playing time coming from second base, rather than his usual shortstop position. Green spent a total of five seasons in the major leagues, four with the Red Sox and one with the New York Mets. He compiled a .246 batting average, with 31 doubles, 12 triples, 13 home runs and 74 RBI in 344 total career games.

Green's last season in professional baseball was in 1965, with the Buffalo Bison and Syracuse Chiefs. Following his retirement from the game, Green returned to the Bay Area in California and became a math teacher in the Berkeley school district and baseball coach.

The Ports will remember Pumpsie not only his accomplishments as a Port and a California League MVP, but also his work to help break baseball's color barrier.

Ernest Gilbert Broglio was born on August 27, 1935 in Berkeley, CA. He attended El Cerritos High School, and spent eight years in the Minor Leagues before his Major League Baseball debut with the St. Louis Cardinals on April 11, 1959.

Broglio pitched for the Ports in 1955, compiling a 20-10 record with a 3.43 ERA in 252 innings. He had a career year in his sophomore season with the Cardinals, finishing 21-9 with a career-low 2.74 ERA, and a career-high 188 strikeouts. He finished his eight-year MLB career with an overall record of 77-74, a 3.74 ERA, and 849 strikeouts in 1,337.1 innings.

The Ports inducted Broglio as an inaugural member of the Stockton Ports Alumni Club in 2008, and honored him by giving away an Ernie Broglio bronze statue to fans. The Ports will continue to remember him as a pillar in a long history of distinguished, accomplished Ports alumni.

Celebrating Pink Night

Lactose intolerance, menopause, celiac disease, heartburn, acid reflux, uterine cysts, these were all the conditions I was misdiagnosed with from the summer of 2017 to July 12, 2018. I went to my doctor a handful of times every 3 months complaining of extreme fatigue, stomach pain and these symptoms continued.

It wasn't until another unfortunate emergency occurred in April 2018 resulting in my older brother discovering he had a Gastrointestinal Stromal Tumor (GIST), during a colonoscopy. My mother insisted I make ANOTHER doctor's appointment, even though I had just saw the doctor in March. She insisted my doctor refer me to a gastroenterologist. My brother's tumor was detected when he was 45 years old. A colonoscopy was never suggested to me because I was 44 and colonoscopy screenings are recommended starting at age 50.

On July 12, 2018, groggy and recovering from the endoscopy and colonoscopy procedures, my gastroenterologist delivered the news "You have cancer." I learned a few days later that I had stage 3 rectal cancer. Genetic testing revealed that genetics did not make me more susceptible to getting certain cancers. Even though my brother and I had tumors in the GI system they were unrelated. In other words, the tumors were random occurrences that happened in the same family.

I was given neoadjuvant treatment (treatment before surgery), which was 33 rounds of 20 minutes of radiation and 6 chemo therapy pills a day. My situation went to a real low point in October 2018, because my GI was so disrupted. I had to be fed artificial nutrition through an IV, which bypasses the GI tract because I couldn't eat or drink or keep anything down. I lost 30 pounds, I couldn't walk or get out of the hospital bed and was hospitalized for a month. I discontinued chemo radiation after 28 rounds. My 7cm shrunk to 3cm and was removed along with 15 lymph nodes in November 2018. And I had surgery to place an ostomy bag on my stomach. After surgery from Jan 2019-June 2019 I completed 8 rounds of chemo, my last round was at the end of June 2019 and I will have ostomy reversal surgery on August 13, 2019.

I am blessed to see my only child, Armando, leave for the University of Oregon to join the incoming freshman class of 2019-2020. As I throw the first pitch today at the Stockton Ports game, I look forward to the future cancer free where I intend to pick up my bucket list goal to run a full marathon in all 50 states. In June 2018 a month before my cancer diagnosis I ran my 18th full marathon in Seattle, Washington.

I could never have been where I am today without the love and support from my family, friends, and coworkers. I owe my life and am forever grateful to the St Joseph's Dignity Health Team. I thank the oncologists, radiation doctors, surgeons, nurses, radiology therapists, physical therapists, physician assistants, receptionists, insurance billing department, pharmacists, the foundation, music therapists, priests, and cancer navigators. Also the cancer resource coordinator, he has been a great resource throughout this whole journey! All of these people comprise a team to get me where I am today with their support, compassion, dedication, expertise and care they promised me during my journey. It would have not been possible.

A MESSAGE FROM ST. JOSEPH'S

Dignity Health
St. Joseph's Medical Center

"We're honored to partner with the Stockton Ports for this 13th annual Pink Night. The partnership is vital to support breast health services for women in our community through St. Joseph's Medical Center. Funds raised will bring high-quality breast cancer screening equipment to women in our community, in addition to free education, early detection, navigation, and support services for patients and their families.

Pink Night is also an opportunity to help women take charge of their health and promote breast cancer awareness. Monthly breast exams along with yearly mammograms are considered to be the biggest aid in diagnosing breast cancer, so be sure to stop by our Medical Center booth to get information on breast cancer screenings available at our Women's Imaging Center, and use a breast model to learn how to conduct self-exams.

With the help of donations from Pink Night, St. Joseph's Women's Imaging Center has new imaging equipment, including a new breast ultrasound unit and 3D mammography equipment. The use of 3D mammography results in greater accuracy, especially for patients with dense breasts. To learn more, call (209) 466-5027 or visit StJosephsCares.org/Mammo.

Thank you again to the entire Stockton Ports organization for their time, energy, and dedication to keeping our community healthy. We're beyond grateful for the continued partnership and hope that you make Pink Night a family tradition for years to come!"
