Dear Isotopes Fans,

First and foremost, we want to personally let you know that the entire Isotopes organization is thinking of you. We miss seeing you. We miss hearing from you. We miss just talking baseball with you. Above all else, we hope that you and your loved ones are healthy and safe.

In these unsettling times, it's comforting to know how strong our community is. Our fans, employees, players and business partners all make a positive impact on our organization every day. We are extremely thankful for those relationships, and they make us confident that – together - will get through these unprecedented times and come out stronger than ever.

When baseball returns – and it WILL return – we can't wait to share it with you. Summer nights at the ballpark are a tradition unlike any other, a rite of passage for all those who have experienced it. The warm breeze off the Sandia Mountains, the smell of ballpark food in the air, the crack of the bat, the roar of the crowd, and the sunsets – oh, those sunsets! When those sights and smells and sounds return, we can't wait to walk up to you and say hello. To see how you are doing, to talk baseball, to return to normal.

Your loyalty and support are tremendously appreciated, and please know that we are thinking of you during these trying times.

We'll get through this - together. WE ARE ONE!

Sincerely,

Ken Young

Dear Minor League Baseball Fans,

As you may be aware, with the closure of Spring Training camps in Arizona and Florida in response to the coronavirus outbreak across the country, the Minor League Baseball season will not start on April 9 as planned.

With the health and well-being of the players, umpires, team employees and our fans in mind, we will continue to monitor the developments and follow guidelines set forth by public health agencies and our partners at Major League Baseball.

Once the public health experts and agencies have decided it is safe to begin the 2020 season, and the players are physically ready to begin the season, we will do so. But, for now, I ask all fans to follow the protocols set forth by public health officials, including the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the World Health Organization (WHO) and your local government authorities.

Please visit MiLB.com to stay connected with your local team. Questions about exchanging tickets, refunds and other general questions should be directed to your local team.

Your health and safety are the top priority right now and our thoughts are with those around the world who have been affected by this outbreak.

Sincerely,

Pat O'Conner

Baseball Friends,

In the long history of the Pacific Coast League, dating back to 1903, there have been countless dramatic moments and events. But, today, we are living what we all well appreciate is another history-making event, one that has disrupted the patterns of lives and, for this 118th year of our League, delayed the Opening Day to this season for the foreseeable future.

In 1943, gas rationing drove fans to using trolley cars to attend games during a shortened season due to World War II, and in 2001 our Championship Series was cancelled in the wake of September 11. But in each case, baseball returned ever stronger. We learned from the strength and valor shown by the workers who jumped into production lines when their spouses went overseas in World War II, and we are learning from the Health Care workers on the front lines fighting this virus. They inspire us. And when it is deemed safe by our public health experts and our leadership, baseball will be back.

I, for one, can feel how our ballparks will resume their place in bringing excitement and joy back into our lives, our stands pulsing with energy as we take this major step back to normalcy. Baseball is America's pastime, and this will become ever-so-evident again when we next get out to the ballpark, see the green grass of the infield diamond, bite into a grilled hot dog, and sense the comfortable warmth of Minor League Baseball wash over us.

These times are not easy, but we look forward to coming back and having you join us in returning to what we all do best – enjoying life the American way.

KEN YOUNG, PRESIDENT

Ken Young has been in the recreation and facility industry for over four decades since graduating from Penn State University with a Bachelor of Science in Food Service and Housing Administration. Since 1985, Young has owned a number of food service companies specializing in arena and stadium business.

Young is also President of three baseball teams affiliated with the Baltimore Orioles; the Triple-A International League's Norfolk Tides, the Double-A Bowie Baysox of the Eastern League, and the Single-A Frederick Keys, an entrant in the Carolina League. He purchased the Tides in 1993 and helped supervise the building of Harbor Park, a 12,000-seat baseball stadium that Baseball America proclaimed the top Minor League Baseball stadium in the country. In the fall of 2006, he purchased Bowie and Frederick from Comcast-Spectacor while also switching Norfolk's affiliation from the New York Mets to the Orioles, giving him the top three clubs in Baltimore's Minor League organization. Young is also President of the Biloxi Shuckers who began play in the Southern League in 2015. Young oversaw the Milwaukee Brewers' Double-A Affiliate's move from Huntsville following the 2014 campaign.

In 2001, Young led an ownership group to purchase the Calgary Cannons Baseball Club and in 2002, he moved the club to Albuquerque where the franchise has set new standards of success since its inception in 2003. The Isotopes have finished in the top five in Pacific Coast League attendance in each year of their existence, setting a record with 593,606 fans in 2009, and hosted the immensely successful Triple-A All-Star Game in 2007.

Young, who is a native of Philadelphia, now resides in Tampa and has been very active in community affairs. He has been Chairman of the licensing committee for the Outback Bowl since its beginning in 1986. He has also been on the Board of Trustees of Minor League Baseball since 1996. In 2002, Penn State University gave him the honor of Alumni Fellow.

JOHN TRAUB, VP/GENERAL MANAGER

Upon taking over as General Manager of the Albuquerque Isotopes in September 2003, John Traub has presided over a period of immense team growth and success. The Isotopes continually rank in the top 10 in attendance among all Minor League teams and in just 18 years of existence, the team has drawn over 9 million fans. Under John's stewardship, the Topes and Rio Grande Credit Union Field at Isotopes Park have consistently hosted large events that have had a national scope, including Major League exhibitions, Manny Ramirez's 2009 rehab assignment and the 2011 Triple-A Baseball National Championship Game.

John was named 2007 PCL Executive of the Year and the team was singled out for recognition as well, receiving the John H. Johnson Award as the PCL's best overall franchise. The team also received the prestigious 2007 Bob Freitas Award from Baseball America as the most complete franchise in Triple-A Baseball. John was also presented with the 2007 Ambassador Award by the City of Albuquerque Convention and Visitor's Bureau and currently serves on the board of directors for the New Mexico Bowl.

Under John's leadership, the Isotopes received the 2018 John H. Johnson Award presented annually by Minor League Baseball to recognize the complete baseball franchise-based on franchise stability, contributions to league stability, contributions to baseball in the community, and promotion of the baseball industry. That same season, the inaugural Copa de la Diversión was awarded to the Isotopes for their tremendously successful "Mariachis de Nuevo Mexico" promotion. The Isotopes won the Copa de la Diversión for a second-straight season in 2019.

Having spent more than 20 years in the Pacific Coast League, John is the Chairman of the Triple-A Marketing Committee, was formerly chair of the league's Travel Committee and was instrumental in the creation of the Pacific Coast League PR Committee.

Prior to moving to Albuquerque, John spent 11 seasons with the PCL's Calgary Cannons (1992-2002). His titles included Director of Public & Media Relations (1992-96). Vice President of Baseball Operations (1997-1998) and Vice President & General Manager (1998-2002).

John co-authored his first book in 2012, entitled "Baseball ... A Helluva Life" - telling stories of the legendary life of Minor League Baseball executive Dave Rosenfield. The book is available online at Amazon.com.

The Los Angeles native began his career in 1988, serving as a public relations intern for the California Angels, where he remained as an intern for the better part of four seasons. He also worked as a public relations intern for the Los Angeles Dodgers during their 1988 post-season. He is a 1987 graduate of UCLA, earning a BA degree in Psychology. John and his lovely wife Liz have two children (Joe and Sophie) and live in Albuquerque along with their Wire Fox Terrier, Walter.

What is an Isotope?

Since the team's inception in 2003, the nickname "Isotopes" has become one of the most popular and unique monikers in all of baseball.

Webster's Dictionary and Nuclear Scientists define an Isotope as:

i•so•tope\ n : any of two or more species of atoms of a chemical element with the same atomic number and position in the periodic table and nearly identical chemical behavior but with differing atomic mass and different physical properties.

Homer Simpson and baseball fans, on the other hand, define "Isotopes" as the nickname of a fictional Minor League baseball team in the popular animated sitcom The Simpsons. In the 2001 Simpsons episode "Hungry, Hungry Homer," the Springfield Isotopes threatened to move to Albuquerque until Homer went on a hunger strike, ultimately preventing the team from moving.

The name Isotopes was chosen for its originality and popularity after it won a "Name the Team" contest, garnering 57% of over 120,000 votes. Other suggested names in the contest included Atoms, Dukes, Roadrunners, and 66ers. The extensive amount of nuclear research in the Albuquerque area provides another great link to the team name.

Atomic Isotope

The distinctive "A" logo and the "Isotopes" wordmark incorporate both the nickname's scientific and fictional inspirations, creating a brand that is unique and fun. Both logos were originally conceived by Kevin Kierst, who at the time was working as the clubhouse manager for the Norfolk Tides and now serves as the Minor League Equipment Coordinator for the New York Mets. After the design's conception, both logos were then tweaked by local designer Vaughn Weeden to create the brand that has become a favorite throughout the Land of Enchantment and beyond.

Fans across the nation seem to agree, making Isotopes merchandise annually one of the top 10 sellers in Minor League Baseball since the team began in 2003.

ISOTOPES PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE GENEALOGY

The Pacific Coast League added the Dallas-Fort Worth Rangers to the 10-team circuit in 1963, before the club changed their name to the Dallas Rangers in 1964. The franchise moved to Vancouver, British Columbia in 1965, playing as the Vancouver Mounties until 1969. Following the 1969 campaign, the Mounties relocated to Salt Lake City, Utah where they were known as the Bees (1970), Angels (1971-74) and the Gulls (1975-84). The franchise moved north of the border once again in 1985, emerging as the Calgary Cannons. The franchise played in Calgary for 18 years before relocating in 2003 to their current home in Albuquerque and became the Isotopes.

WHO AM I?

Pictured not so clearly is a former Albuquerque Isotope. It's up to you to figure out the identity of the "face behind the facts". Measure your Isotopes savvy by charting your batting average as you work your way through the clues.

1.000 - I was selected in the Competitive Balance Round A of the 2011 First-Year Player Draft.

.900 - I made my Major League debut on April 4, 2016 with the Rockies in Arizona when I got my first career hit off of Zach Greinke.

.800 - I split the 2015 season between Double-A New Britain and Triple-A Albuquerque, where I made my Triple-A debut and played 61 games for the Isotopes.

.700 - I became the only player in MLB history to record six home runs in my team's first four games.

.600 - I hit 21 home runs prior to the 2016 All-Star break which is tied for the most all-time by a National League rookie (Dave Kingman, 1972; Albert Pujols, 2001).

.500 - My 27 home runs in 2016 were the most for a rookie shortstop in NL history and the second-most by any Rockies rookie in franchise history, behind Wilin Rosario's 28 home runs in 2012.

.400 - I was named to my first career All-Star Game in 2018 and hit a home run in my first All-Star at-bat.

.300 - I was awarded my first career Silver Slugger in 2018.

.200 - In 2018, I became the first shortstop in MLB history to record at least 40 doubles, 30 home runs and 25 stolen bases .

.100 - Entering the 2019 season, my 88 career home runs are the most by a shortstop through their first seasons in MLB history.

THE ONE AND ONLY...

Orbit is big, furry orange with the floppy ears, a hefty belly, and a colorful antennae. Whether it's on the field or walking around the stadium, you definitely can't miss him! Orbit is also usually surrounded by fans of all ages, who love to give him a high-five or a hug.

Orbit's always been a huge baseball fan, but given his- uh... girth- he was always too clumsy to play the game. Instead, his good friends with the Isotopes offered Orbit the role as cheerleader and biggest fan (both figuratively and literally). Now he entertains fans with charisma, charm, mischievous antics and phenomenal dance moves.

Even though Orbit loves the ballpark, he loves getting out into the community even more. Orbit can be spotted all over the city throughout the year at various community events. Orbit has attended birthday parties, school assemblies, parades, little league ceremonies, holiday parties, recliner races, grand opening celebrations, charity walks, library programs, and golf tournaments...and the list goes on! Having Orbit at your event is sure to bring lots of smiles and great memories!

Go to www.abqisotopes.com and fill out an appearance form to have Orbit at your next event or contact the Director of Community Relations Michelle Montoya at mmontoya@abqisotopes.com.

MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL 101

Are the Minor Leagues run by Major League Baseball?

No. Minor League Baseball's governing body is, in fact, Minor League Baseball, which was previously known as the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. The NAPBL was founded in 1901 and officially changed its name to "Minor League Baseball" in 1999. Minor League Baseball has a contract with Major League Baseball called the Professional Baseball Agreement, outlining the player development relationship between Major League teams and their Minor League affiliates. In a nutshell, the Major League teams agree to provide players, while the Minor League teams provide an environment for those players to develop.

How many different Minor League teams and leagues are there?

Minor League Baseball is comprised of 240 teams situated in 19 different leagues. These leagues are divided by classifications: Triple-A, Double-A, Class A Advanced, Class A, Class A Short Season, and Rookie Level. The Isotopes play at the highest Minor League Level, Triple-A, and are part of the Pacific Coast League.

Are the Albuquerque Isotopes owned by the Colorado Rockies?

No. Although once a commonplace, today only a handful of Major League teams own any of their affiliates. The Isotopes are privately owned by a group of investors led by team President Ken Young.

How do the Isotopes get their players?

The Isotopes do not scout, sign, release, or trade players. Since the Isotopes have a Player Development Contract with the Colorado Rockies, all players are under contract with the Rockies organization. All player moves are dictated by the Rockies front office.

Are some Isotopes on the Rockies' Major League Roster?

Yes. The Rockies can have up to 40 players signed to a Major League contract, but from the start of the season through August 31, can only have 26 players on their active roster. The other players are optioned to their Minor League affiliates and are subject to recall. If a Major League player is injured and placed on the Injured List, the Rockies may recall one of their 40-man roster members playing in the Minors. After September 1, teams must carry 28 players.

Are there limits to the number of times a player can be optioned?

Yes. A Major League club can option a player to the Minors for no more than three seasons, after which the club must place the player on waivers in order to "outright" him to the Minors. For example: If Joe Smith has been on the Rockies' 40-man roster but has been sent to the Minors in each of the last three years, the Rockies cannot keep him on the 40-man roster and send him back to the Minors a fourth season. They must keep him on the 26-man active roster or "outright" him to the Minors, which takes him off of the club's 40-man roster and makes him available for all other Major League organizations to claim off of waivers. If he is not claimed, or "clears" waivers after two business days, Joe Smith can elect to stay with the Rockies or become a free agent.

If some of the Isotopes are on the Major League (or 40-man) roster, what kind of contracts do the other players have?

They are signed to a Minor League contract and are not subject to being recalled. This does not mean that the player cannot be promoted to the Major League club, but to do so, the Big League team must purchase his contract from the Minor League team and assign him to the 40-man roster. (The phrase "purchase contract" comes from an older era when Minor League teams actually owned contracts of their players and Major League clubs would have to buy them out of their contracts.) If the Major League club's 40-man roster is full, the team must make room by either releasing a player or placing a player on the 60-day Disabled List.

"Copa de la Diversión," or "Fun Cup," is a season-long event series specifically designed to embrace the culture and values that resonate most with participating teams' local U.S. Hispanic/Latino communities. Albuquerque's entry as los Mariachis de Nuevo México, was selected by MiLB's Latinx Advisory Committee as the team that best achieved the primary objectives of the Copa de la Diversión event series in both the inaugural 2018 season as well as in 2019. The 2020 campaign will see 92 teams across Minor League Baseball participating for the Copa de la Diversión.

A trip to Rio Grande Credit Union Field at Isotopes Park is more than a game of baseball. It's more than hot dogs. It's more than home runs. It's more than highlight reel plays. It's more than home runs, strikeouts, double plays, and stolen bases.

A trip to the ballpark is an experience unlike any other.

RGCU Field at Isotopes Park, affectionately known as "The Lab," has been a consistent mark of enjoyment and excellence for baseball fans since its inaugural season in 2003. The ballpark has played host to MLB exhibition games, the 2011 Triple-A National Championship Game, the 2007 Triple-A All-Star Game, and of course, your hometown Albuquerque Isotopes. The stadium has opened its gates to over nine million fans as the ballpark heads into its 18th season in 2020.

While the Topes are the main attraction at the Lab, Rio Grande Credit Union Field at Isotopes Park has continually provided exceptional entertainment to star along side your favorite players.

Through offering an exceptional product in a family-friendly environment, the Isotopes have become one of the model franchises in Minor League Baseball.

Likewise, RGCU Field at Isotopes Park is featured as Albuquerque's most popular entertainment destination year in and year out.

So what is it about this beautiful ballpark, that when set against the beautiful New Mexican sunset, is so difficult to leave?

Maybe it's the sights. Is it the sprawling green grass serves as the canvas for the players to display their art, providing a backdrop for an amazing double play turned so fast you didn't even realize the ball was put in play? Is it the mass of thousands upon thousands of fans decked out in Isotopes gear, covering the berm and packing the suites? Could it be the stunning fireworks displays overhead as you lounge about your blanket, nestled under the spectacular glow?

Perhaps it's the sounds. The loud cracking of the bat echoes through the ballpark, which quickly turns into pounding cleats, culminating with the thud of ball meeting leather. There's a chance it's the laughter from kids beside themselves at the antics of Orbit or the famous Chile Pepper Race. It may be the roar of the crowd as their favorite Isotopes are announced and come sprinting from the dugout.

Maybe it's the tastes. It could be looking forward to that one-of-a-kind ballpark hot dog to settle your seventh-inning craving, washed down by an ice-cold beverage. Could it be that urge to run to the nearest concession stand for some "peanuts and Cracker Jack?" Maybe it's the bitter taste of trailing by a run in the ninth only to be satisfied by the sweet taste of a walk-off home run.

Perhaps it's the atmosphere. There is a unique aura you can only experience by being at a baseball game. There is a special kind of excitement when it comes to seeing nine-innings of America's Pastime.

Or maybe, it's a little bit of everything. Maybe it is just being in the moment and enjoying baseball with your father or mother, daughter or son, friends and family.

It's Rio Grande Credit Union at Isotopes Park – Where the Grass is Greener.
