

2011 MIAMI HEAT POSTSEASON MEDIA GUIDE

MEDIA INFORMATION

AMERICAN AIRLINES ARENA: The American Airlines Arena mailing address is 601 Biscayne Boulevard, Miami, FL 33132. It is located just north of Port Boulevard and Bayside Marketplace and east of Biscayne Boulevard across from a Miami landmark, the Freedom Tower. Arriving via I-95, take 395 east to the Biscayne Boulevard exit, make a right at the light and the arena will be on your left.

AMERICAN AIRLINES ARENA MEDIA GATE: Media covering a HEAT game in the AAA should enter the building through the Command Center, located at the southwest corner of the building (off Port Boulevard) next to the loading dock in the TV truck bay. This is where credentials can be picked up. The credential gate opens three and a half hours prior to the scheduled start of the game.

THE ROBES PATTON MEMORIAL PRESSROOM: The media workroom, named in memory of late HEAT beat writer Robes Patton, is located near the northwest corner of the building. Upon entering the media gate, proceed to the left past the court entrance and the Robes Patton Memorial Pressroom will be on your left. Admission to the workroom is granted with a HEAT game credential or NBA season pass only. There is a working area where media can file stories and will be provided with game information. Team statistics, news releases, media guides, game notes and out-of-town scores are available in the Robes Patton Memorial Pressroom.

AMERICAN AIRLINES ARENA LOCKER ROOMS: The HEAT locker room, as well as the visiting team's locker room, is located off the same hallway as the Robes Patton Memorial Pressroom. Making a left out of the Robes Patton Memorial Pressroom or Media Dining Room, the visiting team locker room is located on the right (behind the visiting team bench) on the North side of the building. Continue down the hallway, past the post-game interview room, as it wraps around to the right, the HEAT locker room is located on your left (behind the corner by the HEAT bench). As per NBA policy, access to the locker room is strictly limited to pre- and post-game only to media with appropriate credentials. Those credentials are limited only to media working the game. No still cameras or cell phones are allowed in the HEAT or visitors locker rooms.

HEAT INTERVIEW PROCEDURES: Access to HEAT players is pre- and post-game only in accordance with NBA directives. Both the HEAT and visitors locker rooms will open 90 minutes prior to the scheduled start time of each game for a period of 45 minutes and will close 45 minutes prior to the scheduled start time. Media members are prohibited from entering the HEAT Training Room, Weight Room or Player Lounge. The HEAT Sports Media Relations Department is available to assist with pre-game interviews. After the conclusion of games and the NBA mandated 15-minute "cool down" period, HEAT players are available for media interviews. These sessions are conducted inside the team locker room and valid HEAT credentials with locker room access are required for admittance. Chris Bosh, LeBron James and Dwyane Wade will speak to the media in the Media Interview Room at the conclusion of each home game. They will not address media in the locker room, unless noted by a member of the Sports Media Relations Department.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Photographers work from assigned positions at each baseline and under the baskets. The sidecourt space in front of the scorer's table and on the opposite sideline, is off limits, except for television camera crews approved by the NBA. Photographers must remain stationary and stay on the apron along each baseline, at least four feet off the court at all times. Photographers are also not allowed to shoot from the Upper Press Level or public walkways. Under no circumstances are flashbulbs permitted during games. In accordance with NBA rules and to reduce the risk of injury to players, rubber lens shades are REQUIRED for all still photographers, broadcasters, news and entertainment video and film crews who are authorized to shoot NBA games. Any requests for strobe equipment at HEAT games must come to Rob Wilson at the HEAT Sports Media Relations Department for approval. There is limited availability for strobes and if approved will cost the media outlet $250 per game.

PARKING: The HEAT has a limited amount of media parking available, both on a season and single-game basis. Media parking is sold at a reduced rate of $10 per game and the media parking lot is located across the street at Bayside Marketplace. Media members in need of parking should contact the HEAT Sports Media Relations Department with as much advance notice as possible to assure a spot in the media parking lot. In addition to the media parking lot, there are 15,000 parking spaces within a 15-minute walk of the AAA.

TELEPHONE/INTERNET/ISDN: The HEAT provide a limited number of complimentary phones and phone lines for the media to use in the Robes Patton Memorial Pressroom with the availability coming on a first-come, first-served basis. Wireless internet is available in the work room, and the arena bowl. Media outlets wanting their own dedicated lines, hard wired internet or ISDN lines should contact Tony Coca at 786-777-1216.

AUTOGRAPHS: Seeking autograph items or souvenir items from players or coaches is strictly prohibited and subject to forfeiture of credential. Media members are also prohibited from taking personal photos with players or coaches.

AMERICAN AIRLINES ARENA ACCESS: To reiterate, media personnel need HEAT game credentials or NBA season passes for access to American Airlines Arena, as well as the Robes Patton Memorial Pressroom, Media Dining Room, courtside, the locker rooms and interview areas. Credentials are non-transferable. It is the media outlet's responsibility to follow up with a call to confirm the request has been received and approved.

Thank you for your cooperation. We look forward to seeing you at the American Airlines Arena.

In 16 years as managing general partner of the Miami HEAT, Micky Arison has guided the franchise to unprecedented heights, including bringing South Florida its first NBA championship in 2006.

As the leader of the most successful cruise operation in the world, the 61-year-old Arison and his family have always been involved with the team. Although his father, Ted, brought the NBA franchise to South Florida in 1988, it has only been since Micky took control in 1995 that the HEAT has evolved into one of the NBA's top organizations.

Arison, who was elected Chairman of the NBA Board of Governors in October 2005 and served a three-year term, brought to the HEAT the same standard of excellence that propelled Carnival Corporation & plc into a global vacation leader. One of Arison's first moves was to dramatically re-shape the franchise by hiring Pat Riley, one of the NBA's all-time winningest coaches, as Miami's President.

Arison and Riley acquired franchise cornerstones Alonzo Mourning, Tim Hardaway, Dwyane Wade, and Shaquille O'Neal. They also strengthened their roster by making a blockbuster 13-player trade, the largest in NBA history, in which they acquired James Posey, Jason Williams and All-Star Antoine Walker, all key cogs in Miami's title run. Most recently, Arison and Riley played key roles in re-signing Dwyane Wade to a multi-year contract and acquiring perennial NBA All-Stars LeBron James and Chris Bosh via free agency.

Together, Arison and Riley have built an organization that is considered one of the NBA's elite and most competitive franchises. In addition to winning the 2006 NBA championship, with Arison and Riley at the helm Miami has made the playoffs in 13 of the last 16 seasons, winning eight division titles, one Eastern Conference championship and advancing to the Eastern Conference Finals three times. The eight division titles the HEAT has captured over the last 16 years are the most in the Eastern Conference during that span.

Arison showed his commitment to the fans of South Florida when he worked successfully with Miami-Dade public officials to keep the heart and soul of the HEAT in downtown Miami. The result of his diligence was an innovative public-private partnership that together built the county-owned state-of-the-art AmericanAirlines Arena that fans enjoy and the HEAT calls home.

Arison has enjoyed an all-star business career as well, growing up in the cruise business and spending the better part of two decades learning it from the ground up before being named to his current position, chairman and CEO of Carnival Corporation & plc in 1990.

Arison followed his education with a two-year stint in the Carnival Cruise Lines sales department. He became reservations manager in 1974, and took over the post of vice president of passenger traffic in 1976, succeeding to the presidency in 1979. In 1990, he was appointed chairman of the company's board of directors.

In 1987, the company went public, generating $400 million for future expansion. As Carnival continued its growth through the traditional avenue of new ship construction, Arison also sought to expand the company's cruise operations by entering new market segments of the industry.

In 1989, Arison engineered the acquisition of the venerable Holland America Line, giving Carnival entry to the premium segment of the cruise industry. Arison also led the company's effort in the acquisition of ultra-luxury leader Seabourn, as well as Cunard, operator of the most famous ocean liners, including the recently launched Queen Elizabeth and Costa Cruises, Europe's number one cruise company.

Arison also spearheaded Carnival Corporation's acquisition of P&O Princess Cruises, one of the most recognizable names in travel, in a deal valued at approximately $8.2 billion. The combined Carnival/Princess group, named Carnival Corporation & plc, is the largest cruise operator by far, with a diverse portfolio of brands catering to vacationers from all over the world. The Carnival/Princess entity is truly a global vacation leader with its stock trading on both the New York and London exchanges.

Under his direction, Carnival Corporation & plc has grown into the largest, most successful cruise operator in the world. Arison's keen attention to marketing and growth priorities has also increased revenues from approximately $600 million in 1988 to more than $14.5 billion in 2010.

Today, as chairman and CEO of Carnival Corporation & plc, he oversees diversified travel and tourism holdings, including cruise ships serving virtually every market segment -- from contemporary to ultra-luxury -- as well as leading tour operators and hotel chains in Alaska and the Yukon Territory.

The Arison family and Carnival Corporation & plc is devoted to South Florida and over the years has supported a variety of arts-related and community service organizations.

Organizations supported by the Arison family and Carnival include the New World Symphony, YoungArts, Miami Children's Museum, Jackson Memorial Foundation, Miami City Ballet, Project Medishare, Miami Art Museum, American Red Cross, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, United Way, Community Partnership for Homeless and many others.

Arison's contributions to the cruise industry have been recognized by a wide range of international organizations. He has been named an "Officer of the French Legion of Honor" -- the country's highest civilian honor -- by French President Jacques Chirac, received a honorary doctorate in naval architecture from the University of Genoa, and has been awarded the Decoration of Commander, First Class, of the Order of the Lion of Finland by the President of the Republic of Finland.

He has also been awarded the insignia of "Onorificenza al Merito della Repubblica Italiana" by the President of Italy, which confers that country's highest title on a civilian.

Concluding his 16th season with Miami, HEAT President and Hall of Fame inductee Pat Riley earned one of the highest praises bestowed upon an individual in the NBA on September 5, 2008, when in only his first year of consideration, he was enshrined with the class of 2008 into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame.

Riley has established a standard of excellence within the franchise, both on and off the court, that has allowed the team to reach unprecedented heights and has positioned it as one of the most respected and successful in the NBA. Never was that more evident than when Riley guided his group of “15 Strong” to the franchise’s first NBA championship in Dallas on June 20, 2006. After the game, Riley commented that he had packed one suit, one shirt and one tie for the trip to Dallas. What he brought back to Miami was one championship, fulfilling a vision he spoke about when arriving in Miami in 1995.

When he returned to the sidelines for his second stint as the HEAT head coach on Dec. 12, 2005, after a two-year hiatus from the bench where he concentrated on building the team from the front office, many experts questioned whether the Miami team that he assembled was capable of reaching the NBA’s ultimate destination. Six months later the answer was a resounding “yes”, as Riley had successfully navigated the HEAT to the pinnacle of the basketball world and added more luster to a legacy and resume that did not need further validation.

For the past 16 seasons Riley’s influence can be found throughout the HEAT organization as he has transformed the team from its early years to one of the most successful and desired destinations throughout the league. In addition to directing the HEAT to a championship on the court, his work off the court constantly re-shaping the roster has been equally crucial. Never was that more evident than the summer of 2010. After two seasons of positioning the HEAT to be a major player in the 2010 free agent pursuit, while still remaining competitive and earning a pair of postseason berths, Riley proved to be the architect of one of the most successful off-seasons in NBA history. His work the previous two seasons put Miami in position to be able to add several key pieces in the 2010 free agent market and he delivered a star-studded class. In addition to accomplishing his stated mission of re-signing Dwyane Wade to a long term contract, he also convinced perennial All-Stars Chris Bosh and LeBron James to combine forces and join the HEAT to help form the core of what should be a championship contender for years to come.

For Riley the summer of 2010 was just one more example of him working his magic in the front office. Since his arrival in Miami, he has engineered some of the biggest trades in the NBA. He has made deals to acquire All-Stars Alonzo Mourning, Tim Hardaway, Eddie Jones and Shaquille O’Neal and add talented players Brian Grant and Jamal Mashburn. Additionally, prior to the 2005-06 season, he made headlines as he helped engineer the largest trade in NBA history, a five-team, 13-player blockbuster, in which the HEAT obtained All-Star forward Antoine Walker from Boston and point guard Jason Williams and swingman James Posey from Memphis, all key contributors in the HEAT’s first NBA championship. He has also used the free agent market previously to help build the HEAT into a championship team. Riley made a big splash in the summer of 2003 when he signed free agent Lamar Odom, who went on to enjoy his finest NBA season before becoming the centerpiece in the trade to acquire the then 11-time All-Star O’Neal. Riley has also helped shape the HEAT through the years with the successful drafting of Dwyane Wade, Caron Butler and Michael Beasley.

With all the big moves Riley has made to shape the HEAT, the most important trade he was involved with might very well have been the one that delivered him to Miami. Looking to change the face of an organization in its infancy and become a solid contender year after year, HEAT Managing General Partner Micky Arison agreed to send a first-round draft pick and $1 million dollars to the New York Knicks on September 1, 1995 for the rights to Pat Riley. One day later, Riley was named the team’s fourth head coach and team president. From that point, the face of the organization changed. Riley brought with him star power, a proven track record, professionalism and results. Since he arrived in 1995, the HEAT has compiled a 714-570 (.556) record. Miami has made 13 postseason appearances since his arrival and has eight division titles in the last 16 seasons. With him came a winning culture that was lacking and now the HEAT is recognized as one of the hardest working, most respected organizations throughout the NBA.

Riley’s resume is filled with many milestones during an NBA career that spans 42 years as a player, assistant coach, head coach, administrator and broadcaster and has produced seven NBA championships. He has compiled a 1,210-694 (.636) all-time record guiding the Los Angeles Lakers, New York Knicks and the Miami HEAT during a 24-year head coaching career that is one of the most impressive in all of sports. His 1,210 regular season victories trail only Don Nelson and Lenny Wilkens on the NBA’s all-time list. His 171 postseason victories and 282 postseason games coached each rank second in NBA history, behind only Phil Jackson. His five NBA championships as a head coach tie him with John Kundla for the third highest total in NBA history. Riley has averaged 50 wins per season in his coaching career. His 1,904 games coached rank seventh all-time in the NBA, his .606 postseason winning percentage is also seventh best all-time in the league annals and his .636 winning percentage in regular season play places him eighth in league history. As a result of his many accomplishments, in 1996-97 as the NBA celebrated its 50th Anniversary, Riley received one of the highest honors for an NBA coach when he was named one of the Top 10 Coaches of All-Time by a panel of media who regularly cover the league. Simply put, Riley is a winner.

No matter the odds, “getting the job done” has never been a problem for a person who has seen winning from all angles. As a youthful role player for the 1971-72 Los Angeles Lakers, Riley earned the first of his seven NBA championship rings. He claimed another as an assistant under Lakers coach Paul Westhead in 1979-80. The New York native collected four more titles for the Lakers as the team’s top man in 1982, 1985, 1987 and 1988. Eighteen years later, he guided the HEAT to their first NBA Championship, his fifth as a head coach. The 18-year span between championships as a head coach established an NBA record. His teams have advanced to the NBA Finals nine times and the Conference Finals on 12 occasions. As a head coach, he captured 18 divisional championships, nine conference championships and five NBA titles. He has been honored as the NBA Coach of the Year on three occasions, the only coach in NBA history to receive the award with three different teams. Riley has also captured NBA Coach of the Month honors a league-record tying 11 times. His 21 total post-season appearances as a head coach are tops in league history, two more than Hall of Fame coach Red Auerbach and his string of 19 consecutive postseason appearances as a head coach from 1982-2001 set a league record for consecutive postseason appearances. Riley has also served as a head coach in nine NBA All-Star games.

In his illustrious career, Riley has guided his teams to at least 50 wins in a season an NBA-record 17 times. He also has registered an NBA-record tying seven 60-win seasons, accomplishing the milestone with each of the three franchises he guided. When he began the 2000-01 season with an Opening Night victory over Orlando on November 1, he became just the second coach in NBA history to reach 1,000 wins. Riley currently stands as the all-time leader in both regular season and postseason victories for the HEAT and ranks second in both categories for the Lakers.

During his first stint guiding the HEAT, Riley led Miami to 354 victories and four division titles over an eight-year period. His teams captured four consecutive Atlantic Division championships from 1996-2000, a mark of dominance not seen in the Atlantic Division since the Celtics had won five straight division titles from 1983-88. Riley, Miami's all-time leader in games coached with 849, has compiled a 454-395 record (.535 winning percentage) during his 11 seasons on the sidelines in South Florida and guided the HEAT to eight playoff appearances and 34 postseason victories. Prior to his arrival the franchise had compiled a 205-369 (.357) mark, with one winning season, two playoff appearances and two postseason wins in its first seven years. Upon his arrival, Riley turned the fortunes of the franchise around. Through his tireless work ethic he has transformed the Miami HEAT into one of the premier franchises in all of professional sports.

On the eve of his first season in Miami, Riley changed the look of the HEAT by designing a six-player trade that brought in Mourning, who became the HEAT's first All-Star that season. He sprang into action again on February 22, 1996, making three trades involving 10 players just hours before the trading deadline that cleared the way for future free agent signings and brought Hardaway to Miami, a player many believed was past his prime. Hardaway became a two-time All-Star during his stint with Riley and in 1996-97 was named to the backcourt with Michael Jordan on the All-NBA First Team. Those moves created the foundation in which the HEAT has been built upon and helped send the message that Riley would do whatever it took to produce a winner in Miami.

And the team has been winning ever since. In addition to delivering an NBA championship to Miami, Riley's HEAT tenure has included many highlights. In 1996-97 he garnered a third NBA Coach of the Year honor with his third team, an unprecedented feat in league history, after leading Miami to a 61-21 (.744) record and the HEAT's first trip to the Eastern Conference Finals. On February 10, 1998, he became the winningest coach in HEAT history when Miami defeated Cleveland, 91-81, for HEAT win number 134. During the 1998-99 campaign he led Miami to the best record and the number one seed in the Eastern Conference for the first time. The 1999-00 season saw the HEAT capture its fourth consecutive Atlantic Division crown. That season also culminated a dream for the franchise as Riley ushered Miami into its beautiful new home, the AmericanAirlines Arena, a state-of-the-art downtown bayside arena. The following season, Riley turned in what many experts claim was one of the best coaching jobs of his amazing career. After re-working the roster in the summer of 2000 by acquiring three-time All-Star Eddie Jones and hard-working power forward Brian Grant to make a run at a possible championship, Riley had to guide the franchise through one of the biggest jolts in its history. On October 16, in the middle of the pre-season, Alonzo Mourning, the team's centerpiece, announced that due to a kidney disease he was expected to miss the entire season. Despite the devastating news, Riley guided the HEAT to a 50-32 record for a second place finish in the Atlantic Division and the third best record in the conference. All this despite the fact he had to constantly re-make his team's line-up as Miami would rack up a total of 283 missed player games due to injury, one of the highest totals in the NBA that season.

Before joining the HEAT, Riley spent four successful seasons as the head coach of the New York Knicks. Prior to Riley's arrival the Knicks had posted just four winning seasons in the previous 10 years (1981-91). During his four-year stint in New York, Riley guided the Knicks to four straight winning seasons, four consecutive playoff berths and compiled a 223-105 record. His .680 winning percentage is the best in Knicks history, easily outdistancing former assistant Jeff Van Gundy who ranks second (.590), and his 223 victories rank fourth on the club's all-time list. He recorded at least 50 wins in each of his four seasons in New York, the only time in Knicks history the team posted at least 50 wins in four consecutive years. The highlight of his career with the Knicks was leading them to the 1994 NBA Finals, New York's first trip to the Finals since the 1972-73 season. Riley's teams won three consecutive Atlantic Division titles in his first three years (1991-94) in New York, and his tireless dedication earned him his second NBA Coach of the Year honor in 1993. In his first year with the Knicks they improved by 12 victories over the previous season (from 39 to 51).

Prior to leading the Knicks, Riley was head coach of the Lakers for nine years and guided the team to four NBA titles and three other NBA Finals appearances during its glory years. After taking over for Paul Westhead 11 games into the 1981-82 season, he led the Lakers to the NBA Championship in his first season as a head coach in the league. Under Riley, the Lakers became the first NBA team to win 60 games in four consecutive seasons (1984-85 through 1987-88). He won the Pacific Division title in each of his nine years leading the Lakers and was honored as the 1990 NBA Coach of the Year. He compiled a 533-194 (.733) regular season record in his nine seasons in L.A. and won at least 50 games in each of the nine years. Riley, who averaged 59 regular season wins a season in L.A., brought "Showtime" to the Great Western Forum. Under Riley the Lakers recorded a 305-59 (.838) regular season mark at home. His teams also compiled a 102-47 (.685) postseason record. His 102 postseason victories rank second on the Lakers' all-time list as do his 533 regular season wins.

After leaving the Lakers, Riley served as co-host of "NBA Showtime" on NBC in 1990-91 before joining the Knicks in the fall of 1991. It was a return to the television booth for Riley who was Chick Hearn's partner on Lakers' broadcasts after his playing days ended (1977-79). He returned to the bench early in the 1979-80 campaign when Lakers' Head Coach Paul Westhead asked him to become an assistant.

As a player, Riley had an extensive nine-year career. He was the 1967 first-round pick (seventh overall) of the San Diego Rockets for their inaugural 1967-68 season. After three seasons, he joined the Lakers' in 1970-71 and played five years. He was a member of the 1971-72 Lakers that won an NBA-record 33 consecutive games and the NBA Championship. Riley finished his playing career with the 1976 Western Conference Champion Phoenix Suns.

Born in Schenectady, NY, Riley attended Linton High School where he became a two-sport star in basketball and football. He was a member of the Linton basketball team that beat historic Power Memorial High and center Lew Alcindor, who, as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, would later lead Riley's Lakers to greatness. As a tribute to his accomplishments, Linton renamed its gym in Riley's honor in 1997 and inducted him into its hall of fame in 2000.

After turning down an offer to play football for Bear Bryant at Alabama, Riley decided instead to play basketball for Adolph Rupp at Kentucky from 1963-67. He was a collegiate star, earning team MVP honors three times and averaging 22 points per game on the Wildcats' famed "Rupp's Runts" squad that lost in the 1966 NCAA Finals to Texas Western. A gifted athlete, he was an 11th-round draft choice of the NFL's Dallas Cowboys in 1967 although he never played college football. His brother, Lee, played defensive back for the Detroit Lions, Philadelphia Eagles, and New York Giants of the NFL (1955-60) and for the New York Titans of the American Football League (1961-62). His father, Leon, was a major league catcher/outfielder with Philadelphia in 1944 and became a minor league manager in the Phillies' organization.

Along with his wife, Chris, Riley has been involved with numerous charity and community service projects throughout his career. They founded The Miami HEAT Family Outreach in 1997 which has raised over $13 million for the South Florida community and whose primary beneficiaries include Jackson Memorial Foundation's Guardian Angels which supports the Holtz Center for seriously ill children, SafeSpace which is a domestic violence shelter for women and their children, and the Miami Coalition for a Safe and Drug-free Community. They are also involved in the Pediatric AIDS Foundation's Kids for Kids organization which they started in 1992 in New York, and the YMCA in Los Angeles, New York, and Miami. For over 30 years the Rileys have been actively involved with Boys and Girls Clubs of America. As a result of his efforts, Riley has received many prestigious awards, including the Miami Project Sports Legend Award in 1992, Boys and Girls Clubs Miami Person of the Year Award in 1998, and was honored by the YMCA Miami in 1998.

Riley is not only one of professional basketball's winningest coaches, but his speeches before hundreds of corporations have earned him the title of "America's Greatest Motivational Speaker." He has been rated by Success Magazine as "The best in his field." Riley has also completed an award winning 30-minute motivational video entitled "Teamwork" in which he applies his winning philosophies to business and life in general. In addition to being one of the most sought after motivational speakers in the country, Riley has authored two books, "Show Time" and "The Winner Within". Pat and his wife, Chris, have two children, James Patrick, and Elisabeth Marie.

ANDY ELISBURG

SENIOR VP, BASKETBALL OPS/ASSISTANT GM

Completing his third season as Senior Vice President/Assistant GM of Basketball Operations, Andy Elisburg continues to assist HEAT President Pat Riley in the areas of salary cap management, talent acquisition, league compliance and the day-to-day business of basketball operations.

Elisburg is a HEAT original, joining the franchise in its inaugural 1988 season. For the past 16 years, Elisburg has played an integral role in salary cap planning and basketball operations management, while overseeing the day-to-day operations at AmericanAirlines Arena.

With the challenges and the complexities in dealing with the league salary cap and luxury tax, Elisburg's knowledge and experience continues to be called upon to build on the team's unprecedented success. The results of that success include an NBA Championship, 13 postseason berths in the last 16 years, including a franchise-record six consecutive playoff appearances from 1996-2001, four consecutive Atlantic Division Championships from 1996-2000, three consecutive Southeast Division Championships from 2005-2007, and the eighth most wins (714) in the NBA (second most in the Eastern Conference) from 1995-2011.

During the off-season, Elisburg assists Riley in maneuvering through the framework of the salary cap and the luxury tax to transform the roster, ensuring the HEAT maintains its status as one of the league's top teams. In one of the most anticipated off-seasons in NBA history, he played an integral role in the HEAT's successful summer of 2010. His knowledge and expertise of the salary cap proved invaluable as he helped the HEAT acquire perennial All-Stars LeBron James and Chris Bosh, as well as round out the roster with several key veteran free agent signings to bolster the team's depth.

Elisburg began the team's inaugural campaign as an intern in the public relations department before becoming a public relations assistant at the end of the season. He has served in many different capacities, including assistant director of public relations, director of team services and information, director of team operations, vice president, basketball operations and senior vice president, basketball operations.

A native of Potomac, MD, Elisburg served an internship with the Washington Bullets in the summer of 1988 before coming to the HEAT. He holds a degree in sports administration from St. Thomas University and was honored by his alma mater in June of 2004 with their first Leader for Life Award which goes to recognize an alumna/alumnus that has made a significant contribution to their chosen profession. Elisburg is single and lives in Miami.

NICK ARISON

VICE PRESIDENT, BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

Nick Arison completes his eighth year with the HEAT organization and his third as Vice President, Basketball Operations.

Arison joined the HEAT organization as a full-time staff member in 2003 as an Account Manager, Premium Partnerships. He was then promoted in 2006 to Director, Corporate and Premium Services where he oversaw the Account Management Team.

In addition to his responsibilities with the HEAT, Arison has served as a member of the United States Men's Senior National Team support staff since 2004. Arison assisted with the day-to-day operations for USA Basketball's bronze medal winning team at the 2004 Olympics, the bronze medal winning 2006 World Championship team, the 2007 gold medal winning FIBA Americas Championship team and the 2008 USA team that captured the gold medal in Beijing.

Prior to joining the HEAT, while attending Duke University, Arison spent four seasons as team manager of the Blue Devils men's basketball team and was named the head team manager during his senior year. Over that span, Arison became the only team manager in Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) history to be a part of four-straight ACC Championships, including a 2001 NCAA National Championship.

In addition to his duties as team manager for the Duke men's basketball team, Arison interned with the HEAT during the summer, serving internships in the Arena Operations, Community Affairs, Sales and Marketing departments. He also served as a HEAT team attendant for four seasons from 1995 through 1999. Arison graduated from Duke with a degree in public policy.

Completing his 16th season with The HEAT Group and 10th at the helm of the organization as President, Business Operations, Eric Woolworth has made an indelible impression on both the Miami HEAT and AmericanAirlines Arena. His leadership has helped transform the organization and redefine its corporate identity into a customer service and sales driven machine that is among the elite in the sports and entertainment industry. Under Woolworth's direction the HEAT has been consistently recognized as an NBA leader in customer service, fan entertainment, marketing, sales, and Arena operations, and has become a recognized leader in the South Florida business community. Working side by side with Pat Riley, Eric's efforts have made the HEAT a first-class organization away from the court as much as it is on it.

The team's innovative fan-friendly and flexible renewal program complements its very successful and often imitated in-Arena S.M.I.L.E. program aimed at exceeding a guest's expectations and creating an exciting experience at events. These initiatives have brought a high level of service and value to season ticket holders and guests, as well as a streamlined renewal and playoff payment process while introducing new and exciting benefits for loyal season ticket holders and other lucky fans.

Recognizing the power of database marketing, Woolworth turned the company's focus toward becoming an early adopter of this technology and quickly capitalized on it. In the past 10 years, the HEAT has compiled one of the richest direct marketing databases in the NBA. The HEAT Group has become proficient in utilizing these powerful channels to deliver sales offers and news, now leads the NBA in terms of revenue derived from database marketing, and leverages these assets to support the marketing efforts of its ever-expanding corporate partner base.

Under Woolworth's guidance, The HEAT Group's Business Operations Division continues to garner accolades in a variety of disciplines. Success stories for the 2009-10 season included HEATV, the in-house production house for the HEAT, winning six 2010 Golden Matrix Awards, considered the "Academy Awards" of the electronic display industry. The HEAT was also recognized by the NBA for its "Best Practices" in game operations, community relations, marketing and retail operations.

Woolworth has been at the forefront of several major capital improvement projects to the AmericanAirlines Arena, which celebrated its 10-year anniversary on December 31, 2009. Upgrades included:

- The unveiling of MiamiMediaMesh at AmericanAirlines Arena, the first-of-its-kind energy-efficient 3,400 square foot digital media façade, which is the largest digital LED display in the Southeast region of the United States.
- The multi-million dollar High Definition upgrade of all digital infrastructure at AmericanAirlines Arena including the center hung video board, all broadcast and production equipment, all Arena displays and televisions, the digital signage control system, vertical column ad displays, corporate sponsor signage, directional signage, and concession menu boards.
- The fully customizable "experience" fans now enjoy as they enter the AmericanAirlines Arena through the newly renovated Bacardi Grand Entrance—an extensive re-branding project, which includes state-of-the-art digital signage and graphic enhancement tailored to the specific audience of any single event.

Most recently, Woolworth established a social media department to capitalize on the popularity of this increasingly important medium, to leverage its reach, and to motivate and activate fans. Within a week of establishing the department, the number of HEAT Twitter followers and Facebook fans increased tenfold.

Woolworth also led the marketing team that hosted The Summer of 2010 Welcome Event, a concert-like celebration at AmericanAirlines Arena attended by thousands of fans, which celebrated the re-signing of Dwyane Wade and the acquisition of LeBron James and Chris Bosh.

Woolworth's efforts have also firmly planted AmericanAirlines Arena on the map of elite venues, hosting such world-class events such as Madonna, Marc Anthony, Billy Joel, Eric Clapton, Paul McCartney, The Rolling Stones, U2, Luis Miguel, Hannah Montana/Miley Cyrus, Phish and many others that play before sold-out crowds. The Arena also secured the 2004 and 2005 MTV Video Music Awards, the first two times in the award show's history it was hosted outside of New York City or Los Angeles. Popular family shows that make annual stops at the Arena include classic favorites Disney On Ice, Wiggles, the Harlem Globetrotters and the RB&BB Circus.

Woolworth's primary responsibility consists of directing and overseeing all non-basketball aspects of the organization from Marketing and Community Affairs to Sales and Service, Human Resources, Merchandising, Finance, Event and Arena Operations, and more. His efforts have created a professional cutting edge atmosphere for both the employees and the customers.

Woolworth steadily climbed the ranks of The HEAT Group after first joining the HEAT as General Counsel in 1995 and a successful legal career in Washington, D.C. His business acumen and key role in the development of the AmericanAirlines Arena led to his promotion to President, Business Operations in January of 2001. He had served as interim President from August of 2000 to January of 2001.

Woolworth is a cum laude graduate of both Georgetown University and Georgetown University Law Center. He lives with his wife, Jocelyn, their son, Jackson, and their daughter, Cassidy, in Coral Gables. They generously spend their time and resources to assist the community, donating time to several charitable organizations including serving on the Boards of Big Brothers Big Sisters and the Children's Craniofacial Association.

Erik Spoelstra completed his third regular season as head coach of the HEAT and his 16th within the organization. He was elevated to his current position on April 28, 2008 when HEAT President Pat Riley stepped down as head coach, and made him the league's youngest head coach. In his first three seasons, Spoelstra has led Miami to a 148-98 record and consecutive postseason appearances.

During his rookie season, despite having one of the NBA's youngest rosters, Spoelstra led Miami to its greatest single-season improvement in franchise history. He took a 15-win team from the previous season and directed them to a 28-win improvement, marking the greatest single-season improvement by a rookie head coach in NBA history, bettering the previous record of a 20-win improvement by Chicago Bulls Head Coach Ed Badger during the 1976-77 season. It also marked the seventh-best single-season improvement in NBA history by any coach. As a result of a 43-win season, the most by a head coach in his first year guiding the HEAT, Spoelstra led Miami to the 2009 NBA Playoffs. The 2009 postseason appearance made Miami just the second team in NBA history to win 15-or-fewer games one year and make the postseason the next, joining the 1968-69 San Diego Rockets.

He followed that impressive debut with a 47-35 record during the 2009-10 season and another trip to the playoffs. Miami recorded 23 road wins, the fourth most in franchise history, including eight straight to finish the season. Under Spoelstra's leadership the HEAT closed the season by winning 18 of its final 22 games, including a 12-3 record in March which earned him NBA Eastern Conference Coach of the Month honors. Known for his defensive mindset, Spoelstra led Miami to one of its best defensive seasons ever, allowing the fewest field goals (2,813) in the NBA during the 2009-10 season and finishing second in both points allowed (94.2) and field goal percentage allowed (.439).

Before taking over the reins as the sixth head coach in franchise history, Spoelstra had served the HEAT in a number of roles in his first 13 years. He originally was hired as video coordinator and over the years was promoted to assistant coach/video coordinator, assistant coach/advance scout and assistant coach/director of scouting before ascending to his current position. He made a name for himself around the league with his game preparation and superb attention to detail. In his seven seasons as the HEAT's assistant coach/director of scouting, he had the primary role of developing game plans for Miami's upcoming opponents. To that end, he coordinated the video staff and advance scouts while overseeing the development of scouting reports and videos.

Spoelstra has earned the respect of players throughout the league with a strong reputation as a teacher over the years by heading the HEAT's Individual Player Development Program. As an assistant coach, where he also served for three seasons (2005-07) as the head coach of the HEAT's summer league team, and as the HEAT's head man now, he has worked tirelessly with many of Miami's young players in areas of fundamentals, skill development and shooting. This consistent emphasis of fundamentals contributed to the HEAT setting a franchise-record in 2008-09 for fewest turnovers in a season, committing 96 fewer turnovers than the previous franchise record, and then responding the following season with the second fewest turnovers in a season.

Additionally, Spoelstra helped design and integrate a proprietary statistical database and scouting software for the HEAT. Under Spoelstra, the HEAT continues to embrace the use of technology and continues to use the state-of-the-art statistical software to evaluate team productivity, individual player productivity and trends for both the HEAT and the team's opponents. That use of technology as a teaching tool also included putting the team's video playbook on iPods for his players.

In 1992, he graduated from the University of Portland with a degree in communications. While attending Portland, Spoelstra was the starting point guard for four years and was named the West Coast Conference Freshman of the Year in 1989. Upon graduating he spent two years as a player/coach for Tus Herten, a team in the professional sports league of Germany.

A team member of the NBA FIT initiative, Spoelstra takes pride in encouraging families to engage in physical activity and healthy living practices with their children. Additionally, he created "Spo's Shooters", in conjunction with the Miami HEAT Community Education Ticket Program. This program reaches out to South Florida's less fortunate student-athletes and gives them the opportunity to enjoy HEAT games and meet their favorite HEAT players and role models.

Raised in Portland, OR, Spoelstra, who was inducted into the Jesuit High School Athletic Hall of Fame in September 2009, is the first Asian/Filipino-American head coach in any of the major North American sports leagues. He has returned to his native Philippines each of the past two summers with the NBA and U.S. State Department to host clinics and promote education, health and wellness to thousands of at-risk youth.

Spoelstra is the son of Jon Spoelstra, a long-time NBA executive who has guided the Portland Trail Blazers, Denver Nuggets, Buffalo Braves and New Jersey Nets. His grandfather, Watson, was a Detroit Tigers beat writer for many years.

BOB McADOO

ASSISTANT COACH

Bob McAdoo completes his 16th season as an assistant coach with the Miami HEAT. As a former NBA MVP, McAdoo works primarily with the HEAT big men and has been instrumental in developing their overall skills. He also works on a constant basis with all players to improve their shooting skills, while imparting the wisdom and knowledge derived from a 14-year NBA playing career. McAdoo is in charge of charting the team's offensive efficiency and focusing on the strengths and weaknesses of opponent's big men. He also served as the head coach of the HEAT's Summer League team in 2004.

McAdoo, generally considered the greatest shooting big man in NBA history, enjoyed a storied 14-year playing career in the NBA, which included three consecutive scoring titles from 1973-74 through 1975-76 — making him one of only six NBA players to accomplish the feat. He appeared in five consecutive All-Star games, where he averaged 17.6 points and 6.0 rebounds, as well as being named the NBA MVP in 1975. McAdoo received the game's greatest honor when he was elected into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 2000.

Over his career, “Mac” averaged 22.1 points and 9.4 rebounds while connecting on 50.3 percent of his field goal attempts, and has worked with many of the best in the business. In 1982, he was a member of Pat Riley's first championship team with the Los Angeles Lakers. Former HEAT broadcaster and fellow Hall of Famer Dr. Jack Ramsay was McAdoo's first coach in Buffalo in 1972. His career also included tours with New York, New Jersey, Boston and Philadelphia. After finishing in 1986 with the 76ers, McAdoo played professionally in Italy (1986-92) where his teams went on to win the Italian Championship three times and the European Championship twice. Individually, he captured MVP honors in both the Italian League and European Championships. Additionally, he appeared in the first McDonald's Open in 1987, averaging 42 points in losing causes to the Milwaukee Bucks and Russian National team. In May of 2008 he was named as one of the 50 most influential personalities in European Club Basketball over the last half century. McAdoo was one of just 35 players to receive that honor.

McAdoo's success began early in his career, as he earned the 1972-73 NBA Rookie of the Year award after averaging 18.0 points and 9.1 rebounds for the Buffalo Braves. In each of the next three seasons he averaged at least 30 points and 12 rebounds. McAdoo was an All-American at every level of play, starting in high school, and then at Vincennes JC, where he was a member of the JUCO national championship team in 1970. He also received All-America honors while playing at the University of North Carolina, where he helped guide the Tar Heels to a Final Four appearance. He was recently honored at UNC as part of a halftime ceremony where a banner was hung at the Smith Center honoring UNC's eight Hall of Fame members. McAdoo also played for the United States in the 1971 Pan American Games.

This past summer he took part in the Basketball without Borders program in Singapore which uses sport to create a positive social change in areas of education, health and wellness. He also participated in the Basketball without Borders program in Beijing during the summer of 2009 and the NBA Legends Tour to South Africa in 1993, which included a goodwill tour with NBA Commissioner David Stern and other players to promote the NBA. Besides his accomplishments on the court, McAdoo was the basketball technical advisor for the 1993 motion picture The Air Up There, starring Kevin Bacon. For his musical exploits on the alto saxophone, McAdoo was selected as a member of the North Carolina All-State High School band team. Rounding out his high school career, he was also the North Carolina High School high jump champion as a senior.

McAdoo and his wife, Patrizia, reside in Miami with their children Russell, Rasheeda, and Ryan. McAdoo's eldest son Robert III and daughter Rita live in New York, while their other son, Ross, also lives in Miami.

KEITH ASKINS

ASSISTANT COACH

The 2010-11 season marks the 11th year that Keith Askins is a full-time assistant coach on the Miami HEAT coaching staff. Askins joined the coaching staff under Pat Riley as a volunteer assistant halfway through the 1999-00 season and was promoted to full-time status the following season. Askins, who served as an advance scout for the HEAT for two seasons (2000-02), works extensively with the HEAT's forwards. His primary duties include the development of Miami's players both during the season and in the off-season. He also is responsible for analyzing the strengths and weaknesses of opposing players.

Askins enjoyed a productive nine-year NBA career, one spent entirely with the HEAT organization. He still ranks among Miami's all-time leaders in games played (fourth), three-point field goals made (eighth), three-point field goals attempted (ninth), offensive rebounds (11th), total rebounds (12th), steals (13th), defensive rebounds (13th), blocked shots (13th), minutes (14th) and three-point field goal percentage (tied-17th). He also owns the 10th best single-season three-point field goal percentage mark in franchise history, connecting on a career-high 41.8 percent of his attempts during the 1995-96 campaign. Known for his aggressive play and long range shooting, Askins served as a captain for the HEAT for four straight seasons from 1995-99 and captured the team's Leadership Award in both the 1994-95 and 1995-96 seasons.

Askins is also a former participant in the HEAT's TeamUp program, which prompted kids to become involved in community service, and was one of the team's most active community spokespersons during his career. In his free time, he enjoys golf, cigars, dominoes, backcountry fishing and growing orchids.

A graduate of the University of Alabama, Askins resides in Miami Lakes.

RON ROTHSTEIN

ASSISTANT COACH

With a resume highlighted by over 40 years in the game, Ron Rothstein brings a wealth of experience and knowledge as he continues in his third stint with the HEAT organization. The 2010-11 season marked Rothstein's 31st season of involvement in professional basketball. Beginning as a regional scout in 1979, Rothstein has served as a head coach twice in the NBA, an assistant coach with five different franchises, as a regional scout with three teams and also spent one season as an NBA television analyst. During his 23 years on an NBA bench, his teams have captured an NBA title, six divisional championships, made 15 postseason appearances, highlighted by five Eastern Conference Finals appearances, two Eastern Conference championships and two NBA Finals appearances.

The 2010-11 season marked Rothstein's seventh as an assistant coach with Miami, but his ties to the HEAT organization are deep-rooted. He became the club's first head coach on July 12, 1988 and guided the HEAT through its start-up and first three seasons, increasing the team's victory total each year. He also served as general manager and head coach of the WNBA's Miami SOL during its three-year history. He returned to the HEAT following one season as an assistant coach for the Indiana Pacers. Additionally, he stepped in as acting head coach during the 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08 seasons while Pat Riley underwent and recovered from hip replacement surgery and when Riley scouted collegiate tournaments.

After his tenure as the HEAT's first head coach, Rothstein spent two seasons with the Detroit Pistons, first as color commentator for radio and television broadcasts and a Western Conference scout, then as the club's head coach for the 1992-93 season. In 1993, Rothstein became an assistant coach with the Cleveland Cavaliers under Mike Fratello, where he spent six seasons before making his return to South Florida to guide the SOL.

Rothstein began his NBA career in 1979 as the Northeastern regional scout for the Atlanta Hawks. In 1982, he moved to a similar position with the New York Knicks before becoming an assistant coach with the Hawks in 1983. After spending three seasons on the Hawks bench, Rothstein joined the Detroit Pistons coaching staff as an assistant in the summer of 1986.

Prior to joining the pro ranks, Rothstein enjoyed a successful coaching career at the college and high school level. He served as an assistant coach at Upsala College in New Jersey from 1974-75 and was selected the Westchester County Coach of the Year in 1979 while at Eastchester High School in New York.

Rothstein was a three-year starter on the University of Rhode Island basketball team and captain of the 1963-64 squad that finished 19-7 and tied Connecticut for the conference championship. After graduating from URI in 1964, Rothstein earned a master's degree from Hunter College in New York. He was inducted into the University of Rhode Island Athletic Hall of Fame in 1989 and in 2010 he received the Ram Legend award from URI. Additionally, he was inducted into the Miami Sports Hall of Champions in 2005 and the Westchester County (NY) Sports Hall of Fame in 2010.

TEAM NOTES

NBA PLAYOFFS: The HEAT clinched its 15th postseason berth in franchise history, including their seventh in the last eight seasons. That also marks as Miami's 13th postseason appearance over the last 16 years, the most postseason berths over that span in the entire Eastern Conference, and the third-most in the NBA. Only the Los Angeles Lakers and San Antonio Spurs have more, both with 15.

MAKING HISTORY: After clinching a playoff berth on 3/10, the HEAT became the first team in NBA history to make the playoffs in three consecutive seasons, all under HEAT Head Coach Erik Spoelstra, after winning 15-or-fewer games. The HEAT finished the 2007-08 campaign with a 15-67 record and is now making their third consecutive postseason appearance after posting a 43-39 record in 2008-09, a 47-35 record in 2009-10 and then a 58-24 record in 2010-11. Additionally, the San Diego Rockets are the only other team in NBA history to ever make the playoffs after winning only 15-or-fewer games the previous season. The Rockets recorded a 15-67 record in 1967-68 and then made the postseason the following year after recording a 37-45 record in 1968-69, however, they failed to make the playoffs in 1969-70. HEAT President Pat Riley was a member of those San Diego Rocket teams.

CLINCHER: With the HEAT's win on 3/10 vs. LAL, Miami clinched a playoff berth with 17 games left in the season, the earliest the HEAT ever set the mark. Below are the team's clinching dates and how many games remained in the season when they clinched a playoff berth:

He recorded a franchise-high 23 points in the first quarter, a high for a first quarter this year and second highest total for any quarter; topped only by his 24-point third quarter at CLE on 12/2. The previous first quarter high was 21, set by Alonzo Mourning vs. WAS on 3/29/96. It is one point shy of the HEAT record for any quarter (Wade twice and James once have had 24+ point quarters as a member of the HEAT). He also began the game shooting 11-for-11 from the field, marking his best start to a game and surpassing his previous best of 10-for-10 at CHI on 4/11/08.
