FIFTH THIRD BANK BALLPARK

The Kane County Cougars, in conjunction with Fifth Third Bank, announced a five-year sponsorship agreement last December that has renamed Elfstrom Stadium. Philip B. Elfstrom Stadium, as it was originally named when opening as the home of the Cougars in 1991, is now officially known as Fifth Third Bank Ballpark.

As part of the renaming process, the Kane County Events Center has been renamed as the Philip B. Elfstrom Events Center to honor the man who was instrumental in bringing minor league baseball to Kane County. Elfstrom, the former Kane County Forest Preserve president and Chairman of the Kane County Board, is regarded as a baseball visionary for building a minor league baseball stadium in the shadows of two Major League clubs and bringing Class-A baseball more than 20 years ago to the western suburbs of Chicago.

“We’re thrilled to announce our multi-year partnership with Fifth Third Bank,” said Curtis Haug, Kane County Cougars General Manager. “This commitment will allow the Cougars organization to keep our brand of family entertainment affordable in the years to come.”

“As we have enjoyed a substantial presence throughout Kane County and its neighboring communities, we are excited to partner our brand with the Kane County Cougars,” said Robert A. Sullivan, President & CEO, Fifth Third Bank (Chicago). “In 2011, Fifth Third Bank celebrated 10 years in the Chicagoland area and opportunities such as this allow us to further deepen our roots, and demonstrate our commitment as a strong community partner and the one bank people most value and trust.”

SEASON SUMMARY

The 2011 Kane County Cougars season marked the beginning of a new era. As the organization entered its 21st season, 2011 was the first time since 2003 that the Cougars had changed parent clubs. They ended an eight-year run with the Oakland Athletics to become the new Class A affiliate of the Kansas City Royals, who months prior had been named as having the No. 1 farm system in baseball. That impressive depth of talent certainly found its way onto the Cougars' roster during the season, as the club rebounded from a slow start in April and built a 2nd Half surge that led to a playoff berth and an eventual appearance in the Midwest League Division Championship Series. It was the seventh time in nine seasons the Cougars made the playoffs, and they were led by a core of young players who blossomed as the season went along. In the stands, the Cougars eclipsed the 9 million mark in all-time attendance and hosted six crowds of 10,000-plus fans. All in all, the 2011 season continued the trend of what Cougars baseball has become – on-field success combined with family entertainment for the folks in the stands.

Unlike many older teams the Cougars had during their Oakland affiliation, the Cougars' 2011 Opening Day roster was filled with younger, more inexperienced players as the Royals' reign began. So, not surprisingly, the Cougars got off to a slow start in the win column. They went 8-15 in April and lost three key players to injury. Outfielder Brett Eibner, who entered the season as the No. 10 prospect in the Royals system, had a very eventful start to the campaign. On Opening Night in Appleton, Wisc., in his first professional at-bat, he belted a long solo home run to give the Cougars their first run of the year. The Cougars lost the game, 9-3, but won the next night, 7-6, thanks to Eibner's heroics. In the bottom of the seventh inning, with the Cougars leading by a run, Eibner made a game-saving diving catch to end the frame and preserve the lead. While the Cougars held on for victory, Eibner suffered a left thumb injury that required surgery and he missed the next two months. Less than 48 hours into their season, the Cougars had lost one of their primary offensive weapons to injury. Several days later, the team lost a pair of starting pitchers. Neither left-hander Crawford Simmons nor right-hander Keaton Hayenga made it through April, as both suffered season-ending arm injuries. The Cougars did, however, find some reasons to cheer in the season's first month. Their first home win came in walk-off fashion on April 14 against Quad Cities, as infielder Yowill Espinal poked a single in the bottom of the 10th inning to score Gerard Hall and ignite an on-field celebration. The final was 1-0, as Leondy Perez, Nick Wooley and Chase Boruff combined on a three-hitter. That was one of four walk-off wins the Cougars enjoyed in '11, three of which came against the eventual league-champion River Bandits. The Cougars also pounded Clinton, 10-3, on April 23 when seven different players drove in a run and Leonel Santiago tossed six innings of one-run ball for the win.

After a frustrating April, the Cougars' tide started to turn in May as the team went 15-14 in a month filled with highlights. One big reason for the improvement stemmed from an influx of young, talented players who didn't start the year with the team due to injury, inexperience or cold Midwest weather. On May 14 the Cougars added 19-year-old Yordano Ventura, a flame-throwing right-hander who routinely hit 100 miles per hour on the radar gun and totaled 88 strikeouts in 84 1/3 innings over the course of the season. Three days later, 19-year-old right-hander Jason Adam arrived and immediately became a force in the starting rotation. In just his second professional outing, he limited the Beloit Snappers to three hits over eight shutout innings on May 22. That was the first of 10 outings during which Adam allowed one earned run or none, but it was not the best outing by a Cougar in May. Four days before Adam's masterpiece, the Cougars made history. On May 18 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, right-handers Sugar Ray Marimon and Chas Byrne combined on a no-hitter against the Kernels. Marimon struck out seven over 7 2/3 innings and retired the final 17 batters he faced. Then Byrne notched the final four outs in consecutive fashion, culminating with a strikeout that started a celebratory Cougars mob scene on the mound. It was the seventh no-hitter in Cougars history and the team's first nine-inning no-no since 2003.

SEASON SUMMARY

Two days after the no-hitter, more Cougars reinforcements were on their way. On May 20, 18-year-old third baseman Cheslor Cuthbert and 21-year-old first baseman Jake Kuebler joined the Cougars for their game in Beloit, which turned out to be a 13-inning marathon resulting in a 4-3 Cougars win. Cuthbert launched a two-run homer in his first at-bat the next night, a 6-5 win. After Adam's gem the next day, Cuthbert was at it again. The Cougars trailed, 5-3, in the eighth when the teenage prospect nailed a homer. Then the Cougars rallied for four runs in the ninth, highlighted by Cuthbert's two-run triple, and beat the Snappers, 8-5, for a four-game sweep of the series. Cuthbert batted .328 through the month of July before fatigue settled in, and he belted eight home runs to go with 51 RBIs and stellar defense at the "hot corner." Kuebler was a staple in the lineup at first base and appeared in 92 games over the course of the season. Before the end of the month, one more teenager – 19-year-old shortstop Orlando Calixte – hopped on the bus just in time to make his Cougars debut in a major league stadium. On May 26, a cold, damp night, the Cougars battled Quad Cities, a Cardinals affiliate, at Busch Stadium in St. Louis. It was the third time in four seasons the Cougars played a regular-season Midwest League game in a big league park, and this time they won. They defeated the Bandits, 3-2, thanks to six innings of shutout work from Santiago, who posted his eighth straight quality start. Outfielder Geulin Beltre, who led the Cougars with 122 games played, went 3-for-4 with a pair of RBI doubles, and Boruff, a reliable late-inning reliever all season, nailed down his first save of the year. From May 17-30, the Cougars won 10 of 13 games, a stretch that included a no-hitter, the addition of four teenagers to the roster that remained with the team the rest of the way, and a win in a major league stadium.

The Cougars cooled off as the Midwest League all-star break approached and ultimately were eliminated from a 1st Half playoff berth. They did have five players named as all-stars, including right-hander Greg Billo, who had gone back-and-forth between the rotation and bullpen. Billo's mid-season ERA was 1.66, and he was in the process of becoming one of the most dominant pitchers in the minor leagues. Marimon, fresh off the no-hitter, was also named but did not participate. He had begun to experience shoulder issues by the all-star break and never pitched in a 2nd Half game. Santiago and Boruff were able to appear in the mid-summer classic, as Boruff had gone 4-1 with a 1.45 ERA in 20 appearances and Santiago had posted 10 quality starts in 14 tries. Shortstop Gerard Hall was the lone Cougars position player selected, but he was promoted by the Royals to High-A Wilmington right before the break.

Despite a poor start to the month of June, the Cougars had plenty of reason for optimism as the 2nd Half began. Not only did the standings reset to give the team a fresh start, but a couple of key offensive weapons returned from injury. Eibner returned on June 8 for his first action since the second game of the year, and outfielder Brian Fletcher, who missed about a month with a hamstring injury, was activated from the disabled list on June 14.

He'd gotten hurt running the bases on May 10 in a game that saw him go 4-for-4 with four RBIs. With Eibner, Fletcher, Cuthbert in the middle of the lineup along with Kuebler and the always-steady Ryan Stovall, the Cougars' offense took off. The team opened the 2nd Half with a 5-0 record, setting a franchise record for the most consecutive wins to commence a 2nd Half. Eibner, Fletcher and Stovall all homered on June 24 in the first game of the half, a 6-2 win in Peoria. The following night was one of the Cougars' longest, most memorable of the season. In an 11-5 win against the Chiefs that included three different rain delays and 5 hours, 24 minutes of "action," Fletcher went 3-for-3 with a pair of two-run homers and seven RBIs. On June 30, the Cougars had a roster move that swapped offense for pitching. Stovall was promoted to Wilmington after hitting .307 with eight homers and 31 RBIs in 57 games, and right-hander Nick Rogers was added to the roster from rookie-level Burlington. Rogers (9 saves) eventually shared closing duties with Byrne (9) and Boruff (7), a trio that combined to go 25-for-29 in save opportunities. As the 2nd Half continued, the bullpen also included key additions such as Jason Mitchell, Alex Rivers and Allen Caldwell. By mid-July, the Cougars were in 1st place in the Western Division with a 13-5 record, thanks in large part to a surging offense that had hit 25 home runs in 18 games in the 2nd Half after hitting just 31 in 69 games in the 1st Half.

The Cougars ended up with a 15-13 record in July, and two of the highlights in the month were "extra" special, as the Cougars rallied on consecutive nights to beat West Michigan in extra innings in Grand Rapids. On July 20, the Cougars won a 15-inning marathon, 7-6, after tying the game in the ninth. Caldwell baffled the Whitecaps with five shutout relief innings for the win, and Rogers picked up his third save. The next day, just as the Cougars were finishing their pre-game batting practice session, word quickly spread that the Cougars' and Whitecaps' parent clubs – the Royals and Tigers, respectively – had hooked up in a trade that involved a Whitecaps player. Moments later, hard-throwing young left-hander Antonio Cruz appeared in the Cougars' clubhouse to meet his new teammates, having walked perhaps the shortest distance a player has ever traveled to complete a trade. That night, the Cougars erupted in the ninth inning again to stun the Whitecaps. Calixte went 4-for-5 with four RBIs, including the game-winner in the 10th inning that propelled the Cougars to another extra-inning 7-6 win. Though the Cougars failed to get the sweep in the finale, Cruz tossed 2 1/3 shutout relief innings with three strikeouts against his former team. As a Cougar, Cruz went 1-0 with a 1.80 ERA in 11 games, posting 39 strikeouts in 30 innings. The Cougars' statistical leaders in July were the same two who led the team nearly the entire season. Fletcher hit .366 for the month with a .432 on-base percentage. Nine of his 33 multi-hit games for the year came in July. Meanwhile Billo dominated on the mound, going 3-1 with a 1.19 ERA in six starts. He yielded just five earned runs in 37 2/3 innings. On July 25 in South Bend, Billo was perfect through five innings and ended up ceding two runs over 7 2/3 innings for a victory that kept the Cougars in sole possession of first place in the Western Division.

Billo's gem in Indiana wasn't the only time he flirted with some history. On May 13 at home against Peoria he took a no-hitter into the sixth inning, part of a run of 20 consecutive scoreless innings from May 8-27. Billo also was perfect through 5 2/3 innings on August 10 against Peoria, a 6-0 final score that moved the ace to 9-2 with a 1.40 ERA for the season. By the end of the year, Billo had logged 27 games of work, and he gave up less than two earned runs in 19 of them. Eventually the Royals named him the Cougars' Pitcher of the Year, and Fletcher took home the organization's award for Cougars Player of the Year. As the Cougars approached mid-August, they were clinging to a slim lead atop the Western Division. From August 21-28, though, they lost seven of eight games and traded places with the Clinton LumberKings, who also were enjoying a great 2nd Half after a disappointing 1st Half. As the Cougars headed to Cedar Rapids on August 31 to start their final road series of the regular season, they were one victory away from clinching a playoff spot. That night they ended the suspense, thanks to brilliant starting pitching from Mitchell, who had been with the team for about a month at that point and had spent most of his time in the bullpen. The former Texas-Arlington standout tossed 5 2/3 innings of shutout ball against the Kernels, taking his scoreless streak to 21 1/3 innings in a row. The Cougars won the game, 4-3, a fitting margin for a club that led the Midwest League in total one-run wins (26-15) and winning percentage in such games (.634).

The Cougars, in the post-season for the 13th time in 21 years as a franchise, met up in the opening round with the Burlington Bees, who dominated the Western Division in the 1st Half (45-25) but had tailed off in the 2nd Half (31-37). The Cougars gave the ball to Billo at home in Game 1, and the ace of the staff did not disappoint. He put up seven innings of three-hit shutout ball with seven strikeouts in a 4-0 Cougars win. Beltre, Fletcher and Calixte each drove in a run late in the game to lead the offense. The Bees took Game 2, 5-1, in Iowa, as Angel Franco's third-inning homer was all the offense the Cougars could total, which set the stage for a series-deciding Game 3 in Burlington. The Cougars never trailed in a 3-2 win. Fletcher and Eibner drilled run-scoring extra-base hits in the fourth, and Franco tripled home speedster Jovan Pickett in the fifth to make it 3-0. Adam yielded two unearned runs over 5 2/3 innings for the win, and Rivers, Rogers and Boruff combined for 3 1/3 innings of scoreless relief to send the Cougars to the Division Championship round against Quad Cities. The Cougars met their match in a 7-0 Game 1 defeat at home, as the River Bandits' Trevor Rosenthal notched a complete-game shutout. Facing a must-win situation in Game 2 on the road, the Cougars got off to a good start. Catcher Kevin David, who joined the team in early July, cracked a solo homer in the second, and the Cougars added three more in the fifth on a two-run triple by Kuebler and a sacrifice fly Espinal. Meanwhile Mitchell had silenced the Bandits on the mound, giving up just one earned run over eight innings with nine strikeouts. The Cougars entered the bottom of the ninth with a 5-2 lead, three outs from forcing a Game 3 with Billo the would-be starter. As if a switch were flipped, the Bandits rallied for four runs off Boruff and Cruz, three of which came on a series-ending walk-off home run by Nick Longmire that immediately sent a shocked Cougars team into the off-season. Despite the heart-breaking, abrupt ending to a playoff run that would not include an appearance in the League Championship Series, the Cougars can look at their 2011 season as a success. Fletcher finished as the league leader in slugging percentage (.560), and Billo finished third in all of the minor leagues in ERA (1.93) and was named to the Midwest League Post-Season All-Star Team. He was one of five players who spent the entire season on the Cougars' active roster, along with Boruff, Perez, Espinal and Beltre. A young, inexperienced team that dealt with several early-season injuries found a way to dramatically improve their record in the 2nd Half while continually adding exciting prospects from their parent club's No. 1-rated farm system. The Cougars look to 2012 with great anticipation, ready to continue a winning tradition on and off the field.

YEAR IN REVIEW

With snow on the ground and spring training still at a disheartening distance, Cougars staff warmed the souls of baseball fans with a “Meet the Royals” event in February. Fans were treated to a buffet dinner, talk of the upcoming season, and most importantly, an introduction to the franchise’s new Major League affiliate: the Kansas City Royals. Royals front office staff such as J.J. Picollo and Scott Sharp, along with new Cougars manager Vance Wilson spoke to fans and whetted the appetite for Opening Day.

Anticipation was high as April neared. Baseball America tabbed the Royals as the top farm system in Major League Baseball, and the Cougars’ Opening Day roster reflected the praise as several top prospects began the season in Geneva.

Home games in April and May welcomed children who participated in Ozzie’s Reading Club. Students who participated in the program earned a free ticket and joined their families for an on-field parade.

By mid to late-May, the countdown to summer was on and a fun-filled Memorial Day weekend included post-game fireworks shows, special entertainment and scout campouts. The month of May also christened the start of “Sunday Fundays” at the ballpark. Attending a Cougars game has always been a circus atmosphere, but select Sunday games included free kids entertainment such as balloon artists, face painters, craft stations and more.

History was made on May 18 when Cougars pitchers Sugar Ray Marimon and Chas Byrne combined for a nine-inning no-hitter in Cedar Rapids. The duo twirled the seventh “no-no” in franchise history and the first nine-inning Cougars no-hitter since 2003.

Eight days later, the Cougars took part in an unforgettable experience: playing a regular season game at Busch Stadium against the Quad Cities River Bandits, a St. Louis Cardinals farm team. The game, billed as “future Royals” versus “future Cardinals”, resulted in a 3-2 Cougars win. It was the third time in four seasons that Kane County took part in a regular season game at a big league ballpark. Months later, that stadium was site of one of the most historic postseason contests in baseball history, a pulsating Game 6 comeback win by the Cardinals.

The first of five former Cougars to make his major league debut in 2011 was Jemile Weeks. A member of the '08 Kane County squad, Weeks broke in with Oakland on June 7 and by season’s end, he was in the discussion for American League Rookie of the Year. Weeks finished the season with the second-highest batting average and second-most triples among rookies in A’s franchise history.

The Cougars were unable to clinch a first half playoff spot, but several individual honors were awarded as pitchers Greg Billo, Chase Boruff and Leonel Santiago participated in the Midwest League All-Star Game on June 21. Billo, a native of Chicago’s southwest suburbs, firmly established himself as the Cougars’ ace as the season wore on. Gerard Hall and Sugar Ray Marimon were also selected, but did not participate in the game.

At the big league level, several Cougars alumni were named to the Major League Baseball All-Star Game: Adrian Gonzalez, Miguel Cabrera and Josh Beckett. Andre Ethier was named to the squad as well. As evidence of the franchise’s reputation of developing future big league talent, 2011 marked the 15th straight season in which at least one former Cougar has been part of the MLB All-Star Game, dating back to 1997.

As the summer continued, the Cougars’ fan experience was enhanced by a series of special theme nights that paid homage to Harry Potter, Superheroes, Christmas and Star Wars, among others. The Veeck Family "Night of 100 Promotions" on August 11 was one of the highlights from the 2011 promotional season. Cougars staff successfully executed a total of 100 promotions taking place before, during and after the game. Special guests of the evening included baseball executive Roland Hemond, sports promotions visionary Mike Veeck and former Chicago White Sox organist Nancy Faust. Each guest was presented with a Cougars jersey, threw a ceremonial first pitch, and interacted with the crowd. The promotional night was nominated for several post-season awards by Minor League Baseball.

Postseason baseball occurred at Kane County for the 13th time in 21 seasons as the team clinched a playoff berth on August 31. Ironically enough, the Cougars opposed Burlington in the first round. The two teams had essentially swapped affiliations during the off-season, and with former Cougars manager Aaron Nieckula now managing the Bees, the script was written for an entertaining opening round series. The Cougars eventually sent the Bees packing with a satisfying road win during a critical Game 3. Kane County's second round opponent, Quad Cities, put an end to the Cougars' season on September 11 with a walk-off win in Davenport and eventually claimed the Midwest League title.

With the conclusion of the Cougars' season, baseball news involving former Cougars continued into October as seven of the eight major league teams featured a former Cougar player or broadcaster. No single Cougars alum made quite an impact in the MLB playoffs than Texas Rangers outfielder Nelson Cruz. Cruz was named American League Championship Series MVP after hitting a postseason-record six home runs in the Rangers' LCS win over Detroit. The previous record of five home runs was shared by several players, including Reggie Jackson.

Also in October, Cougars assistant General Manager Curtis Haug was promoted to the head GM post. Haug began with the Cougars in 1993 and has been instrumental in leading the Cougars to 18 straight seasons of 400,000 or more fans.

By the start of November, the Cougars had finalized their 2012 schedule, inclusive of game times, promotions, entertainment and more and in early December, eager fans arrived in the early morning hours as single-game tickets for the 2012 season officially went on sale.

Around that time, the Royals and Cougars announced the 2012 Kane County field staff. Manager Brian Buchanan, after leading the Royals' Rookie-Advanced squad in Idaho Falls for the past two seasons, was promoted to the managerial post at Kane County. Buchanan's staff in 2012 also includes returning pitching coach Jim Brower, along with hitting coach Julio Bruno.

Just days before Christmas, the Cougars, in conjunction with Fifth Third Bank, announced a five-year sponsorship agreement that renamed Elfstrom Stadium. Philip B. Elfstrom Stadium, as it was originally named when opening as the home of the Cougars in 1991, is now officially known as Fifth Third Bank Ballpark.

As part of the renaming process, the Kane County Events Center was officially renamed as the Philip B. Elfstrom Events Center to honor the man who was instrumental in bringing minor league baseball to Kane County. Elfstrom, the former Kane County Forest Preserve President and Chairman of the Kane County Board, is regarded as a baseball visionary for building a minor league baseball stadium in the shadows of two Major League clubs and bringing Class-A baseball more than 20 years ago to the western suburbs of Chicago.

ROYALS OVERVIEW

The Royals began their existence in Kansas City as part of Major League Baseball's decision to expand the league in 1969. That year, the team finished with the best record among the four new teams and was led by Rookie of the Year Lou Piniella. The club reached the ALCS four times in a five-year period (1976, '77, '78 and '80), made their first World Series appearance in 1980 and in 1985, celebrated their first World Series title over the Cardinals.

The young and relatively inexperienced roster gained a little more of the latter last season, but still finished 20 games under .500 at 71-91. The 2012 Royals squad will feature some cornerstone players who have progressed well throughout the system and into the City of Fountains. Infielders such as Eric Hosmer, Mike Moustakas and Johnny Giavotella were big league regulars for the first time in their youthful careers, and that experience should help this season. Expect a big season from Hosmer, who batted near .300 with 19 homers and 78 RBI. Royals fans will be hoping for a strong campaign from Moustakas, who wasn't as consistent as Hosmer last season offensively but still has strong upside. Catcher Salvador Perez certainly turned heads late season as well, batting .331. The Royals saw big things from outfielder Alex Gordon last season. Can that continue? He batted over .300 with a slugging percentage that was north of .500.

The concern for the Royals in 2012 will be their rotation, which will likely include both Luke Hochevar and Aaron Crow, an All-Star reliever last season. Hochevar could be the Royals' Opening Day starter, and his second half body of work last season was impressive enough (6-3, 3.52 ERA). Still, no Royals starter pitched 200 innings in 2011. Keep close tabs on Felipe Paulino, who was picked up from the Colorado Rockies last spring. The latter innings will likely be filled by new acquisition Jonathan Broxton, as closer Joakim Soria has been lost for the season due to an arm injury.

The eyes of Royals fans will be on several storylines this season, including the development of a youthful team with a great deal of talent. Fans will also be fixated on this year's Major League All-Star Game, which will be hosted by Kansas City this July.

But there's no doubt that fans will be keeping a close eye on Bubba Starling. The fifth overall pick in last year's draft, many draft experts agree that Starling was the best athlete on the board. Starling turned down a football scholarship from the University of Nebraska to sign with the Royals as the signing deadline loomed.

MEDICAL GLOSSARY

Abrasion: A wearing away of the upper layer of skin as a result of applied friction force.

Anterior Cruciate Ligament (ACL): A ligament in the knee that crosses from the underside of the femur (the thigh bone) to the top of the tibia (the bigger bone in the lower leg).

Arthroscopy: A surgical technique whereby a tube-like instrument is inserted into a joint to inspect, diagnose and repair tissues. Bone spur-bony projections that form along joints; can cause pain if it presses on other bones or tissues.

Cartilage: Firm, rubbery tissue that cushions bones at joints.

Concussion: A traumatic injury to tissues of the body such as the brain as a result of a violent blow, shaking, or spinning.

Contusion: Caused when blood vessels are damaged or broken as the result of a blow to the skin. Commonly referred to as a bruise.

Dislocation: Complete displacement of joint surfaces. External Oblique Muscle-situated on the lateral and anterior parts of the abdomen; allows the trunk to twist.

Hamstring: Category of muscle that runs from the buttocks to the knee along the back of the thigh.

Hip flexor: A group of skeletal muscles that act to flex the femur i.e. to pull the knee upward.

Inflammation: A basic way in which the body reacts to infection, irritation or other injury, the key feature being redness, warmth, swelling and pain.

Labrum: Cartilage located in the shoulder joint.

Ligament: A tough band of connective tissue that connects various structures such as two bones.

Laceration: Type of injury in which the skin is torn, cut or punctured.

Rotator Cuff: A group of four tendons that stabilize the shoulder joint.

Sprain: An injury to a ligament that results from overuse or trauma. Sprains occur when there is a stretch or tear in one or more ligaments, slightly elastic bands of tissue that keep the bones in place while permitting movement at a joint.

Tendonitis: Inflammation of a tendon (the tissue by which muscle attaches to bone). Most commonly occurs as a result of injury, such as to the tendons around the shoulder or elbow.

Ulnar Collateral Ligament: A thick triangular band consisting of two portions, an anterior and posterior united by a thinner intermediate portion. (this is the ligament commonly replaced during "Tommy John" surgery).

GROUND RULES

- 1. Behind home plate: If ball lodges between the screen and the top of the padding, or lodges underneath the gate directly behind home plate, it is dead.
- 2. Dugouts/Pit Areas: A ball bouncing off the metal steps or railing at the end of the dugouts is live. A ball lodging under the metal steps at the ends of the dugout is dead. A ball bouncing off the face of the dugout roof is dead. Players may carry the ball into, but cannot throw from the dugout or pits. The pit areas to the outfield sides of the dugouts are dead. A ball hitting the concrete facing at the end of the pit areas and bouncing back into play is live. If a thrown or deflected ball strikes the fence in front of either dugout but does not enter the dugout, the ball remains in play. If a thrown or deflected ball becomes wedged under the fence, the ball becomes dead. If a thrown or deflected ball enters the dugout (any area inside of the fence in front of the dugout), the ball becomes dead. The front façade of the dugout shall be considered within the dugout for the purpose of this rule. Defensive players may reach over the fence but may not elevate themselves on the fence or step inside of the fence line in order to make a play.
- 3. Tarp: If the ball lodges underneath the tarp, it is dead. Players may lean on the tarp to make a catch, but cannot elevate themselves on the tarp to make a catch.
- 4. Bullpens: Balls hit into the bullpens are in play. If the ball lodges underneath a sandbag or bench, it is dead. If the ball strikes the metal railing above the concrete wall on the first or third base side of the field and bounces back into play, it is live.
- 5. Outfield: The ball must be hit over the distance markers to be a home run.
- 6. Left field: The scoreboard is recessed and any batted ball striking it is dead (HR or 2 base hit). The deck is recessed and any batted ball that hits any part of the deck in fair territory is dead (HR or 2 base hit). The recessed portion of the deck is marked by a yellow line that is beyond the field of play.
- 7. Center field: If the ball becomes lodged under the gate in center field, or goes through a gap in the gate on a fly or bounce, it is dead. The hitting background is recessed and any batted ball that hits any part of it is dead (HR or 2 base hit). The deck is recessed and any batted ball that hits any part of it is dead (HR or 2 base hit). The recessed portion of the deck is marked by a yellow line that is beyond the field of play.
- 8. Right field: The deck is recessed and any batted ball that hits any part of the deck in fair territory is dead (HR or 2 base hit). The recessed portion of the deck is marked by a yellow line that is beyond the field of play.
