HIGH POINT ROCKERS NEWS AND NOTES

Closer by the Inning: The High Point Rockers had the bases loaded with two outs down by two against the Honey Hunters last night before Robby Scott struck out Jared Mitchell on a 3-2 pitch to close the book on a 4-2 Gastonia victory in game two of the three game series. Ricky Knapp kept Gastonia in check through his five innings, allowing just one run on four hits, but back-to-back home runs from Josh Sale and Miles Williams in the sixth extended the lead to 4-0. The Rockers crawled back in the seventh and eighth with J.R. DiSarcina's first career HR and the first HR of the year from Stuart Levy. The win was the first of the year at Truist Point for the Honey Hunters and snapped a two game losing streak for Gastonia.

One Hit Away: Last night saw the Rockers go 0-7 with runners in scoring position, including stranding seven of their 12 runners in scoring position. The hitless night dropped the Rockers to now 1-23 with runners in scoring position over their last three games. The team has scored just eight runs over the last three games and have left 17 on in scoring position.

This is What You Came for: Last night saw the Rockers go deep in the seventh and eighth innings, bringing their total to seven homers to the season. So far, only Logan Morrison has multiple home runs on the Rockers, as J.R. DiSarcina, Stuart Levy, Cesar Trejo and C.J. Farias each have one.

Starters.. Just Like Fire: Last night was the second straight night that a Rockers pitcher allowed less than two runs in a start, bringing the rotation's ERA to 0.84 in the series. Starters have allowed just one run in 10.2 IP in the last two games, allowing seven hits, walking nine and striking out six.

When We Were Young: In 2021, the average age of a Rockers home run hitter is just 26 years old, with Logan Morrison (33 y/o) being the only player above 30 to hit a home-run for High Point. Since 2015, the average age of the Atlantic League has been 28 years old.

See You Again: Today will be the final meeting between the Honey Hunters and the Rockers in June. They'll play each other 10 times in the month of July, including a four game series over July 4th weekend at CaroMont Health Park in Gastonia. In total the two teams will combine to play 25 times in 2021.

Baseball by the Ocean: After today, the Rockers embark on a six-game road trip next week that will see them take on the Long Island Ducks and West Virginia Power for the first time in 2021. They'll visit the Ducks for the first time since the Liberty Division Championship Series in 2019, where the Ducks swept the Rockers 3-0. Long Island is currently second in the North Division, and is the defending Atlantic League Champion, having defeated the Sugar Land Skeeters in the 2019 Atlantic League Championship Series three games to two.
