A MAJOR DEVELOPMENT

When the New York Yankees announced they recalled outfielder Estevan Florial to their Major League roster on May 27th, he became the first Patriots player to get called up to the Major League level as a part of the team's new affiliation.

"I'm very happy to see Florial get called up to the big leagues," said Patriots manager Julio Mosquera. "He has been working to get better each and every day. It's good to see him get the opportunity. He's got an amazing talent."

Florial looked the part, starting in center field in game 2 of that evening's double header. He showed off many reasons he is so highly regarded by the organization, including a hard-hit double in his last at bat.

The Yankees No. 10 prospect (Baseball America) started the 2021 season in Somerset. He hit .229 with four home runs and six RBI through 10 games.

Three of his four home runs led off the ballgame in the bottom of the first inning, including his solo shot in the first inning on May 4th against Harrisburg.

It marked the first hit and first home run for the Patriots as a Double-A affiliate of the Yankees.

Florial made his major league debut during the Yankees shortened 2020 season. He played in game one of a doubleheader against the Mets that season.

The Dominican Republic native hit .176 with two home runs and three RBI across eight games in Scranton prior to his call up.

"He's going to go out there and compete," Mosquera added. "He's going to give you the best he can, and something that 'Flo' has is that he's got a lot of power."

Florial's power from the left side will be welcomed in the right-handed heavy Yankees lineup. Yankees manager Aaron Boone has expressed his excitement about the outfielder calling him a "five-tool prospect" who can be a force on both sides of the ball.

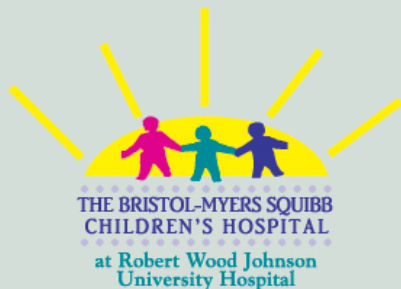

In addition, Florial becomes the 22nd player in Patriots history to go to MLB after time in Somerset. 21 big leaguers had their contracts purchased while the team was a member of the Atlantic League.

LAST SERIES RECAP

The Patriots were able to take this week's series from the New Hampshire Fisher Cats 3-2 with the help of solid pitching and offensive force. Somerset now leads the Northeast Division with a 16-7 record.

Matt Pita led the offense as he managed a .307 average with five RBI and two doubles. Additionally, the Patriots knocked a handful of long balls to power through past the Cats. Over the five games, Michael Beltre (3) and Isiah Gilliam (1) both hit solo home runs, Oswaldo Cabrera (3) had a two-run shot and Dermis Garcia blasted his team-leading seventh trip around the bases.

Every Patriot who stepped up to the plate pushed a run across to contribute to the 25 total runs that the team scored.

OF Michael Beltre hit .313 with three runs scored, two runs scored, two home runs, and two RBI in the series against the River Cats from 5/25 – 5/30

The headline of the series was the appearance of two-time All-Star reliever Zack Britton. On his rehabilitation assignment back from elbow surgery, the lefty tossed one inning on 18 pitches.

Janson Junk started the series with four scoreless innings and seven strikeouts. He was relieved by JP Sears, who collected his season-high eight strikeouts over 4.2 innings of work. Luis Gil continued his dominance as he allowed one run on two hits with eight strikeouts. Gil is currently handling a 1.69 ERA with 36 strikeouts over five appearances. Michael Gomez collected his third win of the season after Matt Krook threw five strikeouts over three innings.

WORKING HIS WAY BACK

Zack Britton is rehabbing in Somerset this week.

WORKING HIS WAY BACK

Zack Britton began his journey back to the Bronx on Sunday, May 29th in Somerset. The two-time All-Star left-handed reliever had arthroscopic surgery to repair a bone chip in his left elbow during Spring Training.

Britton became the first Major Leaguer in franchise history to join the Patriots on a rehab assignment.

He faced four batters in a scoreless first inning against the New Hampshire Fisher Cats. Britton allowed an infield single and got three groundouts with a total of 18 pitches thrown (10 for strikes).

During a postgame Zoom interview with media, Britton said he was encouraged with how he felt despite the cold and rainy conditions.

On 7/24/18, the Baltimore Orioles traded LHP Zack Britton to the New York Yankees for RHP Cody Carroll, RHP Dillon Tate and LHP Josh Rogers.

“Overall, it was pretty good. Obviously not sharp where I want to be, but very similar to where I’d be in a first outing in spring training,” said Britton. “My arm feels good, and I was excited to get out there. Today was really just getting used to everything, so I look forward to polishing my pitches up as I move forward.”

Britton broke into the big leagues as a starting pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles in 2011 and continued in his starting role through 2013. He then transitioned into the bullpen, and posted a 1.65 ERA over 71 appearances with 37 saves in 2014.

The southpaw was selected as an American League All-Star in both 2015 and 2016. In that 2016 season, Britton went 2-1 with a 0.54 ERA (4 ER over 67.0 IP) and led the American League in saves (47) and games finished (63). He finished fourth in the AL Cy Young Award voting with five first-place votes and 11th in the league’s MVP voting.

WORKING HIS WAY BACK

Britton was traded to the Yankees prior to the 2018 trade deadline and has a combined 5-3 record with a 2.14 ERA, 90 strikeouts and 14 saves in three seasons in the Bronx. That included eight saves as the team's primary closer in the COVID-shortened 2020 season.

"I was excited to get out there, with fans," said Britton, who was put on the 60-day injured list on March 31. "I haven't pitched in front of fans all year, so just getting used to everything, being on the mound, facing a different jersey, things like that. I look forward to polishing up all of my pitches as I move forward in rehab."

Britton spoke about his focus during the rehab being arm speed, velocity, the command of his sinker, and getting back into MLB game shape.

"I feel like there is room in there for me to throw harder and getting my body in the right place to do that," he added. "I think when I was younger I was trying to throw as hard as I can at all times; now I understand that getting a feel for your delivery is more important than throwing hard at this stage for me."

A FIGHTIN' PREVIEW

Matt Vierling

The Reading Fightin' Phils (4-19) will come to TD Bank Ballpark to play the red-hot Somerset Patriots (16-7).

The Patriots are going to look to continue their offensive dominance they've shown throughout the season. Between the long ball and being able to string together hits, the pinstripes' offense should handle the Phils' pitching well. Michael Beltre and Dermis Garcia are continuing to rake in runs and lead the offense to wins.

The Phils offense doesn't have the same consistency that the Patriots have shown. Centerfielder Matt Vierling leads most of the offensive stats for the team. Given that the Patriots continue to play the way they have these past few weeks, he should not come as a huge challenge for the club.

Patriots' pitchers have continued to show dominance in their starts. In their recent series against the Fisher Cats, they have giving up only three runs over the course of the series.

Janson Junk will be coming off of one of his best starts where he went four innings with no runs and seven strikeouts. Luis Gil has also fallen into a groove as he threw six innings and allowed one run on two hits with another eight strikeout night.

In contrast, Phils starters gave up 18 runs in their last series. Zach Warren has held a 2.92 ERA through his 12 innings of relief this year. Ethan Lindow, a left-handed reliever has tallied 20 strikeouts over 15.2 innings of work.

However, the Patriots offense should be able to handle the staff well enough. The team's collective ERA is a 6.76 with opponents swinging a .275 against them. Pair this against the red-hot Patriot bats, and this series should fall in favor of the pinstripes.

LEADING PATRIOTS

Lou Gehrig Day will take place at TD Bank Ballpark on Wednesday, June 2nd.

Lou Gehrig Day will now be recognized throughout Major League Baseball on the date. The Hall of Fame first baseman joins fellow baseball legends Jackie Robinson and Roberto Clemente as the only players to have their legacies celebrated annually with league-wide days.

June 2nd was specifically chosen as it marks the date Gehrig became the Yankees starting first baseman and began his legendary streak of consecutive games played, as well as the day he passed from complications of Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), otherwise known as Lou Gehrig's disease.

As part of the event, the Patriots will be hosting an online DASH Auction of vintage themed jerseys to look like the ones worn by Gehrig during his playing days. The proceeds will benefit the ALS Association Greater New York Chapter. The auction will begin at 12:00 pm on June 2nd and run through Sunday, June 6th at 9:00 pm.

The Patriots, will host an appearance by actor Kelsey Grammer at the Sunday, June 6th game at TD Bank Ballpark.

The Cheers and Frasier star will be at the game to promote two beers from his Faith American Brewing Company that are poured at the ballpark. Grammer founded the brewery in 2015.

The Patriots will be serving Faith American Ale and Faith American Calico Man IPA throughout the remainder of the 2021 season.

In addition to throwing out the ceremonial first pitch of the game, Grammer will be stationed behind the first base concession stand to greet fans from 12:00 pm to 12:30 pm.
