Game No. 33 • Road Game No. 17 • Haley Toyota Field • Thursday, May 9, 2019 • 7:05 p.m.

BLUE ROCKS BREAKDOWN

HOME: 8-8 | AWAY: 11-5 | STREAK: L1 | LAST 5: 4-1 | LAST 10: 7-3

ALL GOOD THINGS MUST END: The Salem Red Sox raced out to a sizeable early advantage and never looked back on their way to a 6-1 win over the Wilmington Blue Rocks on Wednesday at Haley Toyota Field. Salem scored two in the first inning and added three more in the second against Blue Crew starter Daniel Lynch. The loss ended Wilmington's four-game winning streak.

TOP OF THE STANDINGS TO YOU: Wilmington has been in first place for over two-thirds of the 2019 season—22 of the campaign's first 32 days.

OFFENSE TRYING TO GET GOING: Despite spending two-thirds of the season atop the Carolina League North standings, the Wilmington offense continues to be a work in progress this season. The Rocks managed just two hits in Wednesday's loss. It was the 13th time this year Wilmington has managed five knocks or fewer in a contest. The Rocks also went hitless with runners in scoring position and have just nine total hits with men at second and/or third base in their last nine games. Overall the Blue Crew attack is last in the Carolina League with a collective .199 batting average. Wilmington is also last in the loop in on-base percentage, runs, hits and extra-base knocks.

PLENTY OF CLOSE CALLS: The Blue Crew have excelled in close games this season. Wilmington leads the Carolina League with 15 contests decided by a single score in 2019. The Rocks are an impressive 12-3 in those close calls.

ROAD WARRIORS: The Rocks have had far more success on the road this season, going 11-5 outside of the First State as opposed to just 8-8 at home. The Blue Crew offense has been much more potent away from the friendly confines of Frawley Stadium, scoring 29 more runs in away affairs. Eleven of the Blue Crew's 12 homers have come on the road and Wilmington has not hit a home run in its home ballpark since Opening Night—a string of 15 consecutive contests.

DEFENSIVE MISGIVINGS: The Rocks turned in a clean defensive slate on Wednesday. Wilmington's defense has really struggled in 2019. The Rocks committed three more errors on Tuesday and are last in the Carolina League with 51 total errors as a team. The club has committed at least three errors in eight different contests, multiple defensive miscues in 14 games and one in all but seven.

UNBALANCED SCHEDULE: Wilmington has had an odd schedule to start the 2019 season. Wilmington opened the campaign with a series against Salem and then played 17 consecutive games against CL South opponents. The Rocks went 9-8 during that stretch. The Blue Crew are now in the midst of playing 24 out of 27 against the CL North. Wilmington is 10-3 so far during this string of the slate and 8-5 vs. the CL North.

PROSPECT-LADEN ROSTER FOR THE ROCKS: The 2019 Wilmington Blue Rocks roster features six of the Kansas City Royals' top seven prospects and 11 of the organization's top 27 according to MLB.com. The team also has three first round picks from the 2018 Draft alone in their starting rotation.

Tomorrow's Starter for the Blue Crew

Jackson Kowar will make his seventh start as a Blue Rock. The 33rd overall pick in the 2018 Draft out of the University of Florida signed with the Royals for $2.14 million last summer. The righty entered 2019 as the seventh-ranked prospect in the Royals system. He spent his first professional season at Low-A Lexington where he helped the Legends win a South Atlantic League Championship. Kowar went 0-1 with a 3.42 ERA in nine total regular season starts, but posted a 1.06 ERA and a scant .125 batting average against over his final five outings, and then earned victories in both of his playoff starts.

TODAY'S BLUE ROCKS STARTING PITCHER

#26 RHP Brady Singer

Acquired: First-Round Pick (18th overall) in 2018 Draft

Born: Eustis, FL

Age: 22 (August 4, 1996)

Resides: Leesburg, FL

Ht: 6'5 Wt: 195

College: Florida

Bats/Throws: R/R

Pitch Repertoire: 4FB, 2FB, SL, CH

THE BOOK ON BRADY SINGER: Brady Singer will make his seventh start of the season for the Blue Rocks and the seventh of his professional career. Singer was the Royals' first of three first-round picks (No. 18 overall) in last June's draft. The University of Florida product chose the college route over signing with the Toronto Blue Jays, who originally drafted him in the second round out of high school in 2015. The patience paid off when Singer signed for $4.25 million with the Royals last summer. Singer won a national championship with the Gators in 2017 and then earned the Dick Howser Award last year despite pitching through a nagging hamstring injury.

LAST TIME OUT: Singer turned in his second consecutive win, beating Carolina last week. The righty allowed two runs on three hits while fanning seven and walking just one in five frames.

VERSUS OPPONENT: Singer made his pro debut against the Red Sox on April 6, yielding two runs on three hits in 5.1 frames of a tough-luck loss. Both of the runs scored before Singer had recorded his first out.

QUITE THE COLLEGE CAREER: Singer accomplished about everything a college pitcher possibly could during his junior season at Florida. He was named SEC Pitcher of the Year after leading the conference in wins and ERA. He won the Dick Howser Trophy--an award given annually to the nation's top college baseball player. He was also one of four finalists for the Golden Spikes Award, joining: Casey Mize (first overall pick), Kody Clemens (79th) and Andrew Vaughn and was named Baseball America College Baseball Player of the Year-- becoming the fourth player drafted by the Royals to earn the honor (Wil Myers--2012, Alex Gordon--2006 and Tom Gordon--1988).

FIRST-ROUND TRIO BUILDING A BOND: Last June, the Kansas City front office spent more than $8 million on three college pitchers among the first 34 picks of the draft, selecting Singer 18th, Jackson Kowar 33rd and Daniel Lynch at No. 34. Fortunately for the Royals, the trio gets along great. Singer and Kowar lived together for three years at the University of Florida. Lynch and Kowar roomed together last season in Lexington, and all three got an apartment together this season in Wilmington. "We understand that we're all in this thing kind of together," Lynch says. "The Royals have done a great job of expressing that to us. It's not about who's going to be the ace, it's about being teammates, having success as a team and about us moving up together."

HYPER-COMPETITIVE: Singer is a bulldog of a competitor. He lives for it. In fact, teammate Jackson Kowar calls him the most competitive person he's ever met. The best example came on national television last season. Singer was on the mound for the Gators in Game Three of the NCAA Super Regionals against Wake Forest when it started to rain. Singer stared up at the sky and unleashed a torrent of raw emotion directed at Mother Nature for interrupting such a critical moment. A teammate had to come and walk him from the mound back to the dugout. This spring Royals assistant general manager J.J. Picollo told The Athletic how much he and the Royals loved to see that side of Singer on such a big stage. "It's why he had the success he had and why he stood out so much," Picollo said. "It's an intensity that he has under control, too." Picollo also told The Athletic it wasn't just the national stage that Singer wants to take. The Royals removed him from an intrasquad game this spring after he took a comebacker off the leg. It was out of an abundance of caution, but as Picollo put it, he was none too pleased about not being able to finish the inning.

WHAT A CHRISTMAS GIFT: Most everyone loves their parents, but few have put a value on how much their Mom and Dad's love meant better than Singer. This past Christmas Singer posted an emotional video on his twitter account where he provided his parents with an incredibly generous gift. In a letter which his mom read out loud, Singer wrote: "Thank you for everything you've done to help me reach my dreams. There's absolutely no way I could have done all this by myself. Both of you constantly took off of work and spent every dime you made just to put a smile on my face. My smile and appreciation for both of you has never stopped and it never will." After reading how he could never repay them, Singer's mother went into stunned silence as she read the line that was Singer's gift to them: paying off a loan from the bank and their debt. The letter wrapped up with this line from Singer: "Your giving hearts helped to shape my tiny dream into a reality," Singer wrote in the letter's conclusion." Singer said he didn't expect the gesture it did, but he made the gift public because: "I wanted kids to see you should help the people that got you here. I didn't get here by myself. My parents did so much for me. I want to do anything I can to help them."

They said it: On when he became a switch hitter: "It was a year before I signed with the Royals. I actually learned really quickly. I started thinking about it when I was 13 years old. Then I did it during my tryouts when I was 14 and 15 years old before the Royals signed me at 16. I'm originally a right-hander. It's not easy though. You want to be good on both sides of the plate, but some games you are going to feel better as a right-hander than left-hander and then it switches. So when I'm in the cages, I have to split my batting practice rounds to make sure I stay balanced working on each side." On outgoing personality: "That's helped me a lot with my game. Trying to stay relaxed, smiling and enjoying the game. Everyone can see that on and off the field. I always like to talk in the dugout, joke with my teammates. If you take the game too seriously, it becomes no fun anymore." On signing with the Royals: "When I signed, in my mind, I knew I was young, but to sign for that money, it just made me so happy. I knew I could help my family and I worked very hard to make it and just very proud of that moment and happy I can support my family."

It was five years before I came back.” (On culture shock moving to U.S.)... In the Dominican Leagues you are just in the complexes that they have 24/7. Here, in the United States, we go to hotels, we can walk to different places, go to dinner and it was different and it was a bit of a shock at first.” (On winning Carlos Fortuna Award)... I knew Carlos Fortuna and he was a great person. The organization recognized me and how I am like him in some ways and that meant a lot to me.”

They said it: (On getting to Advanced-A)...Lexington was a good experience for me but it's good to get out of Lexington and try to test myself with higher competition. I think it's going be good for me to have some fresh faces and some new environments to challenge myself in.” (On dealing with injuries and finally staying healthy last year)...“Especially at the beginning of my career, I had some injuries to both hamstrings and my groin. But what you learn from those injuries and those events is how to take care of your body better and I could say that's something that I'm really proud of. The way I was able to be on the field consistently last year.”...(On defensive change)... It's been very easy to move from the infield to the outfield. I was a little nervous moving back to the infield, but it turned out that it was just fine. You don't really forget how to do things now. Now I can just move around and help the team wherever it takes. It helps keep the game more fun and not as monotonous, so it definitely helps me out.

Hicklen said it: (On bouncing all over the place last season)..."Last year was an extended roller coaster for sure, starting off in extended spring training basically being really disappointed with that. Then I went to Lexington starting off really slow there and then kind of catching fire there for a couple months, and then having the opportunity to move up to Wilmington was really really special. Got up here, really had a good time, started playing well with the guys and then I got called into the office unexpectedly and was told that Seuly (Matias) got hurt in Lexington and that I was going to have to go back for the playoffs. Originally I was pretty upset, but I had to look through it with a different lens and just try to change my perspective. That's one of the biggest lessons I learned last year and in life was that it's all about what lens you look through. So I took that approach and made the most of my opportunity in Lexington. I went down there and felt like I contributed a lot to the team. I felt like I was a leader on the team, and at the end of the day we were able win a championship, which is what you set out to do at the beginning of every year you play this game."

- Was named Surprise Royals Player of the Year

Martin said it: (On his goals at the plate)..."I really just want to get on base and keep my on-base percentage high. I know my teammates will do their job and drive me in. As long as I get on, I can do my job steal second or third, or even if I don't steal a base, I can get in the pitcher's head and get him to maybe make a mistake. I know these guys can drive me in from first base...(On his great success at stealing bases)..."We really worked on it at Spring Training. We harp on keying on what certain pitchers do, studying them and the game so it should help me during the season. It was a process that we really embraced last year. The prep means I might notice that a pitcher has a quick pickoff move, but he's slow to home. So things like that help me. Stealing bases is what I have to do." (On player he tries to emulate)..."A guy I look at now is Mookie Betts. He doesn't strikeout a lot, he can steal bases, he's not the biggest guy and he plays hard every day." (On dealing with injuries the past several seasons)..."Three years ago I broke my hamate bone and that was in Spring Training. That was pretty frustrating because I couldn't get a chance to go to a full-season club and show what I could do. I overcame that and then (in 2017), I suffered the face injury when I ran into Gabriel Cancel, our second baseman--which cost me a huge chunk. Then last year it was just nagging stuff that started early and just lingered. I was having decent years, but there's nothing you can do about it but continue to work hard and put yourself in position to take advantage of opportunities."

- Reached base safely in 41 of his 47G

Melendez said it: (On being a catcher)...I definitely take a lot of pride in catching just because I'm not only catching for myself but also for the pitchers. I have to be able to call a good game, be able to frame pitches that are borderline, be able to block balls. I want my pitchers to have confidence in me and trust in me to be able to throw breaking ball with two strikes and know that I'm going to be able to block it. I do think that defense comes first but it's a balance. I don't think hitting should be very far behind." (On his relationship with fellow catching prospect Silberto Rivero)...It's been amazing working together, we have a great relationship. On and off the field. I think on the field when one of us are struggling a little bit whether it's with the bat, were able to help each other out, give each other advice. If one of us is doing good in that category, be able to like pick each other back up, and just give each other advice and kind of boost each other's confidence when we may not have it. And then when we're both doing well, just trying to piggyback on that and make sure that we can keep that flowing for as long as possible." (On passing up the chance to play for his Dad at FIU)... "It was definitely a tough decision. I grew up watching my dad's teams play all my life and have never been to the College World Series Super Regional. So that's something that I wanted to do. I wanted to go play for him, not only for myself, but also for him. I wanted to bring that bring back the College World Series title to wherever he's coaching if I knew at that at that particular moment, and so it was definitely a tough decision. But my dad and my family supported me."

- Led the team in homers and RBI and was 2nd in hits

They said it: (On his first year of full-season ball)...I think overall it was a good year offensively. There were some areas I can work on like consistency and cutting down on the strikeouts, but I made progress. The biggest thing was getting used to full-season ball, all the ups and downs you go through. You have to ride the wave. It was a long year, but having guys like MJ [Melendez] and Seuly [Matias]...we all just built off each other. It was a fantastic team." (On Making a Playoff Run last year in Lexington)... That was my first taste of the playoffs. Obviously, you put expectations in your head, but it lived up to it and was a lot of fun." (On his defense)...I had to work on my throwing a little bit, on throws to second and to first. I changed my arm slot mid-year, and it really didn't help me out. So we went back to how I normally do it. Naturally, I'm in a lower slot, a little more sidearm. I've always been fine in terms of accuracy, but the infielders were complaining that my throws moved too much [like a two-seam fastball]. But I went back to my normal slot and everything is fine. I think what I'm best at is picking balls in the dirt, and my agility around the bag. Picking balls and saving bad throws is huge." (On Who He Admires in Game) I really like Joey Votto's offensive approach at the plate. It's just solid. He gets the walks. He has the average, the on-base percentage, the slugging percentage. He doesn't strike out too much. That's what I'd like to be offensively.

He is injured this year, but I had the pleasure to play with him last spring training in the Big League camp. He told me a lot of tips and was go (generous) with his time. It was really an amazing experience. I had a bunch of fun. He's a funny guy. I laughed a lot with him and I tried to ask a lot of questions to him, and that helped me. I appreciate him as a person and as a catcher." (On his relationship with fellow catcher MJ Melendez)... "We have a pretty good communication with each other and we push each other. If he went bad one day I'll step up for him and he does the same for me, so we just really help each other" (On working with a pitching staff full of prospects)... It's pretty fun working (with these prospect pitchers) because these guys know what they're doing and what they want to throw and why." (On how he can become a better hitter)... My (biggest thing) is to be ahead in the count. They said it: On working with Melendez and Rivero "Yes, the three of us are definitely together the most. Want to pick their brain because they have been in pro ball obviously longer than me, so always trying to learn and get their advice is something I want to make sure I continue to do to become a better catcher." On making jump from college to professional baseball last season: "It's the same ball game as college pretty much. The game is a little faster, the pitchers throw harder and you definitely have to adjust to it but it felt pretty easy to me." On type of catcher he is: "I would say I am more of a defensive minded catcher, but my offense has improved over the last year I'd say. I've been working on my weaknesses offensively, staying through the ball more, using the opposite field more and that's helped me a lot and also get more flexible. I look forward to helping this team in any way I can." On being born in Curacao: "I originally moved to the United States in the fall of 2014 and I went to high school for one year here then went to North Central Missouri College and then transferred to Jackson State University and graduated last year. I earned my bachelor's degree in Business Administration and signed with the Royals not too long after." On life in Curacao: Picture bright, clear water where you can see through. Beautiful beaches, great people, very welcoming, kind and loving. It's a multi-cultural island so there are people from everywhere. Everyone can speak three to four different languages so I would definitely recommend visiting if they are looking for a nice spot." On speaking multiple languages: "I can speak English, Spanish, Dutch and my native language Papiamentu." On how he got involved with baseball: "At first I tried to play soccer, but it was too much running. So I told my mom I didn't want to play anymore. I went to try out for a brand new team and it was club baseball, we don't play college baseball like we do in the states. So the coaches asked who wanted to be a catcher and I raised my hand and that's how it all started." Favorite Player was Andrew Jones: "Growing up, Andrew Jones was the player I looked up to the most. He's a hometown hero and the career he had was really fun to watch. After him, we had a couple of different players, but he is one of the big names for us back home."
