STANDING TALL In the blueclaws outfield

Carlos De La Cruz is his name. But despite his basketball front-court size, officially listed at 6-foot-8, 210 pounds, baseball has always been his game. If the basketball coaches where he attended George Washington High School in Manhattan gazed adoringly at his frame, it was an unrequited love.

With De La Cruz' father, Carlos, and an uncle and cousin having played professional baseball at various levels, there was never a question as to the sport of choice for Lakewood's 19-year old outfielder. De La Cruz' dad spent three years in the Detroit system making it as high as Double-A in 1995. "Baseball has been in my family background," the younger De La Cruz said. "All of us just loved baseball."

De La Cruz went undrafted after his senior year in high school in 2017, and then while playing in a New York summer league for the New York Nine committed to Clarendon Junior College in Texas. But almost simultaneously he said he heard from the Phillies. It was his only professional offer. "It wasn't about the money," he said. "I was trying to get the fastest way to pro ball so I took the deal." "Baseball has been in my family background," the younger De La Cruz said. "All of us just loved baseball."

De La Cruz' professional career began with a bang in 2018 in the rookie-laden Gulf Coast League where he batted .284 with six home runs and 21 RBI over 43 games and 148 at bats. In 2019 the Phillies opted to skip him past the short- season New York-Penn League to the South Atlantic League where he has found the higher level pitching more difficult.

De La Cruz batted .205 in April. In May and June he averaged in the .230's finishing the first half at .233 with on home run and 17 RBI. He tagged a game-tying two-run double in a May 26 win against Kannapolis, had two hits including his first home run in a May 6 win vs. Rome, and tripled home a run in a June 5 win vs. Hagerstown. Over a 20-game stretch May 16-June 7 De La Cruz went on a .295 clip (21-for-71).

"This season has been fun," he said. "There are ups and downs," he said. "You learn how to go through a season through your failures, the adjustments you need to make, and the experience you get." De La Cruz has played all three outfield positions. "In the corners it's pretty easy," he said. "In center, you have to be the captain of the outfield, you have to take charge, know where to play, where to back up, the different angles you have to take."

For Lakewood manager Mike Miccuci, a player like De La Cruz is what low Class A baseball is all about. "You're looking at the skill set that he has," Micucci said. "The tools that he has, the ability to impact the baseball, play multiple positions in the outfield, the plus throwing arm. So you look at that, the age that he's at, the level he's at, it's what you're looking for at the lower levels."

Despite growing up 15 minutes from Yankee Stadium De La Cruz wants to make it perfectly clear that he "was never a Yankee fan." As a matter of fact his favorite team has always been the Boston Red Sox. "We're all Red Sox fans," he said. "You'd be surprised how many Boston fans there are in in New York. They're still my favorite American League team, no doubt."

De La Cruz said he's looking forward to later this season when Lakewood hosts Boston's Sally League affiliate, the Greenville Drive in a four-game series, July 26-29. "It would be sort of fun," he said. "It's a team you grew up liking and now you're playing them."

De La Cruz' size can benefit him defensively. In a late June game at First Energy Park he reached against the eight-foot high left field fence to snag a drive that would have cleared the glove of just about any other outfielder. The play prevented at least an extra base hit if not possibly a home run. But height does not always make right in baseball, especially at the plate. "He's got long limbs, a big strike zone," Miccuci said. "It's not easy being that tall. There are some challenges to that."

According to HeroSports.com, the tallest Major Leaguer so far has been 6-foot-11 Jon Rauch who pitched for several Big League teams including the New York Mets in 2012 and was one inch taller than 6-10 Hall of Famer Randy Johnson. The tallest ever honor could have gone to 7-foot-1 Toms River High School East ace right-hander Ryan Doherty. Doherty, who pitched the Raiders to the 2001 NJSIAA Group IV title with a 10-0 record, went on to pitch at the University of Notre Dame. He signed with Arizona as an undrafted free agent in 2005, and when he took the mound that summer for the Class A Yakima Bears he became the tallest player in the history of professional baseball according to MLB.com.

He made it as high as Advanced Class A in 2007 before being released and has since become a professional volleyball champion. If the 6-8 De La Cruz reaches the majors he would be in rarified air as far as a position player. Former 6-8 Milwaukee slugger Richie Sexson is notable at that height while 6-7 Aaron Judge of the Yankees, and 6-7 former Los Angeles Dodger power hitter and Mets manager Frank Howard are close.

For the remainder of this summer Miccuci hopes to see De La Cruz develop more consistency at the plate. "I thought he had a really good first half considering how it started out in April for him," Miccuci said. "You can see him swinging the bat better, starting to lay off the breaking ball a little bit more and recognizing pitches. He's really doing well. Again, would like to see a little bit more consistency at the plate and take charge a little in more in the outfield.""I just want to finish strong," De La Cruz said. "Just get AB's (at bats) and see what happens."

The Medusas de Lakewood have just 2 more appearances this year!

Friday, July 26th (7:05 pm) Wednesday, August 28th (7:05 pm)

Join us as we celebrate the best of Hispanic culture and heritage throughout the summer under our new identity – Medusas de Lakewood!

At each game, we'll have live music from Conjunto Hatuey and food specials from select restaurants like La Casa de la Tia, El Oaxaqueno, and Tornandez Mexicano!

Kids Run the Bases after each game too.

"We are grateful for the support from the community that we have already received and look forward to continued outreach as we build the Medusas into four special nights for the summer," said BlueClaws Team President Joe Ricciutti.

Those interested in donating tickets for underprivileged children in the area to attend their first Medusas game can email copa@blueclaws.com.

The BlueClaws involvement in Copa de la Diversion is presented by Toyota World of Lakewood

INNG

The next wave of BlueClaws ballpark enhancements comes in the form of brand-new,revamped Investors Bank Picnic Areas will be available for BlueClaws fans throughout the season.

Included with the new picnic area is an extensive redesign that will incorporate comfortable mesh swivel seats, tables and food service. The area also comes with better views of the game for fans, and new food and beverage menus as well.

The new picnic area on the third base side is perfect for business and networking opportunities.

Meanwhile, the picnic area that is located on the first base side of the stadium, near Mini Golf and Shore Town Soft Serve, is ideal for family outings and other parties.

The picnic re-design comes one year after the BlueClaws opened a brand-new Mini Golf Course in right field, the Toyota World of Lakewood Home Run Pavilion in centerfield, and the Biergarten down the line in left field.

BlueClaws Notebook Former Claws Combine on No-Hitter

After he pitched in the South Atlantic League All-Star Game on June 18th, Kyle Glogoski was promoted to Clearwater and arrived in style. The right-hander from New Zealand threw five no-hit innings and combined with fellow former BlueClaws Tyler Carr (three innings) and Keylan Killgore (one inning) on a no-hitter.

"I just kept the same approach I had at Lakewood," Glogoski said. "I went out there and stuck to the game plan. If I have to make adjustments, I guess I will have to, but I went out there and executed my pitches and good things happened."

Glogoski went 3-1 with a 1.30 ERA with the BlueClaws over eight appearances. He struck out 45 and walked just eight over 27.2 innings. From Auckland, Glogoski is trying to become the first New Zealand-born player to reach the big leagues.

Going Up

Glogoski was not the only BlueClaw sent up to Clearwater. Luke Miller, who hit .260 with three home runs in 21 games with the BlueClaws, was also sent up to Clearwater.

All told, nine players who have been with the BlueClaws have already been promoted to Hi-A Clearwater – 3B Alec Bohm, C Jack Conley, RHP Tyler Carr, RHP Colton Eastman, LHP Ethan Evanko, RHP Kyle Glogoski, IF Matt Kroon, RHP Oscar Marcelino, and IF Luke Miller.

Perfect Five

Victor Santos started his second-half the right way. The 18-year old right-hander threw five perfect innings in a game against West Virginia. For his efforts, Santos was named South Atlantic League Pitcher of the Week.

Santos turned 19 on July 12th. He was one of only 18 players to play for the BlueClaws at 18 years of age, including his teammate Luis Garcia (who will turn 19 on October 1st).
