FRONT OFFICE

League Founders

William R. Hambrecht
Founder, United Football League
Owner, Las Vegas Locomotives
Chairman & CEO, WR Hambrecht + Co

Bill Hambrecht has been in the securities business since 1958. A co-founder of Hambrecht & Quist in 1968, he resigned in December 1997 to form WR Hambrecht + Co. Mr. Hambrecht has served as a director for numerous private and public companies. He currently serves as a Director for Motorola Inc. and is on the Board of Trustees for The American University of Beirut. He also serves on the Advisory Council to The J. David Gladstone Institutes and is on the board of Majestic Research. In October, 2006, Bill was inducted to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Mr. Hambrecht graduated from Princeton University in 1957. A sports enthusiast, Mr. Hambrecht has been working towards forming an alternative league to the NFL since the mid- 1990's.

Tim Armstrong
CEO & Chairman, AOL

Tim Armstrong, CEO & Chairman of AOL, was one of the first investors in the UFL. His relationship with UFL Founder Bill Hambrecht dates back to when Armstrong presided over Google's North American advertising sales, operations and commerce teams. Armstrong joined Google from Snowball.com as that company's vice president of Sales and Strategic Partnerships. Prior to his role at Snowball.com, Armstrong served as director of Integrated Sales & Marketing at Starwave's and Disney's ABC/ESPN Internet Ventures working across the company's Internet, TV, radio, and print properties. He started his career by co-founding and running a newspaper based in Boston, MA, before joining IDG to launch their first consumer Internet magazine, I-Way. Armstrong has been named one of the top "100 People to Know" for global media by Media Magazine and was awarded a Media Maven Award by Advertising Age in 2004. He sits on the boards of the Interactive Advertising Bureau (IAB), KnowledgeStorm Inc., and the Ad Council. Armstrong is a graduate of Connecticut College with a double major in Economics and Sociology.

Board of Directors

Michael Huyghue
Commissioner

With more than two decades of experience in the professional football and sports industries, Huyghue brings expertise in the areas of legal, operations, front office management and, most recently, player representation. Huyghue started his career as a legal intern for the NFL's Players Association and was then an attorney with the NFL's Management Council in 1987, handling hundreds of arbitration hearings. At the age of 29, he became the youngest general manager in professional football when he joined the NFL World League in 1989. Huyghue then joined the Detroit Lions as Vice President and General Counsel, and was tapped as Senior Vice President of Football Operations for the Jacksonville Jaguars in the team's inaugural NFL season. During Huyghue's tenure with the Jaguars, the team became the winningest franchise in expansion history, achieving two AFC Central Division Championships and an unprecedented two AFC Championship appearances. Huyghue has served on many of the NFL Commissioner's prominent committees, including the NFL Management Council, the Executive Working Group Committee, the NFL College Advisory Committee, the NFL Europe League, and as a Trustee of the NFL Players Insurance Trust. Prior to joining the UFL, Huyghue was CEO and founder of Access Sports & Entertainment, where he represented a number of NFL, NBA and PGA TOUR players. Huyghue has twice been named to the "Forty Under 40" Top Sports Business Executives by the Sports Business Journal. Huyghue earned his undergraduate degree from Cornell University, where he starred as a football and baseball player, and earned his law degree from the University of Michigan. Huyghue currently resides in Jacksonville, FL with his wife and three children.

Henry Bienen
Chairman

Former President of Northwestern University Henry Bienen serves as Chairman of the UFL's Board of Directors. As Chairman, Mr. Bienen oversees the Board which is comprised of the team owners and UFL Commissioner Michael Huyghue. During Mr. Bienen's 14-year tenure as president of Northwestern, applications for admission nearly doubled and the number of National Merit Scholars increased substantially. Mr. Bienen is also responsible for growing sponsored research funding from $173 million to approximately $430 million. Additionally, Northwestern's endowment has more than quadrupled from $1.4 billion in 1995 to more than $5.5 billion today. Northwestern's football team also qualified for six Bowl appearances during Mr. Bienen's reign, including a 1996 trip to the Rose Bowl – a first in almost 50 years. In 2005, Mr. Bienen was one of the first three university presidents awarded the Carnegie Corporation Academic Leadership Award for innovative leadership. Mr. Bienen also serves as Chair of the Nominating & Governance Committee of the Council on Foreign Relations and a member of its executive committee as well as Chair of the Board of Ithaca Harbors, Inc. Mr. Bienen retired from his role as President on August 31st and became Vice Chairman of the Rasmussen College, Inc. Board of Directors on September 1st.

Michael Kalt
Representative of Ownership Group of Florida Tuskers
& Member of UFL Board of Directors, Senior Vice President of Development & Business Affairs, Tampa Bay Rays

As senior vice president of development and business affairs, Michael Kalt oversees business development activities for the Rays. In addition to leading the team's effort in evaluating options for a new ballpark, this includes overseeing the construction of the Rays new Spring Training home in Charlotte County, identifying other long-term revenue enhancements and developing new business lines and partnerships. Kalt came to the Rays in March of 2006 after three years as senior advisor to the New York City Deputy Mayor for Economic Development. In that capacity, he managed relations between the Mayor's Office and the city's Economic Development Corporation, coordinated area-wide planning and economic development initiatives throughout the five boroughs and oversaw the sale of city-owned land that has brought hundreds of millions of dollars in new revenue to the city and will spur over three million dollars in new construction activity. He also served as the city's point person in negotiations to construct two new Major League baseball stadiums; the first new major professional sports facilities to be constructed in new York City in almost 40 years. Prior to joining the Bloomberg Administration, Kalt was a management consultant with McKinsey and Company where he focused on addressing both strategic and operating issues for media and telecommunications firms. Kalt received his bachelor's degree in political science and urban studies from Brown University in 1996 and his juris doctorate degree from Harvard Law School in 1999.

League Executives

Frank Vuono
Chief Operating Officer, United Football League
Co-founder & Partner, 16W Marketing

Heralded as one of most influential and prominent executives in the sports marketing industry, Frank Vuono was named Chief Operating Officer of the United Football League (UFL) in November, 2007. As COO of the UFL, Vuono oversees all of the business aspects of this new professional football league including marketing, sponsorships, licensing, broadcasting, ticketing operations, venue/facility management, finances, legal affairs and public relations. Vuono's vast experience both on and off the gridiron has helped to set today's marketing standard in professional football. Having consulted for, or worked closely with, nearly half of the teams in the NFL, Vuono has negotiated record-breaking partnerships in naming rights, sponsorship, merchandising, and ticket and suite sales. Vuono was personally hired by the NFL Commissioner's office to assist the New Orleans Saints (post Hurricane Katrina) in securing over $11M in sponsorship revenue. During his tenure of Vice President of Licensing for NFL Properties (NFLP), Vuono built sales of licensing products from approximately $300 million to over $2.5 billion and launched integrated marketing programs, including NFL Pro Line, NFL Pro Shop and NFL Throwbacks. Vuono co-founded the NFL Quarterback Club, predecessor to what is now the NFL Quarterback Greats. In addition to his responsibilities as COO of the UFL, Vuono is also a co-founder and partner at 16W Marketing, LLC. Vuono directs 16W's corporate division, which boasts such clients as Cal Ripken Baseball, FieldTurf, TurnStyles Ticketing and XOS Technologies. Some highlight accomplishments include spearheading synthetic turf installation negotiations between FieldTurf & several NFL teams (Atlanta Falcons, New York Giants/Jets & St. Louis Rams); brokering the webpage hosting/creation partnership between the Arena Football League & XOS Technologies; and the sale of naming rights to Edward Jones Financial for the St. Louis Rams' Dome. Known for his creative and dynamic approach, Vuono co-founded Integrated Sports International (ISI) in 1993. As CEO & President of ISI, Vuono spearheaded programs for the San Francisco 49ers, the Cleveland Browns, Burger King, Disney's Wide World of Sports, GM's Cadillac Division and General Mills' Wheaties. ISI was acquired by SFX Entertainment in March of 1999 and Vuono was named president of SFX Sport Group's marketing division. Vuono has personally managed marketing and licensing programs for many sports and entertainment key personalities including current 16W Marketing clients Boomer Esiason and Phil Simms. For his work in the industry, Vuono has been named to The Sporting News' "Top 100 Most Influential People in Sports," and Sportstyle's "The Players" which showcases the top sports industrialists. Vuono currently sits on the Board of Directors of NFL Quarterback Greats, the Board of Trustees of the Hackensack University Medical Center & the HUMC Foundation, and on the Board of Directors of Children's Miracle Network. He is a graduate and supporter of Princeton University where he serves as an active member of the Alumni Council and Chairman of the Princeton Football Association. He and his wife Dorothy reside in Lyndhurst, New Jersey and have three daughters.

Rick Mueller
Vice President & General Manager

Rick Mueller joins the United Football League as Vice President & General Manager. The former Vice President of Player Personnel of the New Orleans Saints, Mueller spearheaded the Saints' continual efforts to build a talented, productive roster. Those duties ranged from evaluating current and future NFL free agents to studying college prospects. Mueller was responsible for all aspects of scouting and evaluations, with tasks that included supervising and coordinating the organization's college and pro scouts. His responsibilities peaked each year when running the Saints' draft room. In eight seasons in New Orleans, Mueller helped shape the club's last seven drafts and free-agent classes, which formed the foundation of a team that in 2006 captured the NFC South title and advanced to the NFC Championship Game. Mueller came to the club following a six-year stint with the Jacksonville Jaguars, where he was instrumental in its rapid rise from expansion franchise in 1995 to AFC powerhouse. In 13 NFL seasons, the teams that Mueller has helped build have compiled a record of 111-97 and earned six playoff appearances – including advancing to three conference championship games. From 1996-99, Jacksonville captured two AFC Central Division titles and played in a pair of conference championships. Mueller served as the Jaguars' Director of College Scouting in 1998-99 and was in charge of the team's initial college draft in 1999. Prior to being promoted, Mueller was Jacksonville's college scout for the Western United States. In 1993, Mueller was Director of Player Personnel and wide receivers coach for the CFL Sacramento Gold Miners. In the spring and summer of 1992, he was defensive assistant and special teams coach for the World League's Sacramento Surge. The Surge finished 8-2 and captured the World Bowl Championship. Following that season, Mueller was one of five pro scouts for the World League. Working for the Surge was Mueller's first pro assignment after his graduate assistant role at Washington State University from 1990-92 where he served as quarterbacks coach, head junior varsity coach and recruiting coordinator. A graduate of the University of Puget Sound (Wash.), Mueller was a three-year starter at quarterback. He graduated in communications in 1990 and also attended graduate school, studying communications while coaching at Washington State from 1990-92. He and his wife have twin sons and a daughter.

Matthew Couloute, Jr.
Vice President of Football Administration & Legal Affairs

Matthew Couloute Jr. is engaged in the sports and entertainment industry. A former NCAA Division III basketball player at Clark University in Worcester, Mass., he has held full time positions as a prosecutor for the state of Connecticut and at both the National Football League and the National Football League Players Association. A law school graduate, he is admitted to practice in New York and Connecticut and is now Vice President of Football Administration & Legal Affairs for the UFL. Couloute was hired as the youngest and first minority Assistant State's Attorney in Norwalk, Connecticut. He was promoted to Bridgeport Connecticut's High Court as the State's Attorney where he prosecuted major felony offenses including murders, sexual assaults, armed robberies and drug offenses. Spreading his law knowledge beyond the state of Connecticut, Couloute has appeared on Court TV as a guest commentator critiquing lawyers' performances during high profile cases and was a legal analyst for MSNBC. While serving as legal counsel for the NFL, Couloute designed and ran a proactive program focusing on educating players and coaches on league policies and off-field issues. He presented league policies and educational information at both the NFL Rookie Symposium and the National Football League Mothers Association. Couloute then moved to the other side of the gridiron where he handled player/agent grievances and player/team grievances for the NFL Players Association. He counseled prospective professional athletes regarding amateurism and turning into professionals, worked with the NCAA assisting in investigating agent misconduct and handled NFL player fine appeals. Couloute also revamped the NFLPA Agent Admission Policy, creating background check and requirement, while assisting in creation of a more difficult agent exam. In addition to his work in football law, Couloute negotiated professional boxing contracts for now middleweight titleholder Tarvis Simms and his brother Travis Simms. He has also negotiated numerous racecar driver agreements, modeling contracts and music agreements. Most recently, Couloute served as in-house counsel for an e-commerce company.

Tomas Llibre
Vice President of Information Technologies

A 17-year Information Technology professional, Tomás Llibre's vast computer knowledge and experience ranges from instructor and PC repairs to enterprise wide implementation of sophisticated information systems. Since 1999, Llibre played an integral part of the National Football League's Application Development group where he grew into a Senior Project Manager and helped implement solutions for the Football Operations, Officiating, Security and Management Council departments. In addition, Llibre created technological solutions for an officiating website, college medical, substance abuse program, Pro Bowl balloting, security case management and tracking of players' fines. One of the highlights of Llibre's NFL career is the design and implementation of the hardware architecture and enterprise search strategy behind the first Enterprise Portal rollout at the league office using Microsoft technologies. Prior to joining the NFL, Llibre worked at the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) where he quickly advanced from a Programmer Analyst to a Senior Network Administrator. He helped the Institute create solutions to track the development process of industry standards by international committees, implemented a tool to synchronize the Microsoft Exchange global address list with an enterprise CRM system and automated the rollout of Windows NT workstation to 150 users. A married father of two, Llibre received his Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science from Pontificia Universidad Católica Madre y Maestra and Master of Science in Information Systems from PACE University.

Ed Reynolds Vice President of Administration & Special Assistant to Commissioner

As Vice President of Security, Reynolds oversees all UFL security matters and is responsible for the general direction of all staff as it pertains to the administration of security for the UFL. Prior to joining the UFL, Reynolds worked for twelve seasons with the National Football League in football operations and security. As the Assistant Director of Football Operations, Reynolds developed, implemented and administered the On-field/ Pro-Line policies for all 32 teams. He was also responsible for all fines associated with On-field/ Pro-Line violations by players, coaches or team. Reynolds developed and implemented the college relations programs and the NFL high school coaches of the week programs in all 32 markets. As Security Specialist (NFL Players and Coaches), Reynolds was responsible for the 32 Commissioner mandated NFL security presentations given to all players and coaches and the video shown at all presentations. In addition, he oversaw the security for the draftees selected to attend the NFL Draft in New York City each year. Reynolds assisted in the development of NFL best practices for stadium security and worked closely with the 35 NFL security representatives to ensure use by NFL players at no cost to the players. He also produced the NFL security guide booklet for NFL players and coaches to use as a resource to better protect themselves from issues like identity theft and fraud. Reynolds began his career with the NFL as a free-agent signee with the New England Patriots in 1983. After being the last player released after training camp, he was resigned after four games and continued his career for the next eleven years. Following the 1989 season, Reynolds was named Team MVP. He also led the Patriots in tackles for three different seasons. In 1992, he signed with New York Giants for the remaining two years of his NFL playing career. While playing in the NFL, Reynolds served in the Army Reserves as an infantry officer/ weapons expert. During his fifteen year Military career, he oversaw every aspect of training for the units in the 80th Division. He handled all weapons qualifications (Day and Night fire) raising scores by 60%. He also assisted in the improvement in PT scores by 75%. He operated Range operations and handled unit security procedures. Reynolds was born in Stuttgart, Germany. A graduate of the University of Virginia, Reynolds is married with four sons.

Larry Upson Vice President of Officiating & Operations

Larry Upson joined the United Football League in November of 2007 and will serve as the Vice President of Officiating/Operations for the UFL. Upson began officiating football with the Eastern Board of Officials of Washington, DC in 1981, and worked primarily as a Line Judge. Selected to the staff of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) in 1984, Upson was chosen to work in six NCAA Division I-AA playoff games. Upson became affiliated with the World League of American Football as a Back Judge in 1991. In his first year, Upson was selected to work in the inaugural World Bowl Championship game held in London, England. In addition, in 1991, Upson joined the staff of the National Football League (NFL) as a Line Judge where he worked the 1992 and 1993 season as a Field Judge. In 1994, Upson worked his first NFL Playoff game (Chicago @ Minnesota). In 1996, he worked the AFC Championship game (Jacksonville @ New England). Upson's prowess on the field resulted in numerous promotions including the role of Supervisor of Officials for the NFL (1997). In March of 2001, Upson was promoted to Director of Officiating Operations. His responsibilities included overseeing important officiating aspects such as the evaluation of game tapes, assisting in the development of weekly training tapes and assisting in the selection process for hiring NFL officials. Upson also helped to manage training for current officials; coordinating the grading and evaluation system for officials; scouting for new hires and the rules testing program. He was also responsible for implementing the instant replay system presently employed by the NFL. Upson is the father of two, a son and a daughter, and the grandfather of four.

Rachel Gary PR Consultant

Rachel Gary first got started in sports and entertainment public relations when she realized her skills were better behind the scenes than in the swimming pool. Gary is currently overseeing the public relations efforts of the United Football League and its teams. She recently acted as a consultant to Sports Management Resources (SMR), a sports consulting firm that specializes in educational sport, and the Women's Sports Foundation (WSF), the premier women's sports organization. Gary formerly served as Senior Director of Communications-Music for Clear Channel Entertainment (CCE) where she was responsible for the publicity/marketing, implementation and event planning for the largest worldwide concert promoter and event operator. Prior to moving to CCE's Music Division, Gary worked at ISI and SFX, subsidiaries of CCE. She led the publicity efforts for the company's roster of athletes, concentrating on athletes' marketing and charitable endeavors, and assisted in the launch of Major League Lacrosse (MLL). Gary got her start in public relations serving as Assistant Media Director for the Volvo International and Pilot Pen International Tennis Tournaments in New Haven, Connecticut and in football development for NFL Properties (UK) Ltd. A graduate of Ithaca College, Gary and her husband reside in Springfield, New Jersey with their two sons.

Justin Hesterlee Director of Finance and Controller

Justin Hesterlee joins the UFL as the League's Director of Finance & Controller. For the past four years, Hesterlee served as plant controller for AB InBev, Inc (previously Anheuser-Busch) in Jacksonville, Florida and Newark, NJ. A performance-driven finance professional, Hesterlee spearheaded $50M in cost-saving initiatives that strengthened the Jacksonville plant's infrastructure, expanded its earnings and maximized its ROIs. Prior to positions with Anheuser-Busch (and InBev), Hesterlee served as a financial accountant for a $500M annual expense manufacturing facility and two $4M land application farms.

Hesterlee, a Certified Public Accountant, received his finance degree from Indiana University and his MBA from the University of Florida. He and his wife reside in Jacksonville.

Brendan Rowe Senior Director, League/Football Operations

Brendan Rowe enters his first year as the Senior Director, League Operations / Football Development for the United Football League. Rowe will oversee all the logistical operations for the League, including training camp, team travel, and game operations. He will also supervise UFL's Training Camp Facilities from a Football Operation perspective, including all staff communications and scheduling. In addition, Rowe will lend assistance to the League Office in the overall management of the Football Operations Department, working as a negotiator in player contracts and providing support for the monitoring and strategic planning of the League / Team's salary cap.

Rowe joined the League in 2009, after spending 10 years with the Cleveland Browns in various roles. He began in 1999 as a Personnel Assistant, before joining the Operations Department in 2000 as Manager, Operations. In 2005, Rowe was promoted to Director, Team Operations. In his various roles with the Browns, Rowe was the primary point person and directed the day-to-day administration and coordination of football operations and logistics, including free agency, NFL Draft weekend, mini and training camp, team travel/lodging/dining, visiting team arrival procedures at Browns Stadium, game-day operations and team catering. Additionally, he acted as a liaison across football and non-football departments.

Rowe received his Business Administration (Accounting & Sociology) degree from the University of Notre Dame in 1995. He also has completed one year of graduate study and is a Candidate for a Masters in Education – Sports Administration.

Rowe and his wife, Dina, are the proud parents of one daughter, Lily Marie.

Ralph Vuono Senior Director, Marketing

Ralph Vuono joins the United Football League as Senior Director of Marketing. Having been involved in multiple League functions such as marketing, television, consumer products, digital media, stadium operations, and public relations, Vuono has played an instrumental role in the League's overall development. He comes to the UFL from 16W Marketing where he assisted on corporate consulting initiatives including a multifaceted marketing partnership between FieldTurf and the National Football League making FieldTurf the official synthetic turf of Super Bowl 40. Vuono led the negotiations for Cal Ripken, Jr. and FieldTurf Tarkett, culminating in a press conference at MLB Winter Meetings to announce the partnership. Post-Hurricane Katrina, Vuono assisted the New Orleans Saints in securing over $11M in sponsorship revenues prior to the 2006 season. Most recently, he successfully negotiated over 15 "if win" licensing partnerships on behalf of Big Brown and IEAH Stables prior to the Belmont Stakes. A graduate of Penn State University, Vuono and his wife reside in New Jersey.

LEAGUE HISTORY

In the mid-'90s when the Los Angeles Rams moved to St. Louis and the Houston Oilers moved to Nashville, Bill Hambrecht was mystified. It was illogical that NFL teams would be leaving two of the largest and best growth markets in the country. From a marketing angle, he knew there was room for more football teams. In conversations during this same period with coaching legend Bill Walsh, Hambrecht realized that there were lots of really good football players who could not fit onto NFL rosters.

Fast forward ten years and this idea has now become a reality as the United Football League kicks off its "Premiere" season October 8, 2009. While the UFL first reached the public spotlight in an article in The New York Times Magazine on June 3, 2007, Hambrecht was years into planning his disruptive business model for a professional football league that would complement the NFL. Many, if not all, of the core tenets on which the League was conceived still remain just weeks prior to the initial kickoff. Hambrecht's model was to provide quality football at affordable prices in underserved markets and the fans will come. The average ticket price for a UFL game is $20.

Early on, Hambrecht partnered with smart business people to develop the plan and then sought top-notch football experts to execute. Hambrecht had established a relationship with former Google executive Tim Armstrong (now CEO of AOL) and together they invested the seed money to launch the League. Mark Cuban showed early support of the League and he subsequently came on board offering up his television network, HDNet, to broadcast some of the games. Hambrecht conducted his due diligence on the past failures of other professional leagues and took calculated measures not to repeat the mistakes of the past. First and foremost, Hambrecht sought out personnel who have worked in the trenches (or in this case the sidelines/front offices of the NFL) to oversee the football operations. In September of 2008, former Senior Vice President of Football Operations of the Jacksonville Jaguars Michael Huyghue was named the first Commissioner of the United Football League.

Hambrecht commented on the Commissioner's hiring, "Michael possesses the perfect combination of firsthand experience in the football industry with the strategic vision necessary to shape and launch the UFL."

Commissioner Huyghue was familiar with start-up operations having been the primary architect behind the Jaguars roster and helping the team to become the winningest franchise in expansion history. During Huyghue's tenure with the team, the Jaguars achieved two AFC Central Division Championships and an unprecedented two AFC Championship appearances.

One of the primary goals of the UFL was to be a presence in markets underserved by professional football. Commissioner Huyghue visited numerous cities, some of which had housed successful alternate league teams. After numerous meetings with investors, stadium representatives and government officials – the inaugural cities were selected.

Commissioner Huyghue was also tasked with finding top level executives with the experience needed to launch a successful football league. He also sought people who had the desire to be innovative and creative thinkers. Huyghue reached back to his NFL days and tapped former Vice President of Licensing for NFL Properties and founder of 16W Marketing, Frank Vuono, to serve as his COO. Vuono was the driving force behind the increased sales of NFL licensed products from approximately $300 million to over $2.5 billion. Having consulted for, or worked closely with, nearly half of the teams in the NFL, Vuono has negotiated record-breaking partnerships in naming rights, sponsorship, merchandising, and ticket and suite sales. Huyghue also hired Larry Upson, a former Director of Officiating for the NFL, as the UFL's Vice President of Officiating/Operations. The combined knowledge and proficiency reinforced the credibility of the League.

Furthermore, Commissioner Huyghue began conversations with top level coaches and players about the overall premise of the League. Most experts concurred that there was an abundance of talented players and coaches currently sitting on the sidelines. What would prove to be most challenging is finding the right owners who had the financial portfolio to withstand early year losses which is inevitable in start-up leagues.

Casa Grande Training Facility Groundbreaking

The initial plan was to launch the UFL in the Fall of 2008. While many debate the merits of playing at the same time as the NFL and college football, the research clearly indicates that is where fans are most interested in watching football and attending games. However, what Bill Hambrecht and Commissioner Huyghue did not anticipate is the impending recession and what some may consider the collapse of Wall Street. While some initial investors were no longer viable candidates, the delay allowed the League to focus on those investors who were fiscally sound. It also reinforced the overall premise of the League which is to provide quality sports entertainment at affordable prices during a time when fans were seeking less expensive leisure time activities.

The national spotlight shined on the UFL when the League announced that it has partnered with the city of Casa Grande, Arizona to create a state-of-the-art training complex. Skepticism continued on the League's overall success until a March 11, 2009 press conference when the UFL formally announced its "Premiere" season and its four initial coaches. At a press conference in San Francisco, Ted Cottrell, Jim Fassel, Dennis Green and Jim Haslett were introduced as the coaches of the New York, Las Vegas, San Francisco and Orlando teams, respectively. There would be additional games in Hartford and Los Angeles. It was also announced that eight of the games would be broadcast live in HD on VERSUS and the Championship Game would be held Thanksgiving weekend in Las Vegas.

The news cycle continued for the UFL as the League announced partnerships with two standout companies in the creation of a new logo and updated web presence. To help establish the UFL's identity, the League worked with Landor Associates, one of the world's leading strategic brand and design consultancies. In addition, the UFL hired award-winning professional services agency, Lightmaker, Inc., to create a top-notch interactive web destination, www.ufl-football.com, for the fans that will enable them to feel part of the football action. The UFL also launched a "Name The Team" campaign via the website where fans could submit recommendations.

The strength of the product of the field was bolstered with the announcement of seasoned assistant coaches and with the hiring of former New Orleans Saints executive Rick Mueller as Vice President and General Manager. Mueller is serving as GM to all four teams as well as overseeing all aspects of scouting and player acquisition for the League. The financial backing of the League was strengthened with an infusion of $30 million dollars and the announcements of Paul Pelosi and William E. Mayer as owners of the California and New York teams, respectively. The UFL also announced the Tampa Bay Rays as the primary investor in the Florida franchise and that one of the franchise's games would be held at Tropicana Field. Former Northwestern University President Henry Bienen was named Chair of the Board of Directors.

In an effort to make the UFL games innovative, modern and accessible to the fans, the UFL's Competition Committee, led by Chair Dennis Green, announced game enhancements and rule modifications. At the same time, the League took careful measures in ensuring that the overall integrity and competitiveness of the game not be comprised. Some of the rule enhancements included:

- The deletion of the "Tuck" rule which makes a loose ball a fumble if the passer loses possession of the ball as he is putting it away after completion of the forward pass motion.
- A fumble into and out of the end zone returns the ball to the spot of the fumble when not recovered in the end zone – making it consistent with other fumble rules.
- The Quarterback can legally ground the football if inside or outside the pocket area while under duress.
- Tasteful individual and/or group celebrations are permitted ONLY in end zone and bench area.
- Instant Replay rulings will be made by the Replay Official in the Replay Booth rather than the on-field referee. Review time will be 90 seconds rather than 60 seconds.
- During overtime/sudden-death, both teams will have an opportunity to possess the football during the allotted 15 minutes. Sudden-death rules apply after both teams have had an opportunity to possess the football.
- Approved television cameras will be allowed in the locker rooms for the first four minutes of halftime.
- Head Coaches will be wired for sound for television broadcasts (no sideline discussions will be aired). Cameras and microphones in the bench area will be allowed during the game to capture real-time emotional moments.
- TV audience will hear coach to quarterback communications on tape-delayed basis.

In July of 2009, the UFL announced a partnership with GameWear Team Sports as the League's Official Supplier of Uniforms and Practicewear. For the "Premiere" season, award-winning designer Ron Caruso of Purepartner created all the teams' uniforms using derivatives of the official League logo for all the designs while making each one distinctive. The uniforms were officially unveiled at a series of local press conferences which also introduced the team names. Team names were selected after the review of more than thirty thousand fan entries and interpretation from industry experts and an in-house creative team on what attributes the fans were seeking with their submissions. It was also important to the League to choose names that best reflected the local community and could define the personality of the team.

Meet the UFL “Premiere” Season teams:

Las Vegas Locomotives

Las Vegas was originally established in 1905 with the opening of the Salt Lake, San Pedro and Los Angeles Railroads. The League selected the Locomotives, or Locos, in reverence of the vast history of the city and the intrinsic benefits that this innovation provided to the community.

California Redwoods

The Redwoods, large, strong trees native to California, symbolize many traits that the UFL and the California franchise plan to embody. The Redwoods and the UFL are reaching for the stars and are eco-friendly. The team name also possesses attributes that signify strength, respect for the environment and suggest growth opportunities.

Florida Tuskers

The Tusker is a nickname for the American Wild Boar, which roams the state of Florida. Tuskers are fierce, smart, athletic and powerful – growing up to 600 pounds and they have large tusks which they use to fight predators. The UFL also introduced Major League Baseball’s Tampa Bay Rays as the primary investor in the Florida team and that one of the games would be played at Tropicana Field.

New York Sentinels

When selecting a name for the New York franchise, the UFL wanted to pay homage to the individuals who protect New York City including the NYPD, FDNY, the Port Authority and so many other dedicated organizations who bravely watch over the city.

Also in July, the UFL announced the signing of its first player. Former NFL first-round draft pick JP Losman was named quarterback to the Las Vegas franchise. In an in-depth interview with ESPN.com, Losman commented about his playing in the UFL, “I’m looking at my career over the long haul. OK, this is where I’m at in five years. But I look at it like, ‘Where do I want to be after a 10-year, 11-year career?’ There are some things I feel I want to work on that I need to work on, and this league gives me an opportunity to do that and to work with somebody [Coach Fassel] who’s had a lot of success in the NFL.”

Additional player signings continued throughout the coming weeks, highlighted by several invitation-only workouts and open tryouts. In Orlando, more than 1,200 hopefuls lined the sidewalks surrounding the Citrus Bowl in hopes of being given one more opportunity to compete on the gridiron of dreams. The pool of players eventually signed to the training camp rosters included former NFL first-round draft picks, Pro Bowl players and college standouts.

Venue selections for each of the franchises were also narrowed down over the summer with a combination of collegiate, professional football and baseball stadiums announced. In its “Premiere” season, the UFL will host games in:

- California – AT&T Park
- Florida – Citrus Bowl in Orlando and Tropicana Field in Tampa
- New York – Giants Stadium at the Meadowlands and Citi Field
- Las Vegas – Sam Boyd Stadium
- Hartford – Rentschler Stadium
- Los Angeles – Home Depot Center

Ticket sales and online merchandise launched in August and preliminary sales for both were strong, with some merchandise selling out its initial stock within hours. Sales of tickets were met with positive results as fans relished in the affordable pricing and the ability to bring a family of four to a professional football game for under $100.

Training camp officially began on Monday, September 13th with 124 players reporting to Orlando, Florida and another 124 players reporting to Casa Grande, Arizona. Upon conclusion of camp on September 30th, each team cut its roster to 50 plus two practice squad players. The regular season for the UFL commences on October 1st. The first official game of the United Football League will be played on October 8th when the Las Vegas Locos host the California Redwoods at Sam Boyd Stadium.

UFL Founder Bill Hambrecht, Commissioner Michael Huyghue, COO Frank Vuono and other League executives have already begun preparations for the 2010 season. With the anticipated success of the UFL’s “Premiere” season, the League is planning to expand to six teams next year and then eight teams in 2011. The UFL also anticipates each team will conduct an initial public offering (IPO). The UFL strongly believes that it’s fans should have the opportunity to be more than just fans. Offering team shares to the public aligns the incentives of the League, the teams and their fans. Remember the UFL is about U the Fan – Your town, your team, your league!

JP Losman was the first player to sign with the UFL

ACCESS TO LEAGUE EXECUTIVES, COACHES & PLAYERS

League Executives:

- Through the PR personnel, League Executives including the Commissioner, COO and GM, will be made available on a regular basis to Media. Please contact Rachel Gary at (973) 477-8439 or Rachel.Gary@ufl-football.com to schedule interviews.

Coaches

- Through the PR personnel, the UFL will provide regular and reasonable access to coaches and assistant coaches that serve the best interests of the team and the League.
- In addition to holding a news conference after every game, head coaches will be available on a regular basis to the media that regularly cover the team during the season. For the "Premiere" season, head coaches will conduct a weekly conference call and may also be available for interviews the day prior to a game. The exact dates and times of each call will vary and the PR staff will send out weekly media advisories with call-in information.
- Head Coaches post-game interview sessions with the media will begin approximately 10 minutes following the conclusion of the game in the interview room.
- Through the PR departments, coordinators and other primary position coaches are available to the media to discuss areas that pertain to their level of expertise.
- Questions regarding League issues should be directed to the team GM, League COO or League Commissioner via Rachel Gary.

Players

- Players will be made available to the media following every game and during the practice week. Select players may have limited time due to other media, community and team demands; however, best efforts will be made to make all players available as needed.
- UFL players, upon request, may participate in weekly conference calls with the media from the opposing team's city. The exact dates and times of each call will vary and the PR staff will send out weekly media advisories with call-in information.
- On game day, players and coaches are not available to the media until after the game except for television obligations such as brief halftime interviews with the head coach.

CREDENTIAL, MEDIA WILL CALL & MEDIA PARKING

- Each venue will have a separate Media Will Call window or booth, preferably at or near the Press Entrance. Credentials will be available for pick-up three hours prior to kick-off on Game Days. Teams will make their best efforts to provide appropriate game-day parking accommodations to working members of the media.

GAME DAY COVERAGE

Press Box

- Each team will do its best to accommodate all requests for press box seating. In the event, there is not enough seats to accommodate all the requests, alternate arrangements will be made for media to sit in the stands in seats near the Press Box and will be given access to all materials distributed in the Press Box.

Postgame Interviews & Locker Room Access Procedure:

- Members of the Media wanting to conduct post game interviews will be given access to the interview room after the game, as well as the home and visiting locker rooms.
- The locker room is open to all accredited reporters, regardless of sex. Locker rooms will be staffed by PR personnel. No still photographers or autographs are allowed in the locker room. No one other than League or team representatives or members of the Media shall be allowed in the Locker Room after a game.
- In order to relieve potential congestion in the Locker Room when opened to the media, each club will bring the Head Coach and at least one star player of the game to the interview area within 10 minutes of the conclusion of the game.
- Media will be given access to the Locker Room no later than 10 minutes following the game
- No Media member may use a cell phone at any time in the team Locker Rooms. Media members may carry their cell phones into the locker rooms but they may not use them to take/place calls or take photographs.
- The trainer's room is off limits to members of the Media.

Photographers

- Credentialed photographers will be required to wear a UFL-provided photo vest while on sidelines. Sideline access for UFL games is limited to photographers on assignment for recognized news/sports organizations. No one except television personnel and authorized game personnel will be admitted to the field without a camera.
- Television crews are allowed access to the field up to one hour prior to each game and after ten minutes following each game for the purpose of interviews and stand ups only. No recording of any action footage of teams or players is allowed on game day. Requests for team or player footage should be sent to Peter Lasser at Video.Request@ufl-football.com. Programming requests and questions should be sent to Mike Trager at tragergroup@aol.com.
- In the best interest of serving the news media, UFL has partnered with US PRESSWIRE to cover League Events and have still photography licensed for any & all usages. If you are a registered user, please proceed to www.uspresswire.com to locate UFL photo content. For new users, please register at <http://company.uspresswire.com/register.aspx> or contact sales@uspresswire.com [404.492.8733 x3194] with your specific image needs.

MEDIA GUIDES:

The League's "Premiere" season media guide will be available on a USB key and will be distributed in the press box. In addition, at each game, the PR staff will have updated biographical information on the players, recent stats and information on the opposing team.

NON-GAME DAY ACCESS:

For non-game day access to the teams during the season, please notify the UFL in writing at least 48 hours in advance for a daily pass. The Florida Tuskers and New York Sentinels will be training/living in Orlando while the Las Vegas Locomotives and California Redwoods will be training/living in Casa Grande, Arizona. Requests for non-game day access, which also includes training camp, should be made to:

- Orlando (Florida Tuskers/New York Sentinels)
 - o Tim Richardson - Orlando

TV INFORMATION

Eight of the games of the UFL's "Premiere" season will be broadcast on VERSUS. Veteran play-by-play announcer Dave Sims leads the VERSUS broadcast team and is joined by color analyst and former NFL standout Doug Flutie. Former Steelers Quarterback Kordell Stewart and radio and television host Anita Marks will serve as sideline and features reporters.

Dave Sims

A two-time Emmy Award winning sportscaster, Dave Sims is best known as the television play-by-play voice for the Seattle Mariners and the radio play-by-play announcer for Westwood One's NFL Sunday Night Football. In addition, Sims continues to be a mainstay on the college sports scene where he has been calling basketball games for ESPN since 1991. A veteran of the local New York sports scene, Sims worked at WCBS-TV as a reporter/anchor, has hosted talk shows at Madison Square Garden Network and WFAN-AM Radio and spent seven years as a sportswriter for the New York Daily News. In addition to his Emmy Awards, Sims accolades include the 2005 Big East Conference Media Award and the American Football Foundation's 2003 Lindsey Nelson Outstanding Sportscaster Award.

Doug Flutie

A phenomenal college football player who rose to prominence during his playing days at Boston College, Doug Flutie is probably best remembered for his 1984 "Hail Mary" touchdown pass. A Heisman Trophy and Davey O'Brien National Quarterback Award winner, Flutie has had experience playing at all levels of professional football including the USFL, the NFL and the CFL. Flutie led the CFL's Toronto Argonauts to back-to-back Grey Cup victories and was named CFL's Most Outstanding Player a record six times and MVP in all of his three Grey Cup victories. As a member of the NFL's Buffalo Bills, he earned Pro Bowl and NFL Comeback Player of the Year honors. In 2006, Flutie was the top ranked CFL Player. In 2007, Flutie was named to the College Football Hall of Fame and Canada's Sports Hall of Fame, the first American born player to be inducted. In combining his CFL, NFL and USFL statistics, Flutie ranks sixth among the all-time pro football passing leaders in attempts, completions and touchdowns.

Kordell Stewart

Kordell Stewart joins the UFL broadcast team as sideline reporter. As quarterback at the University of Colorado, Stewart is also heralded for his "Miracle at Michigan" pass which led the Buffaloes past the University of Michigan 27-26 in 1994. He became one of the most prolific quarterbacks in school history, setting several records including most completed passes, most passing yards and most touchdown passes. In Kordell's first season as a starting quarterback in the NFL, in 1997, he led the Steelers to an 11-5 record and the AFC Championship Game. In 2001, Stewart led the Steelers to a 13-3 regular-season record and the top seed in the AFC playoffs. He had the best professional season of his career throwing for over 3,000 yards, completing 60 percent of his passes and attaining a passer rating of 81.7. Stewart threw for 14 touchdowns and ran for five more. Stewart's year culminated with his being elected to the Pro Bowl and being named Steelers MVP. Among NFL quarterbacks, Stewart's 38 rushing touchdowns ranks second all-time behind Steve Young's. Stewart was given the nickname "Slash" early in his career due to his abilities as utility player playing running back/wide receiver/punter. Kordell Stewart is the analyst for ESPN's First Take.

Anita Marks

Anita Marks learned about football by playing the sport competitively. She fine-tuned her football skills and dominated the Collegiate Flag Football Circuit for four years while attending the University of South Florida (USF) where she graduated with a Communications degree. Upon graduation from USF, Marks transferred her passion for sports into a career as a sports producer for the local CBS affiliate in Miami. The opportunity to return to the gridiron and play professional football occurred in 1999 when Marks served as quarterback for the Miami Fury, a women's professional football team, for four years and the Florida Stingrays for one year. Known for her incredible arm strength and pinpoint accuracy, Marks developed a reputation for being one of the best QB's to ever play women's professional football. Upon conclusion of her playing days, Marks transitioned back to the media and currently hosts her own afternoon sports talk show on 1057 The Fan in Baltimore, which is also simulcast on television's Mid-Atlantic Sports Network (MASN). Marks also hosts the Ravens pre- and post-game shows and has her own television show on MASN called Fantasy Blitz.

Sims, Marks, Stewart, and Flutie

HDNet's UFL broadcast team is made up of four experienced broadcasters who have covered pro football, in addition to many other sports on a national level. Longtime football announcer and former Buffalo Bills great Paul Maguire will join HDNet's own Kenny Rice in the broadcast booth, while Ron Kruck will cover duties as sideline reporter, along with Natalie Taylor.

Paul Maguire

Paul Maguire followed a stand-out career in the AFL with nearly 40 years in television, including covering four Super Bowls (XXIII, XXX, XXII, XXVII) and serving as a member of NBC's lead NFL broadcast team with Dick Enberg. Maguire also provided his candor and insight to NFL Sunday Night Football on ESPN, and worked as an analyst for college football on ABC. Maguire played in six AFL Championship games with the San Diego Chargers ('60-'63) and Buffalo Bills ('64-'70) during his eleven-year career as a punter and linebacker. He was a member of three championship teams ('63, '64, '65) and was named to the Bills Silver Anniversary All-Time Team in 1984 as a punter. Maguire still holds the Bills' season punting average record (42.1). He is one of only twenty players who were in the AFL for its entire existence. His outstanding collegiate career at The Citadel includes leading the nation in touchdown receptions his senior year. Maguire is in the Greater Buffalo Sports Hall of Fame.

Kenny Rice

An award-winning sportscaster, Kenny Rice hosts the popular HDNet program, Inside MMA. Rice has called play-by-play for Harvard-Yale football and both the Wooden Classic and Wooden Tradition college basketball tournaments, plus boxing and MMA – all for HDNet. For NBC, Rice covers the Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes and has covered the 2004 (boxing) and 2008 (equestrian) Olympics as well as the US Olympic Trials in both Triathlon and Equestrian. Rice has reported on the NFL for NBC's Football Night in America and has called track and field, rugby and basketball for the 2008 Paralympic Games. He has also called the Pro Bull Riders World Finals. He hosted horse racing for ESPN ('97-'06) including the Irish Derby and was a co-host of college basketball Midnight Madness for the debut of ESPNU.

Ron Kruck

Ron Kruck is an integral member of HDNet's ground breaking MMA coverage, interviewing the sport's biggest stars, in addition to breaking stories and special features from Kruck's Korner on Inside MMA. He has also covered boxing and college football for the network. Kruck has reported on the NHL's Stanley Cup Playoffs, Major League Baseball and the NBA Playoffs as well as the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament, US Olympic Trials, the Fiesta and Orange Bowls. In addition, Kruck covered University of Colorado football and basketball.

Natalie Taylor

Natalie Taylor is co-host of SEC-TV for Fox Sports South and hosts SEC College Football & Basketball Previews for Sports South. She has worked for HDNet as a pit and feature reporter for NASCAR's Camping World Series and a sideline reporter for the network's college football and basketball broadcasts. She's also reported on Atlanta Braves and Atlanta Falcons for Comcast Sports Southeast.

HDNet will broadcast five games from the "Premiere" season of the United Football League beginning on October 10 at 7:00 p.m. ET when the Florida Tuskers take on the New York Sentinels at the Citrus Bowl in Orlando, FL. Each live telecast will be produced and aired in true high definition. The complete schedule for UFL games on HDNet follows:

CALIFORNIA REDWOODS

Dennis Green Head Coach

Former NFL Head Coach Denis Green joins the United Football League as Head Coach of the California Redwoods. Green amassed a regular season record of 113 – 94 as the Head Coach of the Minnesota Vikings and the Arizona Cardinals. His best season as Head Coach was in 1998; leading the Vikings to an amazing 15-1 season and setting the NFL record for most points in a season (since broken by the 2007 New England Patriots). Green was an Assistant Coach for Bill Walsh at both Stanford and at the San Francisco 49ers, where he held this post for four seasons, earning a Super Bowl ring in 1988-89.

Green also found success on the collegiate level, holding assistant coaching positions at the University of Iowa (his alma mater) and the University of Dayton. Green was the 1982 Big Ten Conference Coach of the Year when he was the Head Coach of Northwestern University, and he was also the Head Coach of Stanford University from 1989 - 1992.

Green, who recently turned 60, is currently President of Dennis Green Sports Marketing and Greenlight Sports Marketing. This past year, Green completed his first year teaching an MBA Sports Management Class at San Diego State University. In addition, for the past two seasons, Green has worked for Westwood One Radio as a color analyst for its Thursday night NFL broadcasts as well as for the playoff games. For his on and off-the-field efforts, Green was named "Most Involved Coach" by the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame.

Green and his wife Marie have two children, Vanessa (12) and Zach (10). They reside in San Diego, California. Green also has two adult children, Patti, a director of marketing, and Jeremy, a football information specialist.

Martin Bayless Defensive Backs Coach

Martin Bayless joins the California Redwoods as Defensive Backs Coach. He spent last season with the Minnesota Vikings as Intern Assistant Defensive Coach. One year prior, in 2007, Bayless completed his second season in Houston as the Assistant Defensive Backs Coach..

A former fourth-round draft pick of the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1984 NFL Draft, Bayless was also a first-round pick by the Memphis Showboats of the USFL. During his 14-year NFL career, Bayless competed in 192 games and started 153 games making 1186 tackles, 11.5 sacks, and 12 career interceptions. A standout at Bowling Green who was inducted into its Hall of Fame in 1989, Bayless still ranks second in NCAA for career interceptions with 27..

Bayless retired from playing in 1998 and then moved to the Buffalo Bills' front office as director of player development/special projects. He began his coaching career at Castle Park High School in San Diego and then advanced to the University of North Carolina as a coaching intern. Bayless worked as a defensive backs and special teams coach with the Barcelona Dragons & Amsterdam Admirals of NFL Europe for the 2003 season before joining Carolina as defensive assistant for the Panthers Super Bowl XXXVIII season. Bayless also coached in Oakland, serving as special teams assistant from 2004-05..

Bayless established the Martin Bayless Free Football Camp in 1986 in his hometown of Dayton, Ohio. Over the past 23 years, more than 135,000 youths have participated in Bayless' camps which span from Ohio to California. His camps have produced three Heisman Trophy Winners (Reggie Bush, Ricky Williams and Rashaan Salaam) and two first overall picks in the NFL Draft (Alex Smith and Dan Wilkinson). For his accomplishments both on and off the field, Bayless was voted San Diego Chargers "NFL Man of the Year" (1990 and 1991), Kansas City Chiefs "NFL Man of the Year" (1996) and San Diego Hall of Champions' Ernest H. Wright Sr. Humanitarian Award.

Trent Bray Head Coach

Trent Bray joins the California Redwoods as the Linebackers Coach. Bray recently served as a graduate assistant at Arizona State University under Head Coach Dennis Errickson.

A standout linebacker in college, Bray started 34 of 39 career games for the Oregon State Beavers. In his junior season, he amassed 122 tackles and was named Second-Team All-Pac-10 as well as Insight Bowl Defensive MVP honors after making an Oregon State-bowl record 10 tackles in a victory over Notre Dame. He followed up his successful junior year with an equally impressive senior year recording 116 tackles and earning First-Team All-Pac-10 honors as the Beavers co-captain. Bray marked his place in the Oregon State record books with his 337 career tackles, the sixth-highest total in OSU history.

Charles Collins Receivers / Tight End Coach

Charles Collins joins the California Redwoods as Receivers/Tight End Coach. Regarded by many as one of the finest wide-receiver coaches on the west coast, Collins has a reputation as being a great teacher and communicator. Collins has tutored and mentored several All-Pro receivers, most notably Cincinnati Bengals Chad Johnson and Carolina Panthers Steve Smith -- both of which he coached in Junior College. Collins is also TJ Houshmanzadeh's personal off-season coach.

Founder of Phenom Factory in Los Angeles, a receiver's camp that specializes in release and separation techniques, receivers around the country frequently visit Coach Collins's camp to enhance their skill level. This past season, Collins was hired by the Cincinnati Bengals to help upgrade its receiving core and was responsible for the turnaround of Chad Johnson and Chris Henry.

A former wide receiver with the Edmonton Eskimos of the CFL and an All-American at Cal State Northridge, Collins brings a wealth of experience to the UFL. His players will truly benefit from his leadership and understanding of the game.

Robert Griffith Defensive Assistant Coach

Robert Griffith joins the California Redwoods as Defensive Assistant Coach. Over the span of a 13 year career, former two-time All-Pro with the Minnesota Vikings, Griffith has amassed 1324 tackles, 8.5 sacks, 5 forced fumbles and 27 interceptions, making him one of the greatest safeties to ever play the game.

Griffith, affectionately called "Griff," started as a walk on for the San Diego State University football team, where he quickly became an indispensable member and a catalyst for the defensive unit. He then had the opportunity to try out for the Minnesota Vikings, a team that recognized his passion for the game and strong work ethic. The Vikings were fortunate enough to have him anchor the defense for eight illustrious years. Griffith also spent three years with the Cleveland Browns and two years with the Arizona Cardinals.

After retiring as one of the most dynamic safeties in the NFL, this All-Pro selection knew his career was far from over. His entrepreneurial vision of success helped him to establish Matador Enterprises, an umbrella company with diversified businesses including wholesale distribution, restaurant ownership and real estate development. He also stayed involved with football as a regular on the set of the NFL Network and ESPN as an NFL analyst. Griffith is a regular host for the Chargers post-game show on San Diego's NBC affiliate and he also has graced the sets of Fox Sports and NFL Europe.

Griffith became a presence in the entertainment industry as well with appearances on CBS' "The Young and the Restless," in a music video with Vivica Fox and starring in Sony Pictures "Hustle and Heat." Griffith has been featured in some of the biggest magazines in the country including on the cover of Heart & Soul and in the pages of DUB, Rolling Stone, VIBE, The Source, Sports Illustrated and The Sporting News.

As a philanthropist, Griffith founded the Robert Griffith Foundation in 1998 which provides college scholarships to underprivileged high school seniors and organizes youth development programs to empower its participants, including mentoring, educational enrichment, organized sports and arts, as well as cultural initiatives. To date, his foundation has 30 graduates from colleges across the U.S. Griffith also initiated the Viking Challenge which targets K-6th graders and challenges them in five areas of success: responsibility, non-violence, academic improvement, drug and alcohol abstinence and he carried over this program to the Cleveland Browns, where he briefly played.

For his accomplishments on and off the field, Griffith has earned honorable mentions for the NFLPA's Unsung Hero Award, NFL's Ed Block Courage Award, Minnesota Vikings Community Man of the Year Award and was nominated for the Byron "Whizzer" White Humanitarian Award, the NFLPA's most prestigious award.

Donnie Henderson Defense Volunteer

Donnie Henderson joins the California Redwoods as the Defense Volunteer. Henderson brings plenty of knowledge to Dennis Green's staff. He recently served as a secondary coach for the Jacksonville Jaguars. But his coaching career began in 2004 with the New York Jets where he created a defense that was virtually flawless against the pass. Following his time with the Jets, Henderson served as the Defensive Coordinator for the Detroit Lions under new Head Coach Rod Marinelli for the 2006 season.

Steven Hoppe Offense Volunteer

Steven Hoppe joins the California Redwoods as an Offense Volunteer. Hoppe recently served as an assistant coach for the Scottsdale Community College Fighting Artichokes. As a collegiate football player at Arizona State University, Hoppe showed his versatility playing both linebacker and safety. He also averaged 40 yards per punt in high school and was a two-time second-team all-league selection at linebacker and special teams. Born in Tuscon, AZ, Hoppe earned his degree in Marketing from ASU.

Ricky Hunley Defensive Coordinator

Ricky Hunley joins the California Redwoods as the Defensive Coordinator. Hunley has had great success as a player and a coach. As a linebacker at the University of Arizona, Hunley was U of A's first consensus All-American, an honor he received two consecutive years. He is currently the only player from the University of Arizona to be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

Hunley went on to an NFL career with the Denver Broncos (1984-87), Phoenix Cardinals (1988), and the Los Angeles Raiders (1989-90). He stayed with the NFL even after playing his last game as the elected executive vice president of the NFL Players Association (1990-92).

Hunley then returned to collegiate football, coaching the University of Southern California (1992-93), University of Missouri (1994-2000) and University of Florida (2001).

Coming full circle, Hunley started his NFL coaching career through the NFL Minority Fellowship Coaching Program in 2002 as the defensive line coach for the Washington Redskins under Steve Spurrier, where he met Marvin Lewis. Hunkley moved to Linebackers coach for Lewis and the Cincinnati Bengals from 2003 to 2007.

Art Kehoe Offensive Line Coach

Art Kehoe joins the California Redwoods as Offensive Line Coach. Kehoe recently served as interim offensive line coach for Louisiana Tech temporarily replacing Pete Perot. Kehoe served a similar role at Ole Miss where he was also the team's assistant head coach.

The majority of Kehoe's football expertise comes from his nearly 27 years at the University of Miami, including two as a player and his last four as assistant head coach and offensive line coach. A former offensive lineman and 1982 graduate of Miami, Kehoe began his coaching career in 1981 as a student assistant. He came to Miami in 1979 as a transfer from Laney Junior College in Oakland, Calif., and started at guard for the Hurricanes for two seasons.

Kehoe's tenure at Miami ranked among the longest of any Hurricanes' athletics figure, a span during which he either played or coached for five head football coaches. In 20 seasons working with the offensive line at Miami, Kehoe produced six players (Brett Romberg in 2002, Bryant McKinnie in 2001, Joaquin Gonzalez in 2000, Richard Mercier in 1999, K.C. Jones in 1996 and Leon Searcy in 1991) who received first-team All-America honors, plus 18 more that went on to play professionally, 14 All-Big EAST honorees, one Outland Trophy winner and the 2002 Rimington Award winner.

Kehoe was on the staff of all five Miami football national championship teams. Two Heisman Trophy winners and six of Miami's eight 1,000-yard rushers passed or rushed behind the blocking of Kehoe's offensive linemen. His 2000 and 2001 units are widely considered among the finest offensive lines in recent college football history and the 2002 unit was considered the nation's finest by many observers.

A native of Conshohocken, Pa., Kehoe played an instrumental role in the rebirth of Miami football, playing on the 1979 and 1980 teams that returned the Hurricanes to national status with a victory in the 1980 Peach Bowl (Miami's first bowl win since 1966). After spending a year as a student assistant, Kehoe served as a graduate assistant coach from 1982-84. He ascended to full-time status in 1985 and worked with the offensive line since then. From 1992-94, Kehoe also tutored tight ends in addition to his duties with the offensive line.

As a coach, Kehoe went to 21 bowl games with the Hurricanes. Kehoe worked for five Miami head coaches, from Howard Schnellenberger to Jimmy Johnson, from Dennis Erickson to Butch Davis, and then under Larry Coker. Kehoe even served as Miami's interim head coach for 19 days during the transition from the Erickson to Davis eras in 1995. In addition to his coaching accomplishments, Kehoe was inducted into the University of Miami Athletics Hall of Fame in 2002 and the Laney JC Athletics Hall of Fame in 2001. He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration from Miami and an associate's degree in general studies from Laney J.C. in 1979.

Mike Kruczek Offensive Coordinator

Mike Kruczek joins the California Redwoods as Offensive Coordinator. Having spent 22 years in the NFL, most recently with the Arizona Cardinals, Kruczek brings a wealth of experience as both a coach and former pro quarterback. Kruczek also trained Matt Ryan (2008) and Brady Quinn (2007) for their respective NFL Drafts.

Kruczek, an all-America quarterback at Boston College and owner of two Super Bowl rings while a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers, joined the Arizona Cardinals after 19 seasons at the University of Central Florida (UCF), including six as head coach. In 2005, Kruczek's quarterbacks helped direct the Cardinals to the #1 pass offense in the NFL (4,437 yards) and an 8th ranked overall offense. Kurt Warner and Josh McCown combined to set new team records in first downs passing (224), net yards passing (4,437), gross yards passing (4,723), attempts (670) and completions (419). Warner's 85.8 quarterback rating was the best for a Cardinals signal caller since Neil Lomax in 1988 (86.7). Warner's five 300+ passing games in 2005 led the NFL and were the most 300+ passing games he had since his NFL MVP season of 2001. McCown finished with two 300+ passing games including throwing for 398 yards against the Carolina Panthers, the second highest passing total (M. Bulger 442 yards @NYG) in the NFL in 2005.

While guiding UCF to a 36-30 record from 1998-03 as head coach, Kruczek's passing offense finished among the top 10 in the NCAA three times (1998, 2001, '02). His '98 squad—posting a school-best 9-2 mark—featured senior quarterback Daunte Culpepper, who set more than 30 school records while becoming only the third player in NCAA history to pass for more than 10,000 yards and rush for more than 1,000 yards in a career.

Prior to his six seasons as the Golden Knights' head coach, Kruczek served for 13 seasons as the school's offensive coordinator/quarterbacks coach during which time UCF led all NCAA Division II schools in scoring offense (1987), passing offense (1988), and advanced to the I-AA national semifinals (1990).

Born March 15, 1953 in Washington, D.C., Kruczek earned all-America notice in 1975 as a quarterback at Boston College where he set several school passing and total offense records. He was selected in the second round of the 1976 NFL Draft by Pittsburgh and played in 29 games for the Steelers from 1976-79 and was a member of Super Bowl championship squads in 1978 and '79. As a rookie in 1976, he stepped into the lineup for an injured Terry Bradshaw and led the Steelers to six consecutive victories en route to the AFC title game. The rookie mark stood until 2004 when Steelers quarterback Ben Roethlisberger started his NFL career by winning his first 13 starts. Kruczek concluded his playing career in 1980 with the Washington Redskins.

Kruczek, who owns a degree in marketing from Boston College, received his first coaching experience as quarterbacks coach under Bobby Bowden at Florida State from 1982-83, then spent one season (1984) as quarterbacks coach for the Jacksonville Bulls of the USFL prior to joining the staff at UCF.

Kruczek and his wife, Leigh, have two children.

Mike McDaniel Running Backs / Quality Control Coach

Mike McDaniel joins the California Redwoods as Running Backs Coach/Quality Control. He previously spent three seasons as an offensive assistant for the Houston Texans, handling the quality control aspect of the offense. While with the Texans, McDaniel assisted Kyle Shanahan with the coaching of quarterbacks and wide receivers as well.

McDaniel spent the 2005 season as a coaching intern under Texans Head Coach Gary Kubiak, who was with the Denver Broncos. McDaniel gained his football experience in New Haven competing as wide receiver for Yale University from 2001-04.

Sid Pillai Director of Football Operations

Sid Pillai joins the California Redwoods as Director of Football Operations. Pillai has spent the last nine years with the Minnesota Vikings; the last three working in the Player Personnel department. While with the Vikings, he was an in-house scouting assistant in the pro department (scouting the AFC, free agents, and Vikings personnel) as well as an evaluator of select draft-eligible players.

Prior to his stint in personnel, Pillai served as an assistant coach/administrator for the Minnesota coaching staff. His duties included training camp/weekly practice preparation, quality control/special assignments for offense and defense, and also assisted the Special Teams Coordinator in game planning. Pillai also implemented a Player Performance & Grading System to help the coaches gauge weekly production during the season.

Pillai's career has come full-circle as he is reunited with Coach Dennis Green who hired him as an intern in 2000 in Minnesota. Under Green, in addition to his football responsibilities, Pillai's also worked as a content editor for Dennisgreen.com and as the coordinator of the Dennis Green Academic Team – a program recognizing outstanding high school students in the Twin Cities area. He also served an active role in Coach Green's C.A.B. (Community Advocate Bakers) – a group of community leaders and givers raising awareness and seeking solutions to critical issues in the urban areas of Minneapolis and St Paul.

Pillai received his bachelor's degree in mathematics from the University of Pennsylvania in 1997, where he played for and worked for the baseball team. Upon graduation, as a domestic alternative to the Peace Corps, Pillai joined the Americorps*NCCC (National Civilian Community Corps) in Denver, Colorado for one year; and later joined Americorps of North Carolina where he worked for Habitat for Humanity of Moore County. Pillai is a native of Long Island, N.Y. and is the oldest of six children, two of which are presently serving in the Army National Guard.

Gary Zauner Special Teams Coordinator

Gary Zauner joins the California Redwoods as Special Teams Coordinator. Zauner has spend 13 seasons coaching in the NFL with Minnesota, Baltimore, and Arizona. His coaching career began in 1979 at Brigham Young University where he was the first full-time special teams coach in the NCAA. In 1981, Zauner moved to San Diego State for 5 seasons, creating one of the best special teams units in the nations. In fact, while at SDSU he helped recruit a fellow Redwoods coach, Robert Griffith.

Zauner continued his college coaching at the University of New Mexico for three seasons followed by two seasons with Long Beach State.

As a collegiate athlete, Zauner displayed his versatility and athleticism as a four-year letter winner for the football and baseball teams at Wisconsin-La Crosse.

Peter Jessen Football Administrative Assistant

Peter Jessen joined the California Redwoods as the Director of Football Administration. Previously Jessen has worked with Dennis Green as a communications consultant in 2000 and 2001 at the Minnesota Vikings training camp and also as a management consultant to Dennis Green Sports Marketing.

Jessen has an extensive background in management consulting, communications consulting and personal coaching. He has been the president of three management consulting firms and consulted in the real estate, sports, film, education and energy industries. Jessen has taught undergraduate and graduate courses at seven colleges and universities and continues to be a guest speaker and lecturer.

Jessen has developed organizational models for achieving goals through multiple models of communications, PR and other strategies as well as systems for developing and administering multiple revenue streams. He founded Beacon on the Hill Sports Marketing to provide consulting services to the professional sports industry regarding business development in the areas of team purchase and operations; stadium building and financing; fan plans for building and sustaining attendance and fan loyalty and working with athletes – as a team and individually – to effectively deal with each other, media and fans, on and off the playing field.

Sharon Smith PR Consultant

Sharon Smith joined the UFL in August 2009 as the Public Relations Consultant for the California Redwoods. Smith is the Director of Corporate Communications for WR Hambrecht + Co, an investment bank based in San Francisco known for its OpenIPO auctions for bringing companies public. One of the original founders of WRH+Co in 1998, Smith is responsible for public relations and affinity marketing programs for IPOs. Prior to WR Hambrecht + Co, Smith was at Hambrecht + Quist for 15 years where she held various positions including broker for high-net worth individuals, investor relations and administrator for the H&Q Venture Capital Group. Smith has also handled public relations for various wineries in Sonoma County. A graduate of Scripps College, Smith lives in Marin County with her husband and Golden Retriever.

FLORIDA TUSKERS

Jim Haslett Head Coach

Former NFL Head Coach of the Year Jim Haslett joins the United Football League as Head Coach of the Orlando franchise.

In 2000, Haslett guided the New Orleans Saints to a 10-6 regular season record, its second NFC West Division Championship and its first playoff victory in franchise history.

Haslett began his NFL coaching career as a linebackers coach for the Oakland Raiders in 1993 before moving to New Orleans as linebacker coach (1995) and then defensive coordinator (1996). Haslett left New Orleans to coordinate the Pittsburgh Steelers defense from 1997-1999 before being invited back to the Saints as head coach where he remained for six seasons. Haslett became the St. Louis Rams' defensive coordinator to start the 2006 season before advancing to interim head coach in 2008 and winning his first two games.

Haslett attended Indiana University of Pennsylvania and was selected in the second round of the 1979 NFL Draft by the Buffalo Bills. In his inaugural season, Haslett was named NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year. He competed as a linebacker for the Buffalo Bills until 1985 before completing his playing career in 1987 as a member of the New York Jets.

In 2002, Haslett was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame. He and his wife Beth have three children, Kelsey (18), Chase (16) and Libby (13).

Bill Bradley Secondary Coach

Bill Bradley joins the Florida Tuskers as Secondary Coach. A former All-Pro safety for the Philadelphia Eagles, Bradley recently completed two seasons as the San Diego Charger's Secondary Coach. In Bradley's first year with the team and the first time in franchise history, the Chargers led the NFL in regular-season interceptions (30) and in playoff interceptions (6). The team also led the league in total takeaways (48) and turnover margin (+24). Before joining the Chargers, Bradley worked with the Buffalo Bills (1998-2000) and the New York Jets (2001-03) as Defensive Backs Coach.

Bradley left the NFL after the 2003 season to serve as Defensive Coordinator at Baylor University. In 2005, under Bradley's guidance, Baylor ranked 13th in the nation in pass efficiency and allowed the fewest total yards, rushing yards and points per game by a Bear's squad since 1995.

Bradley's knowledge on the sidelines comes from the experience he garnered on the field. Selected in the third round of the 1969 NFL Draft by the Eagles as a punter/player, Bradley went on to earn three All-Pro awards (1971-73) at free safety. Bradley also served as the team's kick returner. Bradley, who led the NFL in interceptions in both 1971 (11) and 1972 (9), became the first player ever to lead the league in interceptions in consecutive seasons, a feat that has only been matched one since. He still holds the team record for career interception return yards with 536. A standout at the University of Texas, Bradley set a school single-game record with four interceptions in the Longhorns' 35-14 win over arch-rival Texas A&M, a mark that stands as the best-ever by a SWC player.

Bradley is a member of the Texas High School, University of Texas and Philadelphia Eagles Hall of Fame and was recently selected to be inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame. He and his wife Susan have two children.

Chuck Bresnahan Linebackers Coach

Chuck Bresnahan joins the Florida Tuskers as Linebackers Coach. Bresnahan completed four seasons as a member of the Cincinnati Bengals' coaching staff, the final three as Defensive Coordinator. In his first two seasons as coordinator, the Bengals ranked first in the AFC and second in the NFL in takeaways. The Bengals also captured their first Division Title in 17 years.

Bresnahan joined the Bengals in 2004 as an assistant coach and was promoted to the coordinator's position a year later. An NFL coach since 1994, Bresnahan spent two seasons with Cleveland as Linebackers / Quality Control Coach and two seasons with Indianapolis as Linebackers Coach before moving to Oakland in 1998. As Defensive Backs Coach for the Raiders, he assisted CB Charles Woodson to the Pro Bowl in Woodson's first two seasons. In 2000, Bresnahan took over as Defensive Coordinator, a post he would hold for another three seasons. During this time, the Raiders captured 3 consecutive AFC West Division Titles. In 2002, his defense helped carry Oakland to the AFC Championship and a spot in Super Bowl XXXVII.

Bresnahan played Linebacker at Navy from 1979-1982, and from 1984 -1986 was a commissioned officer in the Navy. Prior to his 1983 assignment to military duty, Bresnahan launched his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Navy. He completed his military duty in time to return to Navy for the 1986 football season as Wide Receivers and Tight Ends Coach. Bresnahan also coached at Georgia Tech helping them capture the 1990 UPI National Championship. He also coached at the University of Maine as Defensive Coordinator / Linebackers Coach.

Bresnahan was raised in a football family. His father, Tom, has coached at various levels for more than 40 years, including 16 seasons in NFL positions and four Super Bowl appearances (XXV-XXVIII) with the Buffalo Bills. Bresnahan and his wife Erin have four daughters: Megan, Caitlin, Caroline and Danielle.

Jay Gruden Offensive Coordinator

Jay Gruden joins the Orlando UFL franchise as Offensive Coordinator. Having served as both a player and coach for the past 19 years, Gruden brings a wealth of talent and experience to the UFL. Gruden spent 17 seasons in the Arena Football League, acquiring six Championship titles and consistently rewriting the league's history books. As starting quarterback in Tampa Bay, Gruden led the Storm to an unprecedented four ArenaBowl titles in six seasons. During his playing career, Gruden racked up two All-Arena selections and grabbed the 1992 MVP honors. He would throw for more than 15,000 yards and 280 touchdowns while leading the Storm to six consecutive playoff appearances. As head coach of the Orlando Predators (1998-2001, 2004-2008), Gruden led his team to four ArenaBowl appearances with two championships and ranks sixth overall in AFL wins with a 82-54 regular-season record. His first coaching title came in 1998 with a 62-31 win over Tampa Bay at ArenaBowl XII and the second, a 41-38 win over the Nashville Kats in 2000. In one of the most unusual moves in AFL history, Gruden resigned as head coach of the Predators to return to the playing field as the team's quarterback and brought the team to two post-season appearances. He returned to the Predators sidelines as Head Coach and Director of Football Operations in July 2003. For his AFL career, Gruden has posted some truly remarkable numbers. As a head coach, he is 93-61-0 and ranks in the top 10 overall in coaching wins and winning percentage. He is one of only five AFL coaches with two or more ArenaBowl championships. In the playoffs, Gruden's 13-7 mark as a head coach ranks in the top five all-time in victories and winning percentage. As a quarterback, he ranks in the top ten with more than 20,000 passing yards and close to 400 touchdowns. He won 15 of 19 post-season starts with 4,761 passing yards and 77 touchdowns. Gruden was 84-25 (.770) as a starting quarterback. That mark, combined with his 10-5 record as Nashville's offensive coordinator and his 76-43 record as head coach, takes Gruden's all-time Arena Football League record to 170-74 (.697). As a player, assistant coach or head coach, Gruden has never failed to lead his team to the playoffs.

Gruden's success as a coach is not confined to Arena Football. For the past seven seasons, he served as an offensive assistant for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League. In that capacity, Gruden earned his seventh professional championship ring when the Bucs won the 2002 Super Bowl.

A four-year letterman at Louisville (1985-88), Gruden finished his collegiate career with 7,024 passing yards, completing 572 of 1049 passes for 44 touchdowns. All four stats still rank in the top five in Cardinals' history. Gruden hails from a football family. His father Jim is a long-time college and NFL assistant coach and NFL scout; while his brother Jon has served as head coach to several NFL franchises including the Tampa Bay Bucs and the Oakland Raiders. Gruden currently resides in Orlando with his wife Sherry and their three sons.

Carl Hairston Linebackers Coach

Carl "Big Daddy" Hairston joins the Florida Tuskers as Defensive Line Coach after having spent the past 33 seasons in the National Football League. He has been coaching for the past 14 seasons, spent 4 years as a pro/college scout and 15 seasons as a player. Hairston brings with him a wealth of experience, having played in one Super Bowl and coached in another.

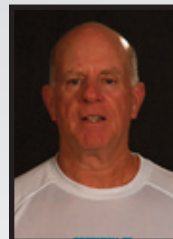

Most recently, Hairston coached defensive ends for the Green Bay Packers from 2006 through 2008. Hairston joined the Packers from Kansas City, where he spent five seasons in his second stint with the club. Originally drafted by Dick Vermeil's Eagles, Hairston was on the field as a player or an assistant coach for every game of Vermeil's NFL head coaching tenures. Prior to his second tour with the Chiefs, Hairston reunited with Vermeil for a memorable run with the St. Louis Rams (1997-2000). In 1999, when the Rams won Super Bowl XXXIV, Hairston's unit provided most of St. Louis' 57 sacks, which tied for best in the league.

Hairston began his coaching career under Marty Schottenheimer as Kansas City's defensive line coach (1995-96). Tutoring one of the league's most-feared defensive fronts, Hairston and his players helped the 13-3 Chiefs win the AFC West in 1995.

Originally a pro scout with the Chiefs in 1994, Hairston also assisted with the defensive line during training camp that season. Earlier, he spent three years (1991-93) as a college scout with the then-Phoenix Cardinals, where he had finished his playing career.

One of the finest defensive linemen of his era, Hairston played 15 distinguished seasons in the NFL. He appeared in 224 NFL contests (184 starts), posted 94 sacks among 1,141 tackles and played in 15 postseason contests, including one Super Bowl and four conference championship games ('80 NFC, '86 AFC, '87 AFC and '89 AFC). Selected in the seventh round (191st overall) of the 1976 draft by Vermeil, then a rookie head coach with the Eagles, Hairston preceded Reggie White on the Philadelphia defensive line. Starting each of his eight seasons (1976-83) with the Eagles, he captained the defense from 1979-83 and recorded 100-or-more tackles for five straight years (1977-81). In 1979, he led the Eagles and the NFC with a career-best 15 sacks. A year later, Hairston served as a starting defensive end in Super Bowl XV against the Oakland Raiders. Following his career in Philadelphia, Hairston spent six years in Cleveland (1984-89) and one final campaign with the Cardinals (1990).

A four-year starter as a linebacker and defensive end at Maryland-Eastern Shore, Hairston earned all-conference honors on three occasions and also played one season of basketball. He graduated from the school in 1985 with a degree in physical education. In 2005, Hairston was inducted into the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) Hall of Fame.

Bill Laveroni Offensive Line Coach

Bill Laveroni joins the Florida Tuskers as Offensive Line Coach. Laveroni has been coaching football for more than 37 years and has worked with high school players up to the pros.

From 2004-07, Laveroni served as Offensive Line Coach for the Seattle Seahawks where, under his guidance, the offensive line assisted Shaun Alexander in rushing for a club record of 1,696 yards in 2004. During Laveroni's entire tenure in Seattle, the Seahawks consecutively won the NFC West Division. Laveroni also spent the 2002-03 season in Seattle as the assistant offensive line coach, working with Tom Lovat in developing run game plans.

Prior to moving to the NFL, Laveroni served as Offensive Line Coach for several top universities including Vanderbilt (2001-02), Rutgers (1996-2000), San Jose University (1990-94), California-Berkley (1983-89) and Utah State (1978-82). Laveroni's duties included designing the offensive game plan, recruitment and player leadership development. Laveroni also served as Offensive/Defensive Line Coach for the Arena League's San Jose Sabercats, leading the team to a division title and playoff appearance in its first year.

Laveroni and his wife Patty have one son.

Sean McVay Wide Receivers Coach / Quality Control

Sean McVay joins the Florida Tuskers as Quality Control/Wide Receivers Coach. McVay spent the 2008 season with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as an Offensive Assistant. While in Tampa Bay, he worked closely with all members of the offensive coaching staff in the preparation and implementation of the offensive game plan. McVay was also instrumental in helping guide WR Antonio Bryant to 83 receptions for 1,248 yards and seven touchdowns, culminating in Bryant's The Sporting News Comeback Player of the Year Award.

McVay played college football at Miami (OH) University from 2004-07 where he was a starting kick returner and wide receiver. In 2007, he received Miami's Scholar-Athlete Award. In his senior year at Marist High School in Atlanta, Ga., McVay led his team to a state championship as quarterback while earning Georgia 4A Offensive Player of the Year honors.

Ricky Porter

Director of Football Operations / Running Backs Coach

Ricky Porter joins the Florida Tuskers as the Director of Operations/Running Backs. A 25-year veteran of the NFL with two Super Bowl rings, he most recently served as Director of Player Development for the New Orleans Saints. Prior to joining the Saints, Porter spent three years on the Denver Broncos' coaching staff, beginning as offensive assistant in 1997. Porter fulfilled a similar role the previous season with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Porter is quite familiar with the finding and cultivating of raw football talent having worked as a scout for National Football Scouting covering the Ohio Valley Region. Through the NFL's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program, Porter has worked with several NFL franchises including the Buffalo Bills (1991), New Orleans Saints (1993) and Detroit Lions (1994). Porter's first full-time entry into coaching was at his alma mater, Slippery Rock State University, where he coached the running backs and special teams in 1990-91 before moving on to Kent State from 1992-93.

Prior to becoming a coach, Porter played eight seasons with the NFL. He began as a running back for the Detroit Lions (1982) followed by stints with the Baltimore Colts (1983) and the Buffalo Bills (1987-89). Porter also played for the USFL's Memphis Showboats (1985-86) and the CFL's Montreal Alouettes from 1986 until the club folded during the 1987 season.

A member of the Slippery Rock Sports Hall of Fame, Porter was the first player ever drafted from the Division II school, chosen by Detroit Lions in 1982, after leading the nation in rushing his senior year. He was also a star baseball player and track runner for the Rockets and in 1990; he tested his baseball skills as a member of the Baltimore Orioles' AAA Rochester Red Wings. Porter holds a bachelor's degree in communications from Slippery Rock and a master's degree in athletic administration from Kent State. Porter and his wife, Carla, have two sons.

Al Roberts

Special Teams / Tight End Coach

An 18-year veteran as NFL special teams coach, Al Roberts joins the Florida Tuskers as Special Teams/Tight End Coach. Roberts is a demonstrative coach who seeks to establish a true motivational relationship with his players. Roberts broke into the NFL in 1984-85 as running backs and special teams' coach with the Houston Oilers. He was rejoined the NFL from 1988-90 as special teams' coach in Philadelphia under Buddy Ryan. He moved to the N.Y. Jets from 1991-93 under head coach Bruce Coslet.

In 1994, Buddy Ryan became head coach of the Arizona Cardinals and invited Roberts back to his staff. Roberts left the Cardinals after the '95 season, in conjunction with Ryan's departure, and spent 1996 as running backs and special teams coach at the University of Washington. Roberts' prize pupil with the Huskies was former New England Patriots HB Corey Dillon, and the two formed a close relationship as Dillon broke six school records. Another prize pupil of Roberts is Arizona Cardinals Kicker Neil Rackers, who set the all time NFL field goal record in 2006 with 33 straight.

In 1997, Bruce Coslet hired Roberts back into the NFL with the Bengals, becoming the second NFL head coach to ask Roberts back for an encore stint after the head coach changed teams.

Roberts has 11 seasons of college coaching experience. In seven of those seasons, his teams advanced to bowl games: 1978 Rose Bowl, 1979 Sun Bowl, 1980 Rose Bowl, 1981 Rose Bowl, 1983 Aloha Bowl, 1987 Holiday Bowl and the 1996 Holiday Bowl.

Born in Fresno, Calif., on Jan. 6, 1944, Roberts' played high school football in Merced, Calif., and played in college at Washington (1964-65) and Puget Sound (1967-68). He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Puget Sound. Al and his wife Arvella, have two sons; Kali and Kyle and a daughter, Genesis. They also have one granddaughter, Laryssa.

Diane Clarke

Administrative Assistant

Diane Clarke joins the Tuskers staff during their "Premiere" season as the Coaches Assistant. She is responsible for handling each coach's day-to-day scheduling needs while assisting with planning initiatives for the team, equipment managers and athletic trainers.

Born and raised in Titusville, Fla., Diane graduated from the University of Central Florida (UCF) with a Bachelor's Degree in Interdisciplinary Studies. While attending UCF, she was a member of the Woman's Varsity Basketball Team. Prior to her time UCF, Diane attended Hillsborough Community College on a basketball scholarship.

Diane's experience in professional football includes an internship with the Orlando Predators of the former Arena Football League. During that role, she worked with Tuskers' Offensive Coordinator, Jay Gruden who served as the Predators' Head Coach. Diane also works part-time at a local radio station and serves as a substitute teacher. During the summer, she also works as a coach at the Orlando Magic Basketball Camps.

Diane currently resides in Orlando, Fla. Her mother and father still live in Titusville, Fla. where her mom works at the Kennedy Space Center. Diane is active in the community and currently has a "little sister" who lives in Tampa, Fla. from the Big Brothers Big Sisters program.

John Maroon PR Consultant

John Maroon's career in professional sports spans more than two decades. Over that time, he has provided media relations assistance at 10 Major League Baseball (MLB) All-Star Games; nearly a dozen MLB Postseasons; the National Football League (NFL) playoffs and Super Bowl in 2000; and other significant sports related events.

After graduating from St. John's University in Queens, New York with a degree in Sports Management, John began his career with the MLB office, serving as a Public Relations Assistant with the American League from 1987-1989. In 1990, John moved to Cleveland to become the Director of Media Relations for the Cleveland Indians. Over the course of his five-year tenure with the Indians, the franchise encountered a devastating tragedy in March 1993 as Indians' pitchers Tim Crews and Steve Olin were killed in a boating accident that nearly claimed the life of pitcher Bob Ojeda as well. In response to the attention the incident attracted from the national media, John developed and implemented a strategy to balance the media's requests with the privacy and compassion needs of the players and the families involved. Serving as a conduit between the players and media, he was able to execute a plan that addressed both the sensitive nature of the situation and the media's need for information. In his final season with the Indians in 1994, John was involved in the opening of the franchise's new state-of-the-art ballpark created solely for baseball, Jacobs Field, and coordinated all media surrounding the new facility.

In 1995, John moved to Baltimore to take the position of Public Relations Director for the Orioles, a post he held for five seasons. In his inaugural year in Baltimore, he worked closely with Cal Ripken, Jr. during his celebrated march towards the consecutive games played record that culminated on September 6, 1995. In addition to working on key undertakings like Ripken's record-breaking streak, John was also involved with the Orioles' historic visit to Cuba in March 1999 when the team played an exhibition game against the Cuban National Team in Havana. In addition, John was the head of PR for the Orioles during their trips to the post-season in 1996 and 1997.

In 1999, John left the Orioles to accept the job of Vice-President of Communications with the Washington Redskins. During his brief one-year tenure with the Redskins, he oversaw media relations, community relations and publications. That season the Redskins captured the NFC East crown and advanced to the NFL playoffs.

In August of 2000, John reunited with Ripken when he joined The Tufton Group, which later became Ripken Baseball. An integral member of the team at Ripken Baseball, John oversaw all communications and brand building for Ripken Baseball and its subsidiaries. He also served as the spokesperson for Ripken Baseball and Cal Ripken, Jr., while booking and directing all of Cal Ripken's speaking engagements and public appearances.

Since launching Maroon PR in April 2006, John's expertise in sports communications and branding has benefitted a number of organizations and he still serves as the publicist for Cal Ripken, Jr., as well as Ripken Baseball. From the announcement of Ripken's selection to the National Baseball Hall of Fame in January 2007 to his formal induction into Cooperstown in July 2007, John managed all media relations efforts surrounding Cal's Hall of Fame experience. In addition, he handled media relations for Ripken when the Hall of Famer was chosen in August 2007 by the U.S. State Department as only the second special Sports Envoy in U.S. history. As part of his responsibilities, John accompanied Ripken on his 10-day trip to China in which Cal taught the game of baseball to youth throughout the nation.

On top of his roles as Owner and President of Maroon PR, John is very active in the local community. While he has served on the board of directors for a number of Baltimore-based organizations, the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society of Maryland, The Alzheimer's Association of Maryland and the Greyhound Pets of America are among the current charitable efforts he actively supports.

John resides in Ellicott City, Maryland with his wife, Carolyn and their greyhound, Gabe

Tim Richardson PR Consultant

Tim Richardson has been with Maroon PR since the company's inception in 2006. As the firm's Executive Vice President, he serves various clients while working closely with the agency's president, John Maroon, in business development areas and items associated with the management and overall growth of the company. He also oversees the firm's Sports & Entertainment Division.

Since joining Maroon PR, Tim has managed several accounts in varying areas. Among the clients he has served are the Babe Ruth Birthplace/Sports Legends Museum; Baseball America; Clipper City Brewing Company; MLB on TBS; the PAETEC Jazz Festival, featuring music legends Al Green and Earth, Wind & Fire; the 2008 World Series of Poker (WSOP); and Carmelo Anthony & The Carmelo Anthony Foundation. Media relations efforts that he has conducted have garnered exposure for Maroon PR's clients in outlets that include the Associated Press (AP); The Baltimore Sun; Chicago Sun Times; ESPN; FOX News Channel, NBC; the New York Times; Sporting News Radio; and USA Today. In addition, Tim has extensive experience in elements of event production, including developing media partnerships, theme development and scripting, and has utilized that expertise at Maroon PR for events honoring the 1966 World Champions Baltimore Orioles, NFL Pioneer Art Modell and broadcasting legend Jim McKay.

Prior to joining Maroon PR, Tim spent just over six years as the Director of Communications for The Ed Block Courage Award Foundation, Incorporated; a Maryland-based charitable organization associated with the National Football League (NFL), its member teams and the Professional Football Athletic Trainers Society (PFATS). During his tenure with the Foundation, he oversaw media/community relations, television production, event scripting and publications, while also serving as the organization's spokesperson. Tim created a new brand identity for the Foundation and his media efforts enabled the organization to enjoy its greatest exposure since its establishment. He succeeded in strengthening the Foundation's national presence through coverage in media outlets including: The Boston Globe; ESPN.com; ESPN The Magazine; the Fox Network; and Street & Smith's Sports Business Journal. Additionally, he played a key role in cultivating sponsorships and brokering media partnerships.

Throughout his decade-plus career in the communications field, Tim has managed and promoted public relations projects, events, television productions and community efforts for sports franchises/leagues, personalities, corporations and non-profit organizations. He worked with Pro Football Hall of Fame coach Don Shula in regard to media interviews, events and corporate identity pieces related to Shula's Steak Houses, LLLP, and has managed media opportunities for other Pro Football Hall of Fame members, current & former NFL, NBA and MLB players and civic/corporate leaders.

Tim also has experience as an on-air talent and producer through his roles for a weekly television show in 2004 that highlighted sports-oriented events in the Baltimore-Metropolitan area.

Being involved in the community is important to Tim as he supports the St. Vincent's Center in Timonium, Maryland and the Grace Oughton Cancer Foundation.

A lifelong Baltimorean, Tim enjoys spending time away from work with his fiancée, Nicole, and their awesome dog, Murphy.

Chris Daley PR Consultant

LAS VEGAS LOCOMOTIVES

Jim Fassel Head Coach

Former NFL Coach of the Year Jim Fassel joins the United Football League as Head Coach of the Las Vegas Locomotives.

As head coach of the New York Giants, Fassel resurrected the career of Kerry Collins and received acclaim for his playoff guarantee in the 2000 season, during which he led the Giants to an improbable Super Bowl appearance. Fassel has a long record of offensive successes and has tutored other prominent quarterbacks including Phil Simms, Boomer Esiason, Jeff Hoestetter and John Elway. Prior to becoming the Giants head coach, Fassel was the team's offensive coordinator and served in the same capacity with the Arizona Cardinals, Denver Broncos and Oakland Raiders. Fassel was also the offensive coordinator to the Baltimore Ravens for the 2004 and 2005 seasons. He began his coaching career as an offensive coordinator at the University of Utah and Stanford University before being elevated to head coach at the University of Utah.

Quarterback development and high scoring offenses are innate to Fassel who played quarterback at USC and later transferred to Long Beach State. He was drafted in the 7th round by the Chicago Bears in the 1972 NFL Draft. Fassel also played with the San Diego Chargers, Houston Oilers and the Hawaiians of the WFL.

Fassel took a break from coaching when he was hired as color commentator on NFL Sunday Night Game broadcasts for the Westwood One Radio Network and also served as a color analyst on ESPN. The recipient of numerous awards including the 2000 NFL Coach of the Year by the Sporting News, NJ Sports Writers Association and the Victor Awards Pro Football Coach of the Year, Fassel has also been honored for his work off of the field. He received the Catholic Big Brothers of the Year Award (1998), the Fresh Air Fund Man of the Year (1999) and the Long Beach State University Distinguished Alumnus Award (2001). The proud father four boys and one girl, in 2001, Fassel was presented the National Father's Day Father of the Year Award.

Isaac Carter Defensive Backs Coach

Isaac Carter joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as Defensive Backs Coach. A former defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach at Colorado College, Carter brings a diversified background and unique leadership skills having coached in high school, Division II and Ivy League.

Prior to his time in Colorado, Carter served as an assistant defensive backs coach and assistant special teams coach at Princeton University where the Tigers ranked No. 1 in pass defense and won the Ivy League title. Carter worked primarily with the cornerbacks, including J.J. Artis of the New York AFL team, and four of his players earned first-team Ivy League honors.

While an assistant coach at New Mexico Highlands, Carter coordinated the pass defense and coached the defensive backs, special teams and supervised the Cowboys' strength and conditioning program. The Cowboy's ranked No. 1 nationally in kickoff returns in 2004 and led the RMAC in blocking punts in 2003 and 2004. Carter has also worked as head football coach, head track & field coach and director of athletics at Summit Christian School in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Carter earned his master's degree in sports administration from NMHU in 2006 and a bachelor's in human performance and sport in 2004. During that time, he was a four-time all-Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference selection.

Carter and his wife, Nicole, have a daughter, Anaya.

Donald Eck Offensive Line Coach

Donald Eck joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as Offensive Line Coach. He is reunited with Coach Jim Fassel where he first served as Fassel's graduate assistant and then offensive line coach at the University of Utah.

This past season, Eck served as Offensive Line Coach at Weber State University. Prior to Weber State, Eck spent five seasons coaching in NFL Europe with the Rhein Fire and Berlin Thunder. While in Berlin, the 2004 Thunder team posted a 9-1 record and won the World Bowl with Eck acting as both offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. Under Eck's direction, the Thunder had the top offensive team in almost every category. Eck began his NFL Europe career in 2003 with the Scottish Claymores and led the team's offense to a league best.

While working with Coach Fassel at Utah, Eck's offensive line protected quarterback Scott Mitchell during an era which saw the Utes lead NCAA Division I in passing and ranked third in total offense. He coached the Utes through the 1989 season before moving to Arizona as assistant offensive line coach. Eck also had coaching stints at James Madison University and the University of Utah.

Eck and his wife Cynthia have four children.

Sam Garnes Defensive Assistant

Sam Garnes reunites with Coach Jim Fassel as he joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as Defensive Assistant. A fifth round draft pick by Fassel's New York Giants in 1997, Garnes started as free safety in nearly every contest he competed in, including Super Bowl XXXV.

Garnes spent his entire professional playing career with New York teams, moving from the Giants to the Jets in 2002. After seven seasons, Garnes took his football knowledge to the sidelines coaching Emerson High School in 2005 before overseeing the secondary for NFL Europe's Cologne team. While in Cologne, Garnes' team was number one against the pass and excelled as the League's interception leader. The past two seasons, Garnes completed internships with the coaching staffs of the Carolina Panthers (2007) and the New Orleans Saints (2008).

Garnes, a three-time all-conference player at the University of Cincinnati, received his bachelor's degree in criminal justice.

Amp Lee Running Backs Coach

Amp Lee joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as Running Backs Coach. Lee, a Florida native, has 10 years of extensive coaching experience for the NFL, NFL Europe, and multiple high school teams.

Lee is a former running back from Florida State University, where he majored in Physical Education. He was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers in the second round of the 1992 NFL Draft. Lee played in nine NFL seasons from 1992 to 2000, and his best year as a professional came during the 1995 season as a member of the Minnesota Vikings when he caught 71 receptions. Lee's career highlights as a NFL player include catching Joe Montana's final touchdown pass for the 49ers, and being named MVP for the St. Louis Rams in 1997.

Lee started his coaching career as a Running Backs Coach for Phoenix Valley Christian High School in 2003. He spent the 2004 -2005 seasons as Running Back Coach for the Amsterdam Admirals and the Berlin Thunder of NFL Europe. During the same time, he was an Area Scout for the Kansas City Chiefs. In 2006, Lee served as Quality Control Assistant for the Arizona Cardinals.

Most recently, Lee has worked as a manager and trainer at Foothills Acceleration Sports Training (FAST), and acted as the Head Football and Basketball Coach at Scottsdale Prep Academy.

Lee and his family, which includes son Saben, reside in Scottsdale, Arizona.

Larry Mac Duff Defensive Coordinator / Special Teams Coach

Larry Mac Duff joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as the Defensive Coordinator/Special Teams Coach. With over 35 years of coaching experience, Mac Duff has coordinated successful defenses and special team units at both the professional and collegiate level. Most recently, Mac Duff served as Co-Defensive Coordinator, Assistant Head Coach and Linebackers Coach for the University of Texas. The Longhorns were the top team in the Big 12 Conference for rushing defense (ranked 6th nationally) and defeated Arizona State in the Holiday Bowl.

Prior to Texas, Mac Duff spent four seasons as Special Teams Coordinator for the San Francisco 49ers. During that time, San Francisco's special teams achieved top four rankings in the NFL for takeways, kickoff coverage and kickoff returns. Mac Duff first came to the NFL as Special Teams Coach for the New York Giants, working under current Las Vegas UFL franchise coach Jim Fassel. During Mac Duff's tenure with the team, the Giants won two NFC East titles and advanced to the Super Bowl in 2000.

The majority of Mac Duff's career can be traced back to the University of Arizona where his Desert Swarm Defense finished in the top 10 nationally in total defense for four consecutive years (1992-95). Arizona led the nation in scoring defense in 1992 and in rushing defense in 1993. Under Mac Duff's guidance, five players were named Consensus 1st Team All-Americans, five players named Pac 10 Defensive Players of the Year and 24 defensive players were drafted or made NFL rosters.

An All-America defensive end on Fullerton Junior College's 12-0 National Championship team, Mac Duff continued his college playing career at the University of Oklahoma. An effective leader and teacher, Mac Duff and his wife Barbie have one son, Justin.

Charles Shelton

Director of Football Operations / Running Backs Coach

Charles "Chuck" Shelton joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as Director of Football Operations/Running Backs Coach. A 19-year Division I-A Head Football Coach, Shelton has been honored numerous times for his achievements on and off the field.

Shelton is a four-time recipient of Conference Coach of the Year for his success with Drake University, University of the Pacific and Utah State University. He is a two-time District 7 Coach of the Year. In February 2006, Shelton was inducted into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame.

Shelton's accomplishments extend beyond the playing field with his philanthropic accomplishments. He assisted in raising $14 million for football stadium renovations at Utah State and $3.4 million for the Silicon Valley Football Classic, a Division I-A contest in San Jose, Calif.

A national motivational speaker addressing the "The Power of "Self" and "Bullying", Shelton has also authored two successful novels, Return to Rolla and Jarrett.

Eric Van Heusen

Special Teams Coach / Tight End Coach

Eric Van Heusen joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as the Special Teams/Tight End Coach. A 12-year coaching veteran, Van Heusen has spent the past two seasons as the Defensive Coordinator for McDaniel College.

The majority of Van Heusen's coaching career was spent at Princeton University, beginning in 2001 and continuing through the 2006 season. He began as Outside Linebackers Coach, moved to Defensive Tackles and finished as the Tigers' Tight Ends Coach. Prior to Princeton, Van Heusen served as Slot Receivers/Running Backs Coach at Sienna College. He also served as Defensive Ends/Outside Linebackers Coach at the US Military Academy and as Defensive End/Outside Linebackers Coach for the Academy's Lightweight team.

Michael Wilson

Wide Receivers Coach

Michael Wilson joins the Las Vegas Locomotives as Wide Receivers Coach. Affiliated with the NFL for over 25 years as a coach and a player, Wilson earned four national titles winning Super Bowl XVI, XIX, XXIII and XXIV as a member of the San Francisco 49ers. He most recently served as assistant wide receivers coach for the Arizona Cardinals.

During his four years with the Cardinals (2003-07), Wilson was instrumental in developing Anquan Boldin and Larry Fitzgerald into 2006 Pro-Bowl receivers with both players having over 100 receptions for more than 1,400 yards apiece. As part of the NFL's Minority Internship program, in 2003, Wilson worked with the Washington Redskins during the team's training camp. As assistant wide receivers coach at the University of Southern California from 1997-2001, he assisted in game plan preparation and coordination of passing game along with video breakdowns.

Wilson began coaching in the NFL during the 1995-96 season where he developed the wide receivers core for the Los Angeles/Oakland Raiders. He also mentored Pro-Bowl player Tim Brown during that time. Wilson's first coaching job began in 1992 at Stanford University where he served as assistant wide receivers and tight ends coach.

Following his successful collegiate football career at Washington State, Wilson was selected by the Dallas Cowboys in the ninth round of the 1981 NFL Draft. Upon his release by the Cowboys during the preseason, he joined the 49ers where he was mentored by several accomplished coaches—Dennis Green, Bill Walsh, George Seifert, Sam Wyche, and Mike Holmgren. During his stay with San Francisco, the 49ers won four World Championships, appeared in six NFC title games, and won eight NFC West crowns. He is one of only three wide receivers in NFL history to own four Super Bowl rings. In addition, Wilson was honored as San Francisco's 1987 Ed Block Courage award winner. A native of Los Angeles, Wilson was an all-city and all-American football and basketball standout at Carson High School leading his team to the city title as a senior in basketball.

In 2001, Wilson was inducted into the North-South Shiners All-Star Game's "Hall of Fame." He still holds the record for the longest touchdown reception in the history of the game with his 97-yard reception in the 1978 contest. While in private business from 2001-2003, he served as an assistant for the annual East-West College All-Star game.

A member of the Board of Directors of the Champs Foundation, Wilson also serves on the boards of the Family House of San Francisco (Children with Cancer) and the Los Angeles Blazers Youth Organization Academic Center. Wilson also serves as the honorary chairman for the National Kidney Foundation Golf Tournament. Graduating from Washington State with a communications degree, Wilson resides in Chandler, Arizona and has two daughters in college Samantha (Yale University) and Emma (DePaul University).

NEW YORK SENTINELS

Ted Cottrell Head Coach

Former coach and executive with over two decades of NFL experience Ted Cottrell joins the United Football League as Head Coach of the New York Sentinels. Cottrell led the defense for several successful teams including the San Diego Chargers, Buffalo Bills, New York Jets and Minnesota Vikings.

As the defensive coordinator for the Chargers during the 2007 season, Cottrell's squad led the NFL in takeaways (48), interceptions (30) and passing rating defense (70.0) – the first time a Chargers team ever led in these categories. Prior to San Diego, Cottrell spent two seasons in the same position for the Minnesota Vikings. Under Cottrell's tutelage, the Vikings finished fifth in the NFL in takeaways and earned a postseason berth. From 2001-2004, Cottrell served as the New York Jets assistant head coach and defensive coordinator.

Considered an innovator in the 3-4 defense, Cottrell was an assistant coach for the Buffalo Bills from 1995-2000, the last three seasons as defensive coordinator. From 1998 through 2000, the Bills were one of the top six teams in the NFL in total defense and in 1999 led the league in total defense. Cottrell's NFL coaching career was launched in 1981 when he was hired by Marv Levy as linebackers coach for the Kansas City Chiefs. Prior to the pros, Cottrell coached at Rutgers University.

Cottrell starred at Delaware Valley College from 1965 to 1968. He was selected during the seventh round of the 1969 NFL Draft by the Atlanta Falcons and played linebacker for two seasons. Cottrell's playing days ended after two seasons with the Canadian Football League's Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Donald Blackmon Defensive Coordinator

A 19-year NFL coaching veteran, Donald Blackmon joins the New York Sentinels as Defensive Coordinator. Blackmon previously spent two years as the Kansas City Chiefs linebackers coach, a role he also held in Buffalo from 2003-05.

A former NFL linebacker with New England, Blackmon owns the distinction of reaching the Super Bowl as both a player and as an assistant coach. He was a starting linebacker on the '85 Patriots squad that advanced to Super Bowl XX. He also served as an assistant on Dan Reeves' staff for the '98 Falcons who appeared in Super Bowl XXXIII.

In his first season tutoring Kansas City's linebackers, Blackmon's squad was responsible for helping the Chiefs rank 11th in the NFL in scoring defense permitting just 19.7 points per game. He also tutored LB London Fletcher, who led the NFL in total tackles over the last six seasons.

Prior to joining Buffalo, Blackmon spent five seasons in Atlanta where he served as the linebackers coach for four years before being promoted to defensive coordinator in 2001. Under Blackmon's guidance, the Atlanta linebackers helped the Falcons set a club record by allowing just 1,203 rushing yards in '98, a paltry 75.2 yards per game average that ranked second in the NFL season. Blackmon was a member of an Atlanta coaching staff that helped guide the Falcons to their first-ever NFC Championship as the club earned a berth in Super Bowl XXXIII. Blackmon also served as the linebackers coach with Cleveland ('91) and the N.Y. Giants ('93-96). In his first season in New York, he helped the Giants defense limit opponents to 96.7 rushing yards per game.

Blackmon was a fourth-round draft choice (102nd overall) of New England in the '81 NFL Draft. He appeared in 89 games (72 starts) during his seven-year career, totaling 541 tackles (277 solo), 30.5 sacks, five interceptions for 63 yards, six fumble recoveries and 10 forced fumbles. He also saw action in six playoff games and started in Super Bowl XX, recording 31 tackles (17 solo). Blackmon suffered a career-ending neck injury four games into the '87 season. A three-time All-Missouri Valley Conference selection, Blackmon was named the conference Defensive Player of the Year as a senior at Tulsa. He concluded his collegiate career with a Tulsa record 40.0 tackles for loss and was inducted into the Golden Hurricane Hall of Fame in '90.

Blackmon was recently named to the New England Patriot's Team of the Decade (1980s). He and his wife Jacqueline have three children.

Derrick Burroughs Administrative Asst./Defensive Asst.

Derrick Burroughs joins the New York Sentinels as an Administrative Assistant/Defensive Backs Assistant. Burroughs spent this past season as the Defensive Backs Coach/Special Teams Coordinator for Alabama State University. He held a similar role for Stillman College in 2007.

A veteran of the Arena League, XFL and NFL Europe, Burroughs has worked as Defensive Backs Coach/Special Team for the Memphis Maniax (2001), Los Angeles Avengers (2000), Berlin Thunder (1998) and Amsterdam Admirals (1997). He also participated in the NFL's minority internship program with various clubs including Indianapolis Colts and the Buffalo Bills. Burroughs began his coaching career in 1995 as an Assistant Head Coach/Defensive Coordinator for Knoxville College.

A first round draft pick of the Buffalo Bills in 1985 (14th pick overall), Burroughs was named to the All-Rookie Team in his first year before suffering a career-ending injury in 1990. While at the University of Memphis, Burroughs was named MVP of the 1985 Blue/Gray All-Star Classic and was selected to the Senior Bowl.

Wes Chandler Offensive Coordinator

Wes Chandler joins the New York Sentinels as the Offensive Coordinator. Chandler brings a vast amount of experience as both a coach and a player. Along with leading the Berlin Thunder as head coach in NFL Europe, Chandler has spent time coaching the Dallas Cowboys, the Minnesota Vikings and the Cleveland Browns.

Chandler really made his mark as a wide receiver at the University of Florida, where he is considered one of the best UF players in history. With the Gators, he caught 92 passes for 1,963 yards and set the school record with his 22 touchdowns in the run-oriented offense, adding 6 more scores on rushes and kick returns. Chandler was named to many all-time school and all-Southeastern Conference teams as well as earning his spot on the College Football All-America Team selection in both 1976 and 1977.

Professionally, Chandler was selected as the third pick in the 1978 NFL Draft by the New Orleans Saints. Two years later, he was a Pro Bowl wide receiver after finishing his second season with 1,069 yards and 6 touchdown returns. After being traded to the San Diego Chargers in 1981, Chandler led the NFL in receiving yards (1,032) and receiving touchdowns (9) for the strike-shortened 1982 season. His 129 yards receiving per game that year is still an NFL record. Chandler finished his professional career with the San Francisco 49ers in 1988.

Chandler's career stats- caught 559 passes for 8,966 yards and 56 touchdowns, rushed for 84 yards, returned 48 kickoffs for 1,048 yards, and gained 428 yards on 67 punt returns, earned him four Pro Bowl appearances as well as a place in the San Diego Charger Hall of Fame.

Thurmond Moore Defensive Line Coach

Thurmond W. Moore, Jr. joins the New York Sentinels as Defensive Line Coach. Moore, a Sacramento native, has extensive experience on the defensive side of the ball, including coaching at a dozen collegiate football programs, five NFL internships and two NFL Europe seasons. He also coached two members of the 2005, 2006 and 2009 AFC Pro Bowl squad -- Indianapolis' Dwight Freeney and Pittsburgh's Joey Porter -- as collegians.

Most recently, Moore served as Orange Lutheran Defensive Coordinator where his defense allowed only 9.8 points per game and finished with a 20-5 record. In 2006, Moore served as a Defensive Line intern with the 14-2 San Diego Chargers.

Coach Moore was the Defensive Line coach with the UCLA Bruins in 2005, a team that recorded a 10-win season, which was only the 7th team in the school's football history to perform such a task. In 2004, Moore served as corner backs coach for the University of Tulsa.

Moore spent the 2001-2003 seasons as the defensive coordinator at the University of Buffalo. In his first season at Buffalo, Moore guided one of the biggest defensive turnarounds in the nation. A year later, his Bulls' defense set a Division I-A high of 27 sacks, a figure that ranked near the top of the Mid-American Conference (MAC).

Prior to his stint at Buffalo, Moore helped the Syracuse Orangemen place among the nation's top 20 in total defense in both the 1999 and 2000 seasons, finishing 14th (301.2 yards per game) in 1999 and 18th (311.91) in 2000. Prior to arriving at Syracuse, Moore was the defensive line coach for two seasons (1997-98) at Colorado State, helping the Rams to the 1997 Western Athletic Conference Championship and a berth in the Holiday Bowl where they defeated Missouri and finished with a school-record 14-2 mark.

Moore also worked as defensive line coach at his alma mater San Jose State (1996-97) and had previous coaching stints at North Texas (1995), Utah State (1994), Northern Arizona (1989-93), Delaware State (1986-88), Wyoming (1986), California (1983-85) and Cal State Sacramento (1980-82).

Moore has three sons Michael, Caleb and Avery. He and his wife Whitney reside in Chandler, Ariz.

Earle Mosley Running Backs Coach

Earle Mosley joins the New York Sentinels as Running Backs Coach. Earle brings a wealth of experience to the UFL having coached at both the professional and collegiate level since 1979. Most recently, he served as Offensive Unit Consultant for the 2009 American Football Champions Ritsumeikan University American Football Team in Kusatsu City, Japan.

While assistant coach at the University of Kansas, the team's running game improved dramatically. In 2005, KU's backs averaged 134 rushing yards per game -- 40 yards per game higher than the 2004 season. Prior to Kansas, Mosley coached the running backs for the Chicago Bears (1999-2005).

Prior to his appointment with the Bears, Mosley was an assistant coach for various college teams including Stanford (1997-98), Notre Dame (1992-96), Temple (1988-92), Northwestern (1984-88), Rutgers (1980-83) and West Chester State University (1979). While at Notre Dame, Mosley coached three 1,000-yard rushers: Reggie Brooks, Lee Becton and Autry Denson. He also coached future NFL star Jerome Bettis with the Fighting Irish.

Mosley has been frequently recognized for his accomplishments on the field. While at Northwestern in 1985, he was presented with the Delaware County Coaches Association "Appreciation Award" for service and support. In 1983, while at Rutgers, he was given the Washington D.C. Coaches Association "Appreciation Award" for service and support of its All-Star football clinic.

A three-year letter winner on the football field for the West Chester Golden Rams, Mosley also served as team captain in his senior year and was a first-team All Pennsylvania Conference selection at defensive back. He was inducted into the Dr. W. Glenn Killinger Foundation West Chester State University Football Hall of Fame in 1990 and the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame (Delaware County Chapter) in 2007. As an 2008 inductee to the Dr. Russell Sturzebecker Hall of Fame for West Chester University, Mosley was also recognized with the Lifetime Achievement Award for his coaching career.

Mosley spent two years as a member of the U.S. Army and served one tour of duty in Vietnam with the 1st Air Cavalry Division Battalion, 1st of the 5th Charlie Company, and was awarded the Purple Heart.

In 2007, Mosley founded the "Complete Running Back Academy" which offers position-specific training for running backs and punt returners.

John Tice Offensive Line Coach

John Tice joins the New York Sentinels as Offensive Line Coach. Most recently, Tice served as Offensive Line Coach at Army for his former NFL teammate Stan Brock. A 10-year NFL veteran, Tice was a third-round draft pick of the New Orleans Saints in the 1983 NFL Draft. He played in 134 games at tight end during his professional career and drew 56 starts. In 1992, Tice retired from the NFL due to a serious shoulder injury. At that time, he ranked ninth on the Saints' career reception list (158) and 11th on New Orleans' games played chart (134). He closed out his professional playing career with 1,602 receiving yards and 15 touchdown receptions.

At the conclusion of his playing days, Tice entered the private business sector and worked with youth and high school players in Florida. He returned to the NFL in 1999, joining the coaching staff of the Minnesota Vikings as an offensive assistant before adding duties as the club's tight ends coach in 2000 and assistant offensive line coach in 2002. In all, Tice spent seven years on the Minnesota coaching staff, four of those years serving under his brother Mike who was the Vikings head coach from 2002-05.

A 1983 graduate of the University of Maryland, Tice earned honorable mention All-America honors as a senior by both the Associated Press and The Sporting News. He and his wife Barbara have five children.

Pete Rodriguez Special Teams Coach

Pete Rodriguez joins the New York Sentinels as Special Teams Coach. Rodriguez has spent 19-years with the NFL as a special team coach, working with the Raiders, Cardinals, Redskins, Seahawks and Jaguars. For his accomplishments on the field, Rodriguez has been recognized by his peers as Special Teams Coach of the Year and was named Special Teams Coach of the Decade (1990's) by the Dallas Morning News.

Born and raised in inner-city Chicago's southside, Rodriguez played college football at Western State College of Colorado where he was a three-year starter as linebacker - offensive guard. At Western State, he earned a B.A. and M.A. in History-Political Science.

Rodriguez spent four years as a high school coach, two as the head coach in Colorado before becoming a grad assistant / linebacker coach at the University of Arizona. He continued in the college ranks as defensive coordinator at Western Illinois University, Florida State and Iowa State and then served four years as head coach at Western Illinois. Rodriguez moved up to the pros as a defensive line coach with the Michigan Panthers (2 years) and Denver Gold (1 year) of the USFL. He also served one season as the defensive coordinator of the Ottawa Roughriders in the CFL before starting his NFL career with the Raiders.

Rodriguez and his wife, Sherry, reside in Carlsbad, California.
