NBA DRAFT 2013 NOTES

- Seventy-seven players applied for early entry in NBA Draft 2013, including 46 players from U.S. colleges and institutions and 31 international players. Up until 2009, domestic early entry candidates had until 10 days prior to the draft to withdraw their names, provided they had not hired an agent. A rule change by the NCAA now requires players to withdraw their names by April 16 in order to retain their eligibility. International early entry candidates still have until 10 days prior to the draft to withdraw.
- Of the 60 players that were drafted in 2012, 26 (including 11 first-round selections) spent time in the NBA D-League this past season, the eighth in which NBA teams were allowed to assign first-, second- and third-year players. They ranged from the 12th overall pick (Jeremy Lamb, Houston Rockets/Oklahoma City Thunder) to the 60th selection (Robert Sacre, Los Angeles Lakers). One hundred twenty four players from the past five draft classes have played in the NBA D-League. In 2012-13, the NBA D-League's 12th season, an all-time high 11 NBA teams were singly affiliated with their NBA D-League team.
- Cleveland will make the top selection for the fifth time in franchise history. The Cavaliers previously selected Austin Carr (1971), Brad Daugherty (1986), LeBron James (2003) and Kyrie Irving (2011) with the top overall pick. Orlando is picking second for the first time in franchise history. The Magic has not made a selection in the Lottery since 2006 (J.J. Redick). Washington is making the third pick for the second straight year. Last year, the Wizards tapped Florida's Bradley Beal, who went on to capture NBA All-Rookie First Team honors. Charlotte, which has never picked higher than second, will make the fourth overall selection.
- Unlike 2012, when Kentucky's Anthony Davis was a shoe-in to be selected with the top overall pick, this year's NBA Draft offers no consensus top player. Candidates for the top spot include Kentucky's Nerlens Noel, Kansas' Ben McLemore, Georgetown's Otto Porter, UNLV's Anthony Bennett, Michigan's Trey Burke and Indiana's Victor Oladipo. If Noel is selected with the top overall pick, it will mark the first time in the modern era of the NBA Draft (1966 – present) that a player from the same college was the top pick in back-to-back years. Kentucky also had the top pick in 2010 – John Wall.
- Last year there were no international players selected in the lottery. This year there are several international players who could crack the top 14: Croatia's Dario Saric, France's Rudy Gobert and Germany's Dennis Schroeder head the list. In 2011, there were four international players (who didn't play for a U.S. college) selected in the lottery – Enes Kanter (3rd, Turkey), Jonas Valanciunas (5th, Lithuania), Jan Vesely (6th, Czech Republic) and Bismack Biyombo (7th, Republic of Congo).
- NBA teams continue to find quality players in the second round of the NBA Draft. In 2012, the Golden State Warriors selected Draymond Green with the 35th overall selection. Green was a regular part of the rotation for a Warriors team that advanced to the second round of the playoffs in 2013. Orlando nabbed Kyle O'Quinn with the 49th overall pick. O'Quinn appeared in 57 games, averaging 4.1 points and 3.7 rebounds. In 2011-12, Sacramento's Isaiah Thomas, the 60th overall pick in the 2011 NBA Draft, went on to capture NBA All-Rookie Second Team honors, after averaging 11.5 points and 4.1 assists, while shooting 45 percent from the field in 65 games. Houston's Chandler Parsons, the 38th overall selection, earned NBA All-Rookie Second Team honors, averaging 9.5 points, 4.8 rebounds and 2.1 assists in 63 games.
- Glen Rice, Jr., who spent this past season with the Rio Grande Valley Vipers of the NBA Development, has an excellent chance to be drafted in the first round of the 2013 NBA Draft. Rice is automatically eligible for the 2013 NBA Draft, having signed a professional contract this past season, after spending three seasons at Georgia Tech, before being dismissed from the team. Rice would become the third player drafted straight out the fourth player drafted straight out of the NBA D-

League, joining Mike Taylor (2008), Latavious Williams (2010) and Chukwudiebere Maduabum.

- There were five college seniors selected in the first round of the 2012 NBA Draft. Of the 30 players selected in the first round, 19 had at least two year's experience at the college level. There were nine college freshman selected, one shy of the record 10 in 2008.
- Getting the No. 1 pick doesn't guarantee that you'll be making the playoffs right away. Only four No. 1 picks have won NBA Rookie of the Year and helped their teams into the playoffs that same season: David Robinson, Chris Webber, Tim Duncan, and Derrick Rose. Only five No. 1 picks have ever led the team that drafted them to an NBA championship since the NBA/ABA merger in 1976: Magic Johnson, James Worthy, Hakeem Olajuwon, Robinson, and Duncan.
- At least one son of a former NBA player has been selected in the last nine NBA drafts: Mike Dunleavy (2002), Luke Walton (2003), Jackson Vroman (2004), Sean May (2005), Ronnie Brewer (2006), Al Horford (2007), Patrick Ewing Jr. (2008), Stephen Curry, Gerald Henderson and Austin Daye (2009), Ed Davis (2010) and Klay Thompson and Nolan Smith (2011).
- Since the lottery moved to its present format in 1994, the team with (or tied for) the best odds has won just three of the 20 lotteries: Philadelphia in 1996 (selected Allen Iverson); Cleveland in 2003 (selected LeBron James and Orlando in 2004 (selected Dwight Howard). The NBA Draft Lottery began in 1985. Since that time, every team in the NBA has had at least one lottery pick. The San Antonio Spurs have had the longest lottery drought among all teams, having not been in the lottery since selecting Tim Duncan No. 1 overall in 1997. The Sacramento Kings are in the lottery for the sixth consecutive year, the longest active streak.
- This year marks the 29th Draft Lottery in NBA history. With a record of 48-34 in 2007-08, the Golden State Warriors are the winningest team in NBA history to qualify for the Draft Lottery. The previous winningest team was the 2000-2001 Houston Rockets (45-37). The Rockets finished 13th in the drawing and wound up drafting Richard Jefferson (who was later traded to New Jersey). In 1986, both the Los Angeles Clippers and Phoenix Suns sported the two best lottery team records at 32-50. The Clippers won the top pick, which was automatically sent to Philadelphia as part of trade. The Sixers then traded the pick to Cleveland, which selected Brad Daugherty No. 1 overall. The odds were again defied in 1993 as the Orlando Magic (41-41) jumped over 10 teams to claim the top pick, which they used to select Chris Webber, who was later traded to Golden State in exchange for Penny Hardaway and three future number one picks.
- Last year, three players who played in the 2012 Portsmouth Invitational Tournament heard their names called on draft night: Missouri's Kim English (44th overall, Detroit), Tennessee Tech's Kevin Murphy (47th overall, Utah) and Norfolk State's Kyle O'Quinn (49th overall, Orlando). Three more spent time in the NBA this season: Old Dominion's Kent Bazemore (Golden State), Dayton's Chris Johnson (Memphis) and Georgetown's Henry Sims (New Orleans).
- In the early days, the draft used to last as long as teams desired, with the proceedings ending only when every team tired of calling out names. As of 1973, the draft lasted an amazing 20 rounds (at least it did for the fledgling Buffalo Braves, who needed all the players they could get after winning only 21 games the season before). In 1974, the league adopted a 10-round NBA Draft, a format that stayed in place until 1985, when it was scaled back to seven rounds. After three years of seven-round drafts, the draft was shaved to three rounds in 1988 and to its current length of two rounds in 1989.

Section I. Player Eligibility.

(a) No player may sign a Contract or play in the NBA unless he has been eligible for selection in at least one (1) NBA Draft. No player shall be eligible for selection in more than two (2) NBA Drafts.

(b) A player shall be eligible for selection in the first NBA Draft with respect to which he has satisfied all applicable requirements of Section I(b)(i) below and one of the requirements of Section I(b)(ii) below:

(i) The player (A) is or will be at least 19 years of age during the calendar year in which the Draft is held, and (B) with respect to a player who is not an international player (defined below), at least one (1) NBA Season has elapsed since the player's graduation from high school (or, if the player did not graduate from high school, since the graduation of the class with which the player would have graduated had he graduated from high school); and

(ii)

(A) The player has graduated from a four-year college or university in the United States (or is to graduate in the calendar year in which the Draft is held) and has no remaining intercollegiate basketball eligibility; or

(B) The player is attending or previously attended a four-year college or university in the United States, his original class in such college or university has graduated (or is to graduate in the calendar year in which the Draft is held), and he has no remaining intercollegiate basketball eligibility; or

(C) The player has graduated from high school in the United States, did not enroll in a four-year college or university in the United States, and four calendar years have elapsed since such player's high school graduation; or

(D) The player did not graduate from high school in the United States, and four calendar years have elapsed since the graduation of the class with which the player would have graduated had he graduated from high school; or

(E) The player has signed a player contract with a "professional basketball team not in the NBA" (defined below) that is located anywhere in the world, and has rendered services under such contract prior to the Draft; or

(F) The player has expressed his desire to be selected in the Draft in a writing received by the NBA at least sixty (60) days prior to such Draft (an "Early Entry" player); or

(G) If the player is an "international player" (defined below), and notwithstanding anything contained in subsections (A) through (F) above:

(1) The player is or will be twenty-two (22) years of age during the calendar year of the Draft; or

(2) The player has signed a player contract with a "professional basketball team not in the NBA" (defined below) that is located in the United States, and has rendered services under such contract prior to the Draft; or

(3) The player has expressed his desire to be selected in the Draft in a writing received by the NBA at least sixty (60) days prior to such Draft (an "Early Entry" player).

maintained a permanent residence outside of the United States for at least the three (3) years prior to the Draft, while participating in the game of basketball as an amateur or as a professional outside of the United States; (ii) who has never previously enrolled in a college or university in the United States; and (iii) who did not complete high school in the United States.

Section 6. Application to “Early Entry” Players.

If a player who is eligible for the Draft pursuant to Section 1(b)(ii)(F) or (b)(ii)(G)(3) above (an “Early Entry” player) is selected in such Draft by a Team, the following rules apply:

(a) Subject to Section 6(b) below, if the player does not thereafter play intercollegiate basketball, then the Team that drafted him shall, during the period from the date of such Draft to the date of the Draft in which the player would, absent his becoming an Early Entry player, first have been eligible to be selected, be the only Team with which the player may negotiate or sign a Player Contract, provided that such Team makes a Required Tender to the player each year by the date specified in Section 4(a) above. For purposes hereof, the Draft in which such player would, absent his becoming an Early Entry player, first have been eligible to be selected, will be deemed the “Subsequent Draft” as to that player, and the rules applicable to a player who has been drafted in a Subsequent Draft will apply. If the player, having been selected in a Draft for which he was eligible as an Early Entry player, has not signed a Player Contract with the Team that drafted him in such Draft following a Required Tender by that Team and is not drafted in the Subsequent Draft (as defined in the previous sentence), he shall become a Rookie Free Agent.

EARLY ENTRY CANDIDATE HISTORY

Following a lawsuit filed by Spencer Haywood, the NBA was required by the courts to grant admission to underclassmen even though their college classes had not graduated. Accordingly, in 1971 the league held a separate draft for underclassmen wishing to enter the NBA who displayed financial hardship. Beginning in 1972, such players were included in the regular NBA draft. In 1976, the hardship requirement was eliminated and the current Early Entry procedure was adopted whereby any athlete with remaining college eligibility who desires to enter the NBA Draft may do so by renouncing his college eligibility in a letter to the Commissioner postmarked 45 days before the draft.
