The Changing Trophy

Clockwise from top left: Lord Stanley, Canada's Governor-General, donated the squat English silver bowl that soon bore his name. The custom of engraving the winners' names on the trophy forced it to grow with the addition of silver bands. By 1932, the trophy had become an ungainly cylinder that grew taller by the time Toronto goaltender Turk Broda posed with the Cup in 1947. The silver bands from this cigar-shaped trophy were remounted in 1948, forming a two-piece trophy that split at the top of the wide barrel. The top part would be presented to each year's winning captain; the barrel remained on the presentation table. A new five-band barrel was added in 1958, forming the one-piece Stanley Cup in use today. The inscribed names of each year's winner filled the five bands in 1991. The top band was removed and a new one added at the base. With the addition of the names of the 2004 Cup-winning Tampa Bay Lightning, this new band has been filled as well.

Introduction

YOU CAN TAKE THIS TO THE BANK: the Stanley Cup probably is the most popular sports trophy in the world... Certainly, it is the most recognizable. And it got that way strictly on merit—no costly promotional campaign of flashing lights and crashing cymbals. It comes closer to being a People's Cup than any other trophy in sport. They line up for hours to get a look at it, peering at the names of hockey idols past and present. The secret of its popularity is its availability. It goes where there are people. It's friendly.

For more than 100 years the Stanley Cup trophy has been the game's talisman, a focal point shared by players and fans. The shimmering silver bowl, collar and barrels have been displayed everywhere from Miami to Moscow where they have been admired and photographed by hundreds of thousands. It's been the star of the show at small-town rinks and on late-night talk shows, all the while conveying the pride and joy of having reached hockey's pinnacle.

Cup. Produced by the editors of the NHL Official Guide & Record Book, the 2010 edition of Total Stanley Cup is an in-depth information package of particular use for journalists and the broadcast media on the hockey playoff beat.

Content is divided into four sections:

- Section I deals with the origins of the trophy and provides background on Lord Stanley, Canada's Governor-General who donated it in 1893 but never saw a Stanley Cup game (page 6). The many changes to the trophy itself and the intricacies and idiosyncrasies of the engraving upon it are described as is Cup competition in the early challenge era (page 13). A chronology of the NHL's evolving playoff format with special emphasis on the setup of the 2010 playoffs is found here (page 11).
- Section II provides comprehensive highlights and playoff records. Each NHL club's all-time playoff record, top playoff scorers and series-by-series results are listed (page 15) as are year-by-year playoff scoring leaders (page 28), and Stanley Cup-winning goal scorers (page 86). Highlights of each season's playoff competition from 2009 to 1893 along with the score of every playoff game and the roster of each Cup-winning team are found here (page 29) as are complete team (page 72) and individual playoff record books (page 76). Also included is a playoff coaching register (page 83) and lists of every penalty shot (page 81), three-goal-game (page 87) and overtime game (page 90) in Stanley Cup play.

- Section III offers similar coverage of the Stanley Cup Final. A team-by-team Final Series history (page 105) and a Final Series record book (page 109) is supplemented by year-by-year scoring in the Final (page 116), an alphabetical listing of every player who was a member of a Cup winner from 1893 to date (page 131) and Final Series scoring, goaltending and coaching statistics for all NHLers (pages 137, 143 and 144). There is also a statistical summary of every Final Series game played since 1993 complete with team rosters, scoring and penalty statistics, shots on goal and on-ice officials (page 148).
- Section IV is comprised of two complete statistical registers, providing year-by-year Stanley Cup playoff statistics for every player and every goaltender to appear in the NHL. More than 6,000 players are listed. The NHL Playoff Player Register is found on page 171. The Goaltender Register begins on page 282.

Several other features in Total Stanley Cup are worth noting: This introduction begins with a excerpt from an essay by the late Milt Dunnell, a recipient of the Hockey Hall of Fame's Elmer Ferguson Memorial Award for writing, who has covered playoff hockey since the 1920s. Eric Zweig's "Lord Stanley and His Cup Revealed" (page 6) deals with the donation of the silver trophy, its evolution and engraving as well as the passions it has ignited.

"Odd and Unusual Moments" (page 71) details many of the oddest moments in the history of the Stanley Cup trophy. It's been misplaced, drop-kicked, kidnapped and dented more than once in its 117-year existence.

"This Date in Stanley Cup History" (page 98) chronicles outstanding and surprising events in the playoffs. April and May have been busy!

"The Post-War Dynasties" (page 146) looks at the accomplishments of eight teams of distinction. Three versions of the Montreal Canadiens (1956-60, 1965-69 and 1976-79), two generations of the Toronto Maple Leafs (1947-51 and 1962-64), the Detroit Red Wings (1950-55), the New York Islanders (1980-83) and the Edmonton Oilers (1984-90) make the dynasty list.

Your comments, suggestion and corrections are extremely valuable to the Total Stanley Cup editorial team. In addition, you will find much more information about the 2010 postseason as part of www.nhl.com's comprehensive playoff coverage.

Lord Stanley and His Cup Revealed

The Bearded Gent and the Trophy That Bears His Name

Eric Zweig

A Brief Biography

PREDERICK ARTHUR, LORD STANLEY OF PRESTON, 16th Earl of Derby, was born in London on January 15, 1841. The son of a three-time Prime Minister of England, he himself was a British Member of Parliament from 1865 to 1886. He also sat in the House of Lords, and served a short stint as the Secretary of State for the British colonies. Publicly shy and politically careful, Lord Stanley was an advocate of closer ties between Britain and its colonies. He was appointed Governor-General of Canada in 1888.

Like most British aristocrats of the day, Lord Stanley was an avid sportsman. He and his family enjoyed the new sports they discovered during his posting to Ottawa. Snowshoeing and toboggan parties became a wintertime feature of life at Rideau Hall, the Governor-General's official residence. Skating and the new sport of ice hockey were also popular. Stanley's daughter Isobel was among the first female hockey players in Canada, while two of his sons, Arthur and Algernon, formed a men's hockey club known as the Rideau Rebels. In 1890, Arthur Stanley helped establish the Ontario Hockey Association. Lord Stanley himself was a patron of the Ottawa Athletic Association, and it was at a dinner for this group on March 18, 1892, that the Governor-General asked Lord Kilcoursie, one of his aides and a member of the Rebels hockey team, to read a letter on his behalf:

Gentlemen:

I have for some time been thinking that it would be a good thing if there were a challenge cup, which would be held from year to year by the leading hockey club in the Dominion (of Canada). There does not appear to be any outward sign of the championship at present, and considering the general interest which hockey matches now elicit, and the importance of having the game played fairly and under rules generally recognized, I am willing to give a cup which shall be held from year to year by the winning club.

Lord Stanley's offer was accepted, and a decorative bowl was purchased from a London silversmith for 10 guineas (the equivalent of $51.10). Originally called the Dominion Hockey Challenge Cup, the championship trophy would soon be known by the name of its benefactor. The Stanley Cup was first won by the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association hockey club, champions of the Amateur Hockey Association of Canada (the top hockey league in the country) in 1893. Ironically, Lord Stanley never witnessed a championship game nor attended the presentation of his trophy, having returned home in the midst of the 1893 hockey season. He passed away at Holwood, England, on June 14, 1908.

Original Terms of the Deal

The Governor-General, in accordance with a promise made last year, has given a hockey challenge cup to be held from year to year by the winning team in the Dominion. The cup is now in Ottawa, and in two or three days will be presented to the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, whose team defeated all comers during the [past] season, including the champions of the Ontario association.

It has been found convenient in the case of challenge cups open to competition to more than one association (for instance the Queen's cup for yachts) to commit the charge of the cup to trustees, who will hand it to the winning team at the conclusion of the hockey season each year. Accordingly Lord Stanley has nominated Sheriff Sweetland and Mr. P. D. Ross of Ottawa as trustees and has asked them to award it annually on the following terms.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S CONDITIONS

- 1. The winner to give bond for the return of the cup in good order when required by the trustees for the purpose of being handed over to any other team who may in turn win.
- 2. Each winning team to have at their own charge engraved on a silver ring fitted on the cup for the purpose the name of the team and the year won. (In the first instance the M. A. A. A. will find the cup already engraved for them.)
- 3. The cup shall remain a challenge cup and will not become property of any team, even if won more than once.
- 4. In case of any doubt as to the title of any club to claim the position of champions, the cup shall be held or awarded by the trustees as they may think right, their decision being absolute.
- 5. Should either trustee resign or otherwise drop out, the remaining trustee shall nominate a substitute.

Lord Stanley in view of the fact of several hockey associations existing in Canada, also asked the trustees to suggest some means of making the cup open to all, and thus representative of the hockey championship as completely as possible, rather than of any one association.

The trustees accordingly have suggested that the Amateur Hockey Association of Canada, (the eastern organization) and the Ontario Hockey Association (the western), be asked to acquiesce in the following rules, which will be submitted to the earliest respective meetings of the two associations.

- 1. That the Cup be called the Stanley Hockey championship cup.
- 2. That it be held by the M. A. A. A. team until the championship of the association to which that team belongs, namely the Amateur Hockey association of Canada, be decided next year, when the cup shall go to the winning team
- 3. In order, however, that the Ontario Hockey association

- shall have an equal interest in the cup, the Amateur Hockey association of Canada and the Ontario Hockey association be requested to each arrange its season so that there shall be an opportunity for a final match between the champion teams of the two organizations.
- 4. The trustees would respectfully suggest to the associations that this could be done by each association arranging to close its separate championship contest not later than the first Saturday in March. (Practically this is done now, the A. H. A. of C. for instance closing its season on March 8, and the Ontario association usually being still earlier. The first Saturday in March could not be earlier than March 1 nor later than March 7. Next year it will be March 3.)
- 5. If the above suggestion were adopted, the championship of the A. H. A. of C. would accordingly be settled next year on March 3, and also possession of the Stanley cup so far as that association is concerned. Then the winner might be open to challenge from the championship club of the Ontario association.
- 6. Then and thereafter, a challenge from the champion club of one association to a champion club of the other holding the cup might be sent under the following conditions:
 - (a.) Challenge permissible either by wire or registered letter on the first Saturday or following Monday of March.
 - (b.) The club holding the cup must answer within two days of receipt of challenge.
 - (c.) The answer must either (1) appoint the following Saturday (the second in March) or give the challenging club the option of naming within two days any other legal day up to and inclusive of March 15. (The object of this clause is that as travelling on any but a Saturday is inconvenient, if the home club can not or will not give Saturday, the visiting club should have a choice.) The home club shall be obliged, if required, to furnish the trustees with satisfactory reasons for not giving the Saturday.
 - (d.) The match shall be played on ice named by the champions, but the net gate receipts shall be equally divided between the contesting teams.
 - (e.) Should the challenging club default after a date is fixed, it shall pay any advertising or other expenses gone to by the champions in preparation for the match.
- 7. The fact that the club winning the Ontario championship may also belong to and have been defeated in the A. H. A. of C. series shall not debar it from challenging for the Stanley cup; and vice versa, the fact that the Ontario champions may also have won in the A. H. A. of C. series shall not debar the second best team in the A. H. A. of C. from challenging the champions for a final match. (The object of this is to continue the interest in the game up to the very close of the season.)
- 8. Should any representative provincial Hockey association outside of Quebec and Ontario desire to compete for the cup, the trustees shall endeavor to arrange means whereby its champion team may secure an opportunity to play for it.
- 9. In case a senior league is ever formed representing the best hockey irrespective of local associations, the trustees may give its winning club the right to challenge for the cup, and if successful to hold it thereafter subject to new championship regulations.

How It Got That Way: Physical Changes to the Stanley Cup

The original Stanley Cup bowl purchased in London in $1892 \ \text{stood} \ 71/2$ inches (19 cm) tall and measured 111/2 inches (29 cm) across the top. It was mounted on an ebony base that made the trophy about one foot (29 cm) tall. In accordance with Lord Stanley's terms, the base was fitted with a silver ring that was used to engrave the names of the winning teams. In 1909, a new base with a new silver ring was added to the bottom of the Cup. It now stood about 16 inches (40 cm) tall.

No further changes were made to the Stanley Cup until 1924, when the Montreal Canadiens added a silver band between the two engraved rings. When the Victoria Cougars won the Cup the following year, they added a band between the bottom of the original bowl and the first ring. The Stanley Cup now appeared completely silver from top to bottom. In future years, the silver area beneath the bowl would be known as the collar.

Following the lead of Montreal and Victoria, Stanley Cupwinning teams recorded their victories and the names of their players by adding new silver bands of varying shapes\ which saw the Cup increase in size by differing amounts almost every year through 1929. From 1930 through 1939, identical-looking thin bands of engraved silver were added every year to commemorate the champions. During the 1940s, the Stanley Cup was standardized as a long "cigar-shaped" trophy which stood almost three feet (90 cm) high. In 1948, it was rebuilt into a two-piece trophy with a wide barrel-shaped base beneath the removable bowl and collar. The new base was sheathed with the rings that had made up the "cigar" of the 1930s and 1940s.

Additional engraving was added to the barrel annually until 1958, when the modern one-piece Stanley Cup was introduced. The silver from the old barrel was then retired to the Hockey Hall of Fame and replaced with five new wide bands, each of which could accommodate the names of 13 winners. The names of Cup winners beginning in 1928 were engraved on the new barrel before the revamped trophy was first presented.

Though the Cup's collar was replaced by a duplicate in 1963, and the original bowl was retired in 1969, the Stanley Cup still appears in the same form as it has since 1958. It is 36 inches (90 cm) tall and 18 inches (45 cm) across the base. It weighs 35 pounds (16 kg). For the opening of the new Hockey Hall of Fame in Toronto in 1993, a replica of the trophy (and all the other NHL trophies) was built so that the Hall would always have a version of the Stanley Cup to display when the muchmodified "original" trophy was on the road. (The trophy hoisted by the winning captain on the ice is always the "original.")

While the basic look of the Stanley Cup has not changed, there have been further alteration. In 1991, the Pittsburgh Penguins filled the last available spot on the wide barrel bands. (When the trophy was remodeled in 1958 it was designed so that the last space would be filled by the winner during Cup's centennial year of 1991–92. This plan was thrown off by a year when the names of the 1964–65 Montreal Canadiens were engraved over a space that was larger than normal.)

Rather than make the trophy bigger, and thereby change a shape that had become so familiar to hockey fans throughout the world, the decision was made to remove the top band (which contained the Cup winners from 1928 to 1940) and retire it to the Hockey Hall of Fame. The four remaining bands were then moved up the barrel, and a new fifth band was added at the bottom. This new bottom band was filled after Tampa Bay's victory in 2004, forcing the process to be repeated.

What's in a Name: How the Practice of Engraving the Stanley Cup Evolved

THOUGH MANY OF THE EARLY WINNERS of hockey's most coveted trophy are known to have engaged in some freelance silversmithing with a knife or a nail, the formal engraving of player names on the Stanley Cup began in 1907. It did not become an annual rite until 1924. In between, there are several seasons in which even the names of the winning teams do not appear on the trophy.

In accordance with Lord Stanley's wishes, team names in the earliest years of the Cup's history were engraved on a silver ring beneath the original bowl. By 1902, the ring was completely filled. When the Montreal AAA successfully defended their third Stanley Cup title against the Winnipeg Victorias in 1903, they carved their team name right into Lord Stanley's bowl. The Ottawa Silver Seven continued this new practice when they took possession of the Cup later that season, only with a twist. When the Silver Seven successfully turned back a challenge, they engraved not only the year and their name on the bowl but also the name of the team that they had beaten. For this reason, the name Rat Portage appears on the Stanley Cup in 1903. (Rat Portage would win the Stanley Cup under its new name of Kenora in 1907.) By the time the Silver Seven were dethroned in 1906, Ottawa's long championship reign had left no room on the Cup for hockey's new champions; the Montreal Wanderers.

The Wanderers were certainly not about to let their championship go unrecorded. The Montreal team chose to engrave its name right into the decorative fluting atop the Stanley Cup bowl. They covered half the bowl's circumference with their first win, then filled the other half when they turned back a challenge from New Glasgow, Nova Scotia. When the Kenora Thistles defeated the Wanderers in January 1907, they had to record their triumph inside the Stanley Cup bowl. This must have inspired the Montreal squad, for when they won the trophy back from Kenora in March, they inscribed the bottom of the bowl's interior with their team name and with the names of all of their players.

The 1908 season was the Wanderers' best yet, as they defeated four different Stanley Cup challengers. And how did these great champions, innovators of engraving that they were, commemorate these triumphs? They didn't! Only months after becoming the first team to engrave the names of its players on the Stanley Cup, the Montreal Wanderers became the first team in hockey history not to record its victory at all.

Why did the Wanderers leave their name off the Stanley Cup? No one associated with the trophy, nor none of its many biographers knows the answer. The truth may be lost to history forever, but it seems the Wanderers must have lacked the initiative, or felt they lacked the proper authority—or perhaps they were simply not willing to pay—to make additions to the Stanley Cup.

Apparently, Ottawa (now known as the Senators) did not share whatever concern the Wanderers must have had. After the Senators won the trophy in 1909, a new base was built below the original silver ring and a second silver ring was added, where the team recorded its victory. The Senators entertained two Stanley Cup challenges during the 1910 season, winning them both, but year's end saw the Wanderers win the Cup back from Ottawa. However, not only did the Montreal squad fail to take advantage of the new ring on the Stanley Cup to add their 1908 championship to the trophy, they also did not bother to record their victory in 1910.

When Ottawa regained possession of the Cup in 1911, the Senators also left their name off the trophy. Again, no Stanley Cup authority has the answer, so it's only possible to speculate as to why. Old newspapers provide some clues. For example, it seems the Wanderers never took possession of the Stanley Cup after their victory in 1910. It appears that when he bought the club early the next season, Sam Lichtenheim did not put up the necessary bond to ensure safekeeping of the trophy. (It's likely he didn't know this was required of him.) As for Ottawa, there was talk in 1911 that the Stanley family would donate a new trophy, so perhaps the Senators chose not to spend money engraving the old one. (The offer of a new Cup was declined.)

The Stanley Cup got back on track in 1912, but was in trouble again by 1915, albeit of a different kind. Between 1915 and 1918, the Ottawa Senators, Portland Rosebuds, and Vancouver Millionaires all put their names on the Cup, even though they had not officially won it. The Cup was no longer a challenge trophy by then. Its playoff had become a World Series-like showdown between the sport's two top pro leagues: the NHA and the Pacific Coast Hockey Association. All three of these teams had defeated the defending Stanley Cup champions to win their own league title, but then lost the Cup to the eventual winner in the NHA-PCHA playoff.

When the Vancouver Millionaires actually won the Stanley Cup in 1915, they placed the team name on the lower ring started by Ottawa in 1909, but also engraved the names of the players within the flutes on the inside of the original bowl. When Vancouver carved its 1918 PCHA title onto the lower ring it completed the space available there. When the Toronto Arenas (of the newly formed NHL), beat Vancouver in the playoffs that year, there was no room left on the Stanley Cup for them. Their name does not appear. In fact, no more names would be added to the Stanley Cup for six seasons. Why? Once again, no one knows. Only 1919 can be logically explained, in that no champion was declared that year. The series between the Montreal Canadiens and Seattle Metropolitans was called off, due to the Spanish Influenza epidemic that killed millions of people around the world, including Joe Hall of the Canadiens. The omission of Ottawa's Cup wins in 1920, 1921 and 1923, along with the Toronto St. Pats' victory in 1922, cannot be explained, other than that, perhaps like the Montreal Wanderers, these teams felt they lacked the authority—or the money—to make alterations to the Stanley Cup.

Finally, in 1924, when hockey's most prized trophy involved a three-league battle between the NHL, the PCHA, and the Western Canada Hockey League, the champion's name is once again found on the Stanley Cup. The Montreal Canadiens defeated Ottawa, Vancouver, and Calgary in two-straight games each and celebrated their victory with a gaudy silver band encircling the area between the original rings. Every player, as well as everyone else associated with the team that year, had their name engraved on the Stanley Cup, just as they have every season since.

And what about the teams from 1908, 1910, 1911, and 1918 to 1923? Well, it's true that they did not engrave their names on the trophy in their day, but it's not entirely accurate to say these teams cannot be found anywhere on the trophy. In 1948, when the NHL remodeled the Stanley Cup from a tall, narrow tube into the basic barrel-shape still seen today, the names of all Cup-winning teams were engraved on the newly created "shoulder" of the trophy where the collars met the barrel. So the Stanley Cup won't forget these missing teams, even if the teams didn't leave their mark on the trophy themselves.

All-Time NHL Playoff Formats

- 1917-18 The regular-season was split into two halves. The winners of both halves faced each other in a two-game, total-goals series for the NHL championship and the right to meet the Pacific Coast Hockey Association champion in the best-of-five Stanley Cup Final.
- 1918-19 Same as 1917-18, except that the NHL Final was extended to a best-of-seven series.
- 1919-20 Same as 1917-1918, except that Ottawa won both halves of the split regular-season schedule to earn an automatic berth into the best-of-five Stanley Cup Final against the PCHA champions.
- 1921-22 The top two teams at the conclusion of the regular-season faced each other in a two-game, total-goals series for the NHL championship. The NHL champion then moved on to play the winner of the PCHA-Western Canada Hockey League playoff series in the best-of-five Stanley Cup Final.
- 1922-23 The top two teams at the conclusion of the regular-season faced each other in a two-game, total-goals series for the NHL championship. The NHL champion then moved on to play the PCHA champion in the best-of-three Stanley Cup Semifinals, and the winner of the Semifinals played the WCHL champion, which had been given a bye, in the best-of-three Stanley Cup Final.
- 1923-24 The top two teams at the conclusion of the regular-season faced each other in a two-game, total-goals series for the NHL championship. The NHL champion then moved on to play the loser of the PCHA-WCHL playoff (the winner of the PCHA-WCHL playoff earned a bye into the Stanley Cup Final) in the best-of-three Stanley Cup Semifinals. The winner of this series met the PCHA-WCHL playoff winner in the best-of-three Stanley Cup Final.
- 1924-25 The first place team (Hamilton) at the conclusion of the regular-season was scheduled to play the winner of a two-game, total-goals series between the second (Toronto) and third (Montreal) place clubs. However, Hamilton refused to abide by this new format, demanding greater compensation than offered by the League. Thus, Toronto and Montreal played their two-game, total-goals series, and the winner (Montreal) earned the NHL title and then played the WCHL champion (Victoria) in the best-of-five Stanley Cup Final.
- 1925-26 The format which was intended for 1924-25 went into effect. The winner of the two-game, total-goals series between the second and third place teams squared off against the first place team in the two-game, total-goals NHL championship series. The NHL champion then moved on to play the Western Hockey League champion in the best-of-five Stanley Cup Final.

After the 1925-26 season, the NHL was the only major professional hockey league still in existence and consequently took over sole control of the Stanley Cup competition.

- 1926-27 The 10-team league was divided into two divisions Canadian and American of five teams apiece. In each division, the winner of the two-game, total-goals series between the second and third place teams faced the first place team in a two-game, total-goals series for the division title. The two division title winners then met in the best-of-five Stanley Cup Final.
- 1928-29 Both first place teams in the two divisions played each other in a best-of-five series. Both second place teams in the two divisions played each other in a two-game, total-goals series as did the two third place teams. The winners of these latter two series then played each other in a best-of-three series for the right to meet the winner of the series between the two first place clubs. This Stanley Cup Final was a best-of-three.
 - Series A: First in Canadian Division vs. First in American Division (best-of-five)
 - Series B: Second in Canadian Division vs. Second in American Division (two-game, total-goals)
 - Series C: Third in Canadian Division vs. Third in American Division (two-game, total-goals)
 - Series D: Winner of Series B vs. Winner of Series C (best-of-three)
 - Series E: Winner of Series A vs. Winner of Series D (best-of-three) for Stanley Cup
- 1931-32 Same as 1928-29, except that Series D was changed to a two-game, total-goals format and Series E was changed to best-of-five.
- 1936-37 Same as 1931-32, except that Series B, C, and D were each best-of-three.
- 1938-39 With the NHL reduced to seven teams, the two-division system was replaced by one seven-team league. Based on final regular-season standings, the following playoff format was adopted:
 - Series A: First vs. Second (best-of-seven)
 - Series B: Third vs. Fourth (best-of-three)
 - Series C: Fifth vs. Sixth (best-of-three)
 - Series D: Winner of Series B vs. Winner of Series C (best-of-three)
 - Series E: Winner of Series A vs. Winner of Series D (best-of-seven)
- 1942-43 With the NHL reduced to six teams (the "original six"), only the top four finishers qualified for playoff action. The best-of-seven Semifinals pitted Team #1 vs Team #3 and Team #2 vs Team #4. The winners of each Semifinal series met in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup Final.
- 1967-68 When it doubled in size from 6 to 12 teams, the NHL once again was divided into two divisions East and West of six teams apiece. The top four clubs in each division qualified for the playoffs (all series were best-of-seven):
 - Series A: First (East) vs. Third (East)
 - Series B: Second (East) vs. Fourth (East)
 - Series C: First (West) vs. Third (West)
 - Series D: Second (West) vs. Fourth (West)
 - Series E: Winner of Series A vs. Winner of Series B
 - Series F: Winner of Series C vs. Winner of Series D
 - Series G: Winner of Series E vs. Winner of Series F

- 1970-71 Same as 1967-68 except that Series E matched the winners of Series A and D, and Series F matched the winners of Series B and C.
- 1971-72 Same as 1970-71, except that Series A and C matched first and fourth place teams, and Series B and D matched second and third place teams.
- 1974-75 With the League now expanded to 18 teams in four divisions, a completely new playoff format was introduced. First, the #2 and #3 teams in each of the four divisions were pooled together in the Preliminary round. These eight (#2 and #3) clubs were ranked #1 to #8 based on regular-season record:
 - Series A: Team #1 vs. Team #8 (best-of-three)
 - Series B: Team #2 vs. Team #7 (best-of-three)
 - Series C: Team #3 vs. Team #6 (best-of-three)
 - Series D: Team #4 vs. Team #5 (best-of-three)

The winners of this Preliminary round then pooled together with the four division winners, which had received byes into this Quarter-Final round. These eight teams were again ranked #1 to #8 based on regular-season record:

- Series E: Team #1 vs. Team #8 (best-of-seven)
- Series F: Team #2 vs.Team #7 (best-of-seven)
- Series G: Team #3 vs. Team #6 (best-of-seven)
- Series H: Team #4 vs. Team #5 (best-of-seven)

The four Quarter-Final winners, which moved on to the Semifinals, were then ranked #1 to #4 based on regular season record:

- Series I: Team #1 vs. Team #4 (best-of-seven)
- Series J: Team #2 vs. Team #3 (best-of-seven)
- Series K: Winner of Series I vs. Winner of Series J (best-of-seven)
- 1977-78 Same as 1974-75, except that the Preliminary round consisted of the #2 teams in the four divisions and the next four teams based on regular-season record (not their standings within their divisions).
- 1979-80 With the addition of four WHA franchises, the League expanded its playoff structure to include 16 of its 21 teams. The four first place teams in the four divisions automatically earned playoff berths. Among the 17 other clubs, the top 12, according to regular-season record, also earned berths. All 16 teams were then pooled together and ranked #1 to #16 based on regular-season record:
 - Series A: Team #1 vs. Team #16 (best-of-five)
 - Series B: Team #2 vs. Team #15 (best-of-five)
 - Series C: Team #3 vs. Team #14 (best-of-five)
 - Series D: Team #4 vs. Team #13 (best-of-five)
 - Series E: Team #5 vs. Team #12 (best-of-five)
 - Series F: Team #6 vs. Team #11 (best-of-five)
 - Series G: Team #7 vs. Team #10 (best-of-five) Series H: Team #8 vs. Team #9 (best-of-five)
- The eight Preliminary round winners, ranked #1 to #8 based on regular-season record, moved on to the Quarter-Finals:
- Series I: Team #1 vs. Team #8 (best-of-seven)
- Series J: Team #2 vs. Team #7 (best-of-seven)
- Series K: Team #3 vs. Team #6 (best-of-seven) Series L: Team #4 vs. Team #5 (best-of-seven)

The four Quarter-Finals winners, ranked #1 to #4 based on regular-season record, moved on to the Semifinals:

Series M: Team #1 vs. Team #4 (best-of-seven) Series N: Team #2 vs. Team #3 (best-of-seven) Series O: Winner of Series M vs. winner of Series N (best-of-seven)

1981-82 – The first four teams in each division earned playoff berths. In each division, the first-place team opposed the fourth-place team and the second-place team opposed the third-place team in a best-of-five Division Semifinal (DSF) series. In each division, the two winners of the DSF met in a best-of-seven Division Final (DF) series. The two DF winners in each conference met in a best-of-seven Conference Final (CF) series. In the Prince of Wales Conference, the Adams Division winner opposed the Patrick Division winner; in the Clarence Campbell Conference, the Smythe Division winner opposed the Norris Division winner. The two CF winners met in a best-of-seven Stanley Cup Final (F) series.

1986-87 – Division Semifinal series changed from best-of-five to best-of-seven.

1993-94 - The NHL's playoff draw was conferencebased rather than division-based. At the conclusion of the regular season, the top eight teams in each of the Eastern and Western Conferences qualified for the playoffs. The teams that finished in first place in each of the League's divisions are seeded first and second in each conference's playoff draw and were assured of home ice advantage in the first two playoff rounds.

The remaining teams were seeded based on their regular-season point totals. In each conference, the team seeded #1 plays #8; #2 vs. #7; #3 vs. #6; and #4 vs. #5. All series were best-of-seven with home ice rotating on a 2-2-1-1-1 basis, with the exception of matchups between Central and Pacific Division teams. These matchups were played on a 2-3-2 basis to reduce travel. In a 2-3-2 series, the team with the most points could choose to start the series at home or on the road. The Eastern Conference champion faced the Western Conference champion in the Stanley Cup Final.

1994-95 – Same as 1993-94, except that in first, second or third-round playoff series involving Central and Pacific Division teams, the team with the better record had the choice of using either a 2-3-2 or a 2-2-1-1-1 format. When a 2-3-2 format was selected, the higher-ranked team also had the choice of playing games 1, 2, 6 and 7 at home or playing games 3, 4 and 5 at home. The format for the Stanley Cup Final remained 2-2-1-1-1.

1998-99 – The NHL's clubs were re-aligned into two conferences each consisting of three divisions. The number of teams qualifying for the Stanley Cup Playoffs remained at 16.

First-round playoff berths were awarded to the first-place team in each division as well as to the next five best teams based on regular-season point totals in each conference. The three division winners in each conference were seeded first through third, in order of points, for the playoffs and the next five best teams, in order of points, were seeded fourth through eighth. In each conference, the team seeded #1 played #8; #2 vs. #7; #3 vs. #6; and #4 vs. #5 in the quarter-final round. Home-ice in the Conference Quarter-Finals was granted to those teams seeded first through fourth in each conference.

In the Conference Semifinals and Conference Finals, teams were re-seeded according to the same criteria as the Conference Quarter-Finals. Higher seeded teams gained home-ice advantage.

Home-ice advantage for the Stanley Cup Final to be determined by regular season points.

All series remain best-of-seven.

2010 Playoff Format

The National Hockey League's 30 clubs are aligned into two conferences, each consisting of three divisions (Eastern Conference: Atlantic, Northeast, Southeast; Western Conference: Central, Northwest, Pacific). The number of teams qualifying for the 2008 Stanley Cup Playoffs remains at 16.

First-round playoff berths will be awarded to the first-place team in each division, as well as to the next five best teams (based on regular-season point totals in each conference). The three division winners in each conference will be seeded first through third (in order of points) and the next five best teams (in order of points) will be seeded fourth through eighth. In each conference, the team seeded #1 will play the team seeded #8; #2 vs. #7; #3 vs. #6 and #4 vs. #5 in the Conference Quarter-Final round. Home-ice in the Conference Quarter-Finals is granted to those teams seeded first through fourth in each conference.

In the Conference Semifinals and Conference Finals, teams will be reseeded according to the same criteria as the Conference Quarter-Finals (division leaders will be seeded first and granted home-ice advantage while the remaining teams will be seeded in order of regular-season points).

Home-ice advantage in the Stanley Cup Final will be determined by points. All series remain best-of-seven.

Tie-Breaking Procedure

In the event two or more clubs are tied in points at the conclusion of the regular season, the standing of the clubs in each conference will be determined in the following order:

- 1. The greater number of games won.
- 2. The greater number of points earned in games between the tied clubs. If two clubs are tied, and have not played an equal number of home games against each other, points earned in the first game played in the city that had the extra game shall not be included. If more than two clubs are tied, the higher percentage of available points earned in games among those clubs (and not including any"odd" games) shall be used to determine the standing.
- The greater differential between goals for and against for the entire regular season.

Conference Quarter-Finals (Series A – H)

The six regular-season division champions will be ranked in the first three positions in their respective conferences, the clubs with the greatest number of points being ranked first in their respective conferences. The remaining five playoff clubs in each conference will be ranked based on regular-season points. Following are the matchups based on the rankings.

Eastern Conference Western Conference

Series A	#1 (Division winner) vs. #8	Series E	#1 (Division winner) vs. #8
Series B	#2 (Division winner) vs. #7	Series F	#2 (Division winner) vs. #7
Series C	#3 (Division winner) vs. #6	Series G	#3 (Division winner) vs. #6
Series D	#4 vs #5	Series H	#4 vs #5

Conference Semifinals (Series I – L)

If one division winner is eliminated in the Conference Quarter-Finals: The remaining division winners would be seeded first and second, followed by the two remaining clubs in order of regular-season points. The #1 seed would face the club with the fewest regular-season points, while the other two clubs would meet.

If two division winners are eliminated in the Conference Quarter-Finals: The remaining division winner would be seeded first, followed by the three remaining clubs in order of regular-season points. The #1 seed would face the club with the fewest regular-season points, while the other two clubs would meet.

If all three division winners are eliminated in the Conference Quarter-Finals:

The remaining clubs would be ranked in order of regular-season points.

The remaining team with the most regular-season points would be seeded first, followed by the three remaining teams. The #1 seed would face the #4 seed, while the #2 and #3 seeds would meet.

If a division winner meets a non-division winner that compiled more regularseason points: The division winner would receive home-ice advantage.

Conference Finals (Series M and N)

The same criteria used in the selection of order for the Conference Quarter-Finals (Advancing division winners, followed by remaining clubs based on regular-season points) again will be in effect.

If a division winner meets a non-division winner that compiled more regularseason points: The division winner would receive home-ice advantage.

If Conference Semifinal series end early: Start dates for the Conference Finals may be moved up depending on a number of factors, including building availability and travel schedules.

Stanley Cup Final (Series O)

The Eastern Conference and Western Conference champions will meet in the Stanley Cup Final series. Home ice will be determined by the greater number of regular-season points, subject to the tie-breaking procedures outlined previously. Games will be played on a 2-2-1-1-1 basis.

In the Beginning

From Amateur Challenge Trophy to Pro Hockey Supremacy

Eric Zweig

THE HISTORY OF THE STANLEY CUP prior to the formation of the NHL in 1917 tells the story of how hockey grew from a regionalized amateur pastime into a professional business. Like Darwin's theory of natural selection, the Stanley Cup was able to evolve with the changing times.

When Lord Stanley proposed the idea of a championship trophy in 1892, the "modern" sport of hockey was less than 20 years old. First moved indoors off frozen lakes and rivers in Montreal in 1875, the game was still played most competitively in that city, as well as in nearby Ottawa and Quebec City. The Amateur Hockey Association of Canada, formed in 1886, comprised teams from those cities. Hockey also had a following in Kingston, where outdoor ice games had been played since at least the 1850s. The popularity of hockey in that city helped the game grow through southern Ontario, and in 1890 the Ontario Hockey Association was formed. By that year, the game had also spread to western Canada where it found a particularly fevered following in Winnipeg. Having been home to a variety of outdoor stick and ice games since the early 1800s, Canada's east coast had its own hockey following as well. All of these different areas of interest would eventually be brought together in the quest for Lord Stanley's Cup.

Engraved with the name "Dominion Hockey Challenge Cup," Lord Stanley's trophy was first presented in 1893. It was awarded to the hockey club from the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, who had won the league title in the Amateur Hockey Association which was recognized as the top league in Canada. But as Lord Stanley wanted his Cup to be truly representative of a national championship, he instructed his trustees, Philip Dansken Ross and Sheriff John Sweetland, to construct a set of terms that would allow teams from across the country to challenge for the trophy. The Stanley Cup, therefore, would not be the sole property of the AHA (or of any hockey league), but could be competed for by the senior champion of any recognized provincial association. However, once a team had won it, the Stanley Cup belonged to them until someone defeated them. Defeating them did not necessarily entail issuing a challenge, for the trustees determined that the Stanley Cup could also change hands within a given league. For example, when the Montreal Victorias unseated the AAA for the AHA championship in 1895 they automatically became holders of Stanley Cup. But in order for the Manitoba and NorthWest Hockey Association's Winnipeg Victorias to become champions in 1896, they had to issue a challenge to their Montreal counterparts. Once Winnipeg had won the Stanley Cup, it became property of them in the Manitoba league and when the Montreal Victorias successfully defended their AHA championship they had to challenge Winnipeg in order to win back the Stanley Cup.

Though the AHA was replaced by the Canadian Amateur Hockey League in 1899, the system of determining Stanley Cup winners that was devised in 1893 went on without a hitch until 1904 when the Ottawa Silver Seven threatened the status quo.

By defeating the defending champion Montreal AAA for the CAHL title in 1903, Ottawa had won the Stanley Cup, but trouble began the following season. On January 30, 1904, the Silver Seven were delayed en route to Montreal for a league game against the Victorias. As a result, the game was not yet over when the two teams agreed to leave the ice at midnight with Ottawa leading 4-1. CAHL officials refused to grant Ottawa the victory, and ordered that the game be replayed. The ensuing debate ended with the Silver Seven withdrawing from the league. CAHL officials hoped the Stanley Cup would then pass to their new league champion (Quebec), but the trustees ruled it would remain with Ottawa. Even though they were no longer a part of any establishd hockey league, the Silver Seven defeated the OHA champion Toronto Marlboros, then had a series with the Montreal Wanderers abandoned, due to a scheduling conflict, before defeating a team from Brandon, Manitoba that featured a young defenseman named Lester Patrick. Any further problems were resolved when the Silver Seven joined the Federal Amateur Hockey League in 1905. In 1906, the Ottawa club helped form the Eastern Canada Amateur Hockey Association (ECAHA), which replaced the CAHL as the top league in the country.

With a lineup that boasted future Hall of Famers Bouse Hutton, Harvey Pulford, Harry Westwick, Alf Smith, Billy Gilmour, and Frank McGee, the Silver Seven were the first legendary hockey team of the 20th century. Tough and talented, they remained Stanley Cup champions until finally relinquishing the trophy in 1906. During their championship run, the Silver Seven played off for the title ten times—far more than any other team during the Stanley Cup's challenge era.

From 1893 to 1906 the Winnipeg Victorias (1896 and 1901) were the only Stanley Cup winners from outside Montreal and Ottawa. In these early days of Stanley Cup competition, geography and climate played almost as important a role as skill in determining a champion. During this time period, the hockey season in leagues across Canada ran from January to early March—cold weather being a must in arenas that relied on natural ice. This being the case, a Stanley Cup challenge match might be scheduled in late December before the start of hockey season or in mid-March if weather still permitted, but the majority were scheduled in midseason during January and February. The Stanley Cup trustees could only accept as many challenges as time (i.e. the weather and regular-season schedules) would permit, and an arduous travel agenda didn't make an underdog's role any easier—as the Dawson City Nuggets discovered in 1905.

The most unusual challenge in Stanley Cup history was received by the trustees on September 9, 1904. Spearheaded by businessman and adventurer Joe Boyle, Dawson City's Stanley Cup bid was officially sanctioned on December 10. Originally scheduled to be completed by January 10, 1905, the start of the series was pushed back to January 13 in order to accommodate an election that had been called in the Yukon Territory. The hockey players from Dawson City left town on December 18, 1904. Traveling 4,000 miles on foot and on dogsled, by bicycle, boat and train, they arrived in Ottawa just one day before the start of the series. On the road for almost an entire month, they were in understandably poor condition. After a 9–2 Ottawa victory in the opener, the series concluded with Dawson City being defeated 23–2 on January 16, 1905. Frank McGee scored 14 goals for the Silver Seven that evening.

Ottawa's run as Stanley Cup champions ended when the team lost the ECAHA title to the Montreal Wanderers in March 1906. By November of that year, the Wanderers and Ottawa played a key role in ushering in a new era in Stanley Cup history. At the ECAHA annual meeting prior to the upcoming 1907 season, the teams push through a resolution that allowed professional players to play alongside amateurs. The only stipulation was that teams would be required to declare which of their players were pros and which were amateurs, and that the status of these players would be published in the newspapers.

The issue of professionalism was a hot topic in Canada and around the sporting world during the late 19th century and into the 20th. Many people continued to cling to the British aristocratic tradition of sports for sports' sake, but the truth was that many hockey players had been paid to play almost from the beginning—though these payments were usually made in secret. The first openly professional hockey league was the International (Pro) Hockey League, which operated with teams in Pennsylvania, Michigan and northwestern Ontario from 1904 to 1907. Though the issue remained contentious, the Stanley Cup trustees (now P.D. Ross and William Foran) did not impose any moral judgements. If the top league in Canada voted to allow professionals to compete, than the Stanley Cup would be open to competition from professional teams. Once the decision was made, there was no turning back. In 1908, a new trophy (the Allan Cup) was introduced to recognize Canada's amateur champions. The Stanley Cup was now the emblem of professional hockey supremacy. Organizations like the Ontario Professional Hockey League and the Maritime Professional Hockey League would soon arise and send challengers to compete for the Stanley Cup.

In 1910, a new league emerged as the top hockey circuit in Canada. The National Hockey Association (forerunner of the NHL) introduced the Montreal Canadiens to the game during its inaugural season. In 1910–11 (the schedule was now beginning in December) the NHA changed the timing of hockey games from two 30-minute halves to three 20-minute periods. This year would also prove significant in that from this point on, all challenge matches for the Stanley Cup would take place at the conclusion of the regular season. Prior to the 1911-12 season, the NHA eliminated the position of rover and introduced the six-man game.

Yet another change was introduced to hockey for the 1911–12 season. The Pacific Coast Hockey Association was formed by Frank and Lester Patrick. In addition to running the league, Frank would serve as a player, coach, general manager, and owner of the PCHA's Vancouver Millionaires. Lester held the same duties with the Victoria Aristocrats. (It was hoped the monied monikers would lend the league a touch of class.)

Using proceeds from the sale of their father's British Columbia lumber business, the Patrick brothers built Canada's first artificial ice rinks in Vancouver and Victoria in order to overcome the west coast's non-hockey climate. Using their hockey connections in the east, they raided talent from NHA rosters to stock their teams, as well as the PCHA's third franchise in New Westminster. Notable names like Newsy Lalonde, Tommy Dunderdale, and Moose Johnson (Hockey Hall of Famers all) went west that first season, though the man who would give the PCHA the credibility it needed (as he had previously done for the NHA) did not come on board until the league's second season. Fred "Cyclone" Taylor was signed by the Vancouver Millionaires in 1912–13.

The Patricks were innovators, and while it was the NHA that would one day become the NHL it was the PCHA that truly modernized hockey. Though Frank and Lester stubbornly maintained the position of rover, they also painted blue lines on the ice to divide the playing surface into zones, legalized forward passing, and permitted goaltenders to leave their feet. In all, some 20 rules proposed by Frank Patrick would eventually find their way into NHL rule books.

Meanwhile, since its inception in 1910, no team from a rival league had been able to defeat the NHA's champion for the Stanley Cup. As such, the Stanley Cup was passed from the Montreal Wanderers in 1910 to the Ottawa Senators in 1911, to the Quebec Bulldogs in 1912 as the NHA found itself with a new league leader for three straight years. Quebec repeated as champions in 1913. In the late summer of that year, the NHA and the PCHA reached an agreement that would see (among other things) the champions of each league meet in an annual postseason series. The host city would alternate yearly between east and west, with the two league's differing sets of rules to be switched game by game. In March of 1914, the Victoria Aristocrats travelled to Toronto to take on the NHA champion Blueshirts. Though there was some difficulty with the trustees at first, P.D. Ross and William Foran soon agreed that this annual playoff should be used to determine the Stanley Cup champion. The days of the challenge era were over.

Another significant development in Stanley Cup history took place in 1914. The PCHA's New Westminster Royals franchise left British Columbia for Oregon, where it became the Portland Rosebuds for the 1914–15 season. (Portland is known as "The Rose City.") By admitting an American city into a league that competed for the Stanley Cup, PCHA president Frank Patrick created the possibility that a United States-based team might one day play for a trophy that had previously been emblematic of Canadian supremacy. In December of 1915, the trustees formally announced that they were agreeable to this situation. The Rosebuds won the PCHA title in 1916, but they lost the Stanley Cup Final to the Montreal Canadiens, who won for the first time in franchise history. One year later, the Seattle Metropolitans beat the Canadiens in the NHA–PCHA "World Series" and the Stanley Cup headed south of the border.

Just 25 years after it had been presented, the Stanley Cup was no longer a challenge trophy, nor was it held by the champion team of the Dominion of Canada. These had been the preliminary conditions laid down by Lord Stanley. However, one of the original conditions had also provided that the Cup would be held or awarded by the trustees as they saw fit. By changing with the times, the trustees ensured that the Stanley Cup would always be the top prize in hockey.

Year-By-Year Highlights, Scores, and Rosters

NOTE: Numbers in square brackets, e.g. [8], indicate playoff seeding beginning in 1994. Seeding numbers are found beside team names in Game One of each series.

With a pair of superstars leading the way, the Pittsburgh Penguins won the Stanley Cup for the first time since current owner and former superstar Mario Lemieux led them to back-to-back titles in 1991 and 1992. Sidney Crosby became the youngest captain in to hoist the hardware, while Evgeni Malkin won the Conn Smythe Trophy. Malkin joined Lemieux, Wayne Gretzky, Guy Lafleur and Phil Esposito as the only players since NHL expansion in 1967 to lead the league in scoring in the regular-season and the playoffs. Dan Bylsma took over a slumping team late in the season and coached them to a championship.

Alex Ovechkin scored 56 goals to lead the regular season for the second straight year and also won his second straight Hart Trophy as MVP. His Capitals had 50 wins and a club-record 108 points. They eliminated the Rangers in seven games to open the playoffs and then put the Penguins in a hole with two straight wins to open their second-round series. Pittsburgh recovered to win the series in seven games, and then swept Carolina in the Eastern Conference Final to set up a Stanley Cup rematch with Detroit.

The Red Wings had won their eighth straight Central Division title and knocked off Columbus (in their first playoff appearance), Anaheim and a much-improved Chicago team in the playoffs. As in 2008, Detroit won two games at home to open the Final but Pittsburgh rallied to take the series. Maxime Talbot scored both goals in the Penguins' 2-1 victory in game seven.

Defenseman Nicklas Lidstrom became the first European captain to lead his team to the Stanley Cup. It was the Detroit Red Wings fourth title since 1997. This edition of the Red Wings could both attack and defend. Pavel Datsyuk led the team with 97 points and won the Selke Trophy as top defensive forward, while Henrik Zetterberg, who topped the team with 43 goals, finished third in the voting. Zetterberg tied with teammate Johan Franzen for the playoff lead with 13 goals and equaled Sidney Crosby with 27 playoff points.

Injuries prevented Sidney Crosby from duplicating his MVP performance of 2006-07, but teammate Evgeni Malkin picked up the slack. Malkin had 106 points to finish second in the NHL scoring race as the Penguins recorded 102 points to finish first in the Atlantic Division. With Crosby and goalie Marc-Andre Fleury back in fine form for the playoffs, the Penguins advanced all the way to the Stanley Cup Final where they were defeated by Detroit in six games.

Chris Osgood, who started the playoffs on the bench, took over during game four of Detroit's opening-round series with Nashville and went on to lead all goalies with a 1.55 goals against average. He opened the Final with two straight shutouts before the Penguins won game three. Detroit had a chance to wrap up the series at home in game five but lost a thrilling triple overtime decision. The Red Wings hoisted the Cup in Pittsburgh two nights later with a 3-2 win.

Detroit won best-of-seven series 4-1

Following up on what had been a record-breaking season the year before, the Anaheim Ducks set new marks with 48 wins, 110 points and 258 goals scored in capturing their first Pacific Division title in 2006-07. Offensively, Teemu Selanne led the way with 48 goals as he became the oldest in NHL history to top 40 goals in backto-back seasons. Dustin Penner scored 29 in his first full season, while Andy McDonald, Chris Kunitz and Ryan Getzlaf also topped 20. Scott Niedermayer, who had helped to defeat the Ducks in the 2003 Stanley Cup Final as a member of the New Jersey Devils, anchored the defense along with newly acquired Chris Pronger.

The Ducks opened the playoffs with a fivegame victory over the Minnesota Wild, then defeated the Vancouver Canucks in five games (with overtime victories in the last two). After dropping a 2-1 decision to Detroit in the first game of the Western Conference Final, the Ducks evened the series on a Scott Niedermayer overtime goal in game two and went on to eliminate the Red Wings in six games.

The Ottawa Senators faced the Ducks in the Stanley Cup Final. Led by a top line of Daniel Alfredsson, Dany Heatley and Jason Spezza (who finished 1-2-3 in playoff scoring), Ottawa had only lost three times throughout the playoffs, but dropped the first two games against Anaheim. The Senators won the third game in the series but lost the next two as the Ducks became the first West Coast team to win the Stanley Cup since the 1925 Victoria Cougars.

The Carolina Hurricanes were surprise contenders for top spot in the NHL throughout the 2005-06 season. By season's end, they had finished atop the Southeast Division with 112 points, 20 ahead of the defending champion Tampa Bay Lightning and just one point behind the Ottawa Senators for the first seed in the Eastern Conference. Offensively, Carolina was led by 21-year-old Eric Staal, who had 100 points (45 goals, 55 assists). Goaltender Martin Gerber set a Hurricanes record with 38 wins, but the playoff hero was rookie netminder Cam Ward.

The Hurricanes opened the playoffs with two straight losses to the Montreal Canadiens before rallying behind Ward to win four in a row.

After three straight victories to open their second-round series against New Jersey, the Hurricanes eliminated the Devils in five games. The Eastern Conference Final pitted Carolina against the equally surprising Buffalo Sabres. The result was a tense, seven-game victory for the Hurricanes.

The Edmonton Oilers faced Carolina for the Stanley Cup. The Oilers had squeaked into the playoffs in eighth place before upsetting the topranked Detroit Red Wings. They then knocked off San Jose and Anaheim. In the Stanley Cup Final, the Oilers rallied from a three-games-to-one deficit to force a seventh game, but their Cinderella run ended there when Carolina won game seven 3-1. Eric Staal set up Justin Williams for the clinching goal with 1:01 remaining to give the Hurricanes the first Stanley Cup victory in franchise history.

Tampa Bay's surprising success the season before raised expectations in 2003–04. Those expectations were not just met, but exceeded. The Lightning not only won the Southeast Division for the second year in a row, they topped the entire Eastern Conference with 106 points and finished second overall behind the Detroit Red Wings. In the playoffs, they reached the Stanley Cup Final, where they met the upstart Calgary Flames and defeated them in a tense, seven-game series.

The Lightning opened the playoffs with a five-game victory over the New York Islanders. Martin St. Louis, who had led the NHL in scoring and would collect the Hart Trophy as MVP in addition to the Art Ross Trophy (most points), scored the series winner in overtime. Round two featured a four-game sweep of the Montreal Canadiens. A seven game victory over the Philadelphia Flyers followed in the Eastern Conference Final.

Out west, fans in Calgary were painting the town red after victories over the Vancouver Canucks, the Red Wings and the San Jose Sharks. Against Tampa Bay, the Flames built up a 3–2 lead in the series through five, but the Lightning evened matters with a Martin St. Louis goal just 33 seconds into the second overtime period in game six. Calgary goaltender Miikka Kiprusoff had emerged as a star throughout the regular season and playoffs, but it was Tampa Bay's Nikolai Khabibulin who slammed the door in game seven for a 2–1 Lightning victory.

The New Jersey Devils won their third Stanley Cup in the past nine seasons after defeating Anaheim in the seventh game of the Cup Final. The series marked the first time since 1965 that the home team won every game in the final.

After 4-1 series wins over Boston and Tampa Bay the Devils then eliminated the Ottawa Senators in a seven-game Conference Final.

Those series wins set up a Stanley Cup Final against the Western Conference champion Mighty Ducks of Anaheim. The Devils won the first two games of the Cup Final by identical 3-0 scores before losing to the Ducks in overtime of both game three and four. The Devils came home for game five and again won by three goals, this time by a 6-3 margin. Anaheim forced game seven after handily winning game six 5-2. New Jersey, backed by star goaltender Martin Brodeur, completed their trend of winning by three goals as they once again shutout the Ducks 3-0. Five players, Martin Brodeur, Sergei Brylin, Ken Daneyko, Scott Niedermayer and Scott Stevens, are members of the Devils' three Stanley Cup-winning teams.

The Detroit Red Wings became the first team in NHL history to win the Stanley Cup after starting the playoffs with two losses at home. After losing the first two games in their Conference Quarter-final to the Vancouver Canucks, the Red Wings then won 16 of their next 21 games en route to their third Cup win under coach Scotty Bowman. Bowman established a new coaching record with his ninth Cup victory, surpassing the mark he held with legendary Montreal coach Toe Blake.

After the slow start in their showdown against the Canucks, Detroit proceeded to win the series in six games. They then defeated the St. Louis Blues in five games before eliminating the Colorado Avalanche in a seven-game Conference Final.

Those series wins set up a Stanley Cup Final against the Eastern Conference champion Carolina Hurricanes. The Hurricanes stunned the Red Wings in game one of the finals on the strength of Ron Francis' overtime goal. That would be Carolina's only win in the series as the Red Wings won four straight including a triple overtime win in game three that proved to be the turning point in the series. The Cup win would be the first for many veterans on the team including goaltender Dominik Hasek, forward Luc Robitaille, as well as defensemen Steve Duchesne and Fredrik Olausson. It also marked the second Cup win for Chris Chelios, 16 years after he first won the Cup as a member of the Montreal Canadiens in 1986.

The Colorado Avalanche capped a remarkable season with a seven-game Stanley Cup Final victory over the defending champion New Jersey Devils. Raymond Bourque had dubbed the Stanley Cup quest "Mission 16W" for the 16 wins it would take to send him into retirement as a champion for the first time in his 22-year career.

Unlike their first Stanley Cup victory in 1996, when the Avalanche never needed more than six games to win a series and swept past the Florida Panthers in four, Colorado was pushed to the brink twice in 2001. The Avalanche needed seven games to dispose of the Los Angeles Kings in the Western Conference Semifinal and lost Peter Forsberg to a serious injury in the process. After a five-game victory over the St. Louis Blues in the Conference Final Colorado scored a decisive 5-0 victory to open the Stanley Cup Final. However, when the Devils took three of the next four games, the Avalanche found themselves facing elimination in the sixth game at New Jersey. The Avalanche were outshot 24 to 18, but emerged with a 4-0 victory thanks to the brillance of Patrick Roy and a goal and two assists from Adam Foote. Roy made 25 saves back home in Denver two nights later, and Joe Sakic had a goal and an assist to give the Avalanche a 3-1 victory and their second Stanley Cup win in six seasons.

On the strength of Jason Arnott's Cup-winning goal in double overtime, the New Jersey Devils won their second Stanley Cup championship by defeating the Dallas Stars four games to two. Nine members of the Devils' squad were also on their Cup-winning team in 1995. The series marked the first time since 1984 (NY Islanders) that the reigning Cup champion made it to the final but failed to defend their title. New Jersey was led by veteran defenseman Scott Stevens whose spirited play throughout the postseason earned him the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP.

Apart from the opening game, which New Jersey won 7-3, the series was closely matched. Four of the remaining five games were decided by one goal including the final two games which were decided in overtime. In fact, game five was not decided until the third overtime period while game six went to a second overtime period. The last time that two games in a final went to at least the second overtime period was back in 1934 (Chicago vs. Detroit). Before getting to the Final the Devils had series wins over Florida, Toronto and Philadelphia. In the series against the Flyers the Devils trailed three games to one before overtaking Philadelphia with three straight wins, including two on the road.

It had been five years since the NHL's best regular-season team had also been its playoff champion, but this year the Dallas Stars won the Stanley Cup after winning the Presidents' Trophy for the second year in a row. The Stars won the first Cup title in franchise history by beating the Buffalo Sabres in a hard-fought series that marked the first time since 1994 that the Stanley Cup Final had not ended in a sweep. Dallas took the series in six games, with Brett Hull scoring the winning goal at 14:51 of the third overtime session. The second-longest game in the history of the Stanley Cup Final ended at 1:30 a.m. local time in Buffalo.

The Stars were led by Joe Nieuwendyk, who paced all playoff performers with 11 goals and also won the Conn Smythe Trophy. Mike Modano's 18 assists were tops in the playoffs, while Ed Belfour provided stellar goaltending, outperforming Buffalo's Dominik Hasek in the Stanley Cup Final after besting Colorado's Patrick Roy in the Western Conference Final. The Stars had opened the playoffs with a four-game sweep over Edmonton before downing St. Louis in a tight six-game series that saw four games decided in OT.

With a four-game sweep of the Washington Capitals, the Detroit Red Wings became the first team since the Pittsburgh Penguins (1991 and 1992) to repeat as Stanley Cup champions. The Red Wings were led by Steve Yzerman, who became just the fifth player to receive the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player in the playoffs while captain of his team. Scotty Bowman equalled Toe Blake's NHL record of eight Stanley Cup coaching victories.

Despite the four-game sweep in the Final, Detroit did not have a smooth road to the Cup, as they were forced to play six games in each of the three series leading up to the Stanley Cup Final. Overall, the team had equal success at home and on the road, posting identical 8–3 records. A total of ten Red Wing players contributed the 16 gamewinning goals scored en route to the Stanley Cup.

The on-ice celebration produced one of the most emotional moments in NHL history, as injured teammate Vladimir Konstantinov participated in the post-game festivities from his wheelchair. Konstantinov had been a key part of Detroit's Stanley Cup championship in 1997, but nearly lost his life in a car accident one week after the victory.

The Detroit Red Wings won their first Stanley Cup title since 1955 with a four-game final series sweep of the Philadelphia Flyers. The series opened at the CoreStates Center in Philadelphia in front of 20,291 fans, the largest crowd ever to witness a hockey game in the state of Pennsylvania. Goaltender Mike Vernon made 26 saves in a 4-2 Detroit win as unheralded Red Wings Kirk Maltby and Joe Kocur gave Detroit a 2-1 lead after the first period. Sergei Fedorov tallied the game-winner just after the midway point of the second. Maltby scored again in game two, breaking a 2-2 tie in the second period with what would prove to be the game-winning goal. Rod Brind'Amour scored both of the Flyers' goals in the game, connecting for two power-play markers 1:09 apart late in the first period.

The Red Wings returned home to a vocal and supportive crowd for game three at Joe Louis Arena and responded with a 6–1 win to take a commanding 3–0 lead in the series. The Flyers opened the scoring on a first-period goal by John LeClair, but Detroit replied with three unanswered goals before the period ended. The win snapped Detroit's eight-game and 33-year homeice losing streaks in the Stanley Cup Final. Sergei Fedorov and Martin Lapointe each tallied twice to pace the Red Wings.

The Red Wings completed the series sweep by defeating the Flyers 2-1 in game four. Red Wings defenseman Nicklas Lidstrom's goal late in the first period gave Detroit a lead it would not relinquish and Darren McCarty scored the Stanley Cup-winning goal on a spectacular individual effort at 13:02 of the second period. Goaltender Mike Vernon was named the Conn Smythe Trophy winner as the MVP of the playoffs, finishing the postseason with a 16–4 record and 1.76 goalsagainst average. He allowed two goals or fewer in 17 of his 20 playoff games.

The Colorado Avalanche became Stanley Cup champions in their first season in the Mile High City after moving west from Quebec, sweeping the surprising Florida Panthers in the final series. Colorado was led by the scoring flash of Joe Sakic, Valeri Kamensky and Peter Forsberg, backed up by a solid defense and the stellar goal-tending of Patrick Roy, but it was Uwe Krupp who scored the Cup-winning goal at 4:31 of the third overtime period in the longest 1-0 game in the history of the Stanley Cup Final.

Goaltending had been the story for Florida, as the Panthers, who had made the playoffs in just their third season, relied on the spectacular work of John Vanbiesbrouck to knock off the Boston Bruins, Philadelphia Flyers and Pittsburgh Penguins. Colorado advanced with victories over Vancouver and Chicago before defeating Detroit in the Western Conference final.

Despite the final series sweep, the games were close (with the exception of Colorado's 8-1 win in game two), but the Avalanche clearly had the better of the play. Vanbiesbrouck's heroics gave the Panthers a chance, but ultimately Roy and Sakic, who established himself as a major NHL star, proved to be too much. Sakic led all playoff scorers with 18 goals and 34 points and also won the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP.

After 21 seasons and two franchise relocations, the New Jersey Devils captured their first Stanley Cup title by downing the Detroit Red Wings in the championship final. Paced by the stellar goaltending of Martin Brodeur and the timely scoring of Claude Lemieux, the Devils upset the favored Red Wings in four straight games, outscoring, outshooting and outplaying Detroit in each encounter.

Both teams took similar routes to the Final. Detroit lost only two games in the opening three rounds, although they did need a trio of overtime victories to subdue Chicago in the Western Conference Final. New Jersey dropped four games in the opening three rounds, including a pair to the Philadelphia Flyers in a stirring sixgame Eastern Conference Final.

New Jersey's Claude Lemieux, who scored only six times in the regular season, erupted for 13 goals in the playoffs and also won the Conn Smythe Trophy. Neal Broten, a 14-year veteran acquired by New Jersey late in the season from Dallas, notched four game-winning goals for the champions. Devils coach Jacques Lemaire, who won eight Stanley Cup rings as a player, became the fourth individual to score a Stanley Cup-winning goal and coach a Stanley Cup-winning goal and coach a Stanley Cup-winning team.

The New York Rangers ended their 54-year Stanley Cup drought with a stirring, seven-game series win over the Vancouver Canucks. The Rangers jumped out to a 3–1 series lead, only to see the Canucks storm back with two wins, forcing a deciding game seven at Madison Square Garden. Viewed by a record television audience worldwide, the Rangers earned a 3-2 win and the Stanley Cup.

Both the Rangers and Canucks followed a difficult route to the championship series. In the Eastern Conference Final, the Rangers were stretched to the limit by the New Jersey Devils before prevailing four games to three with three games in the series decided in double overtime. The Canucks, meanwhile, had faced a 3–1 series deficit in their first-round series versus the Calgary Flames, but rallied to win the last three games in overtime.

Rangers defenseman Brian Leetch became the first U.S.-born player to capture the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP. Leetch led all players in scoring during the postseason with 34 points (11 goals, 23 assists) in 23 games. Head coach Mike Keenan, in his first season behind the Rangers bench, captured his first Stanley Cup victory. He had previously made championship series appearances with the Philadelphia Flyers (twice) and Chicago Blackhawks.

The Montreal Canadiens claimed their 24th Stanley Cup title, defeating the Los Angeles Kings in an exciting five-game series. The Kings, led by playoff scoring leader Wayne Gretzky, were making their first appearance in the Final. After dropping the opening game of the series at home, Montreal responded with four straight wins, including three in overtime.

The overtime wins capped a record-setting performance for Montreal in extra time. After losing their first overtime game of the playoffs at Quebec in game one of the opening round, the club posted 10 straight wins in extra time, setting playoff records for most OT wins in one season and most consecutive OT wins. Of the 85 games played in the postseason this year, 28 were decided in overtime, smashing the previous playoff record of 16, set in 1982 and 1991.

Canadiens' goaltender Patrick Roy was awarded the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP, posting a 16–4 record and 2.13 goals-against average in 20 games. Roy became the fifth two-time winner of the award, having previously won as a rookie in 1986.

The Penguins captured their second consecutive Stanley Cup title, winning the championship in four consecutive games against the Chicago Blackhawks, who were making their first appearance in the Final since 1973.

Both finalists established a new record for consecutive playoff wins with 11. The Blackhawks' victories spanned the first three rounds of the playoffs. The Penguins' 11 wins included their four-game final series sweep.

Mario Lemieux captured the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP for the second straight year, becoming just the second player in NHL history (Bernie Parent, 1974 and 1975) to accomplish the feat.

1991

The Penguins captured their first Stanley Cup championship, defeating the Minnesota North Stars in six games. The North Stars were making their second appearance in the Final.

Pittsburgh center Mario Lemieux, despite missing one game in the series due to a back injury, recorded 12 points (five goals, seven assists) in five games to lead all scorers. His overall playoff performance earned him Conn Smythe Trophy honors

Penguins defenseman Larry Murphy tallied 10 points (one goal, nine assists) in six games, the second highest total for a defenseman in Stanley Cup Final history.

Four Pittsburgh players — Bryan Trottier, Paul Coffey, Joe Mullen and Jiri Hrdina - won a Stanley Cup championship with their second team. Trottier won four previous titles with the New York Islanders, Coffey captured three with Edmonton, while Mullen and Hrdina were members of the 1989 Stanley Cup-champion Calgary Flames.

The Oilers captured their fifth Stanley Cup title in seven years (and their first since trading Wayne Gretzky to Los Angeles in 1988), defeating Boston for their second Stanley Cup triumph over the Bruins in three seasons.

The two teams battled for 55:13 of overtime in game one at Boston Garden before Edmonton's Petr Klima ended the marathon encounter with the game-winner. It represented the longest overtime in Stanley Cup Final history, edging the previous mark of 53:50 set in game three of the 1931 series between Chicago and Montreal.

Edmonton goaltender Bill Ranford, who posted all 16 Oilers victories in the postseason, won the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP.

Seven players — Glenn Anderson, Grant Fuhr, Randy Gregg, Charlie Huddy, Jari Kurri, Kevin Lowe and Mark Messier - won their fifth Stanley Cup as members of the Oilers.

The Calgary Flames won their first Stanley Cup title with a 4-2 series victory over the Montreal Canadiens, who had defeated Calgary for the Stanley Cup in 1986. The Flames wrapped up the series with a 4-2 triumph over the Canadiens in game six, becoming the first visiting team to beat the Canadiens for the Stanley Cup on Montreal Forum ice

Goaltender Mike Vernon tied an NHL playoff record by registering 16 postseason wins, tying the mark Edmonton's Grant Fuhr had set the previous year.

Al MacInnis became the fourth defenseman to win the Conn Smythe Trophy since the award was instituted in 1965. MacInnis joined Serge Savard (1969), Bobby Orr (1970 and 1972) and Larry Robinson (1978). MacInnis led the league in playoff scoring with 31 points (seven goals, 24 assists) and amassed a 17-game consecutive point-scoring streak, equaling the second longest in NHL playoff history and the longest ever by a defenseman.

The Edmonton Oilers won their fourth Stanley Cup title in five years with a 4-0 series victory over the Boston Bruins, who were making their first appearance in the Stanley Cup Final in 10 vears.

For the first time since 1927, a Stanley Cup Final game failed to determine a winner. During the fourth game of the series, a power failure at Boston Garden halted play at 16:37 of the second period with the teams tied 3-3. Under NHL bylaws, the match was suspended, to be made up in its entirety only in the event that a seventh and deciding game was necessary.

Thus the series shifted back to Edmonton where the Oilers, still holding a 3-0 series lead, recorded a 6-3 victory to win the Cup. Wayne Gretzky was selected as the Conn Smythe Trophy winner for the second time in his career, establishing a Stanley Cup Final series record of 13 points on three goals and ten assists.

After a year's absence, the Edmonton Oilers returned to the Final and captured their third Stanley Cup title in four seasons.

Edmonton and Philadelphia carried the championship series to a full seven games for the first time since the Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks in 1971. Philadelphia goaltender Ron Hextall received the Conn Smythe Trophy, joining Roger Crozier (1966 Detroit Red Wings), Glenn Hall (1968 St. Louis Blues) and Reggie Leach (1976 Philadelphia Flyers) as the only players on a losing club to be so honored.

The Montreal Canadiens set a new professional record for championships, winning their 23rd Stanley Cup title. Montreal had been tied with the New York Yankees, who had amassed 22 World Series titles through this point in their history. The series between the Canadiens and the Calgary Flames marked the first all-Canadian final since Montreal and Toronto faced each other in 1967.

Brian Skrudland scored nine seconds into overtime in game two to set a new record for the fastest overtime goal in playoff history, eclipsing the old mark of 11 seconds set by J.P. Parise of the NY Islanders on April 11, 1975.

Twenty-year-old goaltender Patrick Roy became the youngest player to win the Conn Smythe Trophy in the 22-year history of the award. Roy posted a record-tying 15 playoff wins (15-5) and a 1.92 average in 20 postseason games.

In the 1985 playoffs, Wayne Gretzky set new records for assists (30) and points (47) in one playoff year. Gretzky also tied the modern record shared by Jean Beliveau (1956) and Mike Bossy (1982) for most goals in the Stanley Cup Final with seven in five games. Jari Kurri scored 19 goals in 18 games to tie the record (Reggie Leach in 1976) for goals in one playoff year. Kurri also broke teammate Mark Messier's record for most hat tricks in a playoff year with four, including one four-goal game. Paul Coffey, who registered 12 goals and 25 assists in 18 games, shattered the one-year playoff records for goals, assists and points by a defenseman. Coffey broke Boston Bruin Bobby Orr's records for goals (nine in 1970) and assists (19 in 1972), and New York Islander Denis Potvin's record for points (25 in 1981). Edmonton's Grant Fuhr tied New York Islanders goaltender Billy Smith for most wins, 15, in a playoff year. Fuhr posted a 15-3 record in 18 games. Smith amassed 15 wins in both 1980 and 1982. For the first time in the Final, two penalty shots were awarded in the same series. Both were stopped by Fuhr.

The Edmonton Oilers, who joined the NHL in 1979-80 with the Hartford Whalers, Quebec Nordiques and Winnipeg Jets, became the first of the four former World Hockey Association clubs to win the Stanley Cup.

In his first championship game, Oilers goalie Grant Fuhr posted a shutout to hand the defending champion New York Islanders their first loss in 10 final series games.

Four different Oilers - Kevin McClelland, Glenn Anderson, Mark Messier and Ken Linseman — scored game-winning goals.

Messier had eight goals and 18 assists for 26 points in 19 games and also won the Conn Smythe Trophy.

The New York Islanders won their fourth straight Stanley Cup title to become only the second NHL franchise in history to amass that many championships in a row. The Montreal Canadiens own the all-time record with five consecutive Cup wins from 1956 to 1960. The Canadiens also won four in a row between 1976 and 1979.

Goaltender Billy Smith won the Conn Smythe Trophy after limiting the Edmonton Oilers to just six goals in four games and shutting out the Campbell Conference champions in seven of 12 periods of play.

In his first appearance in the Final, Wayne Gretzky tallied four assists on the Oilers' six goals.

1982

The New York Islanders distinguished themselves as the first U.S.-based team in history to win three consecutive Stanley Cup championships with a sweep of the Vancouver Canucks.

The Canucks, meanwhile, became the first Vancouver team since the 1922 Millionaires of the Western Canada Hockey League to appear in the Stanley Cup Final.

Mike Bossy won the Conn Smythe Trophy after scoring seven goals in the four-game series, tying the modern record for most goals in the Final set by Jean Beliveau in 1956.

Bryan Trottier tallied 23 assists in 19 games to set a new playoff record, while goalie Billy Smith amassed a 15-4-0 mark to equal his own record for playoff wins.

The New York Islanders captured a second consecutive Stanley Cup championship, needing five games to defeat the Minnesota North Stars. For Minnesota, it marked the club's first trip to the Final since joining the NHL in 1967-68.

With 17 goals and 18 assists, New York's Mike Bossy established new records for points (35) and power-play goals (nine) in one playoff year.

Dino Ciccarelli of Minnesota broke Don Maloney's rookie scoring record with 21 playoff points and Steve Christoff's rookie mark for playoff goals with 14.

In their eighth NHL season, the New York Islanders became the second expansion team to win the Stanley Cup. Two players, Billy Smith and Bob Nystrom, had been with the team since its inception in 1972.

In game one, Denis Potvin recorded the first power-play goal ever scored in overtime in Stanley Cup history. The Flyers' Jimmy Watson went off at the 2:08 mark, and Potvin scored 1:59 later to end the game and give the Islanders their first win in the Final. Nystrom also scored an overtime goal, the Cup-winner in game six, to raise his career total to four playoff overtime goals. Maurice "Rocket" Richard, who scored six overtime goals in the playoffs, owns the all-time record.

The Montreal Canadiens captured their fourth straight Stanley Cup championship to record the second longest streak of championships in NHL history. Only the Canadiens' five-year stronghold on the Cup from 1956 to 1960 lasted longer.

Montreal's game five series-winning effort also marked the first time since 1968 that the Canadiens won the Cup on home ice. At the conclusion of the series, Jacques Lemaire, Yvan Cournoyer and Ken Dryden retired from the NHL. The trio left the game with a combined total of 24 Cup victories among them. Scotty Bowman, who had amassed his fifth Cup title in seven seasons behind the Canadiens bench, also made his farewell appearance with the team as he joined the Buffalo Sabres the following season.

The Montreal Canadiens lost just ten regularseason games in 1977-78 and were favored in the postseason. The Habs needed nine games to reach the Final, where they again met Boston in a rematch of the 1977 series. The Bruins also needed just nine games to advance, winning three overtime games en route to a berth in the Stanley Cup Final.

Conn Smythe Trophy winner Larry Robinson led all playoff performers with 17 assists and tied teammate Guy Lafleur (10 goals, 11 assists) for the overall playoff scoring lead with 21 points. Robinson was one of three Canadiens, including Doug Jarvis and Steve Shutt, to appear in all 95 games during the course of the season.

Winning their second consecutive Stanley Cup championship, the Canadiens extended their undefeated streak against Boston in the Final to six straight series.

Jacques Lemaire, who scored three of Montreal's game-winning goals including the Cup-winner in overtime, joined Maurice Richard (3) and Don Raleigh (2) as the only players to record more than one overtime goal in Stanley Cup Final play. Lemaire first scored in overtime against the St. Louis Blues in the 1968 Final, and duplicated the feat in the finale of this series. In game two, Ken Dryden posted his fourth shutout of the 1977 playoffs to tie the single-season record shared by five goaltenders.

Guy Lafleur won the Conn Smythe Trophy and also had nine goals and 17 assists for 26 points in 14 playoff games.

The Montreal Canadiens returned to the Stanley Cup Final after a two-vear absence. Guy Lafleur scored his first two goals in the Final and both proved to be game winners as the Canadiens swept Philadelphia to end the Flyers' two-year reign as champions.

Philadelphia's Reggie Leach scored four times in the series to finish the postseason with the alltime record of 19 playoff goals. Leach became the third player on a Stanley Cup Final loser to win the Conn Smythe Trophy.

Two modern-era expansion teams met in the Stanley Cup Final for the first time in 1975, as the Philadelphia Flyers defeated the Buffalo Sabres in six games. The Sabres had reached the championship series in just their fifth year in the NHL.

Bernie Parent's netminding highlighted the series as he allowed only 12 goals in six games and clinched the Cup with a shutout for the second straight year. Parent became the first player to win the Conn Smythe Trophy in consecutive years and joined Boston's Bobby Orr as the only players to have won the award twice.

1974

Owning a 17-0-2 record in their previous 19 outings at home against Philadelphia, Boston was a heavy favorite with home-ice advantage coming into the Stanley Cup Final.

Flyers' captain Bobby Clarke ended his team's drought at the Garden in game two by scoring two goals, the second in overtime, and adding one assist to overcome an early 2-0 deficit.

Goaltender Bernie Parent limited the Bruins to three goals in his three remaining wins, including a sixth game shutout as the Flyers became the first expansion team to win the Stanley Cup, after only seven years in the NHL.

Parent won the Conn Smythe Trophy and had a 12-5-0 record and 2.02 average in 17 games

1973

The Canadiens and Black Hawks met in a rematch of the 1971 Final. Chicago's Tony Esposito and Montreal's Ken Dryden, teammates in the noted 1972 Summit Series against the Soviet Union prior to the start of the season, now faced each other at opposite ends of the ice. Yvan Cournoyer, who recorded the game-winning goals in the second and sixth contests, closed out the playoffs setting a modern record of 15 tallies en route to winning the Conn Smythe Trophy. Cournoyer (6-6-12) and Jacques Lemaire (3-9-12) both tied Gordie Howe's record for points in the Final, while Lemaire also set a new record for assists in the Final with nine. Henri Richard became the first player to play for 11 Stanley Cup champions and tied the overall record held by Toe Blake, who played on three and coached eight more before retiring in 1968. After coaching the St. Louis Blues to three successive Finals from 1968 to 1970, Montreal's Scotty Bowman earned his first Stanley Cup championship.

1972

After 43 years of waiting, the New York Rangers finally got a chance to avenge their 1929 loss to the Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup Final. However, history would repeat itself as the Bruins defeated the Rangers in this six-game confrontation. Bobby Orr, who scored his second Cup-winning goal in three years, became the first two-time winner of the Conn Smythe Trophy. With four goals and four assists in the Final, Orr raised his playoff totals to five goals and 19 assists, breaking Jean Beliveau's assist mark set in 1971.

1971

After missing the playoffs for the first time in 22 years in 1970, the Canadiens rebounded in 1971 to win their 16th Stanley Cup title. Brothers Frank and Pete Mahovlich were reunited in midseason, and the two responded with a total of nine goals in the seven-game final. Frank also set a modern playoff record with 14 goals and tied Phil Esposito's record 27-point performance of 1970. After Chicago went ahead 2-0 in game seven. Henri Richard scored the tying and winning goals to seal the victory. The hero of the playoffs was rookie goaltender Ken Dryden, who appeared in all 20 playoff games after only six starts during the regular season. Dryden's performance, which included a 12-8 record and 3.00 average, earned him the Conn Smythe Trophy. While the series signalled the beginning of Dryden's career, it also marked the conclusion of Jean Beliveau's playing days. Beliveau, who finished the playoffs with six goals and a record 16 assists, left the sport as the all-time leader in playoff assists (97) and points (176) and temporarily shared first place with Henri Richard in Stanley Cup titles won as a play-

1970

For the third straight year, the St. Louis Blues qualified for the Final but faced new rivals in the Boston Bruins, who featured the first 100-point defenseman in NHL history in Norris Trophy winner Bobby Orr.

After winning the first three games by margins of five, four and three goals, respectively, the Bruins were extended into overtime in the fourth game. Conn Smythe Trophy winner Orr quickly ended the affair at the 40-second mark of overtime with his first goal of the series. With Orr literally flying through the air on the play, his winning tally has become one of the most memorable images in hockey history.

The series victory marked the Bruins' first Stanley Cup title in 29 years.

The NHL doubled in size with the addition of six expansion teams which comprised one of two new divisions. In the playoffs, Montreal won the East Division, and St. Louis won the West Division to earn a chance at the Stanley Cup. The Blues lineup boasted several aging superstars, including two-time Vezina Trophy winner Glenn Hall, two-time Art Ross Trophy winner Dickie Moore and seven-time Norris Trophy winner Doug Harvey. The three were no strangers to playoff action with 38 years of postseason experience among them. Rookie defenseman Serge Savard, who would amass eight Stanley Cup rings in his career, scored his first two career playoff goals while shorthanded in games two and three to tie a final series record. Toe Blake retired after capturing his eighth Stanley Cup in 13 years as coach of the Canadiens and set a record as the first person to win a total of 11 Stanley Cup championships in a career. Blake also played on championship teams with the Montreal Maroons in 1935 and the Canadiens in 1944 and 1946.

Tying their club record set from 1947 to 1949, Toronto captured the Stanley Cup for a third consecutive season.

The Maple Leafs advanced by defeating the Canadiens in seven games. In the Final, the Leafs lost games 2, 3 and 5 by one-goal margins to trail the Detroit Red Wings three games to two.

With the score tied 3–3 late in game six, Maple Leafs defenseman Bob Baun took a Gordie Howe slapshot on his skate and dropped to the ice in pain. After freezing and taping the injury, he returned for overtime and scored the winning goal at 2:43 of the extra period. On crutches for the next two days, Baun would later suit up for the series finale and never miss a shift as Toronto won the Cup. The following day, x-rays confirmed what Baun had known all along, that the ankle was in fact broken. The Leafs blueliner then spent two more months on crutches.

Five different Maple Leafs — Bob Nevin, Dick Duff, Ron Stewart, Red Kelly and Dave Keon — recorded multiple-goal performances in Toronto's four victories, and 38-year-old goaltender Johnny Bower limited Detroit to 10 goals in five games.

Keon scored twice in game five with Toronto players in the penalty box, establishing a new playoff record for shorthanded goals in one game.

The Maple Leafs regained the Stanley Cup after 11 years, putting an end to the club's longest period without a championship in its 45-year NHL history through 1962.

In his Stanley Cup debut, 22-year-old Dave Keon scored two goals and had one assist in the Final.

Stan Mikita tallied two assists in game five to set new playoff records for assists (15) and points (21). The latter broke Gordie Howe's mark of 20 points set in the 1955 playoffs.

The Chicago Black Hawks captured their first Stanley Cup title since 1938, clinching their third championship overall since joining the NHL in 1926-27.

Two of the greatest athletes in Chicago sports history — Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita — made their premier Stanley Cup appearances, and both figured prominently in the outcome. "The Golden Jet" sparkled in game one with his first two Stanley Cup goals, including the game-winner, while Mikita scored the winner in game five.

The Canadiens retained the Stanley Cup for an unprecedented fifth straight season. No team has since matched this record-setting achievement.

Jacques Plante, who had introduced the goalie mask to the hockey world on November 1, 1959, in New York, sparkled with his self-designed face guard. His Stanley Cup Final performance, which included just five goals allowed in four games, played a large role in the acceptance of the mask by goaltenders worldwide.

Maurice Richard played in the last four games of his career. In game three, "The Rocket" scored his 34th goal in the Final, still an all-time record.

The Canadiens skated to a fourth consecutive championship, breaking the record of three they had shared with Toronto (1947 to 1949). Maurice Richard was held off the scoresheet during the playoffs for the first time in his career. Injuries had restricted his participation to just four games.

Led by newly appointed general manager/coach Punch Imlach, Toronto made its first appearance in the Stanley Cup Final since 1951, rebounding from a last-place finish in 1957-58. The Leafs had a perfect record of three wins and no losses in overtime games in this postseason.

The Canadiens and Bruins met for a second consecutive year in the Stanley Cup Final. Once again, Boston had been an upset winner in the semi-finals, eliminating the New York Rangers in a high-scoring six-game series.

In the Final, the Habs won the Stanley Cup in six games. The Canadiens' third straight Stanley Cup title equalled the NHL record set by the Toronto Maple Leafs from 1947 to 1949.

Maurice Richard was the top overall playoff goal-scorer with 11. In game five of the Final, he notched the third final series overtime goal of his career and his sixth overtime goal in playoff competiton, setting all-time records in each category.

Two rookies played integral roles on this first of five consecutive Stanley Cup championship teams for the Montreal Canadiens. Former playing star Toe Blake took over for Dick Irvin behind the Canadiens bench as coach, while rookie center Henri Richard joined his famous brother Maurice on the ice. Blake, who would become the 10th rookie coach in NHL history to win the Cup, won his first game in the Final as a coach, and young Richard notched his first Stanley Cup Final goal.

Jean Beliveau scored seven times in the series, including at least one in each game, to set a modern record for goals in the Final and tie Maurice Richard's overall NHL playoff record of 12 goals set in 1944.

On March 17, Maurice Richard had been suspended for the remainder of the regular-season and playoffs for punching a linesman. The high-scoring right-winger's absence was sorely felt by the Canadiens.

In game two of the Final, Detroit's Ted Lindsay scored four times to set a modern record for goals in a championship game, and the Red Wings won their 15th consecutive contest (including the regular season) to establish another NHL record. Lindsay then tallied one assist, his last of the series, in game four to tie Elmer Lach's record of 12 playoff assists set in 1946.

Gordie Howe set two records in the series. He amassed 12 points (five goals, seven assists) in the Final to establish a new mark, and snapped Toe Blake's overall playoff record with 20 points (nine goals, 11 assists) in 11 games.

For the first time in a best-of-seven final, the home team won all seven games.

After goaltender Jacques Plante recorded a split decision in the first two games he ever played in the Stanley Cup Final, Canadiens coach Dick Irvin sent Gerry McNeil into the nets. The move resulted in two shutouts in the final three games as Montreal regained the Cup for the first time in seven vears.

Elmer Lach scored the Cup-winning goal at 1:22 of overtime in the fifth and final game.

Terry Sawchuk made his debut in the Cup Final and rose to the occasion, recording two shutouts and limiting Montreal to just two goals during the four-game series. Meanwhile, Gordie Howe contributed his first two career goals in a Stanley Cup championship series.

The Red Wings set an NHL record by winning all eight postseason games, including a four-game sweep over Toronto in the first round.

The 1951 series distinguished itself as the only Stanley Cup Final in which every game ended in overtime. Sid Smith, Ted Kennedy, Harry Watson and Bill Barilko notched the overtime winners for Toronto, while Maurice "Rocket" Richard scored goals in all five contests for Montreal.

Richard's overtime tally was his second in a final series and the fourth of his playoff career, breaking the record of three set by Boston's Mel Hill in 1939.

For Barilko, his overtime goal would be his last as the rugged defenseman died tragically in a plane crash during the summer.

Bumped from Madison Square Garden by the circus, the New York Rangers opted to play games two and three in Toronto.

Gordie Howe failed to appear for Detroit in this series as a result of a serious head injury sustained in the first game of the playoffs. After sliding head first into the boards, Howe required surgery to repair a fractured nose and cheekbone. Despite the seriousness of the injury, he resumed his career the following season.

Even without Howe, Detroit managed to capture the Cup in seven games, but not without a fight. New York battled Detroit to a 3-3 tie at the end of regulation in game seven, which the Red Wings' Pete Babando ultimately ended at the 28:31 mark of overtime. Babando's goal was the first suddendeath tally ever scored in the seventh game of a final series.

New York's Don Raleigh set a record that would remain unmatched until 1993 when he scored two overtime goals in one Stanley Cup Final series.

1949

The Toronto Maple Leafs established two NHL records in this 1949 series. Most significantly, they captured their third straight Stanley Cup title, a feat last accomplished 44 years earlier by the Ottawa Silver Seven. They had also won an unprecedented ninth straight game in the Final dating back to April 19, 1947.

1948

The series marked the beginning and end of two great Stanley Cup careers. For Detroit's Gordie Howe, it was an introduction to the rigors of championship competition. For Toronto's Syl Apps, who scored one goal in game four, it meant the conclusion of a Hall-of-Fame career.

Toronto became the fourth NHL team to repeat as Stanley Cup champions, joining the Ottawa Senators (1920-1921), Montreal Canadiens (1930-1931) and Detroit Red Wings (1936-1937).

The Toronto Maple Leafs were a "new look" club in 1946-47. Young players like Calder Trophy-winner Howie Meeker, Bill Barilko and Bill Ezinicki were new performers in the Leafs' overhauled lineup.

In the first all-Canadian final in 12 years, the Maple Leafs defeated the Canadiens in six games. Toronto's Ted Kennedy potted three goals in the series, including the Cup-winner in the closing match. The Leafs were the youngest NHL team to win the Stanley Cup.

Two rookie goaltenders — Toronto's Frank McCool and Detroit's Harry Lumley - manned the opposing nets in the Stanley Cup Final for the first time. McCool, who never played in another final series, posted shutouts in the each of the first three games to set a new Stanley Cup Final record, while Lumley rebounded with two of his own in games five and six to knot the series at three games apiece.

Making his Stanley Cup debut, Maurice "Rocket" Richard scored five goals, including the first of his NHL-record three career hat tricks in the Final, in game two. In total, the Punch Line of Elmer Lach, Toe Blake and Richard combined for 10 of the Canadiens' 16 goals in the series, including all five Montreal scores in the finale. Blake netted the Cup-winning goal at 9:12 of the first overtime period in game four, marking the fourth time an NHL player had clinched the Cup with a sudden-death tally.

In that final overtime contest, Canadiens goaltender Bill Durnan stonewalled Chicago's Virgil Johnson on the first penalty shot ever awarded in a Stanley Cup Final.

The victory gave the Canadiens their first Stanley Cup championship since 1931.

1943

A new era in hockey history was ushered in with the 1942-43 season. The departure of the New York Americans franchise left the NHL with just the New York Rangers, Boston Bruins, Chicago Black Hawks, Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens the so-called "Original Six."

After losing the Stanley Cup Final in 1941 and 1942, the Red Wings' third straight trip to the Final proved to be the charm as they swept the Bruins, avenging the similar treatment they had received from Boston two years before. Goaltender Johnny Mowers blanked the Bruins at Boston Garden in the last two games to ice the championship.

1941

In the third best-of-seven series ever played in the Stanley Cup Final, Boston became the first to win in four straight games. Since the National Hockey League was formed in 1917, only five teams — the 1924 and 1930 Montreal Canadiens and the 1929 Boston Bruins in two straight; the 1932 Toronto Maple Leafs and 1935 Montreal Maroons in three straight - had ever won the Cup in the fewest possible games.

1940

With the circus heading towards New York, the Rangers were forced to play the first two games of the Final on consecutive nights before vacating Madison Square Garden for the rest of the series.

Three of the Rangers' four game-winning goals were scored in overtime, including the Cup-winner by Bryan Hextall in game six. It marked the third time in NHL history that the last goal of the season had been tallied in sudden-death.

Lynn and Murray Patrick skated for the winners to become the third and fourth members of the Patrick family, joining father (and Rangers manager) Lester and uncle Frank (1915 Vancouver), to have their names engraved on the Stanley Cup.

1939

The NHL expanded the Stanley Cup Final to a best-of-seven format, though it took the Bruins only five games to defeat the Maple Leafs.

Boston goaltender Frank Brimsek held Toronto to just six goals in five games as the Bruins took the Cup for the first time in 10 seasons.

Mel Hill of Boston, who earlier set an NHL record with three overtime goals in the first round of the playoffs, scored twice in the series, and Bill Cowley led all playoff scorers with 11 assists and 14 points, setting modern-era playoff records in both categories.

1938

The Black Hawks faced the start of the Stanley Cup Final without goaltender Mike Karakas, who had played every game during the season but broke his big toe on April 3. Chicago was forced to sign journeyman netminder Alfie Moore, who played game one and posted a win in his only Stanley Cup Final appearance.

Following the victory, NHL President Frank Calder ruled Moore ineligible for further play, and Chicago had to call on minor-league goalie Paul Goodman, who lost his first NHL start in game two.

Karakas finally returned with a steel-capped boot to protect his toe and won both starts, while teammate Doc Romnes wore a football helmet to guard a broken nose and scored the winning goal in game three before a record crowd of 18,497.

Eight American-born players — Karakas, Romnes, Alex Levinsky, Carl Voss, Cully Dahlstrom, Roger Jenkins, Lou Trudel and Virgil Johnson - skated for the Black Hawks to set a record (not broken until 1995) for U.S. talent on a Cup winner.

The Rangers, turned away from Madison Square Garden once again by the incoming circus after game one, agreed to play the remainder of the series on Detroit's home ice.

First-year goaltender Earl Robertson, who would never play a regular-season game for the Red Wings during his career, became the first rookie netminder to post two shutouts in the Final, blanking the Rangers in the last two games of the series.

With their second straight Stanley Cup title, Detroit became the first U.S.-based squad to repeat as champions.

1936

Under the coaching guidance of Jack Adams, the Detroit Red Wings captured their first Stanley Cup championship after 10 NHL seasons.

The series marked Frank "King" Clancy's sixth and final appearance as a player in the Final. However, it would not be his last Stanley Cup series, for Clancy went on to earn prominence as an NHL referee, working 20 Stanley Cup games in that capacity.

In the first all-Canadian final since they beat the Victoria Cougars in 1926, the Montreal Maroons battled to their second Stanley Cup championship with a three-game sweep of Toronto. Maroons netminder Alec Connell allowed just four goals in three games.

Winning coach Tommy Gorman became the first and only coach to win successive Stanley Cup titles with two different teams. He had directed the Chicago Black Hawks to the championship a year earlier. Gorman currently ranks as one of three NHL coaches (Dick Irvin and Scotty Bowman are the others) to have led more than one team to the Stanley Cup.

For the second year in a row, the Stanley Cupwinning goal was scored in overtime. When Chicago's Harold "Mush" March netted the series-winner at 30:05 of overtime, the Black Hawks captured their first Stanley Cup.

Chicago's Charlie Gardiner limited Detroit to two goals in his club's three victories, while Detroit goaltender Wilf Cude led the Red Wings to their only win of the series in game three despite suffering a broken nose midway through the contest. Cude stopped 52 of 53 Chicago shots in the deciding game, while Gardiner turned aside all 40 Red Wings blasts. Gardiner had been plagued by severe headaches all year. Two months after the Stanley Cup series he died of a brain hemorrhage.

Again the circus forced the Rangers out of New York, with all but game one contested on Toronto's home ice. However, this year the Rangers would not be denied

In the final match, New York's Bill Cook became the first of 15 NHL players to register a Stanley Cup-winning goal in overtime when he snapped a scoreless tie at 7:33 of the fourth period. Goalie Andy Aitkenhead posted the fourth shutout by an NHL rookie in the Final.

1932

After losing to Toronto in game one, the Rangers also lost the home-ice advantage because the circus had once again invaded Madison Square Garden. Game two, originally set for New York, was moved to Boston.

Toronto's famed Kid Line of Harvey "Busher" Jackson, Charlie Conacher and Joe Primeau made its Stanley Cup debut, combining for eight goals in the three-game sweep.

The Leafs' Dick Irvin, who lost in the 1931 Final with the Chicago Black Hawks, earned his first title as a coach.

The defending champion Boston Bruins had skated to the NHL's top regular-season record in 1929–30. The Bruins' 38–5–1 record translates into an .875 winning percentage that is still the best in NHL history. The team did not lose back-to-back games all season until being swept by the Canadiens in the best-of-three Stanley Cup Final. Boston's surprising defeat prompted the NHL to lengthen the Final to a best-of-five in the future.

The Canadiens, who had lost all four of their regular-season meetings with the Bruins, were led by captain Sylvio Mantha who tallied a goal in both final series games.

When the Bruins met the Rangers in this series, it marked the first time in Stanley Cup history that two American teams clashed head-on for the prized trophy.

Goalie Cecil "Tiny" Thompson backstopped the Bruins to consecutive wins, allowing just one goal in the two games and posting the third Stanley Cup shutout ever by an NHL rookie as Boston captured its first Cup.

Dit Clapper and Bill Carson scored the two game-winning goals.

Though the Rangers moved into the Final, the circus moved into New York's Madison Square Garden and took priority over the hockey team. As a result, club management decided to play the entire series in Montreal.

After losing goalie Lorne Chabot to an eye injury midway through game two, 44-year-old Rangers coach and early era star player Lester Patrick took over between the pipes, inspiring the New Yorkers to a 2–1 overtime victory. The following day the Rangers signed New York Americans netminder Joe Miller, who responded with two wins including the second shutout by an NHL rookie in Stanley Cup history.

In only their second NHL season, the Rangers captured their first Stanley Cup title and became only the second American team in history, joining the 1917 Seattle Metropolitans of the PCHA, to win the trophy.

With the collapse of major professional hockey in the west, the Stanley Cup became sole property of the NHL in 1927. The American Division champion Boston Bruins met the Canadian Division champion Ottawa Senators in what became the first Stanley Cup Final of a new era.

Cy Denneny led the Senators with four of the team's seven total goals, including the game-winners in both victories.

The Montreal Maroons became NHL champions in just their second season in the league and hosted the first Stanley Cup series to be played at the Montreal Forum.

Playing in his first career Stanley Cup series, Nels Stewart scored six of Montreal's 10 goals, and goaltender Clint Benedict recorded an unprecedented three shutouts en route to the Maroons' Stanley Cup triumph versus the Victoria Cougars.

With the NHL taking full control of the Stanley Cup following the Western Hockey League's demise soon after this series, the 1926 championship marked the finale of one of the most dynamic eras in Stanley Cup history. Since 1893, Cup play had grown from an amateur challenge in eastern Canada to a professional competition involving teams from across the continent.

The Victoria Cougars, who joined the Western Canada Hockey League with the Vancouver Maroons after the Pacific Coast Hockey Association folded, became the last non-NHL team to win the Stanley Cup and only the third west coast club to capture the trophy, joining the 1915 Vancouver Millionaires and the 1917 Seattle Metropolitans as champions.

All eight Montreal goals in the series came from the Canadiens' top line of Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliat and Billy Boucher, but Victoria posted a more balanced attack with eight different skaters combining for 16 goals.

The PCHA champions (Vancouver Maroons) and the winners of the WCHL (Calgary Tigers) met in a postseason playoff, the winner of which advanced to the Stanley Cup Final. This best-of-three series was won by the Tigers two games to one, relegating the Maroons to a semi-final berth vs. the NHL champion (Montreal Canadiens).

Billy Boucher scored three of the Canadiens' five goals in the semi-final series vs. the Maroons, including both game-winning tallies, to lift Montreal over Vancouver, which lost its chance at the Stanley Cup for the fourth straight year.

Montreal then faced Calgary in the Stanley Cup Final. A 21-year-old rookie forward named Howie Morenz paced the Canadiens with a hat trick in game one and a goal in game two as Montreal rolled past Calgary to complete a sweep of both series.

Morenz, Aurel Joliat and Sylvio Mantha all made their first appearances on a Stanley Cup winner.

The NHL champion Ottawa Senators travelled to Vancouver to join with the top teams in the PCHA and WCHL to determine a Stanley Cup winner. Ottawa defeated the Vancouver Maroons in the semifinal. Edmonton, the WCHL champion, then faced Ottawa in a best-of-three Cup Final. The Eskimos gave the weary Senators a difficult time, but Ottawa came through with a pair of one-goal victories. Cy Denneny and Punch Broadbent scored the gamewinning goals.

For the first time in Stanley Cup history, brothers opposed each other in the playoffs. In fact, two sets of brothers — Cy and Corb Denneny and Georges and Frank Boucher — faced one and other in the semi-final. Cy and Georges skated with Ottawa, while Corb and Frank suited up for Vancouver. Each of the Boucher brothers scored twice in this series.

With the inception of the Western Canada Hockey League (WCHL) in 1921-22, a new playoff structure was designed to match the champions of the two western leagues against each other with the winner to meet the NHL champions for the Stanley Cup. After defeating the WCHL's Regina Capitals in the preliminary series, the PCHA's Vancouver Millionaires set out for Toronto, where the NHL champion St. Pats awaited their arrival.

Cecil "Babe" Dye notched nine of his club's 16 goals, including two game-winners, and goaltender John Ross Roach, who recorded the first Stanley Cup shutout by an NHL rookie, posted a 1.80 goalsagainst average as Toronto won its second Stanley Cup championship.

Jack Adams, who had been lured away from Toronto by Vancouver in 1920, returned in impressive fashion, scoring six goals in the series.

A gathering of 11,000 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a hockey game anywhere in the world at the time, jammed the Vancouver arena for the first game of this series, and an estimated record of 51,000 tickets were sold for the entire five-game series.

Jack Darragh was the hero for the second straight year, scoring both Ottawa goals in the finale as the Senators became the first NHL club to capture back-to-back Stanley Cup titles and the first team since the Quebec Bulldogs of 1912 and 1913 to repeat as champions.

1920

When the Seattle Metropolitans arrived in Ottawa, it became apparent that their red, white and green barber pole uniforms were all too similar to the Senators' red, white and black pattern. Ottawa agreed to play in white jerseys.

Poor ice conditions marred the first three games, and the series was subsequently shifted to the artificial ice surface at Toronto's Mutual Street Arena. Jack Darragh, who had tallied the winning marker in game one, lifted Ottawa to the championship with a hat trick in the decisive game.

Pete Green became the second rookie coach in the NHL to win the Cup, joining Dick Carroll of the 1918 Toronto Arenas.

Seattle's Frank Foyston and Montreal's Newsy Lalonde, two of the greatest scorers of the early 20th century, were at their best in this series. Foyston notched nine goals and Lalonde six as the two clubs stood even at two wins and one tie after five games.

Several of the players became seriously ill with the flu, which had reached epidemic proportions throughout North America and the world in 1918 and 1919. So many Montreal players were sick, health officials were forced to cancel the deciding game and the series was abandoned with no winner declared. Canadiens defenseman Joe Hall, hospitalized with a severe case of Spanish Influenza, died on April 5, 1919, in Seattle.

SERIES CANCELLED DUE TO INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

1918-19 — No decision — Series halted by Spanish influenza epidemic, illness of several players and death of Joe Hall of Montreal Canadiens from the flu. Five games had been played when the series was halted, each team having won two and tied one. Final scores are listed above.

Prior to the start of the 1917-18 campaign, the National Hockey Association dissolved and the National Hockey League took its place. The new league started out with four teams — the Montreal Canadiens, Montreal Wanderers, Ottawa Senators and Toronto Arenas — but the Wanderers withdrew after the Montreal Arena burned down.

After capturing the first NHL title, Toronto played host to Vancouver in the Stanley Cup Final which meant that eastern rules would be used in games one, three and five. Because neither club seemed comfortable playing an unfamiliar style, Toronto won the series with the advantage of playing the final game under eastern rules.

Alf Skinner led the Arenas with eight goals in five games, while Cyclone Taylor paced Vancouver with nine. Rookie coach Dick Carroll steered his team to the NHL's first Stanley Cup championship.

In only their second season, the Seattle Metropolitans skated to the PCHA title and distinguished themselves as the first U.S. team to host a Stanley Cup series. They also became the first American squad to capture the coveted trophy. Consequently, one of Lord Stanley's original conditions — that the trophy be held by the champion of the Dominion of Canada — had been eradicated.

Seattle's Bernie Morris, who finished second in the PCHA scoring race with 37 goals in 24 games, scored a team-high 14 times against Montreal, including six in the finale, to lead the Metropolitans over the Canadiens.

The PCHA had become the first Canadian league to place a team in the United States in 1915 when the New Westminster Royals moved to Oregon and became the Portland Rosebuds. One year later, Portland became the first American-based team to play in the Stanley Cup Final.

For the first time, the Stanley Cup final series came down to a fifth and deciding game after the participants split the first four games. Portland's Tommy Dunderdale put the Rosebuds ahead early, but the Canadiens bounced back. Skene Ronan tied the game, and Goldie Prodgers netted the Cup-winner.

In his first Stanley Cup appearance, goaltender Georges Vezina backed the Canadiens with a 2.60 goals against average in five games en route to the club's first championship.

In accordance with the agreement reached between the NHA and the PCHA in 1913–14, the two league's respective champions were to meet each year to determine the Stanley Cup winner. The arrangement stated that the series would be played alternately in the east and west, and that the different rules of the two leagues would alternate game by game. (The PCHA still employed the rover, though it had introduced more modern passing rules.) In 1915, this would result in the first Stanley Cup series to be played west of Winnipeg

Deadlocked with 14–6–0 records at the conclusion of the NHA season, the Ottawa Senators and Montreal Wanderers played a two-game total-goals series for the league title and the right to face the PCHA champions. The Senators outscored the Wanderers 4–1 and packed up for the West Coast.

Fred "Cyclone" Taylor notched six goals in three games, and Barney Stanley scored four in the third, to lead the Vancouver Millionaires to a one-sided sweep of the best-of-five series.

The Montreal Canadiens, making their first appearance in a Stanley Cup series, faced the Toronto Blueshirts in a two-game, total-goals, showdown for the NHA title and possession of the Cup.

Although each team posted a shutout on its home ice, the Blueshirts, who later became the NHL's Maple Leafs, outscored the Canadiens 6-2.

Game two in Toronto was the first Stanley Cup matchup ever played on artificial ice.

In accordance with an agreement reached between the NHA and the Pacific Coast Hockey Association, Victoria of the PCHA arrived in Toronto to face the new NHA champions. This agreement effectively ended the Challenge Era in Stanley Cup history and marked the first of what would prove to be 13 consecutive east-west confrontations for the Stanley Cup. (Stories of Victoria failing to submit a formal challenge have been wrongly interpreted over the years.) As it was, Toronto swept the first best-of-five series in Stanley Cup history. Frank Foyston led the balanced Blueshirts attack while Harry Cameron scored the Cup-winner in game three.

Quebec repeated as NHA champs and faced the Sydney Millionaires, the top Maritime club, in defense of the Stanley Cup. "Phantom" Joe Malone poured in nine goals in the first game. He was not put in the lineup for the second, and the result was closer. Joe Hall scored three times in game two.

After the Sydney series, Victoria challenged Quebec but the Bulldogs refused to put the Stanley Cup in competition so the two teams played an exhibition series with Victoria winning two games to one by scores of 7-5, 3-6, 6-1. It was the first meeting between the Eastern champions and the Western champions from the Pacific Coast Hockey Association. The following year, and until the Western Hockey League disbanded after the 1926 playoffs, the Cup went to the winner of the series between East and West.

A major rule change introduced for the 1911–12 season saw the NHA require teams to play for the first time with six men per side instead of seven (abandoning the position of rover). Not all leagues eligible to compete for the Stanley Cup would immediately follow suit.

The Quebec Bulldogs, who posted an NHA-best 10-8-0 record, successfully defended their newly acquired trophy against the Moncton Victorias of the Maritime Professional Hockey League. Jack McDonald contributed nine goals while Joe Malone scored five in Quebec's sweep of the best-of-three series.

Although the famed Patrick brothers, Frank and Lester, had started the Pacific Coast Hockey Association, the inaugural PCHA season ended too late in March to allow for a Stanley Cup challenge by the champion New Westminster Royals. The Patricks introduced the first artificial ice surfaces in Canada at their new 10,000-seat Arena in Vancouver and in a smaller Victoria facility.

Though no formal announcement was made, 1911 marks the first year in which no Stanley Cup challenges took place before the end of the regular season.

After defeating Waterloo for the Ontario Professional Hockey League crown, Galt downed Port Hope, champions of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, in what became the second of two playoff series leading up to a challenge for the Stanley Cup.

The NHA champion Senators (13–3–0) had claimed the Cup from the Montreal Wanderers before defeating Galt 7-4. Marty Walsh, who had first appeared in Stanley Cup competition with Queen's University in 1906, notched a hat trick for the winning Ottawa side.

Three days after defeating Galt, Ottawa took on the Port Arthur Seniors, champions of the New (Northern) Ontario Hockey Association who had beaten the Saskatchewan champions from Prince Albert to earn the challenge.

In the one-game confrontation, the Senators' Marty Walsh scored 10 goals to fall four short of the record set by Frank McGee in 1905.

When the Senators joined the National Hockey Association they brought the Stanley Cup into what was now unquestionably Canada's top hockey league. By winning the 1910 NHA title, the Montreal Wanderers took possession of the Stanley Cup from Ottawa and accepted a challenge from Berlin, 1910 champions of the OPHL. The Wanderers held on to their trophy in a one-game affair, with Ernie Russell (4) and Harry Hyland (3) scoring all seven goals for the winners.

1910 January

The Eastern Canada Hockey Association became the Canadian Hockey Association in 1910 in order to freeze out the Montreal Wanderers. The Wanderers then helped to form the NHA, which introduced the Montreal Canadiens, who would eventually become hockey's most prolific champions.

Concerned by the number of "ringers" imported by Cup contestants, the trustees ruled that only players who had skated with their teams during the regular-season could be eligible for the Stanley Cup competition.

The Ottawa Senators were still members of the CHA when the 1910 season began. As holders of the Stanley Cup they defended the trophy against Galt, the 1909 champions of the Ontario Professional Hockey League (OPHL). Marty Walsh scored six goals in the first game en route to a sweep over the challengers.

The Senators had abandoned the CHA for the NHA when they took time out from the regular-season schedule for another Stanley Cup challenge. Edmonton had come east again for what was expected to be a close series, but Ottawa was too strong. The two-game set saw the Senators' Bruce Stuart and Gord Roberts score seven goals apiece, while Fred Whitcroft notched five for Edmonton.

Prior to the 1909 season Montreal's AAA and Victorias clubs, who were the last amateur teams in the ECAHA, dropped out of the league. Consequently, the league was renamed the Eastern Canada Hockey Association with "Amateur" dropped from the title.

The Ottawa Senators, previously known as the Silver Seven, posted a 10–2–0 record to capture the first all-pro, ECHA championship. Ottawa, as champions of the ECHA, took over the Stanley Cup in 1909 and, although a challenge was accepted by the Cup trustees from the Winnipeg Shamrocks, games could not be arranged because of the lateness of the season. Other challenges by Galt and Cobalt were put off until 1910 due to ineligible players. (The Cobalt challenge would later be denied.)

Fred "Cyclone" Taylor, who tallied eight goals in 11 games, made his debut on a Stanley Cup championship team with the Senators.

As champions of the Alberta Hockey League, the Edmonton Eskimos earned the right to play a challenge series against the defending champions, the Montreal Wanderers.

With six of its seven players brought in especially to face the Wanderers, Edmonton established a new record for ringers on a Cup challenger. Only rover Fred Whitcroft was legitimate. Lester Patrick, Tom Phillips and Didier Pitre headlined the cast of imports.

After dropping the first game, Edmonton replaced two of its ringers with two regulars, Harold Deeton and Jack Miller, who had made the trip to Montreal. They responded, scoring three and two goals, respectively. It marked the Wanderers' first Stanley Cup loss in seven games.

Harry Smith scored six goals, including five in the first game, as the Wanderers successfully defended the Cup on total goals despite splitting the series.

For the first time in Stanley Cup play, every man on the winning team except the goalie scored at least once as the Wanderers took the first game. In the second game, Bruce Stuart and Ernie Johnson each registered four goals.

The Toronto "Trolley Leaguers", champions of the OPHL, the first entirely pro hockey league ever formed in Canada, played the Wanderers in a onegame, sudden-death affair.

The see-saw battle included four ties until Ernie Johnson scored the Wanderers' game-winning goal and Bruce Stuart tallied an insurance marker.

Immediately after capturing the ECAHA league title with a perfect record of 10–0–0, the Wanderers submitted a challenge to the Cup trustees, but before the Thistles could play the rematch they had to face the Brandon Wheat Kings in a best-of-three set to determine the champion of the Manitoba league. Kenora swept the series to retain the Cup.

Because the trustees had ruled that Kenora could not use Art Ross against the Wanderers, the Thistles imported Alf Smith and Harry Westwick from Ottawa. Although Smith scored in each game, Montreal's Ernie Russell led a winning attack with four goals in the first game and added a single in the second. Though Kenora won the second game, the Wanderers still took the total-goals series.

All games were played in Winnipeg as a result of unsatisfactory rink conditions in Kenora.

Because no ice had been available after the Wanderers took the Stanley Cup title from Ottawa in 1906, this east-west confrontation had to be delayed until the start of the 1907 schedule.

The Kenora Thistles, formerly the Rat Portage Thistles, brought in Art Ross as a ringer in an effort to beef up the lineup which had failed to win its Cup challenges in 1903 and 1905.

Tommy Phillips scored seven times in the two games, including all four Thistles goals in the first contest, as Kenora (with its population of 6,000 people) became the smallest town ever to win a Stanley Cup championship.

A new ruling allowed professionals to play with the amateurs in the ECAHA, and the Wanderers were quick to give contracts to Riley Hern, Pud Glass, Hod Stuart, Moose Johnson and Jack Marshall — who officially became the first five pros in Stanley Cup competition. Players like Cecil Blachford and Ernie Russell chose to remain amateur. A pre-season challenge by a New Glasgow squad stocked with amateur players was accepted.

1906 March

Late in the ECAHA season, the Cup trustees decided that Ottawa should defend the Cup against Smiths Falls, champions of the reconstituted FAHL.

Frank McGee notched nine goals in the two games, which would be the last of Ottawa's nine straight successful Cup defenses.

It is interesting to note that the title "Silver Seven" was given only to the team and not to any particular seven players. Ottawa's line-up included a total of 16 players during its Stanley Cup reign that spanned from 1903 to 1906.

Ottawa and Montreal each concluded the regularseason at 9–1–0, leading to a two-game, total-goals series for the ECAHA championship and possession of the Stanley Cup.

In his Stanley Cup debut, Ernie Russell scored four goals to lift Montreal over Ottawa 9–1 in the first game, which left the defending champs with the task of outscoring the Wanderers by a minimum of nine goals in the second in order to retain the trophy.

Ottawa used Smiths Falls goalie Percy LeSueur in goal for the second game, and after he gave up an early goal, Ottawa stormed to a 9–1 lead on the strength of Harry Smith's five-goal effort to tie the series. However, Montreal rover Lester Patrick scored two late goals for the Wanderers to lock up the club's first Stanley Cup title.

Due to the late conclusion of the ECAHA Stanley Cup playoff, as well as the Manitoba and Maritime playoffs, the Stanley Cup challenges of Kenora and New Glasgow were put off until the 1906-07 season.

Having edged out the Montreal Wanderers for the FAHL title, Ottawa retained the Stanley Cup and faced a challenge from the team in Rat Portage (later known as Kenora, Ontario).

Ottawa had lost Frank McGee for the series opener, and the fleet-footed Thistles skated to victory. Tom Phillips put on a show for the fans with the first five-goal performance in a Stanley Cup game by a player other than the high-scoring McGee.

Ottawa's rink crew flooded the ice in the remaining two games, and the move greatly slowed the Thistles' fast-paced attack. McGee returned to score three goals in both games, including the Cup-winner in the finale.

Now a member of the FAHL, Ottawa took on Dawson City in a midseason challenge for the Stanley Cup. The Nuggets, backed by Yukon prospector Colonel Joe Boyle, departed from Dawson City on December 19 to meet the famed Silver Seven nearly a month later. The 4,000-mile excursion included travel by dogsled, boat and train and set the club back by over $3,000.

Wearied from the long trek, the challengers were overwhelmed. In the second game, Ottawa set Stanley Cup scoring records of every variety, including an unparalleled 14-goals from Frank McGee.

The Montreal Wanderers, who had stripped the cross-city rival AAA club of its best players, skated to the inaugural Federal Amateur Hockey League (FAHL) championship with a perfect 6–0–0 record. As such, they were granted a two-game, total-goals challenge for the Stanley Cup.

Following the first game, which ended with a 5–5 tie, a new two-game series was scheduled to be played in Ottawa. However, the Wanderers refused to play unless one of the games would be staged in Montreal. As defenders of the Cup, the Silver Seven did not have to yield to such a demand, and the series was awarded to Ottawa.

Ottawa faced Brandon, the champions of the Manitoba/Northwestern Hockey Association, in their fourth Stanley Cup challenge of the season and won both games. Frank McGee scored eight goals in the two games, including five in the first to tie his own Stanley Cup record set earlier in the year. On February 8, Ottawa pulled out of the Canadian Amateur Hockey League over a dispute involving a make-up game with the Montreal Victorias. As a result, the Quebec Bulldogs, who had won the league title, petitioned the trustees to strip the Silver Seven of the Cup and award it to them. The request would be denied, but while the debate continued, Ottawa faced a new challenger, the Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association.

In the finale, goalie Bouse Hutton shut down Winnipeg completely, with McGee scoring the game-winner.

The 1903 CAHL season ended with both Ottawa and the Montreal Victorias finishing ahead of the defending champion Montreal AAA. As both Ottawa and the Vics had identical records of 6–2–0, a two-game total-goals playoff was arranged to determine both the new CAHL and Stanley Cup champion.

After a tie in game one, Ottawa's famed Gilmour brothers — Billy, Dave and Suddy — combined for five goals and Frank McGee added a hat trick en route to a convincing victory. After winning the Stanley Cup, the Ottawa team became known as the Silver Seven.

The Rat Portage Thistles, playing with only one man over the age of 20, journeyed from northwestern Ontario to Ottawa to meet the Silver Seven. The game proved to be a springboard for the Ottawa club, which successfully defended the Cup for the first of nine straight times.

1903 February

The Montreal AAA took time out from the CAHL schedule to face a challenge from the Winnipeg Victorias in a much-discussed series. The first game was a lopsided contest won by the AAA, but the Vics bounced back in the second. With the score tied 2–2 at midnight after 27 minutes of overtime in this Saturday night affair, the Mayor of Westmount refused to allow the game to continue into the Sabbath. The Cup trustees first decided to resume the overtime the following Monday, but later realized it would be impossible to sell tickets to a game which might end after a few minutes or even a few seconds. Consequently, the game was replayed.

Tommy Phillips, one of the greatest players of the early era, made his Stanley Cup debut with three goals in four games for Montreal. The Winnipeg players all wore tube skates, the first time an entire team had appeared in the east so equipped.

Montreal, having won the championship of the CAHL, challenged Winnipeg, and a best-of-three Stanley Cup series was arranged. Over 4,000 fans packed the Winnipeg Arena for game one, paying as much as $25 for $5 and $10 seats for this battle of the giants. Even larger crowds attended the subsequent games.

After the rival teams split the first two games, Montreal's Art Hooper and Jack Marshall scored early in the third game to give the AAA a 2–0 lead. However, it was a stubborn defense which lifted the Montrealers to victory and earned them the moniker "Little Men of Iron," a nickname which became commonly associated with the Montreal Wanderers who later employed most of the AAA's star players.

Forward Dan Bain, who scored the Cup-winning goal four minutes into overtime in game two, played both games with a mask as the Vics continued to surprise Montrealers with new innovations from the west.

Winnipeg's victory over the Shamrocks meant the Stanley Cup passed out of the CAHL, so that when Ottawa unseated the Montreal team for the league title their was no Cup to claim. Due to the lateness of the season (March) and the travel to Winnipeg that would be involved, Ottawa declined to issue a Stanley Cup challenge.

The Amateur Hockey Asociation had dissolved prior to the start of the season with the Canadian Amateur Hockey League (CAHL) taking its place as the top hockey league in the country. The five former AHA franchises now comprised the new league.

The Montreal Vics successfully defended the Cup against their perennial rivals from Winnipeg in a series marred by controversy. After narrowly winning the first game of the set, Montreal's Bob McDougall slashed and injured Winnipeg's Tony Gingras, and the referee imposed a two-minute penalty, which Winnipeg protested was too lenient. The westerners were so incensed, they left the ice.

Insulted by the incident, the referee left the arena. He did reappear over an hour after play had stopped, and gave Winnipeg 15 minutes to resume play. Upon their failure to return, the game was awarded to Montreal.

Montreal won best-of-three series 2-0

1898

The Montreal Victorias claimed their fourth consecutive AHA title, romping to the championship with a perfect record of 8–0–0. Vics forward Cam Davidson headlined the cast of scoring leaders with 14 goals in seven regular-season games. As champions of the AHA, the Montreal team retained the Stanley Cup and was not called upon to defend it.

The Montreal Victorias were champions of the AHA for a third straight season in 1897 (again with a 7–1–0 record), and accepted a challenge from the Ottawa Capitals, winners of the Central Canada Hockey Association title. The challenge was scheduled for December, which would place it just before the beginning of the next hockey season. Although this Stanley Cup confrontation was originally set as a best-of-three series, the trustees ended the affair after one game because the two teams were unevenly matched.

1896 December

Immediately after winning the AHA championship with a 7–1–0 record, the recently dethroned Cup champion Montreal Victorias wasted no time in requesting a challenge against the Winnipeg Victorias, but satisfactory ice could not be ensured and the game was put off until the following winter.

The long-awaited rematch was described at the time as the greatest sporting event in Winnipeg history. Throngs of fans jammed the arena, with many paying as much as $12 per seat. Back in Montreal, the Daily Star newspaper arranged a public gathering whereby fans received up-to-the-minute game reports via telegraph.

The Montrealers overcame a 4–2 halftime deficit to tie the game 5–5, before Ernie McLea, who posted the first Stanley Cup hat trick, rifled his third goal of the night past goalie George "Whitey" Merritt to win the game in the closing seconds.

1896 February

The first east-west confrontation in Stanley Cup history pitted the defending Montreal Victorias against the Winnipeg Victorias, champions of the Manitoba Hockey League (MHL).

Whitey Merritt, the Winnipeg netminder, introduced the first set of goalie pads in Stanley Cup history to the Montrealers when he skated onto to the ice with a pair of white cricket pads and proceeded to register a shutout. Dan Bain scored the Cup-winning goal midway through the game, and Tote Campbell added the other.

1895-96 – (February) – Winnipeg Victorias – Whitey Merritt, Rod Flett, Fred Higginbotham, Jack Armitage (Captain), Tote Campbell, Dan Bain, Charles Johnstone, Attie Howard.

The Montreal Victorias wrapped up the AHA title on March 8, and, having unseated the Montreal AAA, were prepared to defend the Stanley Cup as league champions. However, trustees Sweetland and Ross had already agreed to a challenge match between the 1894 champion AAA club and Queen's University with the game set for March 9.

In what remains one of the most unusual Stanley Cup situations ever, Sweetland and Ross maintained that if the AAA defeated Queen's, the Victorias would be declared champions, but if Queen's won, the trophy would pass out of the AHA for the first time and go to the university squad. The first challenge match in Stanley Cup history turned out to be a one-sided affair as the AAA won the game, and the Victorias were awarded the trophy.

Clarence McKerrow, playing in place of the injured Billy Barlow, became the first "ringer" in Stanley Cup history and scored once for the AAA in a winning effort.

The 1894 AHA season ended precariously. Four of the five competing clubs — the Montreal AAA, Montreal Victorias, Ottawa Capitals and Quebec Athletic Club — finished with 5–3–0 records and shares of first place. The determination of a champion, and thus the winner of the Stanley Cup, created many problems for the league's governors who simply could not come to terms on a solution suitable to all involved. With two of the four finalists from Montreal, home-ice advantage became the major issue of contention. After Quebec ultimately withdrew, it was decided that all playoff games would be staged in Montreal and that Ottawa would be given a bye into the Final since it was the sole "road" team.

In what must be termed the first Stanley Cup playoff game ever, the two Montreal clubs battled to a 3–2 decision in favor of the defending champions, who then downed Ottawa in the final.

Forward Billy Barlow, who finished third overall with eight goals in eight regular-season games, scored twice in each postseason contest as the AAA successfully defended its title.

In accordance with Lord Stanley's terms, the Montreal AAA Hockey Club captured the inaugural Stanley Cup championship as a result of winning Canada's Amateur Hockey Association (AHA) title. The AAA squad skated to a 7–1–0 record to beat out the 6–2–0 Ottawa Generals, who had handed the Montrealers their lone defeat of the season on opening day. Haviland Routh led the newly crowned champs with a league-high 12 goals in seven games.

Formed in 1886, the AHA was considered the top hockey league in all of Canada. By 1893, its schedule consisted of 20 games played among its' five club members, which included three Montreal teams — the AAA, Victorias and Crystals — as well as Ottawa and Quebec.

Once the AAA had been declared holders of the Cup, any Canadian hockey team deemed acceptable by the trustees could challenge for the trophy, but none would for two years.

1892-93 — Montreal AAA — Tom Paton, James Stewart, Allan Cameron, Haviland Routh, Archie Hodgson, Billy Barlow, Alex Irving, Alex Kingan, G.S. Low.

Playoff Overtime, 1990 to 2009

Since the 1990 post season, there have been 345 overtime games. The home team has won 169 games (49%) and the road team has won 176 games (51%).

Conn Smythe Trophy Update

TOTAL OF 38 DIFFERENT PLAYERS have won the Conn Smythe Trophy, awarded to the most valuable player to his team in the playoffs. The trophy was first awarded in 1965 (Jean Beliveau). Patrick Roy is the only three-time winner of the trophy while four players have won the award twice: Bobby Orr, Bernie Parent, Wayne Gretzky and Mario Lemieux.

Five players have won the Conn Smythe Trophy as members of teams that have lost in the Stanley Cup Final: Roger Crozier (1966, Detroit Red Wings), Glenn Hall (1968, St. Louis Blues), Reggie Leach (1976, Philadelphia Flyers), Ron Hextall (1987, Philadelphia Flyers) and Jean-Sebastien Giquere (2003, Mighty Ducks of Anaheim).

Twenty-year-old Patrick Roy of the 1986 Montreal Canadiens was the youngest player ever to win the Conn Smythe Trophy.

The Conn Smythe Trophy is voted upon by the Professional Hockey Writers Association (PHWA) at the conclusion of the final game of the Stanley Cup. A complete listing of Conn Smythe Trophy winners follows:

First-Game Winners Hold Decisive Edge in Stanley Cup Final

Since the NHL implemented the best-of-seven Stanley Cup Championship format in 1939, the following winning trends have developed:

- Teams winning Game One have won the Cup 54 of 70 times (77.1%).
- Teams winning both Games One and Two have won the Cup 41 of 45 times (91.1%).
- Teams winning Games One, Two and Three have won the Cup 24 of 25 times (96%).
- Teams winning Game Three after splitting the first two games have won the Cup 21 of 25 times (84%).
- Teams holding a 2-1 series lead have won the Cup 38 of 45 times (84.4%).
- Teams winning Game Five after splitting the first four games have won the Cup 14 of 20 times (70%).
- Teams holding a 3-2 series lead have won the Cup 26 of 33 times (78.8%).

Odd and Unusual Moments in Stanley Cup History

1988: Tie games used to be a part of the NHL playoffs until the practice of two-game total-goals series was abandoned for the 1936–37 postseason. Since then, only two NHL playoff games have ended before a winner was declared, and both involved the Boston Bruins. The first occurred in 1951 (see right). The second took place on May 24, 1988, when a power failure at the Boston Garden stopped a game in the Final between the Bruins and Edmonton Oilers. The game was postponed, and was never replayed as the Oilers went on to defeat the Bruins in four straight games.

After winning, the Oilers took the Cup back to Edmonton to celebrate. At one stop on this local victory tour, the Cup was slightly damaged and bent in various places, so it was taken to a local autobody shop and repaired. It returned to its home at the Hall of Fame in Toronto looking a little worse for wear, but a quick trip to the silversmith returned the trophy to tip-top condition.

- 1987: Trailing three games to one in the Final, Philadelphia coach Mike Keenan uncrated the Cup in the Flyers dressing room as a motivational ploy before Game Five against Edmonton. The Cup's magic worked; the Flyers won 4-3. The Cup was displayed in the dressing room before Game Six and the Flyers won again. Returning to Edmonton for Game Seven, Keenan wanted to stick with his pre-game ritual, but the Cup couldn't be found. Apparently it had been delayed in shipping. Edmonton won the game and the series and celebrated with the trophy. It was later revealed that the Cup had been hidden by Edmonton assistant trainer Lyle Kulchisky.
- 1984: After the Edmonton Oilers won their Stanley Cup title, owner Peter Pocklington included the name of his father, Basil Pocklington, on the trophy. As Basil had no connection with the team, the name was crossed out with a row of X's that still remain on the Cup. The X's do not appear on the Hockey Hall of Fame's replica Cup.
- 1977: The current Stanley Cup was almost stolen in 1977, but a keen-eyed employee of the Hockey Hall of Fame thwarted the attempt. Seven men, with a large gym bag and tools, were seen near the Cup. When spotted, they dashed outside. In their car, police found a series of photos detailing the layout of the Hall and the necessary equipment to pull off the heist.
- 1975: One of the more unusual events in Stanley Cup history took place during the final between the Philadelphia Flyers and Buffalo Sabres. Game Three of the series was played on May 20 on a humid night in Buffalo. Fog inside the old Memorial Auditorium became so thick that the game had to be delayed. Players skated around the ice, waving towels to move the mist away. Suddenly, a bat flew down from the rafters and flew in circles just above the playing surface. The crowd cheered as all the players scattered—except Buffalo's Jim Lorentz, who dispatched the winged creature with a swipe of his hockey stick. The Sabres went on to win the game 5-4 in overtime, but dropped the series in six.
- 1970: After the Toronto Maple Leafs won the Cup in 1963, the original collar beneath the Stanley Cup bowl was retired to the Hockey Hall of Fame. In January 1970, the collar was stolen. Later, an anonymous phone caller told police to check the backroom of a Toronto cleaning store for a very important piece of history. The police weren't sure what they would find, but there, wrapped like a Christmas present was the original collar of the Stanley Cup.

- 1962: An attempt to steal the Cup took place in Chicago the year after the Black Hawks had become playoff champions in 1961, ending the Montreal Canadiens' five-year championship reign. When the Habs lost in the semifinals to the Hawks for the second year in a row in 1962, an unhappy Montreal fan went into the lobby of the Chicago Stadium where the trophy was displayed in a glass case. He broke the glass and made a beeline to freedom with his prize. However, he was quickly caught and the Mug apprehended. He explained that he couldn't stand seeing any team but the Canadiens win the Stanley Cup.
- 1951: On Saturday, March 31, 1951, the Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs were tied 1–1 after one period of overtime when the game was halted. At that time, the city of Toronto did not allow sports to be played on Sunday, and the clock was just about to strike midnight.
- 1924: The Montreal Canadiens wanted to celebrate their Cup win by drinking champagne from the Silver Mug. To this end they headed to owner Leo Dandurand's home to swill the bubbly. As fate would have it, they suffered a flat tire along the way and the boys placed Lord Stanley's Cup on the curb while they tended to the flat. When they arrived at Dandurand's and prepared to serve the victory wine, they discovered they'd left the trophy behind, on the streets of Montreal. Back into the car they rumbled and found the Cup where they had left it, on the sidewalk.
- 1923: After returning home from the west coast with the Stanley Cup, Frank "King" Clancy asked Ottawa Senator executives if he could bring the Cup home to show his father, a well-known amateur athlete and the original "King."

The following season, NHL president Frank Calder asked the Senators for the Cup, but they couldn't find it. It was then that Clancy admitted it was at his home, sitting on the mantle piece.

- 1907: The Montreal Wanderers quickly forgot the valuable lesson of the previous year (see below) and left the Cup at the home of the photographer they hired to document their trophy win. A young fellow happened by and grabbed the Cup, hoping to extract a small ransom for its return. However, no one was interested, so he returned it to the photographer's home, where an astute lady decided it would make a wonderful flower pot. It served that purpose for a few months until the the Wanderers brass remembered where it was and rescued it from its earthly grave.
- 1906: The Montreal Wanderers won the Cup this year, dethroning the Ottawa Silver Seven who had held the trophy since 1903. But when the Montreal players asked to see their prize, the Cup was no where to be found. Someone remembered that Ottawa's Harry Smith had the Mug and after a quick search it was retrieved and presented to the victorious Wanderers.
- 1905: The Ottawa Silver Seven felt it necessary to see if one could kick the Cup across Ottawa's Rideau Canal. One of them lined it up and gave it a boot, drop-kick style. It didn't make it. The Stanley Cup landed in the canal, which, fortunately, happened to be frozen at the time. The boys went on their merry way, and the Cup stayed on the Canal until the next day when sober heads prevailed and Lord Stanley's mug was rescued.

^{*} Brent Johnson played 24 seconds of overtime vs. Colorado, May 21, 2001. (Winning goal for Colorado by Joe Sakic.)

This Date in Stanley Cup History

December

- Dec. 27, 1897 In the only Stanley Cup challenge of the season, the defending champion Montreal Victorias turned back the Ottawa Capitals 15-2 to retain their champion status.
- Dec. 27, 1906 Riley Hern, Pud Glass, Hod Stuart, Ernie Johnson and Jack Marshall of the Montreal Wanderers officially became the first professionals to compete for the Stanley Cup. Glass scored four goals as the defending champion Montreal club downed the challenging New Glasgow Cubs 10-3 in the first game of a two-game total-goals series.
- Dec. 30, 1896 Ernie McLea notched the first hat trick in Stanley Cup history as the Montreal Victorias regained possession of the coveted trophy with a 6-5 win versus the defending champion Winnipeg Victorias. Winnipeg had won the Cup earlier in the year, defeating Montreal 2-0 on February 14, 1896.
- Dec. 30, 1904 In the first game of a best-of-three challenge between the Winnipeg Rowing Club and the defending champion Ottawa Silver Seven, a red line was drawn between each set of goal posts to aid the referee in awarding goals. These lines became the first known "Goal Lines" in hockey history.

January

- Jan. 16, 1905 "One-Eyed" Frank McGee netted an all-time Stanley Cup record 14 goals in the Ottawa Silver Seven's 23-2 win over the Dawson City Nuggets, who had trekked over 4,000 miles by dogsled, boat and train to challenge for the Cup.
- Jan. 31, 1901 The Stanley Cup was won in overtime for the first time when Dan Bain of the Winnipeg Victorias scored four minutes into the extra session for a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Shamrocks. Winnipeg swept the best-of-three series.

February

- Feb. 14, 1896 Winnipeg Victorias goaltender Whitey Merritt, the first netminder to wear goalie pads in a Stanley Cup game, posted a 2-0 shutout to capture the Stanley Cup from the reigning champion Montreal Victorias. The game marked the first successful challenge in Stanley Cup history.
- Feb. 25, 1904 Ottawa Silver Seven sniper Frank McGee registered the first five-goal performance in Stanley Cup history in an 11-2 win over the challenging Toronto Marlboros.

March

- Mar. 5, 1900 Defending champion Montreal Shamrocks forward Art Farrell led his club to a 10-2 victory against the challenging Halifax Crescents with an unprecedented four-goal Stanley Cup performance.
- Mar. 9, 1893 Upon defeating the Montreal Crystals 2-1, the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association (MAAA) captured the 1893 Amateur Hockey Association (AHA) title and the first Stanley Cup championship.
- Mar. 9, 1895 In the first official challenge for the Stanley Cup, the defending champion Montreal AAA team retained possession of the trophy with a 5-1 triumph over the Queen's University Golden Gaels.

- Mar. 11, 1914 The Toronto Blueshirts (later renamed the Maple Leafs) captured their first Stanley Cup title with a 6-0 home-ice shutout against the Montreal Canadiens in a playoff to determine the NHA champion. The game marked the first Stanley Cup contest ever played on an artificial ice surface.
- Mar. 14, 1908 Making his Stanley Cup debut, Newsy Lalonde scored twice, but still the Montreal Wanderers scored a 6-4 win over Lalonde's Toronto "Trolley Leaguers" for a successful defense of their championship title.
- Mar. 16, 1911 Ottawa Senators forward Marty Walsh scored 10 goals—second in Stanley Cup history only to Frank McGee's 14-goal total (January 16, 1905)—en route to a 13-4 win over the Port Arthur Seniors.
- Mar. 18, 1892 At a dinner of the Ottawa Amateur Athletic Association, Lord Kilcoursie, a player on the Ottawa Rebels hockey club, read the following message on behalf of Lord Stanley of Preston, the Governor-General of Canada: "It would be a good thing if there were a challenge cup which should be held from year to year by the champion hockey team in the Dominion (of Canada)....I am willing to give a cup which shall be held...by the winning team." That cup eventually became the Stanley Cup, which has been presented since 1893.
- Mar. 21, 1921 More than 11,000 fans jammed the Vancouver Arena for the first game of this best-of-five Stanley Cup series between the hometown Millionaires and the visiting Ottawa Senators. It marked the largest crowd ever to witness a hockey game anywhere in the world through this date. Vancouver downed Ottawa 2-1.
- Mar. 22, 1894 Forward Billy Barlow netted two goals as the Montreal AAA downed the Ottawa Capitals 3-1 in this one-game battle for the 1894 Stanley Cup.
- Mar. 22, 1919 Montreal center Newsy Lalonde became the first NHL player to score four goals in one Final game, spurring the Canadiens to a 4-2 win against the PCHA's Seattle Metropolitans. Only Babe Dye of the Toronto St. Patricks (March 28, 1922), Detroit's Ted Lindsay (April 5, 1955) and Montreal's Maurice "Rocket" Richard (April 6, 1957) have since matched Lalonde's four-goal feat.
- Mar. 23, 1918 Alf Skinner of the Toronto Arenas registered the first hat trick by an NHL player in a Stanley Cup Final game. The PCHA's Vancouver Millionaires downed Toronto 6-4 in Game Two of the 1918 Final, the first Stanley Cup series involving an NHL franchise.
- Mar. 25, 1922 Toronto goaltender John Ross Roach blanked the Vancouver Millionaires 6-0, recording the first Stanley Cup shutout victory by a goaltender in NHL play.
- Mar. 26, 1917 The Seattle Metropolitans of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association (PCHA) distinguished themselves as the first U.S. team to win the Stanley Cup. Seattle's Bernie Morris scored six times en route to a 9-1 triumph over the Montreal Canadiens to win the best-of-five series
- Mar. 26, 1919 In the longest game to that point in Final history, the Montreal Canadiens and Seattle Metropolitans (PCHA) played for 80 minutes (60 minutes of regulation time and 20 minutes of overtime) without scoring a goal. Georges Vezina and Harry Holmes dominated the first scoreless tie in

- Stanley Cup history with a display of superior goaltending.
- Mar. 27, 1925 Howie Morenz led the Montreal Canadiens to a 4-2 win over the PCHA's Victoria Cougars with the second three-goal output of his Stanley Cup Final career, setting an NHL record in the process. Maurice "Rocket" Richard later surpassed Morenz's mark with three hat tricks, including one four-goal and two three-goal performances.
- Mar. 28, 1922 Babe Dye scored four goals to lead the Toronto St. Patricks to a 5-1 win over the Vancouver Millionaires and a three games to one victory in their Stanley Cup series. Dye followed Newsy Lalonde (March 22, 1919) as the second player in NHL history to score four goals in a Stanley Cup game.
- Mar. 28, 1929 For the first time in history, two American teams—the Boston Bruins and New York Rangers—clashed in the Final. The Bruins' Dit Clapper and Dutch Gainor scored goals, and Tiny Thompson posted the third Stanley Cup shutout by an NHL rookie to give Boston a 2-0 win in Game One. The Bruins won 2-1 the following night to capture their first Stanley Cup title.
- Mar. 29, 1929 Harry Oliver scored a goal and an assist, and Bill Carson netted the game-winning tally as the Boston Bruins earned their first Stanley Cup title with a 2-1 win versus the New York Rangers. The victory completed a two-game sweep by Boston in the best-of-three Final.
- Mar. 30, 1916 In the fifth and final game for the 1916 Stanley Cup title, the Montreal Canadiens downed the PCHA's Portland Rosebuds 2-1 on goals by Skene Ronan and Goldie Prodgers, who netted the winning tally. The victory marked the first of Montreal's 24 championships, a record surpassed only by the New York Yankees (26) in professional sports history.
- Mar. 30, 1918 In the fifth and final game of the 1918 Final, Alf Skinner and Corb Denneny engineered a successful comeback with unanswered goals in a 2-1 win over the PCHA's Vancouver Millionaires. Denneny notched the game-winner as the Toronto Arenas became the first NHL team to capture Lord Stanley's Cup.
- Mar. 30, 1919 Montreal Canadiens right winger Odie Cleghorn scored the first overtime goal by an NHL player in the Final, snapping a 3-3 tie at 15:57 of the overtime period. The game knotted the 1919 Final between Montreal and the Seattle Metropolitans at 2-2-1 after five outings. However, the series never resumed because players from both squads suffered the consequences of a raging flu epidemic. Montreal's Joe Hall, who had become ill during this fifth game, died on April 5, 1919, as a result of the sickness.
- Mar. 30, 1925 The Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada Hockey League downed the Montreal Canadiens 6-1 to become the last non-NHL team to capture the Stanley Cup. The win gave Victoria a 3-1 margin over Montreal in the best-of-five championship series.
- Mar. 30, 1946 In Game One, right winger Maurice "Rocket" Richard registered the first of his record three overtime goals in Final action, snapping a 3-3 tie at 9:08 of the extra period. The goal gave the Montreal Canadiens the first of their four victories versus the Boston Bruins en route to the 1946 Stanley Cup.

April 1 – 10

- April 1, 1920 The Ottawa Senators downed the PCHA's Seattle Metropolitans 6–1 in the fifth and final game in their best-of-five Stanley Cup series. Games Four and Five of the series were played on artificial ice in Toronto because of mild weather in Ottawa. One year later, the Senators would become the first NHL team to win back-to-back Stanley Cup championships.
- April 3, 1930 The Canadiens downed the Bruins 4-3 to complete a two-game sweep of the 1930 Final. For the defending Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins, who had posted the NHL's best regular-season record in 1929-30 with a 38-5-1 mark, the games marked their first back-to-back losses of the year.
- April 4, 1921 The Ottawa Senators defeated the Vancouver Millionaires 2-1 in the decisive fifth game of the 1921 Stanley Cup series. Jack Darragh scored both goals for the Senators, who became the first NHL team to capture back-to-back Stanley Cup titles.
- April 4, 1944 Montreal Canadiens rookie right winger Maurice "Rocket" Richard made his Stanley Cup debut, tallying an assist on linemate Toe Blake's game-winning goal in a 5-1 victory against the Chicago Black Hawks in Game One of the 1944 Final. Richard continued to play a key role in Montreal's drive towards the title, scoring four more goals in the remaining three games of the Canadiens' four-game sweep against Chicago.
- April 5, 1931 Over 18,000 fans jammed Chicago Stadium for Game Two of the 1931 championship series, setting a new record for the largest attendance for one game in hockey history. Black Hawks left winger Johnny Gottselig thrilled the hometown fans with the game-winning goal in double overtime as Chicago downed the Montreal Canadiens 2-1. The Canadiens later won the Stanley Cup series three games to two.
- April 5, 1955 Detroit Red Wings left winger Ted Lindsay became the third player in NHL history to score four goals in one Stanley Cup game and tied a Final record with three goals in one period. Joining Newsy Lalonde (March 22, 1919) and Babe Dye (March 28, 1922) in achieving the four-goal feat, Lindsay scored the game-winning tally as Detroit downed Montreal 7-1.
- April 6, 1926 Goaltender Clint Benedict backstopped the Montreal Maroons to their first Stanley Cup title, blanking the Victoria Cougars 2-0 to win the best-of-five confrontation 3-1. The shutout was Benedict's third of the series, establishing a new Stanley Cup record for one year.
- April 6, 1937 When regular netminder Normie Smith left Game One of the Final with an elbow injury, the Detroit Red Wings placed minor leaguer Earl Robertson of the International League's Pittsburgh Hornets into the nets to finish the series. After a 5-1 loss to the New York Rangers in the opener, Robertson, who had never before played an NHL game, backstopped the Red Wings to three wins in their next four outings to capture the 1937 Stanley Cup.
- April 6, 1944 Rookie right winger Maurice "Rocket" Richard registered the first of his NHL record three Stanley Cup hat tricks as Montreal won Game Two 3-1 over Chicago. The victory was the second of four straight by the Canadiens versus the Black Hawks en route to the 1944 title.
- April 6, 1945 For the first time in Stanley Cup history, two rookie goaltenders—Toronto's Frank McCool and Detroit's Harry Lumley—opposed each other in the Final. On the strength of Dave "Sweeney" Schriner's first-period goal, McCool and the Leafs blanked the Wings 1-0 to open the best-of-seven series. For McCool, it was the first of a record three straight Stanley Cup shutouts and four victo- ries en route to winning the 1945 title.

- April 6, 1954 Dickie Moore and Maurice "Rocket" Richard of the Montreal Canadiens combined for the fastest three goals by an NHL team in Final history, scoring three times within 56 seconds. Moore scored at 15:03 of the first period, followed by Richard at 15:28 and 15:59. The Canadiens downed the Red Wings 3-1 in Detroit.
- April 6, 1957 Right winger Maurice "Rocket" Richard tied Newsy Lalonde, Babe Dye and Ted Lindsay for the NHL record with four goals in one Stanley Cup game, leading Montreal to a 5-1 triumph over the Boston Bruins in Game One of the 1957 Final. The four-goal effort also distinguished Richard as the only NHL player to record three hat tricks in a Stanley Cup career. Montreal went on to win the best-of-seven series four games to one.
- April 6, 1961 In their Stanley Cup debuts, Bobby Hull (2-0-2) and Stan Mikita (0-2-2) led the Chicago Black Hawks to a 3-2 win against the Detroit Red Wings in Game One of the 1961 Final. Hull netted the winning tally at 13:15 of the first period. Chicago went on to defeat Detroit four games to two in the best-of-seven series.
- April 7, 1927 The American Division champion Boston Bruins battled the Canadian Division champion Ottawa Senators to a 0-0 overtime tie in the first all-NHL Stanley Cup game. The best-of-five series, eventually won by Ottawa 2-0-2 over Boston, marked the dawn of the modern Stanley Cup era.
- April 7, 1928 After losing starting goaltender Lorne Chabot to an eye injury midway through Game Two, 44-year-old New York Rangers coach and former star player Lester Patrick took over between the pipes and inspired his club to a 2-1 overtime victory. After signing New York Americans rookie netminder Joe Miller the following day, the Rangers skated to two wins in their next three outings to win the best-of-five Final 3-2.
- April 7, 1948 20-year-old right winger Gordie Howe of Detroit made his Stanley Cup debut in Game One of the 1948 Final but failed to register a point as the Toronto Maple Leafs downed the Red Wings 5-3. The Leafs later went on to sweep Detroit in four straight games to capture the best-of-seven series and the Stanley Cup. Howe did not score in the series.
- April 7, 1960 In Game One of the 1960 Final, Montreal right winger Maurice "Rocket" Richard extended his all-time record of Stanley Cup Final series appearances to 12, while Toronto's Bert Olmstead and Montreal's Doug Harvey, Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion and Tom Johnson extended their records for consecutive Final appearances to 10. Montreal defeated Toronto 4-2.
- April 7, 1982 The Edmonton Oilers and Los Angeles Kings combined for 18 goals, setting an NHL record for the highest scoring playoff game. Los Angeles won the game 10-8 in Game One of their best-of-five Smythe Division Semifinal. Los Angeles won the series 3-2.
- April 8, 1937 Referee Clarence Campbell officiated his first Stanley Cup contest in Game Two of the 1937 Final, a 4-2 win for the Detroit Red Wings over the New York Rangers. Campbell, who became the third League President in NHL history in 1946, doled out three penalties during the affair.
- April 8, 1943 After blanking Boston 4-0 the previous night, Detroit goalie Johnny Mowers shut out the Bruins 2-0, completing a four-game sweep in the 1943 Final. Joe Carveth of the Red Wings registered the winning tally at 12:09 of the first period, and teammate Carl Liscombe added an insurance marker to lock up the title.
- April 8, 1982 Mikko Leinonen of the New York Rangers became the first NHL player to record six assists in a playoff game, helping his club to a 7-3

- win over Philadelphia in Game Two of their Patrick Division Semifinal. Leinonen's mark was equalled by Edmonton's Wayne Gretzky during the 1987 playoffs
- April 9, 1932 The Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the New York Rangers 6-4 to complete a three-game sweep of the 1932 Final. The series marked the Stanley Cup debut of the Leafs' famed "Kid Line" of Harvey "Busher" Jackson, Charlie Conacher and Joe Primeau, who combined for eight goals in Toronto's three victories.
- April 9, 1935 After winning the first two games of the 1935 Final in Toronto, the Montreal Maroons completed a three-game sweep of the Maple Leafs, with a 4-1 win, in the best-of-five Stanley Cup series.
- April 9, 1942 Eddie Bush of the Detroit Red Wings established a new NHL record with five points (1-4-5) by a defenseman in one Stanley Cup Final game. Bush, who never scored another point in his NHL career, led Detroit to a 5-2 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.
- April 9, 1946 In Game Five of the 1946 Final, Montreal center Elmer Lach scored a goal and two assists in a 6-3 win against the Boston Bruins. The victory gave the Canadiens their second Stanley Cup title in three years.
- April 9, 1987 The Edmonton Oilers established an NHL record for most goals in a playoff game, recording a 13-3 win over Los Angeles in Game Two of their Smythe Division Semifinal. Edmonton went on to win the best-of-seven series 4-1.
- April 10, 1934 The Chicago Black Hawks earned their first Stanley Cup title with a 1-0 overtime victory versus the Detroit Red Wings in Game Four of the best-of-five championship. Harold "Mush" March potted the series-winner at 10:05 of the second overtime period.
- April 10, 1949 Toronto left winger Sid Smith set a new NHL record with three power-play goals in one Final game. Toronto defeated Detroit 3-1.
- April 10, 1956 Center Jean Beliveau notched a goal and two assists as the Montreal Canadiens took Game Five (3-1) and the 1956 Stanley Cup title from the Detroit Red Wings. The goal gave Beliveau seven versus Detroit, establishing a modern record for one Final series. New York Islanders right winger Mike Bossy (1982) and Edmonton Oilers center Wayne Gretzky (1985) have since tied Beliveau's Stanley Cup mark.
- April 10, 1982 The Los Angeles Kings scored five third-period goals and added the game-winner in overtime to defeat the Edmonton Oilers 6-5 in Game Three of the 1982 Smythe Division Semifinal in one of the greatest comebacks in NHL playoff history. Trailing 5-0 entering the third period, Los Angeles forward Steve Bozek scored the tying goal with just five seconds remaining and Daryl Evans capped the furious Kings rally by adding the overtime winner at 2:35. Los Angeles went on to win the best-of-five series 3-2.

April 11 – 20

- April 11, 1936 Detroit coach Jack Adams steered the Red Wings to their first Stanley Cup championship with a 3-2 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in Game Four of the best-of-five Stanley Cup confrontation. The Wings, who had entered the NHL in 1926-27, became the last of the League's "Original Six" teams to win the Cup.
- April 11, 1965 Detroit Red Wings center Norm Ullman set NHL individual and team playoff records by scoring two goals just five seconds apart in Game Five of their Semifinal series against Chicago. Ullman scored at 17:35 and 17:40 of the second period in a 4-2 Detroit victory. Chicago won the best-of-seven series 4-3.

- April 11, 1971 Boston Bruins defenseman Bobby Orr became the first defenseman to score three goals in a playoff game during a 5-2 win over the Montreal Canadiens. Since then, nine other defensemen have equalled Orr's mark.
- April 11, 1980 Montreal's Yvon Lambert scored at 0:29 of overtime to give the Canadiens a 4-3 victory over Hartford and a sweep of the best-of-five Preliminary round series. The game marked the final NHL appearance of two Hall-of-Famers, as Hartford's Gordie Howe and Bobby Hull retired following the Whalers' elimination from the playoffs.
- April 11, 1981 The Boston Bruins set a new playoff record by scoring three shorthanded goals against the Minnesota North Stars in Game Three of their Preliminary round series. The three shorthanded goals were not enough as Minnesota won the game 6-3 and swept the best-of-five series.
- April 11, 1989 Philadelphia's Ron Hextall was the first goaltender to score a goal in the playoffs with an empty-net goal against the Washington Capitals. The Flyers won the game 8-5.
- April 12, 1938 The Chicago Black Hawks captured the 1938 Stanley Cup title with a 4-1 victory against the Toronto Maple Leafs in Game Four of the best-of-five Final. Eight American-born players—Carl Dahlstrom, Roger Jenkins, Virgil Johnson, Mike Karakas, Alex Levinsky, Doc Romnes, Louis Trudel and Carl Voss—skated for Chicago in the Final.
- April 12, 1941 For the first time since the NHL adopted the best-of-seven Final format in 1939, a team won the Stanley Cup in straight games. The Boston Bruins topped the Detroit Red Wings 3-1 to complete their four-game sweep of the 1941 series.
- April 12, 1945 Maple Leafs rookie netminder Frank McCool set a new record with his third consecutive Stanley Cup shutout, 1-0 against the Red Wings, as Toronto moved to within one game of sweeping Detroit in the Final. The Leafs later won the championship series in seven games.
- April 12, 1960 Right winger Maurice "Rocket" Richard scored his all-time record 34th and final Stanley Cup goal, helping the Montreal Canadiens to a 5-2 win over the Toronto Maple Leafs in Game Three of the 1960 Final. The Canadiens' victory was the third in a four-game sweep against the Leafs.
- April 12, 1979 The Toronto Maple Leafs set a playoff record for the fastest three goals by one team during a 7-4 victory over the Atlanta Flames in Game Two of their Preliminary round series. Darryl Sittler scored at 4:04 and 4:16 and Ron Ellis at 4:27 of the first period. Toronto went on to win the bestof-three series 2-0.
- April 13, 1933 Bill Cook snapped a scoreless tie at 7:33 of overtime to give the New York Rangers a 1-0 victory against the Toronto Maple Leafs. Rangers rookie goaltender Andy Aitkenhead posted the shutout as New York captured the best-of-five final in four games and won their second Stanley Cup.
- April 13, 1940 Frank Boucher, who played on New York's first two Stanley Cup championship teams in 1928 and 1933, coached the Rangers to a third title with a 3-2 overtime win in Game Six of the best-of-seven series vs. Toronto. Among Boucher's players on the team were brothers Lynn and "Muzz" Patrick, the third and fourth members of the legendary Patrick family (including their father Lester and uncle Frank) to have their names engraved on the Cup. Bryan Hextall scored the winning goal.
- April 13, 1944 Montreal's famed Punch Line—left winger Toe Blake, center Elmer Lach and right winger Maurice "Rocket" Richard—powered the Canadiens to a 5-4 series-clinching comeback victory versus the Chicago Black Hawks in Game Four of the 1944 Final. After Chicago had taken a 4-1 lead through two periods, Lach scored at 10:02 of the third, followed by Richard's back-to-back tallies

- at 16:05 and 17:20 to tie the game at four goals apiece after regulation time. Blake then ended the game and the season with a blast past netminder Mike Karakas at 9:12 of overtime. The win gave the Canadiens their first Stanley Cup title since 1931.
- April 13, 1952 Right winger Gordie Howe registered his first two Stanley Cup goals and goaltender Terry Sawchuk posted a shutout to lead the Detroit Red Wings past the Montreal Canadiens 3-0 in Game Three of the 1952 Final. The win was Detroit's third straight en route to a four-game sweep of Montreal in the best-of-seven season finale.
- April 13, 1985 Philadelphia Flyers center Tim Kerr set a new playoff record by scoring four goals in one period, eclipsing the mark of three held by many players. Kerr scored the four goals in the second period of a 6-5 win over the New York Rangers. Three of Kerr's goals were scored on the power-play, also setting a new record.
- April 14, 1928 In only their second season as an NHL franchise, the New York Rangers captured the 1928 Stanley Cup with a 2-1 triumph over the Montreal Maroons in the final game of the best-of-five title series. The Rangers became only the second American team in history to win the Stanley Cup, joining the 1917 champion Seattle Metropolitans of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association.
- April 14, 1931 Goaltender George Hainsworth blanked the Chicago Black Hawks 2-0 as the Montreal Canadiens became the second NHL team to win Stanley Cup championships in two consecutive seasons. The Ottawa Senators first accomplished the feat in 1920 and 1921.
- April 14, 1942 Brothers Don Metz (3-2-5) and Nick Metz (1-2-3) led the Toronto Maple Leafs to a record-tying 9-3 victory against the Detroit Red Wings in the 1942 Final. The Leafs' nine-goal outburst matched the Final scoring mark for an NHL team set by Detroit on April 7, 1936, in a 9-4 win against Toronto.
- April 14, 1948 The Toronto Maple Leafs repeated as Stanley Cup champions with a 7-2 win against the Detroit Red Wings, thus completing a four-game sweep of the 1948 Final. The game marked the end of a career for Toronto captain Syl Apps, who punctuated his stint in the NHL with a goal in this seriesending victory.
- April 14, 1953 Maurice "Rocket" Richard became the second NHL player to register two hat tricks in Final history, joining Howie Morenz in achieving the feat. Richard, who led Montreal to a 7-3 win against Boston, later added a four-goal performance to his record on April 6, 1957.
- April 14, 1955 Right winger Gordie Howe scored the winning goal in Game Seven of the 1955 Stanley Cup Final to lead the Detroit Red Wings past the Montreal Canadiens 3-1. The goal gave Howe a 5-7-12 scoring mark in the series, setting a new individual mark for Final competition.
- April 14, 1960 Goaltender Jacques Plante blanked the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0 as the Montreal Canadiens captured their record-setting fifth straight Stanley Cup championship. The victory marked the end of a career for Maurice "Rocket" Richard, the NHL's all-time leader with 34 goals in the Stanley Cup Final.
- April 15, 1937 In Game Five of the 1937 Stanley Cup series, referee Mickey Ion awarded Rangers right winger Alex Shibicky the first penalty shot in Final history. Red Wings rookie goaltender Earl Robertson stopped Shibicky's shot and posted his second straight shutout, 3-0 against New York, as Detroit became the first American team to repeat as Cup champions.
- April 15, 1952 In his fourth shutout in eight postseason games, Detroit Red Wings goalie Terry Sawchuk blanked the Montreal Canadiens 3-0 to - complete a four-game sweep of the 1952 Final. The Wings, who had also swept the Toronto Maple Leafs in the Semifinal, distinguished themselves as the first NHL team to win every playoff game in one year.

- April 16, 1939 Goaltender Frank Brimsek, alias "Mr. Zero", allowed only one goal, his sixth in five Stanley Cup final games against Toronto, to lead the Boston Bruins past the Maple Leafs 3-1 to win the 1939 championship.
- April 16, 1949 The Toronto Maple Leafs swept the Detroit Red Wings to become the first NHL team to win three consecutive Stanley Cup titles (1947-49). The 3-1 series-ending victory also marked the Leafs' ninth straight win in Final action.
- April 16, 1953 Assisted by linemate Maurice "Rocket" Richard, Elmer Lach scored the only goal in Game Five at 1:22 of overtime, and goalie Gerry McNeil blanked the Boston Bruins for the second time in three outings as the Montreal Canadiens earned the 1953 Stanley Cup championship.
- April 16, 1954 Tony Leswick's Stanley Cup-winning tally was the second overtime goal ever scored in the seventh game of a Final series. Leswick, who notched the decisive goal at 4:29 of overtime in Detroit's 2-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens in Game Seven, matched the feat first accomplished by former Red Wings left winger Pete Babando in 1950.
- April 16, 1961 The Chicago Black Hawks earned their first Stanley Cup championship since 1938 and their third title since joining the NHL in 1926-27. The Black Hawks downed Detroit 5-1 to take the best-of-seven Final four games to two.
- April 16, 2001 Raymond Bourque set an NHL record for most years in the playoffs (21) by appearing for the Colorado Avalanche in Game Three of their best-of-seven Western Conference quarterfinal series against Vancouver. Bourque, who made his playoff debut in 1980 with Boston, passed the mark established by NHL great Gordie Howe.
- April 17, 1977 Don Kozak of the Los Angeles Kings scored the fastest goal from the start of an NHL playoff game, tallying just six seconds into his club's 7-4 win over the Boston Bruins in Game Four of their Quarter-final series.
- April 17, 1997 New Jersey Devils goaltender Martin Brodeur became just the second goaltender in NHL playoff history to score a goal, coming in a 5-2 win over the Montreal Canadiens in Game One of their Eastern Conference Quarter-final. Philadelphia's Ron Hextall was the first goaltender to score a goal in the playoffs, on April 11, 1989 versus the Washington Capitals.
- April 18, 1942 The Toronto Maple Leafs completed the greatest comeback in Stanley Cup history with their fourth straight victory after losing the first three games of the Final to the Detroit Red Wings. Leafs goaltender Turk Broda provided the heroics, allowing the Red Wings only seven goals in the last four games, including this 3-1 series-ending victory.
- April 18, 1959 Montreal Canadiens left winger Marcel Bonin scored the Stanley Cup-winning goal at 9:55 of the second period en route to a 5-3 win over the Toronto Maple Leafs in Game Six. This victory ended the series and gave Montreal the fourth of its record five straight Stanley Cup titles.
- April 18, 1963 In Game Five of the 1963 Final, Toronto Maple Leafs center Dave Keon scored two shorthanded goals against the Detroit Red Wings, setting a single-game playoff record. Keon's heroics led Toronto to a 3-1 Cup-winning triumph over Detroit. It marked the second of three straight Stanley Cups for the Leafs.
- April 18, 1987 Pat LaFontaine scored the dramatic game-winning goal at 8:42 of the fourth overtime period in Game Seven of the Patrick Division Semifinal versus Washington.

- April 18, 1994 The San Jose Sharks defeated the Detroit Red Wings 5-4 at Joe Louis Arena in Detroit in Game One of their Western Conference Quarterfinal series to become the first club since the 1975 New York Islanders to win the first Stanley Cup playoff game in franchise history. Since the Islanders defeated the New York Rangers 3-2 on April 8, 1975, seven clubs had lost their playoff debuts prior to San Jose's win.
- April 18, 1994 The New York Rangers posted their second consecutive 6-0 shutout to open the Stanley Cup playoffs against the New York Islanders. The Rangers became the first club to open the postseason with consecutive shutouts since the Buffalo Sabres defeated Montreal 1-0 and 3-0 in 1983.
- April 19, 1947 After assisting on defenseman Vic Lynn's goal at 5:39 of the second period to tie the game at one goal apiece, Toronto Maple Leafs center Ted "Teeder" Kennedy scored the Cup-winner at 14:39 of the third period to defeat the Montreal Canadiens 2-1 in Game Six. The series-ending victory earned Toronto its third Stanley Cup title in six seasons.
- April 20, 1950 New York center Don Raleigh set a Stanley Cup record with his second overtime goal in as many games as the Rangers downed the Detroit Red Wings 4-3 in Game Five of the 1950 Final. The win proved to be the Rangers' last of the series as Detroit went on to win the final two games and the Stanley Cup.
- April 20, 1967 In Game One of the 1967 Final, a 6-2 win for the Montreal Canadiens, defenseman Red Kelly skated in the 12th Stanley Cup series of his career, tying Maurice "Rocket" Richard for the all-time record. Montreal's Henri Richard and Jean Beliveau, both of whom played in this game, would later tie the mark as well.
- April 20, 1993 The Pittsburgh Penguins set an NHL playoff record with their 13th consecutive postseason win, a 7-0 decision over the New Jersey Devils in Game Two of their Patrick Division Semifinal. The Penguins passed the previous mark of 12, set by the Edmonton Oilers in the 1984 and 1985 playoff seasons. The Penguins extended their record to 14 games before dropping Game Four to the Devils, ending the streak.
- April 20, 1997 Chicago Blackhawks forward Sergei Krivokrasov scored at 11:03 of the second overtime period in a 4-3 win over the Colorado Avalanche in Game Three of their Western Conference Quarterfinal at the United Center. The goal stopped Avalanche goaltender Patrick Roy's overtime shutout streak at 162 minutes and 56 seconds. (Now the second longest streak in NHL playoff history; see May 31, 2003)
- April 20, 1997 The Edmonton Oilers staged a gametying, three-goal flurry in the last four minutes of the third period versus the Dallas Stars en route to a 4-3 overtime win in Game Three at Edmonton. It marked the first time since the NHL took exclusive control of the Stanley Cup in 1926-27 that a club had won a playoff game after trailing by three goals with less than five minutes to play. With Dallas leading 3-0 in the third period, Edmonton got goals from Doug Weight (16:00), Andrei Kovalenko (17:44) and Mike Grier (17:56) to tie the game, with Kelly Buchberger adding the game-winner at 9:15 of overtime. Edmonton took a 2-1 lead in the series.

April 21 – 30

April 21, 1951 • Toronto Maple Leafs defenseman Bill Barilko scored the Cup-winning goal at 2:53 of overtime to defeat the Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in Game Five of the 1951 Final. It was the only Stanley Cup series in which every game had ended in overtime. Toronto's Sid Smith, Ted Kennedy, Harry Watson, Barilko and Montreal's Maurice "Rocket" Richard each netted overtime winners during the

- five-game matchup. Barilko died in an off-season plane crash in the summer of 1951, though his remains would not be discovered until 1962.
- April 22, 1945 At 12:14 of the third period, Maple Leafs defenseman Walter "Babe" Pratt scored the Cup-winning goal to give Toronto a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Red Wings in Game Seven of the Final. Leafs rookie goaltender Frank McCool, who allowed only nine goals in seven starts, limited the Wings to one goal or less for the fifth time in the series.
- April 22, 1962 Toronto's Bob Nevin and Dick Duff notched third-period goals to defeat the Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 in Game Six of the 1962 Final. The win propelled the Maple Leafs to their first of three straight Stanley Cup championships.
- April 22, 1976 Toronto center Darryl Sittler equalled Maurice "Rocket" Richard's 32-year-old record for most goals in one playoff game by scoring five goals in the Maple Leafs' 8-5 Quarter-final series win over the Philadelphia Flyers. Philadelphia's Reggie Leach joined Richard and Sittler just days later, as Leach scored five of his playoff-record 19 goals on May 6, 1976, in a 6-3 win over the Boston Bruins.
- April 22, 1988 Patrik Sundstrom set an NHL record by recording eight points (3-5-8) in New Jersey's 10-4 win over Washington in Game Three of the Patrick Division Final.
- April 23, 1950 In the first Game Seven overtime in Final history, left winger Pete Babando, assisted by center George Gee at 8:31 of the second overtime period, gave the Detroit Red Wings a 4-3 win and the 1950 Stanley Cup title. Four years later, another Detroit left winger, Tony Leswick, repeated Babando's overtime feat in Game Seven of the 1954 Final. Since then, no player has scored the Cup-winning goal in overtime in the seventh and deciding game of the Final.
- April 23, 1996 The Tampa Bay Lightning established an all-time NHL playoff attendance record as 28,183 fans filled the ThunderDome for Game Four of Tampa Bay's Eastern Conference Quarter-final series with the Philadelphia Flyers. The Flyers won 4-1, tying the series at two wins apiece. They went on to win the series in six.
- April 23, 1997 Wayne Gretzky scored a natural hat trick in the second period to lead the New York Rangers to a 3-2 victory over the Florida Panthers at Madison Square Garden, opening up a 3-1 series lead. Gretzky scored three goals in a 6:23 span to give the Rangers a 3-1 lead. The hat trick was his ninth in the postseason, extending his playoff record.
- April 24, 1994 Chicago Blackhawks defenseman Gary Suter tallied three goals in a 4-3 overtime win over the Toronto Maple Leafs in Game Four of their Western Conference Quarter-final series. Suter became the eighth defenseman in Stanley Cup playoffs history to post a hat trick, joining Bobby Orr, Dick Redmond, Denis Potvin, Doug Halward, Paul Reinhart (twice), Al Iafrate and Eric Desjardins.
- April 24, 1996 Petr Nedved of the Penguins scored at the 19:15 mark of the fourth overtime period to give Pittsburgh a 3-2 win over Washington in the third-longest (now fifth longest) game in NHL history. Washington's Joe Juneau was stopped by Ken Wregget on the first penalty shot ever taken in overtime of an NHL playoff game.
- April 24, 1999 Colorado Avalanche goaltender Patrick Roy, the NHL's all-time leader for postseason victories, earned his 100th career playoff win as the Avalanche defeated San Jose 3–1 to take a 1-0 lead in their Conference Quarter-final series.
- April 24, 2003 After having upset the Detroit Red Wings in four straight games, the Mighty Ducks of Anaheim took the first game of their Western Conference Semifinal from the Dallas Stars with a

- 4–3 overtime victory. Petr Sykora scored the winning goal 48 seconds into the fifth overtime period. The 80:48 of overtime made it the fourth longest game in NHL history.
- April 24, 2006 Colorado Avalanche center Joe Sakic set an NHL playoff record by scoring his seventh career overtime goal in a 5-4 victory at Dallas in Game 2 of the Western Conference Quarterfinal. Sakic passed the legendary Maurice Richard, who notched six playoff overtime goals in his 18-year Hall of Fame career. Richard had held or shared the League record since March 29, 1951, when he scored his third career playoff OT goal to tie Boston's Mel Hill.
- April 25, 1964 Toronto goalie Johnny Bower blanked the Detroit Red Wings 4-0 to propel the Maple Leafs to their third straight Stanley Cup title.
- April 26, 1975 Goaltender Glenn Resch and the New York Islanders blanked the Pittsburgh Penguins 1-0 to win Game Seven and capture their 1975 Quarter-final series. The Islanders became just the second team in NHL history to win a best-of-seven series after losing the first three games, joining the 1942 Toronto Maple Leafs. The Islanders nearly repeated the feat in the Semifinal against Philadelphia. The Islanders again lost the first three games of the series only to bounce back and win the next three. Their bid for an unprecedented second straight 0-3 comeback was stopped as they lost Game Seven, 4-1.
- April 27, 1994 Buffalo Sabres center Dave Hannan scored at 5:43 of the fourth overtime period in a 1-0 home win over the New Jersey Devils in Game Six of their Eastern Conference Quarter-final series. This game was the sixth (now ninth) longest in NHL history, beginning at 7:39 p.m. and concluding at 1:51 a.m.—six hours and 12 minutes later. Sabres goaltender Dominik Hasek turned aside all 70 of the shots he faced, while New Jersey netminder Martin Brodeur made 49 saves on 50 shots.
- April 27, 1998 The St. Louis Blues tallied four power-play goals in a span of 3:07 during the third period of a 4-3 win over Los Angeles in Game Three of their Western Conference Quarter-final. The four fastest power-play goals by one team in NHL history were scored by Pascal Rheaume (9:59), Brett Hull (11:03), Pierre Turgeon (11:59) and Terry Yake (13:06).
- April 28, 1996 A sold-out crowd at the Winnipeg Arena said good-bye to the Winnipeg Jets following a 4-1 loss to the Detroit Red Wings in Game Six of their Western Conference Quarter-final series. It marked the final game for the Jets before moving to Phoenix and becoming the Coyotes.
- April 29, 1973 Tony Esposito of the Chicago Black Hawks and Ken Dryden of the Montreal Canadiens, who had been Team Canada's goaltending duo in the 1972 Summit Series versus the Soviet Union, faced each other on opposite sides of the ice in Game One of the 1973 Final. Dryden and the Canadiens won the contest 8-3 and went on to win the series in six games. Montreal's Henri Richard tied brother Maurice and Red Kelly for the all-time record for Final appearances with the 12th of his career.
- April 30, 1972 The New York Rangers made their first appearance in a Stanley Cup Final series game since 1950, losing to the Boston Bruins 6-5 in the opening contest. The 1972 championship clash between New York and Boston marked the first time in 43 years that the two had met in the Final. Boston won the best-of-seven series in six games.

May 1 - 10

May 1, 1965 • Montreal captain Jean Beliveau notched the winning goal and added one assist to lead the Canadiens past the Chicago Black Hawks in Game Seven of the 1965 Final. Beliveau, who

- posted a 5-5-10 scoring total in the seven-game Stanley Cup Final series, received a new NHL award, the Conn Smythe Trophy, as the most valuable player to his team in the playoffs.
- May 1, 2004 Colorado Avalanche captain Joe Sakic tallied his sixth career overtime goal, tying the playoff record set by the legendary Maurice "Rocket" Richard from 1944-1960, in a 2-1 victory over the San Jose Sharks in Game Five of the Western Conference Semifinal. Sakic's milestone tally came at 1:32 and was his second overtime goal in as many games, having notched the deciding goal at 5:15 in a 1-0 victory in Game Four.
- May 2, 1967 With the oldest lineup in Final history, the Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Montreal Canadiens 3-1 in Game Six to win the 1967 Stanley Cup. The Leafs' roster included 42-year-old goalie Johnny Bower and 41-year-old defenseman Allan Stanley as well as seven others at least 30 years old. Toronto center Red Kelly played his 65th game in Final competition, setting a Stanley Cup record later tied by Montreal's Henri Richard.
- May 4, 1969 With a 2-1 win in Game Four of the 1969 Stanley Cup Final, the Montreal Canadiens swept the St. Louis Blues in the Final for the second straight season. The Conn Smythe Trophy was presented to Serge Savard, the first defenseman to receive the award.
- May 4, 1972 New York Rangers defenseman Brad Park registered two power-play goals in the first period of a 5-2 win against the Boston Bruins to tie a Stanley Cup Final record for one period. Park joined Sid Smith (April 10, 1949) of Toronto and Montreal's Maurice "Rocket" Richard (April 6, 1954) and Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion (April 7, 1955) in accomplishing this power-play feat.
- May 4, 1998 Curtis Joseph of the Edmonton Oilers blanked the Colorado Avalanche 4-0 to become just the second goaltender in NHL playoff history to post back-to-back shutouts in Games Six and Seven of a playoff series. Joseph and the Oilers recorded a 2-0 win over the Avalanche in Game Six.
- May 4, 2000 The Philadelphia Flyers defeated the Pittsburgh Penguins 2-1 at Mellon Arena in Pittsburgh in Game Four of their Eastern Conference Semifinal series, ending the third-longest game in NHL history. Philadelphia forward Keith Primeau scored at 12:01 of the fifth overtime period (92:01 into overtime). The game's duration of six hours, 56 minutes set an NHL record.
- May 5, 1966 At 2:30 of overtime in Game Six, Montreal Canadiens center Henri Richard became the ninth player in NHL history to record a Stanley Cup-winning goal in sudden-death. Richard's overtime goal gave Montreal a 3-2 win versus the Detroit Red Wings. Detroit goaltender Roger Crozier, who amassed a 2.34 average and one shutout in 12 playoff games, earned the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP. Crozier was the first Conn Smythe winner from a losing team.
- May 6, 1976 Philadelphia winger Reggie Leach joined Maurice "Rocket" Richard and Darryl Sittler as he tied the record for most goals scored in a Stanley Cup playoff game by scoring five goals in the Flyers' 6-3 win over the Boston Bruins.
- May 8, 1973 The Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens combined to set an NHL record with 15 goals in one Final game. Led by Stan Mikita's two-goal, two-assist performance, the Black Hawks edged the Canadiens 8-7 in Game Five at the Montreal Forum. Montreal went on to win the series four games to two.
- May 8, 1982 The Vancouver Canucks became the first team since the 1922 Vancouver Millionaires of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association (PCHA) to represent that city in the Stanley Cup Final. The Canucks lost the opening game 6-5 in overtime to the New York Islanders, who went on to take the - series in four straight games.

- May 8, 1995 New York Rangers center Mark Messier scored the 100th goal of his playoff career in an 8-3 win over the Quebec Nordiques in Game Two of their Eastern Conference Quarter-final. He became just the third player in NHL history to reach the milestone, joining former Oiler teammates Wayne Gretzky (110) and Jari Kurri (102).
- May 8, 2003 The Minnesota Wild became the first team in NHL history to bounce back from a three-games-to-one deficit twice in one playoff year when they defeated the Vancouver Canucks 4–2 in Game Seven of their Western Conference Semifinal. In beating the Colorado Avalanche in the first round and the Canucks in the second, the Wild had needed to win both games five and seven on the road.
- May 9, 1999 With Detroit's 4-0 win over Colorado in Game Two of their Conference Semifinal series, Red Wings head coach Scotty Bowman recorded his 200th career playoff victory.
- May 9, 2006 Anaheim right wing Joffrey Lupul became the first player in playoff history to record a four-goal game that included the overtime winner, scoring each Ducks goal in a 4-3 victory over Colorado in Game 3 of the Western Conference Semifinal
- May 10, 1970 Bobby Orr, who had distinguished himself in 1969-70 as the first defenseman in NHL history to record 100 points (33-87-120) in a season, scored just 40 seconds into overtime to give the Boston Bruins a 4-3 win and a four-game sweep versus the St. Louis Blues in the 1970 Final. For Orr, the Conn Smythe Trophy winner, the goal was his first of the series.
- May 10, 1973 In Montreal's 6-4 series-ending victory in Game Six, Yvan Cournoyer (6-6-12) and Jacques Lemaire (5-7-12) tallied 1-2-3 and 0-2-2 scoring totals, respectively, to tie Gordie Howe's record of 12 points in one Final series. Meanwhile, Montreal's Henri Richard tied Red Kelly's all-time record for Stanley Cup games with the 65th of his career.

May 11 – 20

- May 11, 1968 The Montreal Canadiens swept the St. Louis Blues in straight games with a 3-2 win in Game Four of the 1968 Final. For Montreal coach Toe Blake, it was his 11th Stanley Cup title, setting an all-time record for one individual. Blake, who had won three championships as a player and eight as a coach, retired following the series. Canadiens center Henri Richard later tied Blake's mark with his 11th Stanley Cup (all as a player) in 1973.
- May 11, 1972 For the second time in three seasons, defenseman Bobby Orr scored the Stanley Cupwinning goal as the Boston Bruins blanked the New York Rangers 3-0 in Game Six. The goal gave Orr, who won the Conn Smythe Trophy, a 5-19-24 scoring total in 15 playoff games.
- May 11, 1995 Detroit Red Wings right winger Dino Ciccarelli tallied three power-play goals in a 5-1 win over the Dallas Stars in Game Three of their Western Conference Quarter-final to tie an NHL playoff record for most power-play goals in one game. Nine players, including Ciccarelli, had previously shared the record. Ciccarelli was the last player to accomplish the feat, on April 29, 1993 versus Toronto, and became the first player in NHL history to post three power-play goals in a playoff game on separate occasions.
- May 14, 1977 Montreal Canadiens center Jacques Lemaire scored his third game-winning goal of the 1977 Final and his second career overtime tally in a Stanley Cup game, leading the Montreal Canadiens to a 2-1 series-clinching win against the Boston Bruins. Only Maurice "Rocket" Richard of the Canadiens (3) and Don Raleigh of the Rangers (2)

- have ever posted more than one career overtime goal in Final history.
- May 15, 1990 Edmonton's Petr Klima scored 15:13 into the third overtime period to lead the Oilers to a 3-2 triumph over the Boston Bruins in Game One of the 1990 Final at Boston Garden. The 55:13 overtime was the longest in Final history, 1:23 longer than the 53:50 of overtime played in Game Three of the 1931 Final between Chicago and Montreal.
- May 15, 1995 The Vancouver Canucks tallied two shorthanded goals in 17 seconds during the second period of their 6-5 win over the St. Louis Blues in Game Five of their Conference Quarter-final series to set an NHL playoff record for the fastest two shorthanded goals by one team. Christian Ruuttu scored for Vancouver at 4:31 of the second period, followed by Geoff Courtnall at 4:48. The Canucks passed the old mark of 24 seconds set by the 1978 Montreal Canadiens versus Detroit on April 23, 1978
- May 16, 1971 Center Jean Beliveau tallied two assists, the final two points of his NHL career, as the Montreal Canadiens downed the Chicago Black Hawks 4-3 in Game Six of the 1971 Final. Beliveau, the all-time scoring leader in Final history with a 30-31-61 total, helped his club win the Stanley Cup two days later in Game Seven.
- May 16, 1976 In Game Four of the 1976 Final, Philadelphia Flyers right winger Reggie Leach scored his 19th goal of the playoffs, extending his NHL record in that category. Although the Flyers lost the game 5-3 and the series 4-0 to the Montreal Canadiens, Leach won the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player to his team in the playoffs.
- May 16, 1982 Right winger Mike Bossy scored twice, including the series-winning goal, to lead the New York Islanders to their third straight Stanley Cup championship. The 3-1 victory gave New York a four-game sweep against the Vancouver Canucks.
- May 16, 1996 The Detroit Red Wings defeated the St. Louis Blues 1-0 in a classic seventh and deciding game of their Western Conference Semifinal series at Joe Louis Arena. Steve Yzerman notched the series-winning goal at 1:15 of the second overtime period as Detroit rallied from three straight losses after opening the series with a pair of wins.
- May 17, 1981 In Game Three of the 1981 Final, Minnesota North Stars right winger Dino Ciccarelli broke Don Maloney's one-year rookie playoff scoring record (20 points in 1979) with his 21st point, a goal against the New York Islanders. The Islanders won the game 7-5 and later took the series 4-1.
- May 17, 1983 The New York Islanders beat the Edmonton Oilers 4-2 to complete a four-game sweep of the 1983 Final. It was the Islanders' fourth straight Stanley Cup, one short of the NHL record for consecutive championships set by the Montreal Canadiens from 1956 to 1960.
- May 17, 2008 The Dallas Stars won their first playoff game in Detroit since 1992, ending a 10-game losing streak with a 2-1 win over the Red Wings, in Game Five of the Western Conference Finals.
- May 18, 1971 The Montreal Canadiens, who had missed the playoffs in 1970, won the 1971 Stanley Cup with a 3-2 triumph over the Chicago Black Hawks in Game Seven. 23-year-old rookie goalie Ken Dryden took the Conn Smythe Trophy with a 12-8 record and a 3.00 average in the playoffs.
- May 18, 1986 Montreal center Brian Skrudland notched the fastest overtime goal in playoff history, scoring just nine seconds into overtime to give the Canadiens a 3-2 victory over the Calgary Flames in Game Two of the 1986 Final. The win was the first of four straight for Montreal en route to the team's 23rd Stanley Cup title.
- May 18, 2008 Pittsburgh goalie Marc-Andre Fleury recorded his third career playoff shutout as the - Penguins reached the Stanley Cup Final for the first time in 16 years, after a 6-0 win over the visiting Philadelphia Flyers in Game Five of the Eastern Conference Finals.

- May 19, 1974 The Philadelphia Flyers, who had entered the NHL in 1967-68, became the first expansion team to win the Stanley Cup, downing the Boston Bruins 1-0 in Game Six of the 1974 Final. Left winger Rick MacLeish scored the game's only goal, while goaltender Bernie Parent, who won the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP, recorded the shutout.
- May 19, 1984 The Edmonton Oilers, one of four former WHA teams which joined the League in 1979-80, won their first Stanley Cup title. Oilers center Mark Messier, who registered an 8-18-26 scoring mark in 19 playoff games, won the Conn Smythe Trophy.
- May 20, 1986 In the first period of Game Three, Montreal and Calgary combined for the fastest four goals by two teams in a Final game. Calgary's Joel Otto (17:59) and Montreal's Bobby Smith (18:25), Mats Naslund (19:17) and Bob Gainey (19:33) posted goals within one minute and 34 seconds to set the mark. The Canadiens defeated the Flames 5-3.

May 21 - 31

- May 21, 1979 Center Jacques Lemaire scored twice, including his second career Stanley Cup-winning goal, to power the Montreal Canadiens past the New York Rangers 4-1 in Game Five. The win gave Montreal its fourth straight Stanley Cup, one short of the record set by the same team, 1956-60.
- May 21, 1981 New York Islanders center Butch Goring notched two goals to help defeat the Minnesota North Stars 5-1 in the fifth and final game of the 1981 Final. Goring, who assisted on the winning goal in Game Two and scored the winner in Game Three, earned the Conn Smythe Trophy.
- May 22, 1987 In Game Three of the 1987 Final, Edmonton Oilers center Mark Messier set a new playoff record with his eighth career shorthanded goal. Edmonton lost the game 5-3 to the Philadelphia Flyers but went on to win the series in seven games.
- May 22, 1999 The Colorado Avalanche defeated the Dallas Stars 2-1 in the opening game of the Western Conference Final, tying a playoff record for consecutive road victories (seven).
- May 24, 1980 Right winger Bob Nystrom scored at 7:11 of overtime as the New York Islanders defeated the Philadelphia Flyers 5-4 and captured the 1980 Stanley Cup in six games. Nystrom's goal was the fourth and final overtime tally of his playoff career and moved him into second place on the all-time list behind Maurice "Rocket" Richard (6).
- May 24, 1986 The Montreal Canadiens defeated the Calgary Flames 4-3 in Game Five en route to their 23rd Stanley Cup title, a new professional record for the most championship seasons. Montreal had been tied with Major League Baseball's New York Yankees, winners of 22 World Series at the time.
- May 24, 1990 The Edmonton Oilers won their fifth Stanley Cup in seven years with a 4-1 win over the Boston Bruins in Game Five of the 1990 Final at Boston Garden. Seven Oilers players—Glenn Anderson, Grant Fuhr, Randy Gregg, Charlie Huddy, Jari Kurri, Kevin Lowe and Mark Messier—were members of all five championship clubs.
- May 24, 1995 New York Rangers center Mark Messier's goal in the second period of a 5-2 loss to the Philadelphia Flyers in Game Three of their Conference Semifinal was the 102nd of his playoff career, tying Jari Kurri for second place on the all-time list.
- May 25, 1978 Conn Smythe Trophy winner Larry Robinson assisted on Mario Tremblay's Stanley

- Cup-winning goal to lead the Montreal Canadiens past the Boston Bruins 4-1 in Game Six. Robinson was one of three Canadiens, including Doug Jarvis and Steve Shutt, who appeared in all 95 games during the 1977-78 season.
- May 25, 1985 Edmonton Oilers center Wayne Gretzky notched three goals in the first period of a 4-3 win against the Philadelphia Flyers to tie an NHL record for one Final period. Three players—Toronto's Harvey "Busher" Jackson (April 5, 1932), Detroit's Ted Lindsay (April 5, 1955) and Montreal's Maurice "Rocket" Richard (April 6, 1957)—previously shared the mark.
- May 25, 1989 The Calgary Flames captured their first Stanley Cup title with a 4-2 win over the Montreal Canadiens in Game Six of the 1989 Final. Goaltender Mike Vernon recorded his 16th victory of the postseason, tying an NHL playoff record set by Edmonton's Grant Fuhr the previous year, and defenseman Al MacInnis won the Conn Smythe Trophy after leading all playoff scorers with totals of 7-24-31 in 22 games.
- May 25, 2002 Colorado Avalanche goaltender Patrick Roy appeared in his 237th career playoff game, passing Mark Messier to assume first place on the all-time playoff games played list. The Avalanche defeated the Detroit Red Wings, 3-2, in Game Four of the Western Conference Final. Roy also holds playoff records for career wins, shutouts and minutes.
- May 26, 2000 The New Jersey Devils defeated the Philadelphia Flyers 2-1 in Game Seven of the Eastern Conference Final, marking the first time a team overcame a 3-1 series deficit to advance to the Stanley Cup Final.

June

- June 1, 1992 In the first NHL game ever played in the month of June, the Pittsburgh Penguins captured their second consecutive Stanley Cup championship with a 6-5 win over the Chicago Blackhawks at Chicago Stadium. The Penguins, who won the best-of-seven series 4-0, tied an NHL playoff record by winning their 11th straight game in the postseason. Mario Lemieux led all playoff scorers and joined Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent as just the second player to earn back-to-back Conn Smythe Trophy honors.
- June 3, 1993 Montreal Canadiens defenseman Eric Desjardins became the first defenseman in NHL history to record a hat trick in the Stanley Cup Final. Desjardins tallied a game-tying power-play goal late in the third period and added the overtime winner in a 4-3 win. The tying goal came as a result of a stick measurement requested by Canadiens coach Jacques Demers. The stick used by Los Angeles defenseman Marty McSorley was found to have a curve that exceeded the allowable limit, resulting in a two-minute penalty to McSorley at 18:15 of the third period. Desjardins scored 32 seconds later. His winning goal was scored after just 51 seconds of overtime.
- June 4, 1996 The 1996 Stanley Cup Final opened with the Colorado Avalanche defeating the Florida Panthers 3-1 at McNichols Sports Arena in Denver. For the first time in NHL history, the two competing teams were each making their inaugural appearance in the Stanley Cup Final.
- June 5, 1997 The Detroit Red Wings opened a commanding three-games-to-none lead in the Stanley Cup Final with a 6-1 win over Philadelphia in Game Three at Joe Louis Arena. After the Flyers' John LeClair had opened the scoring at 7:03 of the first period, Detroit replied with three unanswered goals in the opening period. The win broke an eight-game Red Wings home losing streak in the final round of the Stanley Cup playoffs dating back to 1964. Detroit forwards Sergei Fedorov and Martin Lapointe each tallied two goals to pace the Red Wings over the Flyers.
- June 5, 2006 Edmonton Oilers defenseman Chris Pronger scored the first penalty-shot goal in Stanley Cup Final history during Carolina's 5-4 victory in Game 1 of the series. Pronger's goal, against Carolina goaltender Cam Ward, gave the Oilers a 2-0 lead at 10:36 of the second period. It was the ninth attempt overall in the Stanley Cup Final. Pronger had never attempted a penalty shot in the NHL.

June 5, 2006 • The Carolina Hurricanes equaled the biggest comeback in Stanley Cup Final history in a last-minute, 5-4 victory over Edmonton in Game 1, becoming the sixth club to win a Final game in which it had trailed by three goals. After Edmonton's Ethan Moreau scored at 16:23 of the second period to give the Oilers a 3-0 lead, the Hurricanes replied with a pair of goals each from Rod Brind'Amour and Ray Whitney and a single tally from Justin Williams. Brind'Amour's second goal, the game-winner, came at 19:28 of the third period.

June 7, 1993 • John LeClair posted his second overtime goal in as many games to lead the Canadiens to a 3-2 win at Los Angeles to take a 3-1 series lead in the Final. LeClair became the second player in NHL history, after Don Raleigh of the New York Rangers in 1950 versus Detroit, to tally overtime goals in consecutive games in the Final.

June 7, 2004 • The Tampa Bay Lightning claimed their first Stanley Cup championship, defeating the Calgary Flames 2-1 in Game Seven of the Stanley Cup Final at Tampa Bay. Lightning forward Ruslan Fedotenko was the hero, scoring both Tampa goals. Brad Richards, who led all postseason scorers with 26 points (12-14-26) and set a single-season playoff record with seven game-winning goals, received the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP. Richards also led all players in power-play goals (seven) and power-play points (12).

June 8, 1996 • A Stanley Cup game is played in Florida for the first time as the visiting Colorado Avalanche rally to defeat the Florida Panthers 3-2 at the Miami Arena and take a commanding 3-0 lead in the series.

June 8, 2002 • Detroit center Igor Larionov scored at 14:47 of the third overtime period to give the Red Wings a 3-2 victory over the Carolina Hurricanes in Game Three of the Stanley Cup Final in Raleigh, the first Cup game contested in North Carolina. The 54:47 of overtime made it the third longest Stanley Cup Final game in history.

June 9, 1993 • The Montreal Canadiens captured their 24th Stanley Cup championship, defeating the Los Angeles Kings 4-1 to win the Stanley Cup Final series in five games. Canadiens goaltender Patrick Roy was awarded the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP, posting a 16-4 record and an average of 2.13 in 20 games.

June 9, 2001 • Led by 21-year-old Alex Tanguay's two goals and one assist, the Colorado Avalanche defeated the New Jersey Devils 3-1 in Game Seven of the Stanley Cup Final to capture the club's second championship in six seasons. In a fitting climax to his legendary NHL career, Avalanche defenseman Raymond Bourque triumphantly lifted the Stanley Cup for the first time.

June 9, 2003 • The New Jersey Devils won their third Stanley Cup title in nine years with a 3–0 victory over the Mighty Ducks of Anaheim. The shutout was Martin Brodeur's third of the Final, tying the record held by Clint Benedict (1926) and Frank McCool (1945). It was also Brodeur's seventh shutout of the playoffs, breaking the record of six set by Dominik Hasek the previous year.

June 10, 1996 • Uwe Krupp scored the Stanley Cupwinning goal at 4:31 of the third overtime period, giving the Colorado Avalanche a 1-0 victory over the Florida Panthers in the third-longest (now fifthlongest) game ever played in the Stanley Cup Final. In sweeping the series, the Avalanche, who had relocated to Denver from Quebec, became the first NHL club to win the Stanley Cup after its first season in a new city.

June 10, 2000 • The New Jersey Devils captured their second Stanley Cup in franchise history as forward Jason Arnott scored in double-overtime to defeat the Dallas Stars 2-1 in Game Six of the Final. Following a Dallas victory in triple-overtime in Game Five, it marked the first Stanley Cup Final series to feature consecutive multiple-overtime games since 1931. With this victory, their 10th consecutive road win, New Jersey tied the record they had set in 1995.

June 12, 2009 • The Pittsburgh Penguins captured the Stanley Cup when Maxime Talbot scored twice in a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Red Wings in Game 7 at Joe Louis Arena. The Penguins became just the second team in NHL history to win Game 7 on the road in the Stanley Cup Final after the home team won the first six games, following the 1971 Montreal Canadiens at Chicago. Pittsburgh center Evgeni Malkin captured the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP. At 22 years, 10 months, Malkin became the third-youngest player to capture the award behind goaltender Patrick Roy, who won the first of his three Conn Smythe Trophies as a 20-year-old with the Montreal Canadiens in 1986, and goaltender Cam Ward (22 years, three months), who backstopped the Carolina Hurricanes to the Stanley Cup

June 13, 2002 • The Detroit Red Wings won their third Stanley Cup in six seasons, defeating the Carolina Hurricanes 3-1 in Game Five of the Final at Joe Louis Arena. Red Wings goaltender Dominik Hasek captured his first career Cup, holding the Hurricanes to one goal or fewer in three of the five Final games. He finished the 2002 playoffs with 16-7 record, 1.86 goals-against average and six shutouts.

June 14, 1994 • The New York Rangers defeated the Vancouver Canucks 3-2 at Madison Square Garden in Game Seven of the Stanley Cup Final, winning the Cup for the first time since 1940. This was the first seven-game Final series since 1987 and just the third since 1966. Rangers defenseman Brian Leetch captured the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP, leading all postseason scorers with 34 points (11-23-34) in 23 games.

June 14, 2006 • Edmonton right wing Fernando Pisani scored the first overtime, shorthanded goal in Stanley Cup Final history, giving the Oilers a 4-3 victory at Carolina in Game 5 of the series. It also marked the first overtime, shorthanded goal that staved off elimination for a team in any playoff

June 16, 1998 • The Detroit Red Wings captured their second straight Stanley Cup title, sweeping the Washington Capitals with a 4-1 victory. Scotty Bowman's eighth Stanley Cup win as a coach tied Toe Blake's NHL record. He would win his ninth in 2002

June 17, 1995 • The 1995 Stanley Cup Final opened at Joe Louis Arena and the New Jersey Devils captured Game One with a 2-1 win. Right winger Claude Lemieux scored the game-winning goal early in the third period, his third game-winner of the playoffs and 14th of his career in the postseason. The Devils improved their road record in the playoffs to 9-1, setting a new NHL record for most road wins by one team.

June 19, 1999 • The Dallas Stars captured their first Stanley Cup title in franchise history with a 2-1 win over Buffalo in Game Six of the Final. Brett Hull scored at 14:51 of the third overtime, ending the second longest game in final history. The longest was played on May 15, 1990.

June 19, 2006 • The Carolina Hurricanes captured the first Stanley Cup in franchise history, defeating the Edmonton Oilers 3-1 in Game 7 of the Stanley Cup Final. NOTES

¹ Ottawa played two tie games against Boston in 1927.

Includes appearances by Minnesota North Stars in 1981 and 1991.
 An Edmonton team also played for the Stanley Cup in 1908 and ⁴ No decision in 1919 Finals, incomplete due to flu epidemic. Seattle and Montreal each had two wins. One game was tied. Note: Montreal also won the Stanley Cup in 1916 for 24 titles overall.

 Ottawa franchise was also Stanley Cup champion in 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1909, 1910 and 1911.

6 Seattle Metropolitans of the PCHA won the Stanley Cup in 1917.

7 Toronto Blueshirts won the Stanley Cup in 1914 for 14 titles overall. Total also includes Toronto Arenas (1918) and Toronto St. Patricks (1922).

8 Vancouver of the PCHA won the Stanley Cup in 1915.

Victoria of the PCHA also played for the Stanley Cup in 1914 (Victoria represented the WCHL in 1925 and the WHL in 1926).

Final Series History, by Team 1918–2009

All teams played in the National Hockey League unless indicated. Other leagues that played for the Stanley Cup from 1918 to 1926: PCHA – Pacific Coast Hockey Association; WCHL – Western Canada Hockey League; WHL – Western Hockey League. These current NHL teams have not appeared in the Stanley Cup Finals: Atlanta Thrashers, Columbus Blue Jackets, Minnesota Wild, Nashville Predators, Phoenix Coyotes, San Jose Sharks.

CHAPTER 18

Players on Stanley Cup-Winning Teams

1893 - 2009

A

TOTAL OF 1,154 PLAYERS HAVE SKATED FOR Stanley Cup championship teams since the trophy was first awarded to the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association (Mtl. AAA) hockey club in 1893. Of the 1,154 winners, 641 (55.5%) have won one Cup title, while 513 (44.5%) have won on two or more occasions.

Cup wins	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Players	641	275	87	88	35	19	1	4	1	2	1
Pct.	55.5	23.8	7.5	7.6	3.0	1.6

Henri Richard holds the record for playing on the most Stanley Cup champions, winning 11 times in his career. During Richard's 20 years with the Montreal Canadiens from 1955-56 to 1974-75, "The Pocket Rocket" never played more than four consecutive seasons without earning a new Stanley Cup ring.

Jean Beliveau and Yvan Cournoyer of the Canadiens share second place behind Richard with 10 Cup wins apiece, and Montreal's Claude Provost ranks third with nine. Red Kelly, Maurice Richard, Jacques Lemaire and Serge Savard are tied with eight, while Jean-Guy Talbot has seven. Kelly is the only player to rank among these all-time Stanley Cup winners without ever playing for the Canadiens. He won the Cup four times with Detroit in the 1950s and four times with Toronto in the 1960s.

Kelly, Jack Marshall, Bob Goldham, Dick Duff, Frank Mahovlich, Bryan Trottier, Larry Murphy and Patrick Roy are the only players in history to win multiple Stanley Cup titles with two different teams. Of the 508 players to win more than one Stanley Cup championship, 367 won with the same team every time. Another 123 players won with two teams, while nine won with three and one won with four.

Jack Marshall owns the record for playing with four different teams to win the Stanley Cup. Marshall played on championship teams with the 1901 Winnipeg Victorias, 1902 and 1903 Montreal AAA, 1907 and 1910 Montreal Wanderers and 1914 Toronto Blueshirts.

Nine players have skated for three different Stanley Cup winning franchises in their careers. Frank Foyston, Jack Walker, Mike Keane and Joe Nieuwendyk had Cup wins with three different clubs, while Claude Lemieux, Hap Holmes, Al Arbour and Gord Pettinger won four Cup titles with three separate teams. Larry Hillman was a six-time winner with Detroit, Toronto and Montreal.

NOTES

CHAPTER 20

The Post-War Dynasties

Eight Benchmark Championship Teams

THE MODERN ECONOMICS OF SPORTS have made it almost impossible to keep a championship team together year after year. For example, eight different teams won the Stanley Cup between 1990 and 1999 for a diversity of titlists not seen since the first decade after the NHL assumed control of the trophy in 1926-27. The Edmonton Oilers' Stanley Cup triumph of 1990 may well have marked the end of an era of hockey dynasties dating back to the days after World War II.

The dynasty teams of the Post-War era also include legendary clubs like the Detroit Red Wings of the early 1950s, two different Toronto Maple Leafs teams, three different Montreal Canadiens teams, and the New York Islanders of the early 1980s.

a) Three-or-more consecutive Stanley Cup wins

- b) Five or six consecutive playoff appearances including four Stanley Cup wins
- c) Seven consecutive playoff appearances including five Stanley Cup wins
- Eight teams fit this definition of a dynasty:
 - 1) Toronto Mapl e Leafs 1947-1951
 - 2) Detroit Red Wings1950-1955
 - 3) Montreal Canadiens 1956-1960
 - 4) Toronto Mapl e Leafs
 - 5) Montreal Canadiens 1965-1969
 - 6) Montreal Canadiens 1976-1979
 - 7) New York Islanders 1980-1983
 - 8) Edmonton Oilers 1984-1990

Although the definition of a sports "dynasty" can be debated, the following criteria have been used here:
