COMMISSIONER'S WELCOME

It is with great pleasure that I present the Atlantic 10 Conference Annual Report, which chronicles the success and achievements of our institutions and student-athletes in 2018-19. This review is presented digitally this year, taking full advantage of technology to benefit our environment.

Academically, 2018-19 was a record-setting year. Highlights included a record 3,290 student-athletes earning Commissioner's Honor Roll recognition, which represents more than 50 percent of all of our student-athletes at our 14 member institutions. Nationally, the A-10 had 69 teams earn NCAA Academic Progress Rate (APR) Public Recognition honors, another league record that placed the conference among the top five Division I conferences in the nation. Additionally, a record 86 conference teams earned perfect Graduation Success Rate (GSR) scores, as recognized by the NCAA in Fall, 2018. Eight A-10 student-athletes were named Academic All-Americans, along with other student-athletes and sport programs recognized by their governing bodies and coaches' associations. A-10 student-athletes continue to lead in the classroom as well as on the playing fields.

The annual Postgraduate Scholarship winners are recognized in this report, as are the institutional nominees for the NCAA Woman of the Year award. The conference has now awarded more than $420,000 over the past six years in scholarships to A-10 student-athletes for post-graduate studies. Our member schools submitted 12 outstanding young women for consideration for the conference NCAA Woman of the Year nomination. Together, these two programs spotlight the outstanding and well-rounded young men and women at our member institutions.

As part of the A-10's commitment to the student-athlete welfare, professional development and education, the conference provided 10 scholarships for selected student-athletes to attend the NCAA Inclusion Forum in Atlanta. The impactful event focused on diversity and inclusion and was attended by 16 student-athletes and 14 administrators from the league and provided educational and leadership opportunities for the participants with successful professional leaders.

For the second straight year, the conference hosted the A-10 Leadership Summit for 28 men's and women's basketball student-athletes from each of our member schools. The two-day forum, held in our nation's capital in Washington, D.C., immersed the student-athletes in leadership skill sessions that can be applied in their leading their teams and situations, and career and development building.

Year one of the Atlantic 10's partnership with ESPN+ has expanded the conference's digital footprint nation-wide, with over one million views for 1,000 regular season games and championships streamed live this past year. The viewership exploded, tripling the previous year. The ESPN+ partnership has expanded on what is one of the most robust and diversified television packages in college athletics, with four outstanding partners in ESPN, CBS Sports Network, NBCSN and Stadium. Collectively, their coverage provides the A-10 a national platform to tell the stories of the great people in the conference and showcase our athletic success.

Speaking of success, Atlantic 10 teams crowned 21 champions in 2018-19, with 13 of those earning automatic bids to NCAA postseason play. Seven of our men's and women's basketball teams advanced to the postseason, and 11 Olympic sport teams and 47 individuals competed in NCAA championships. Of those 47, eight advanced to NCAA Finals in Outdoor Track & Field, while VCU women's tennis standout, Paola Exposito Diaz-Delgado, reached the NCAA Individual Sweet 16, earning First-Team All-American honors. The A-10 hosted its third-annual Spring Sports Festival in Orlando, FL, in conjunction with the golf and tennis championships. The event brings together hundreds of competitors from all 14-member schools, who celebrate with an evening of fun and fellowship on the eve of the championships.

The league's signature events, the Men's and Women's Basketball Championships, each saw venue changes as a return to campus for women's basketball brought the championship to Duquesne, and men's basketball returned to the iconic Barclays Center. The Duquesne staff did an outstanding job of hosting the quarterfinals, semifinals and championship final at the A.J. Palumbo Center. The championship will move to the University of Dayton this year, and VCU will host in 2021.

The A-10 Men's Basketball Championship went "Back to Brooklyn" in 2019, after hosting the championship there from 2013 to 2016. Barclays Center has been an exciting destination for Atlantic 10 teams and fans, and will continue to be the home of the championship for four of the next five years. The Atlantic 10 also enjoyed the ability to give back to the Brooklyn community and recognized first responders and their families on A-10 Community Appreciation Day and school-age children from around the New York City for A-10 Youth Education through Sports Day, while The Salute to Military Night recognized our brave service women and men. The community recognition events are a result of the hard work of the Barclays Center and A-10 staffs -- our way of saying "Thank You, Brooklyn!"

The New York City media market provides unique marketing opportunities, highlighted this past March by the appearance of all 14 school mascots on The Tonight Show with Jimmy Fallon, featuring a dunk and 3-point shooting contest. The mascots also participated in the nationally televised NASDAQ opening bell ceremony, visited Maimonides Hospital patients and read to Brooklyn students at a public library. The day before the championship, a "Times Square takeover" provided wall-to-wall A-10 branding on digital signage that lit up the famous tourist destination. Later in the week, the Tonight Show also hosted student-athletes from A-10 Women's Basketball Champion Fordham for a fun segment where they "cheesed" Jimmy!

As the 2019-20 athletic campaigns are upon us, I encourage you to take a moment to look through this annual report and celebrate the successes of 2018-19. I would also like to applaud the career and leadership of Bill Bradshaw, who faithfully served this conference as an Athletic Director at two institutions and retired this past spring from La Salle. Finally, I'd like to close by acknowledging the A-10 conference office staff who distinguish themselves throughout the year in their service to our membership.

Once again, thank you for supporting the Atlantic 10, its member institutions and student-athletes. We look forward to seeing you in 2019-20!

Sincerely,

Bernadette V. McGlade
Commissioner

STUDENT-ATHLETE OPPORTUNITIES

NCAA DIVERSITY & INCLUSION FORUM

Sixteen Atlantic 10 student-athletes and several staff members from A-10 institutions attended the 2019 NCAA Inclusion Forum. Ten of 16 student-athletes' trips were funded by the Atlantic 10 in a new league initiative. The student-athletes selected competed for the opportunity by creating videos highlighting their personal story and interest in attending the forum.

The forum sessions engage student-athletes on a broad range of topics related to policy, research and best practices that support racial and ethnic minorities, women, international student-athletes, LGBTQ and athletes with disabilities.

The experience touched both student-athletes and administrators, providing education and tools to open dialogue on their campuses, and improve the experience for campus communities. Part of that experience included building relationships with other A-10 student-athletes at the forum, hearing their stories and experiences and sharing in fellowship at a dinner for the Atlantic 10 administrators and student-athletes.

“ The NCAA Diversity and Inclusion initiative highlights the A-10's commitment to aiding in the development of their student-athletes. Additionally, this initiative expresses [the Atlantic 10's] desire to work collaboratively to ensure that student-athletes are at the center of the conversations around diversity and inclusion. ”

ATLANTIC 10 LEADERSHIP FORUM

The Atlantic 10 Conference hosted its second annual Student-Athlete Leadership Summit in September in Washington, bringing together 28 men's and women's basketball student-athletes, representing each of the 14 conference member institutions.

The two-day event included sessions on self-evaluation, leadership mindset and habits, emotional intelligence, creating success plans, and creating a culture of teambuilding.

A-10 Former collegiate and NBA Championship coach Kevin Eastman facilitated the seminar providing strategic instruction on leadership development and growth. As the founder and director of Coaching U Live, Eastman is an enthusiastic mesmerizing motivational speaker who recently published "Why The Best Are The Best."

The participants had the opportunity to interact with the presenters, as well as each other throughout the two days, culminating with Leadership Summit certification at the completion of the event. A unique aspect of the summit is the opportunity for fierce competitors on the basketball court to come together united in their desire to become fierce leaders off the court.

“ The Leadership Summit is an opportunity for the Atlantic 10 to actively work with the best and brightest student-athletes as they develop lifetime skills and mature as strong leaders. ”

BERNADETTE V. McGLADE

Atlantic 10 Commissioner

NCAA LEADERSHIP FORUM

Dayton men's tennis student-athlete Parker Banning and Massachusetts women's soccer student-athlete Dani Sclafani participated in the NCAA Leadership Forum in Orlando in April. Both Sclafani (Dix Hills, N.Y.) and Banning (Chagrin Falls, Ohio) are attended as sophomores.

The NCAA Student-Athlete Leadership Forum engages a diverse and dynamic representation of student-athletes, coaches, faculty and administrators. Student-athletes selected to attend the forum return to campus with invaluable leadership skills, the experience of exploring the relationship between personal values, core beliefs and behavioral styles, and a thorough understanding of the NCAA as a whole, the different divisional perspectives and the valuable role of Student-Athlete Advisory Committees (SAAC).

“ Throughout my life, I try to implement leadership in everything I do on and off the field. I believe this experience will not only allow me to be a better leader, but a more understanding and open minded individual. ”

NACDA HALL OF FAME

Retired Saint Joseph's Director of Athletics Don DiJulia was inducted into the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) Hall of Fame in June of 2019.

DiJulia, closed out his storied Saint Joseph's University career at the end of the 2017-18 academic year, which was his 50th overall in college athletics, and his 35th as Saint Joseph's athletics director over a span of two terms. DiJulia oversaw tremendous growth in the Saint Joseph's athletics programs. During his tenure, five varsity programs were added, a new weight training facility built, athletic fund drives initiated, and athletics facilities were updated and created. But at the center of his efforts was the enhancement of the student-athlete experience in a variety of programming efforts built around "Developing Everyday Champions."

Ryan, who passed away on October 28, 2018, left a legacy at Saint Joseph's during her career that spanned 37 years before retirement in 2011. During her time on Hawk Hill, she served as a head coach for multiple Hawk teams before transitioning to the administrative side and went on to hold the titles of associate athletic director and senior women's administrator. Under Ryan's guidance, Saint Joseph's women's sports programs grew from three teams in the early 1970s to the current slate of 10 varsity sports. STUDENT-ATHLETE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) are actively involved in leadership, governance, education and social initiatives to represent, promote and address issues surrounding student-athletes in the Atlantic 10 and nationwide.

MENTAL HEALTH AWARENESS CAMPAIGN

The Atlantic 10 SAAC held the league's first-ever Mental Health Awareness Campaign in the Fall of 2018. Designed to raise awareness and support of individuals suffering from mental health difficulties, the effort included a week-long social media drive as well as on-campus programming and events. As one of the primary focuses the SAAC continued the Mental Health Awareness Campaign into the Spring, working to promote student-athlete mental health.

LEADERSHIP & GOVERNANCE

For the fourth straight year, members of the A-10 SAAC joined the league's athletic directors at an annual business meeting. The fall meeting was intentionally structured to provide the student-athletes an opportunity to learn about the Division I governance process, and engage in one-on-one discussions with the athletic directors, which fostered collective learning about the most pressing issues facing today's student-athletes. The directors and SAAC came together for roundtable discussion on four topics: diversity and inclusion, career preparation and launch, campus sexual assault, and student-athletes and activism. In closing the two-day meetings, the Athletic Directors and SAAC members were inspired by keynote speaker Dr. Betty Neal Crutcher, who addressed cross-cultural mentoring and illustrated the importance of working together and learning in an inclusive environment.

CELEBRATION OF DIVERSITY & INCLUSION

The Atlantic 10 SAAC and each school's campus SAAC participated in a week-long celebration of diversity and inclusion. This was in conjunction with the NCAA's Diversity and Inclusion Social Media Campaign, which was conducted by the association's Minority Opportunity and Interests Committee and the national SAAC. The goal of the campaign was to use social media to create a dialogue on diversity and inclusion and to communicate the benefit of inclusive environments to the student-athlete experience. Each day had a unique theme, which was showcased through social media posts that were shared on Atlantic10.com.

IT'S ON US

Through the SAAC and championship opportunities, the Atlantic 10 continues to work with the It's On Us campaign providing outreach by the league, its members institutions and its student-athletes. The league supported the campaign through its various platforms and channels. The A-10 SAAC participated in the It's On Us Week of Action in the spring, using social media and on campus events to drive awareness of the campaign. A nationwide movement, It's On Us is designed to impact campuses by mobilizing the student communities, supporting many student-led efforts and collaborating with private partners. This includes organizations like the Atlantic 10 that have a powerful reach with college students and on campuses.
