PROSPECT BUZZ

Written by: David Lee

When the Augusta GreenJackets joined the Atlanta Braves minor league system as a Low-A affiliate, a great opportunity arrived for area fans of the Braves and prospects.

Those fans, and baseball fans in general, will have the chance to see the next waves of prospect talent from an organization that has been one of the most successful at developing its own. The unprecedented run of 14 straight division titles was sparked and sustained by a combination of veterans and homegrown talent. The more recent success over the past few years undoubtedly began through prospect development.

Even now, the Braves major league roster consists of impact homegrown talent such as Freddie Freeman, Ronald Acuña Jr., Ozzie Albies, Max Fried, Mike Soroka, Ian Anderson and much more, with highly ranked prospects like Cristian Pache and Drew Waters knocking on the door to the majors.

Despite little recent infusion from the international market and the lower draft picks that come with major league success, the Braves farm system remains intriguing for its group of lower-level prospects that show upside. Many of them could be a part of the 2021 GreenJackets.

A young prospect like Vaughn Grissom represents the type of talent fans could see at SRP Park this season. Grissom, 20, was Atlanta's 11th-round pick in 2019 and received an overslot bonus to join the organization. He shows the traits to be a slugging infielder as he grows and fills out a projectable frame, with the potential for a tantalizing combination of power and athleticism. The Braves are so high on Grissom that he was invited to the alternate site in 2020 to play and train with the team's best prospects and occasional major leaguers.

GREENJACKETS ROSTER COULD HAVE SEVERAL INTRIGUING PROSPECTS

Stephen Paolini is another 20-year-old who is in a similar situation as Grissom. He was drafted in the fifth round in 2019 for his speed and athleticism in the outfield. He has the projectable frame to develop into a standout athlete that combines run, defense and some power.

Perhaps the most talked-about prospect who could play for the GreenJackets is first baseman Mahki Backstrom. Drafted in the 18th round in 2019, the 19-year-old is already a fan favorite and is getting attention for his power potential. He has a quick left-handed bat that produces screaming line drives around the field, and the power should develop into excellent home run production as he grows.

One of the better arms that could pitch for the GreenJackets is 2019 13th-round right-hander Tyler Owens. While only listed at 5-foot-10, Owens has a lively fastball up to 98 mph and a sharp breaking ball that induces swinging strikes at a high clip. He goes after hitters with his lethal mix of pitches and profiles as a potentially solid major league arm with further development.

TYLER OWENS

GreenJackets fans could also be the first to see sleeper prospects like pitchers Jared Johnson and Joey Estes. Both are flying under the radar but could start receiving big recognition with good performances in Low-A. Johnson, 19, has been clocked in the upper-90s since the Braves drafted him in the 14th round in 2019 out of a Mississippi high school. Whispers surround Estes, 19, as a potential breakout prospect after he was drafted in the 16th round in 2019.

Intrigue could be the theme of the 2021 group of prospects on the GreenJackets roster. Most are flying under the radar entering the season, but SRP Park could be the site of a breakout year for several of them. The potential roster could have the makings of a young, exciting group.

MEET THE MANAGER

Michael Saunders joins the Augusta GreenJackets as Manager for the 2021 Championship Season. Saunders, originally from Victoria, British Columbia, was slated to manage the Danville Braves in 2020.

Drafted in 2004 by the Seattle Mariners, Saunders spent nine years in the Majors: Seattle (2009-2014), Toronto Blue Jays (2015-2016), and split the season in 2017 with the Philadelphia Phillies and the Blue Jays.

His career batting average was .232 with 2,400 plate appearance. He was a 2016 All-Star during his time with Toronto.

What are you looking forward to most this season?

I'm looking forward to being back on the field again and able to play baseball. It's not easy for these players to be away from the game for as long as they were.

What does Saunders Baseball look like?

There is no Saunders baseball. I believe the game deserves to be played with joy and respect. You have to respect the game and have a blast doing it.

SCORING A BASEBALL GAME

Different fans have different methods of keeping a scorecard, and many use their own notations. But here's a simple method:

If the hitter grounds out to shortstop, for example, write in "6-3," which shows the shortstop threw him out at first base. If the hitter flies out to left field, write a "7."

If the batter gets a hit, write in the hit according to which base he reached. Each corner of the box represents a base, with the lower-right corner being first.

If he singles, put a "-" in the lower right. If he doubles, write a "=" in the upper right, and so on. For a walk, use "BB" in the lower right. As the runner advances, mark the appropriate symbol in the appropriate corner.

- |                    |                    |
|--------------------|--------------------|
| 1 : Pitcher        | 6 : Shortstop      |
| 2 : Catcher        | 7 : Left fielder   |
| 3 : First baseman  | 8 : Center fielder |
| 4 : Second baseman | 9 : Right fielder  |
| 5 : Third baseman  |                    |

If a runner scores, put a circle at the bottom of the box, and inside the circle put the symbol of the play and/or the player that drove him in. For example, if the No. 5 hitter drives in two runs with a single, mark his single in the bottom right of his box and mark a circle with the number "5" in it in the boxes of the runners who score. (Some people like to use uniform numbers here, so you can tell who did what, even after lineup changes.)

At the end of each inning, total the hits and runs for that inning only. At the end of the game you'll be able to add the innings total to get the game score.
