OUTLOOK BY POSITION

GUARDS

Lettermen Lost [2]: Jeff Burdette, Edgar Burch
Lettermen Returning [4]: Tate Armstrong, Kevin Billerman, Paul Fox, Dave O'Connell
 Duke hasn't had a real scoring guard since Bob Verga in 1967, but things may change this season if Tate Armstrong continues his pace of late 1974. After moving into a starter's role with 5 games remaining in the season, Armstrong averaged 15.6 points per game against quality competition. If Armstrong becomes the "scoring" guard, he should blend well with three-year starter and playmaker Kevin Billerman. Billerman led the team in assists a year ago and handed out a school single game record of 14 against North Carolina at Chapel Hill last year. Depth could become a problem as Paul Fox and Dave O'Connell are the only two guards remaining with experience and O'Connell has yet to shake his chronic knee problems. In Bill Foster's running game both will see action along with freshman recruits Ken Young and Rick Gomez. Both Gomez and Young have good quickness and should help the Blue Devils in this area.

FORWARDS

Lettermen Lost [1]: Chris Redding
Lettermen Returning [4]: Mark Crow, Willie Hodge, Pete Kramer, Bill Suk
 Inconsistency marked this position a year ago. Willie Hodge showed signs of brilliance for his second straight year but failed to demonstrate the needed consistency to be a bonafide all-star candidate. He has great quickness, leaping ability, and a good shooting touch. The only thing that may be lacking is the strength to battle the ACC's big man under the boards. Pete Kramer was much like Hodge, but did not put together a good series of games near the season's end. Bill Suk saw limited action last season but can always be counted on for plenty of hustle and a good defensive performance when needed. Mark Crow, only a sophomore, should see action and has good shooting ability. A newcomer, who should really help the Blue Devils is Junior College transfer George Moses. The 6-5 strongman is expected to add a much desired boost to the Blue Devil rebounding game and is also an accomplished defensive player.

CENTERS

Lettermen Lost [0]
Lettermen Returning [2]: Bob Fleischer, Terry Chili
 Bob Fleischer ruled the roost at this position last year. Although only 6-8 Fleischer was the league's second leading rebounder with a 12.4 average and was the only ACC performer to finish in the top nine of every individual statistical category. His consistency was amazing as he scored and rebounded in double figures over 20 times last season. This year with only one mammoth center left in the league, Fleischer should be able to more than hold his own. Behind Fleischer, the Blue Devils will look to improving Terry Chili. Chili, who has had two good years on the junior varsity level, showed signs of ACC caliber play in his brief stints with the varsity last year. If hard work will do it, Chili should be ready to make a substantial playing contribution this season.
