MATCH PREVIEW

A regional rival makes their way to the Borderland this Saturday, August 27 as El Paso Locomotive FC (9-11-7, 34 points, West-7) hosts Phoenix Rising FC (8-11-5, 29 points, West-10).

A history steeped in competition between the two western conference heavy hitters saw El Paso redeem their 2020 Western Conference final loss earlier this season. Locomotive defeated Phoenix for the first time in club history on June 11, 2022, after forward Aaron Gomez professionally converted a penalty in the 71 minute to give El Paso the 1-0 result. A poetic moment for Gomez after missing his attempt in the Western Conference final nearly two years prior. El Paso is looking to keep their playoff dreams alive and will continue to fight as they head into the final 7 matches of the season.

The sentiment that has permeated on the training grounds this week has been one exhibiting fortitude and a readiness to take on Phoenix at home. "We want the next game to be around the corner right away. We just want to show that we're still a great team and one of the teams that has a big threat to win it all." Midfielder Eric Calvillo continued, "we're looking forward to this weekend's game against Phoenix. We're eager to get out there again, especially at home to demonstrate not only to ourselves but to the fans that have been supporting us since the beginning, that we just want to go out there and compete and start winning these games."

PREVIOUSLY VS OPPONENT

El Paso Locomotive claimed its first win over Phoenix Rising FC with a 1-0 score on June 11, 2022. Forward Aaron Gomez scored the lone Locos goal, converting a penalty kick in the 71st minute.

The first contest between El Paso Locomotive FC and Phoenix Rising FC since 2020 featured an intense battle in the midfield. Both teams employed an aggressive high press, trying to catch one another on the transition. Locomotive's press in the first half opened Gomez for a few chances. In the 11th minute his shot found the back of the net but was flagged offside before again he nearly opened the scoring with a tight shot going wide in the 28th minute. Midfielder Dylan Mares found an opportunity just past the half hour mark, striking the post. On the other end, Phoenix Rising chances sailed wide with the exception of an incredible save made by Goalkeeper Evan Newton, deflecting a close range shot by Joseph Farrell.

Phoenix Rising sped out of the halftime break, quickly testing the Locomotive backline. Ultimately, the center back pairing of Yuma and Andrew Fox had the answers to stop Rising from testing Newton further. The match took a turn as the stalemate broke just shy of the 70th minute. Gomez was brought down in the box, resulting in Rising's Manuel Madrid earning a red card. Gomez coolly converted the resulting penalty kick in the 71st minute, providing Locomotive the lead and the three road points.
