MUST BE 21 YEARS OF AGE TO DRINK ALCOHOL, ID REQUIRED

Knights Fans,

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to beautiful Truist Field in Uptown Charlotte. As we are in our tenth year in this nationally-renowned ballpark and 25th year as affiliates of the Chicago White Sox, we're excited for the second half of our 2023 season to get underway. For those of you who joined us for a game or more in the first part of the season, thank you and welcome back. To those attending for the first time this season or for the first time ever, we hope that you enjoy your visit enough to make it a destination for years to come.

So far this season, under the direction of former Charlotte player and first-year manager, Justin Jirschele, our Knights have played a competitive and fun brand of baseball. With plenty of offensive firepower and improved pitching, the Knights are never truly out of a game – especially at our hitter-friendly park. In the first half of the season, the team has had several, dramatic victories in the late innings thrilling the crowds in Uptown. With the won-loss records reset as of June 28, the Knights are focused on winning the second half and competing for the International League and Triple-A championships in late September.

While taking in the action, you will also notice plenty of new things that we've put in place in 2023. First, you'll see that the primary team color has changed to "Knights Blue", which is not only a nod to our past but a way to better connect with Uptown's other sports teams which share a similar tone. We've also added more live pre-game entertainment, a new Grab & Go market near the main gate, several theme night jerseys with special connections to our history, and fun promotional events that are tied to the cities of the teams we're playing.

Last, but not least, we hope that you'll try out the newest part of the experience at Truist Field – The Paper Mill Pub. Our brand new pub featuring cocktails, craft beers, and food truck creations while offering beautiful views of Romare Bearden Park is open year-round. It's a great place to relax pre-game, post-game, or anytime you're in Uptown. We also trust that you'll find it to be a unique experience because of its location and interior design which pays tribute to the old Virginia Paper Mill that was on this site prior to the ballpark being built.

Cam Seitzer HITTING COACH

Seitzer, a native of Overland Park, KS, enters his fifth season with the White Sox organization and first with Charlotte in 2023. The 33-year-old spent the 2022 season with Kannapolis as the team's hitting coach. Previously, he spent one season as the hitting coach at Double-A Birmingham (2021) and one season in the same capacity at Great Falls (2019). As a player, the University of Oklahoma product played eight seasons in the minors from 2011-18 and combined to hit .270 (636-for-2359). His final two playing seasons were spent in the White Sox organization (2017-18). His father, former All-Star Kevin Seitzer, played 12 major league seasons with Kansas City, Milwaukee, Cleveland and Oakland.

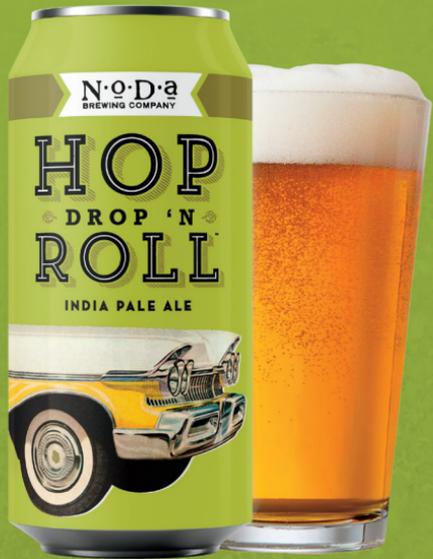

Matt Zaleski PITCHING COACH

Zaleski, 41, returns to the Knights in 2023 as the team's pitching coach. This will be Zaleski's fourth season as the Knights' Pitching Coach. He began his coaching career in 2016 as pitching coach for Great Falls (Rookie). He later spent 2017 as the pitching coach for Kannapolis and the 2018-19 seasons as pitching coach at Winston-Salem. Before his time as a pitching coach, the Arlington Heights, IL native appeared in a total of 316 games as a minor league pitcher (2004-14). He spent six of his 11 minor league seasons as a pitcher with the Knights from 2009-2014. He is the all-time leader in Knights franchise history in games started (74) and he also ranks second in franchise history in innings pitched (437.2).

KNIGHTS SPOTLIGHT

month of May

written by: Sam Perry

Charlotte had a successful month of May, finishing the month with a winning record of 14-12 and had the longest win streak the franchise has seen since August 2019, winning in six-straight games. Some solid standout performances have backed the team's success; here are some of those top players in May.

OFFENSIVE LEADERS:

Clint Frazier

Outfielder Clint Frazier was picked up by the White Sox and assigned to the Knights on April 28. Well, he caught fire in the month of May, leading to his eventual call up to the South Side on May 21.

He led the team in home runs with seven in May while batting .400 over 13 games, scoring 13 runs with five doubles, 13 RBI and nine walks. From May 2 through May 12, Frazier found his way on base in seven straight games. His big standout performance came on May 4 when the team was at Gwinnett, where he went 3-4 with two home runs and three runs scored, leading the team to a 15-2 victory.

Oscar Colás

Joining the team on May 2 was outfielder Oscar Colás and he made an immediate impact getting on base in his first eight games and 12 of his first 13 games. From May 4 through May 11, Colás had six straight games where he drove in a baserunner tallying up 10 RBI in that short stretch.

Overall on the month, he batted .301 in 24 games with 16 runs scored, a team-leading 10 doubles along with one home run, 14 RBI and 11 walks. On May 7, he shined in the Knights' 18-11 win over Gwinnett, going 2-5 with three runs scored, two doubles, two RBI and one walk.

PITCHING LEADERS:

Garrett Davila

Belmont, NC, local pitcher Garrett Davila made his second stint of the season with the Knights in May, getting the call-up from Birmingham on May 20. Since then, he has cemented himself as a productive and vital starting pitcher for the Knights.

With the Knights in May, he made three starts going 1-1 with a 3.18 ERA over 17 innings pitched. He struck out 24 opposing batters while posting a 1.29 WHIP. He started two of the six games during the team's big win streak helping start it and keep it going. On May 26 at Jacksonville, he took home his first career Triple-A win, throwing five innings striking out eight batters and only giving up one run on four hits and three walks.

Bryan Shaw

Relief pitcher Bryan Shaw was picked up and assigned to Charlotte by the White Sox on May 9. He made his presence known quickly, making eight straight scoreless appearances to open his season in Uptown while not allowing a hit until his eighth appearance.

Shaw went 2-0 in 10 games with a 4.82 ERA over 9.1 innings while striking out nine batters and posting a 1.07 WHIP. Nine of his 10 appearances on the month were scoreless. On May 20 against the Scranton Wilkes-Barre RailRiders, he threw 1.1 innings of his hitless baseball in relief, helping secure a late victory and getting the win on the game.

LEVEL UP

Uptown to the South Side

written by: Sam Perry

Jesse Scholtens has been a vital presence on the mound for the Charlotte Knights this season, so much that on April 7, he got the call-up to the south side to join the Chicago White Sox making his Major League Baseball debut.

That night in Pittsburgh, it was his time to add his name to the short historic list of players to play in Major League Baseball, getting the call and being told the next inning was his.

"It was incredible," said Scholtens. "There were a lot of feelings that went into it. Warming up in the bullpen, knowing that you got the next inning, knowing that unless something crazy happens like a meteor comes down on the stadium, you are going to be one of those couple thousand that have ever pitched on a mound, so it was a very profound moment. It was awesome."

MLB DEBUT

Scholtens made his first career appearances for the White Sox, taking on the Pittsburgh Pirates in relief. Until the 2022 season, Scholtens had made most of his appearances as starts, but last season with the El Paso Chihuahuas, he made 22 appearances out of the bullpen, helping prepare him for this moment.

"Fortunately, I pitched a lot out of the bullpen last year in El Paso, so I had some practice of getting the mentality you don't know when you are going in, but when your name is called, you got to be ready. I thought it helped me because I was able to snap into that feeling that we got to get ready to pitch rather than thinking about it all day and getting all antsy knowing when it's going to happen as a starter," said Scholtens. The first batter he faced was Pirates star Ke'Bryan Hayes who flew out to right field on the first pitch, helping remove the nerves and allowing Scholtens to settle into the game. Following the first out, Scholtens added his first career Major League strikeout, getting Jack Suwinski to go down looking.

"It was great. It was my first pitch, and it was my first out. Obviously, he's a great hitter, and just being able to throw a strike, feeling my legs underneath me, and trying to get that first one out of the way helped me settle down that this is baseball. These hitters are good, but they don't hit everything, and my stuff can get guys out at this level," said Scholtens. He added, "I loved that it was one pitch. I was okay; that's it done. I got my out now I'm here and go back to what I do and throw strikes and compete."

He ended his debut throwing three innings, striking out four batters and only allowing one run.

FAVORITE MOMENT

"My favorite moment was coming onto the field through the bullpen gates and seeing the whole stadium; that's when it hit me. I got filled with a lot of emotions that, fortunately, I was able to move past once I got to the mound and just focus on pitching," said Scholtens.

RETURN TO UPTOWN

Scholtens shined on May 14 against the Durham Bulls, throwing 6.2 innings of scoreless baseball before handing it over to the bullpen, where the Knights secured the win. He compiled four strikeouts while only walking one and giving up just five hits. After that start with the Knights, he impressed well enough to earn another call-up to Chicago, providing more vital innings for the White Sox this season.
