THE RECORDS OF THE YOUNGEST JUST CONTINUE TO FALL IN MLS

The ranks of the youngest players ever to see action in an MLS game gained a new member when Reed Baker-Whiting made his debut for Seattle Sounders FC vs. Los Angeles Football Club at Lumen Field on Sunday evening.

A Homegrown signing just a week earlier, Baker-Whiting was 16 years, 46 days of age when he came on as a late substitute in the match – the fifth-youngest player ever to see action in an MLS league game. But Baker-Whiting is the second-youngest to play for Sounders FC – 15 days older than Danny Leyva was when he made his league debut in 2019.

Since the start of the 2020 season, five of the 10 youngest players in MLS history have made their debuts – and since 2016, nine of the 10 youngest have made their bows.

CHICARITO'S START STILL AMONG THE FASTEST EVER

With his goal last Saturday afternoon vs. Austin FC at Dignity Health Sports Park, Javier "Chicarito" Hernández of the LA Galaxy continued his torrid start to the 2021 season – one of the hottest beginnings in MLS history.

Hernández scored his seventh goal of the season, in the Galaxy's fifth game this season – tied for the second-most goals through a club's first five games in a season in league annals, according to the Elias Sports Bureau. Hernández's mark is just one off the league record set by Landon Donovan, who netted eight goals in the first five games in 2008 for the Galaxy.

Amazingly, of the six players with at least seven goals in the first five games, four of them were playing for the LA Galaxy at the time – including Edson Buddle (2010) and Zlatan Ibrahimovic (2019), who each also scored seven goals in the first five games of those seasons.
