MATCH PREVIEW

Finally home after nearly a month away from Lynn Family Stadium, Racing Louisville gets to play in front of the home crowd when it takes on OL Reign at 7:30 p.m. ET Saturday.

The meeting marks the 1,000th regular-season game in NWSL history, a major milestone for the growing league.

The match also continues the challenging start to the 2023 campaign for Racing: OL Reign, the 2022 regular-season NWSL Shield winners, represent the third playoff team on Louisville's schedule in the first five matches.

PREVIEW CONTD.

Racing (0-1-3, 3 points) opened the season with three draws, including two away from home, but the Louisvillians dropped a game for the first time this past Saturday, losing 2-0 to reigning NWSL champion Portland. Louisville has gone unbeaten in its last three home matches, with two wins to finish out last season and a draw vs. Washington on April 1, and is eager to bounce back.

Racing is increasingly healthy, with exciting forward Uchenna Kanu expected to return. Newly-acquired midfielder Jordan Baggett, for whom Racing traded earlier this week, is also anticipated to be available for selection and ready to add her quality to the side.

Coach Kim Björkegren's team will be facing off against one of the league's most talented squads, led by U.S. Women's National Team stars Megan Rapinoe and Rose Lavelle.

OL Reign (3-1-0, 9 points) is on a four-game winning streak, including a victory last week in the UKG NWSL Challenge Cup. The Seattle club scored aplenty in its 5-2 win over Chicago this past weekend. Welsh midfielder Jess Fishlock, the 2021 league MVP, and forward Bethany Balcer each have three goals.

Racing and OL Reign have produced an entertaining series history between them, even in just two short years since Louisville joined the league. The teams have drawn three times in four regular-season meetings, with multiple goals in each of those ties. OL Reign is the only team to win a matchup, with a 2-0 victory on July 31, 2021.

STORYLINES TO FOLLOW...

Carson's cruising: The latest Racing Louisville player to reach a career milestone, Carson Pickett surpassed 10,000 regular-season minutes in the NWSL in this past weekend's match at Portland. The 29-year-old joined a short list of players who have hit five digits in minutes played, including Racing teammates Abby Erceg and Jess McDonald. Considered one of the best passers in the league, Pickett has been named the back-to-back left back of the year in the NWSL's Best XI. She led the league last year in assists, with six, and currently ranks fourth this season in chances created (9).

No chill in DeMelo: A year after leading the NWSL in fouls won by a large margin, Savannah DeMelo is once again the league's most fouled player. The savvy midfielder has won 17 fouls this season, including five in the final third, which is also a league high. The California has a goal and an assist this season, and she ranks fourth in duels won (32) and fifth in chances created (8).

From a football family: The daughter of a former NFL player, Jaelin Howell fittingly leads the NWSL in interceptions (10) this season. The 23-year-old Colorado native has claimed the top spot in the league despite missing the first match and only playing 14 minutes in the second. She returned to the lineup in Los Angeles, starting for the first time this season in the 2-2 draw at Angel City.

No Lo mileage: Known for her energetic play, Lauren Milliet is pushing toward a career year in several categories, continuing her streak of 35 consecutive starts for Racing. The Colorado native ranks fourth in the NWSL in recoveries (42) as well as fouls won (10), winning the ball back and winning fouls at a high rate through the first four matches. The 25-year-old has now played 50 regular-season matches for Racing, tallying a goal and an assist.

Global Racing: Racing Louisville is the first club in NWSL history to feature players from six different continents on its roster. The Louisvillians already had an international flavor last year, with four continents represented. But the additions of Brazilian midfielder Ary Borges as well as Nigerian forward Uchenna Kanu and South African forward Thembi Kgatlang nudged Racing to six continents. Abby Erceg, New Zealand's all-time caps leader, reinforced Australian midfielder Alex Chidiac as a second representative from Oceania.

World Cup year: This is a big year for women's soccer, with the 2023 FIFA World Cup set for Australia and New Zealand from July 20-August 20. Racing should be well-represented at the planet's biggest competition. There are nine current internationals on Racing's roster, and as many as seven of their countries have qualified for the World Cup. The NWSL will only play one regular-season game in the World Cup window, instead scheduling half of the NWSL UKG Challenge Cup matches for that period.

ABOUT THE CLUB

Louisville is home to a top-tier professional sports franchise for the first time in almost 50 years, fielding Racing Louisville FC of the National Women's Soccer League, considered the best professional women's soccer league on the planet.

Racing Louisville FC's roster contains World Cup and NWSL winners and national team-caliber players in addition to regularly hosting them. Rose Lavelle, Alex Morgan and Megan Rapinoe have all played at Lynn Family Stadium through Racing's first two seasons, along with Carli Lloyd, Marta and Ali Krieger.

In 2021, Racing's 22 points in NWSL regular-season play set a new record for an expansion team, with the season highlighted by a victory in the inaugural The Women's Cup, an international tournament in Louisville that featured Bayern Munich and Paris Saint-Germain.

Last season, Racing improved on its performance from the year before, averaging 1.04 points per game vs. 0.91 in 2021. Young Louisville stars Savannah DeMelo and Katie Lund both earned NWSL team of the month honors, with DeMelo also claiming May's rookie of the month award.

Racing is run by Soccer Holdings, LLC, the same organization behind Louisville City FC, the two-time USL Championship titlists who have played in the Derby City since 2015. Both Racing and LouCity play home games at Lynn Family Stadium (capacity: 15,304) and operate out of the Lynn Family Sports Vision & Training Center along River Road.

Kim Björkegren HEAD COACH

A native of Sweden in his 16th year coaching, Björkegren is in his second year as Racing's head coach. The 41-year-old led Racing to a ninth-place finish in 2022, improving the team's points-per-game output over the club's first year of existence.

Prior to Louisville, Björkegren led Cyprus's Apollon Ladies FC to an undefeated season before being named Racing's coach on Dec. 9, 2021. Apollon Ladies took 64 of a possible 66 points and advanced to the UEFA Women's Champions League's second round, earning Björkegren Cyprus's coach of the year award.

Björkegren coached in China and Sweden before his time in Cyprus, winning the Swedish Damallsvenskan and reaching the Champions League quarterfinals in 2017 with Linköpings FC.

A goalkeeper as a player, Björkegren's playing career ended prematurely because of an injury at 23. He took a two-year coaching course to move on to his next calling, initially leading fourth division Karle IF's men's side in his hometown of Linköping, Sweden. His first women's coaching job was as the head coach for Swedish club Hovås Billdal IF.

Bev Yanez ASSISTANT COACH

Yanez, 34, joined Racing after two years as an assistant at NJ/NY Gotham FC, where she helped the team reach the 2021 NWSL Challenge Cup final and the 2021 playoffs. The former NWSL Best XI selection and two-time NWSL Shield winner as a player will work closely with Racing players on individual development and serve as the top lieutenant on head coach Kim Björkegren's staff.

Before her coaching career, Yanez was a standout midfielder and forward in Australia, Finland, Japan and the U.S., including six seasons with the club now known as OL Reign. Yanez helped OL Reign win back-to-back NWSL Shields and reach two NWSL finals, tallying 25 goals and nine assists in 123 appearances. She was a Best XI selection and MVP finalist in 2015.

In addition to her two years with Gotham as a coach, Yanez has worked as an assistant for the U-15 U.S. Soccer Youth National Team. Before moving to Gotham, she coached youth soccer at the club level, with stints at the OL Reign academy as well as the Juventus Academy and COPA Soccer Training Center in California.

SERGIO GONZALEZ GOALKEEPERS COACH

Sergio Gonzalez enters his third year as Racing's goalkeepers coach after a stint as Indiana University's women's associate head coach. He boasts more than two decades of coaching experience, including collegiate stops at Dayton, Slippery Rock, NJIT and Ohio State. Internationally, he has also coached goalkeepers for the U-16 and U-17 national teams.
