LETTER TO THE FANS

RICHARD DIXON PROFESSIONAL SOCCER PLAYER

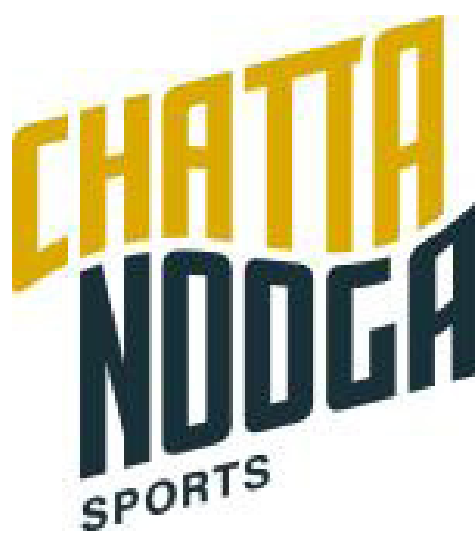

A photograph of Richard Dixon, a professional soccer player, standing with his arms crossed. He is wearing a light blue and white striped soccer jersey with the Hummel logo on the left chest and the Chattanooga FC logo on the right chest. The background is a dark blue gradient with a stylized yellow and blue outline of a person's head and shoulders behind him.

Hello CFC loyal, Richard Dixon here. I wanted to start this letter by thanking you all so much for your support in Atlanta last week. Whether you were present or supporting from a distance, we appreciate your commitment to us as a team. The love and support in our young season this year has been first class and definitely makes all the players (new and returning) feel right at home. We are truly blessed and honored to be given the opportunity and responsibility to represent this fantastic club and city. You guys make it easy with your commitment to us and we cannot wait to lay it all on the field for you in Finley Stadium on Saturday night. Looking forward to hearing you all and celebrating with smiles on faces after the game tomorrow night! We love you!

FIRST TEAM UPDATES

CHATTANOOGA FOOTBALL CLUB'S LAMAR HUNTS U.S OPEN CUP RUN, ENDS IN THE THIRD ROUND!

Chattanooga FC advanced farther in the Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup than any non-MLS team in Tennessee but its run ended at the hands of champions Atlanta United FC with a 6-0 defeat on April 20, 2022.

Chattanooga FC Head Coach Rod Underwood acknowledged the gravity of the task before the game, saying "We want to make sure we bring joy and excitement to the club, and to be in this environment, to have this chance, to play against one of the best clubs in America and one of the well-known clubs around the world in terms of Atlanta United, we couldn't be happier to have that opportunity." Indeed, the visiting Chattanooga fans were in full voice throughout the match to support and show appreciation in a lopsided matchup.

In the end, Atlanta United played out a professional performance to earn their expected berth in the next round of the Open Cup.

Chattanooga FC's unlikely story in the Cup came to an end, but not without a fight to be proud of. Captain Dixon recognized this, stating "It's always good to play in the Open Cup. They're one of the best teams in the country and it showed tonight. But this will make us better. Our focus now is on league play and winning a championship."

After the game, Coach Underwood voiced his appreciation for the fans and the opportunities within the club. "We always say two things are the lifeblood of our club. The youth development and the fans. We saw our CFC Academy players and we heard the Chattanooga fans tonight. It was great to have so much support on the road."

Chattanooga FC has made matches more inclusive and accessible for neurodivergent supporters. The club has made available a matchday checklist, which outlines a supporter's night - from getting to the stadium to the end of the match - to mitigate the unknown.

Changes to routine can be difficult for people who are neurodiverse, particularly if this change is an overwhelming sensory occasion, such as a soccer match. By mapping out the night ahead, the checklist establishes a routine. This checklist can help reduce anxiety, who otherwise might find the loud noises, sights, and even new smells, from things like food stalls, unnerving. We call the list a blueprint for the night, as it covers all angles, such as getting to the game, where you sit, and how the game goes. The checklist can make the difference between a neurodivergent person going to a match or avoiding such nights out.

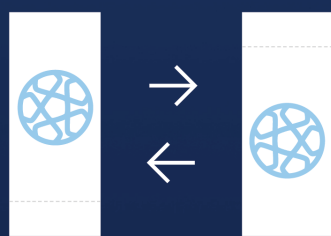

Chattanooga FC believes it is the responsibility of the club that neurodivergent persons are not seen as others, but as simply people in the community. They're our sisters and brothers, and they are supporters!

WOMENS TEAM UPDATES

HEAD COACH FOR CFC WOMEN'S TEAM

Thirty years ago, Randy Douglas worked his way into the starting lineup for Tennessee Temple University. Soon after graduation, his coaching career began, again in the Scenic City. Now, Coach Randy Douglas returns to the community that helped give him his purpose and career. This time as the Women's head coach of Chattanooga Football Club..

"I'm looking forward to this challenge," said Douglas. "The expectations will be high for me and for the players, but it's great to get this back and going. The first year will be about building culture."

Douglas is currently Head Coach of Point University (NAIA) in West Point, GA. It is a role he has held since 2001. He's won two regional titles with Point University, and finished as national runner-up twice when the team competed in the NCCAA II.

"It's important to us as a club to bring in someone with a steady hand who can help us relaunch the women's program the right way," said Chattanooga FC CEO Jeremy Alumbaugh. "In terms of establishing a strong, positive culture, and strong performances on the pitch, Randy is a home run, and we are thrilled to have him."

Coach Douglas has hit the ground running, already identifying several players to come onboard this summer.

STRONGHER

JULIA HOFMANN
STRONGHER HEAD COACH

StrongHER aims to promote public perception of women's football and female athletes and seeks to acquire economic resources to develop access for disadvantaged girls.

As a first mover, StrongHER is to become an innovative, international lighthouse project within the sports world, which exposes the far-reaching discrimination against girls and women in the sports and education sector & makes an active contribution to change.

"I think it is important to support young women who do not naturally have a lot of opportunities, because of my experience working with in soccer organizations. I've seen what soccer can do for girls and through that I have witnessed the importance of training these girls to believe in themselves and each other." said Julia Hofmann, when asked about the importance of StrongHer.
