2005-06 SEASON IN REVIEW

2005-06 TEAM FAILS TO MAKE IT TO THE "HEAD OF THE CLASS"

The 11 student-athletes who took to the hardwood for the University of Tennessee Lady Vols in 2005-06 were determined to return to the "Head of the Class" in the collegiate basketball world. Prior to the season, they had arrived at a collective epiphany — It was high time that they cut down nets at the Final Four. There was good reason for their optimism with an awesome squad ready to take to the court.

Tennessee returned eight veterans, two redshirt freshmen and added a rookie to the mix for 2006. The prior season, with just nine healthy players, the team advanced to the 2005 Final Four. Now, with a full complement of depth at every position, this team did not want to fail at one of the most basic components of Lady Vol Basketball 101 at season's end — scissors in hand...cutting down nets. The Lady Vols knew they had to be students of their sport in order to pass the 29 tests throughout the regular season (they went 25-4). They passed their SEC final exam with flying Orange and White colors by capturing the 2006 SEC Tournament Championship. On a roll, these astute students raced through the first three opponents in the NCAA Tournament. One step away from the Final Four, an opportunity to certainly advance to the "Head of the Class," they stumbled in the Elite 8, and missed out as #1-ranked North Carolina won 75-63. As with any team that has championship aspirations, a number of things have to fall into place — the injury bug must be avoided, you have to have a certain amount of luck and you have to make your breaks and not let your breaks beat you. For a team who had such high hopes, it was a bitter pill to swallow in March when they didn't realize all of their goals.

Nevertheless, the 2005-06 Lady Vol basketball campaign resulted in a sparkling 31-5 overall record, an unprecedented 12th SEC Tournament title and an unmatched 25th consecutive trip to the NCAA Sweet 16. Tennessee skipper, Pat Head Summitt, eclipsed 900 career wins becoming the first NCAA basketball coach to do so. It marked the long-awaited debut of hoopster phenom Candace Parker who capped her rookie season by earning Kodak All-America and SEC Freshman of the Year honors. For any other program, the season would have been considered a great success. For the Lady Vols, it was a disappointment that they didn't finish at the "Head of the Class." Here's a snapshot of the season: (Complete game-by-game recaps and box scores can be found on pages 76-87).

THE PRESEASON

SEC COACHES MADE PICKS — The Southeastern Conference unveiled its second annual women's basketball preseason All-SEC first and second teams on Oct. 25, 2005. The Tennessee Lady Vols placed two players — senior guard Shanna Zolman and sophomore center Nicky Anosike — on the first team, while sophomore guard Alexis Hornbuckle earned a spot on the second team.

SERIOUS EXHIBITION NUMBERS — In two exhibition games, the Lady Vols put up some serious numbers. The team shot a mind-boggling .647 from the field (88-136), .452 three-pointers (14-31), .792 on charity tosses (42-53), out rebounded its opponents 43.5-26.0, committed an average of 16.0 miscues while forcing 31 per game, grabbed 21.5 steals per contest while giving up 8.5 thefts. The 2005-06 squad racked up 116 ppg while limiting the opponents to just 47.5 ppg. UT also dished out 24.5 assists and blocked 7.0 shots per game.

TEAM ODDS AND ENDS

SKYSCRAPER LINE-UP — Tennessee boasted one of the tallest teams in women's hoops last season with an average height over 6'1". Coach Pat Summitt's favorite line-up went 6'4", 6'4", 6'3" at the forwards, 6'5" in the post and 5'10" at guard. This line-up averaged a dead-even 6'2" for the tallest starting quintet in Lady Vol history.

PARKER DUNKS — Candace Parker attempted her first collegiate dunk on Feb. 23, 2006, against Auburn with 13:05 left in the game but it rimmed out. Less than a month later, she redeemed herself. It only seems fitting that Tennessee would be involved in another chunk of history in the NCAA Tournament. The Lady Vols hold a ton of big and little NCAA records over the 25 years of the tournament. Add a new category — First NCAA Tournament Dunk — Candace Parker, Tennessee. Second NCAA Tournament Dunk — Candace Parker, Tennessee. First player to dunk twice in an NCAA Tournament game (or any game for that matter) — Candace Parker, Tennessee. UT's Candace Parker became the fourth woman to dunk in a college game — and the first to do it twice — when the Lady Vols defeated Army, 102-54, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament on Mar. 19.

Shanna Zolman graduated from Rocky Top in 2006 with the three-pointers records in a game (7), in a season (103) and in a career (266).

UT'S RECORD ON ISLANDS — The trip to the U.S. Virgin Islands was the eighth journey for the Tennessee Lady Vols to play basketball on "Islands." The Lady Vols were victorious in winning the 2005 Paradise Jam in the U.S. V. I. with a 3-0 record. This marked UT's first trip back to "Islands" since a Summer 2003 junket to Greece where the Lady Vols won the Greek International Basketball Tournament in Glyfada (outside Athens).

TOURNAMENTS & INVITATIONALS — Since 1969, the Lady Vols have played in 50 regular season tournaments or invitationals and sport 30 championships and 13 runner-up honors. During the Pat Summitt era (since 1974), the Lady Vols have been crowned champions 30 times.

SPOIL SPORTS — The Texas Longhorns had the distinction of the nation's longest winning streak over the Lady Vols — four consecutive games — which was finally broken when the Big Orange UT bested the Burnt Orange UT, 102-61, on Dec. 1, 2005 in Knoxville. With the victory over longtime rival Texas, Lady Vol coach Pat Summitt picked up her 888th career victory. The "crazy eights" win produced the largest margin of victory (41 points) in the storied history of the rivalry. For the Longhorns, it marked their sixth-worst loss in school history was only the fifth time Texas allowed an opponent to score over 100 points, the last time coming in 1999 in a 106-76 loss at Tennessee.

WILEY-GATEWOOD LEAVES TEAM — Pat Summitt announced on Dec. 19, 2005, that sophomore Sa'de Wiley-Gatewood had decided to leave the University of Tennessee. "Sa'de didn't feel like she could play her game here," said Summitt. "We hate to see her leave the Lady Vol family, program and University. I hope she can find great success with her basketball career, academics and life." Wiley-Gatewood, a 5-9 point guard from Pomona, Calif., had started eight of nine games and was the team's fourth leading scorer. She averaged 8.0 ppg, 2.6 rpg and 1.4 apg while logging 26.3 minutes per game.

LET'S GO SEE THE CIRCUS — Lady Vol basketball had that "circus charm" to it again last season. Every road team — George Washington, Stanford, Temple, Notre Dame, South Carolina, Mississippi State, Vanderbilt, Duke, Kentucky, Ole Miss, Georgia and Alabama (UT's 12 road games) posted new attendance records or season high attendance records. The coffers fared well — ticket prices when UT came to town almost doubled the price of a normal ducat at many venues.

Duke and Notre Dame announced advance sell-outs weeks before the game. A normal ticket at Vanderbilt for women's hoops is $10.50 for anyone but Tennessee — the Commodores charged $20.50 to see the Lady Vols play. Kentucky drew a record crowd of 13,689 at Rupp Arena when they defeated the Lady Vols, 66-63. Alabama attracted its largest crowd on the year — 5,380. For the third straight season and the ninth time in the last 10 years, Tennessee led the nation in attendance figures.

SO LONG SENIORS — The Lady Vol seniors Tye'sha Fluker and Shanna Zolman finished their collegiate careers with a 125-19 record, two SEC regular season championships, two SEC tournament championships, and three trips to the NCAA Final Four.

ZOLMAN LEAVES A MARK — Shanna Zolman played in 144 career games, putting her in sole possession of second place for games played in the UT record books. Only Chamique Holdscrow played in more games (148) during her career...Zolman finished her career with 266 three-pointers, 626 three-point attempts and a 42.5 percent accuracy from beyond the arc, all of which rank first in the UT record books...She finished her career ranked eighth in three-pointers made and sixth in three-point percentage in the SEC record books.

HERE COMES CANDACE — Candace Parker finished her rookie season in second place on the all-time Lady Vol freshman scoring list (622), passing Semeka Randall (604)...Moved into first place in the UT single-season record books for most trips to the foul line (218) and finished the season in third place for most free throws made (159).

MILESTONES

CROWDED HOUSE — The attendance at the Tennessee versus Connecticut game in Knoxville set a new record for Thompson-Boling Arena with 24,653. The Lady Vols also own the record for the most spectators at a regular-season collegiate women's basketball game with that tally. It's the fifth largest crowd to ever watch the Tennessee Lady Vols play behind Final Four "dome" crowds. The UT Women's Athletics Department announced the dollar figures on the income generated from the Tennessee versus Connecticut game in Knoxville on Jan. 7. A total of $332,683 was added to the coffers. It broke down into the following amounts: Ticket Sales ($218,782), Concessions ($72,590), Souvenirs ($28,781) and Parking ($12,530).

WENT OVER 100,000 — With a crowd of 13,772 against #13/17 Georgia on Jan. 12, 2006, the Lady Vols went over the 100,000 fan mark at home. This marks the 12th consecutive time UT has hit at least 100,000 fans per season at home dating back to 1994-95.

SUMMITT COLLECTS 900TH — Pat Summitt picked up her 900th collegiate coaching win on Jan. 19 with a come-from-behind victory over #19-ranked Vanderbilt, 80-68, in Nashville, Tenn. In addition, she collected wins #100, 400, 700 and 800 on the first attempt. It hardly seems possible that it has been three years and five days since collected her 800th career victory on January 14, 2003 — an anxious and anticipatory 76-57 win over #25/24 DePaul at home. That set of 100 wins (700-800) took three years and 38 days.

IT WAS THE SECOND BEST START TO A SEASON — Stopped at 18-consecutive victories with the 75-53 pounding at Duke, the Lady Vols' 18-0 run to start the 2005-06 campaign is the second-best all-time to open the season at Tennessee, behind the 39-0 squad of 1997-98.

LOSING STREAKS — There have been 20 all-time occasions in Tennessee Lady Vol basketball history where the team lost back-to-back games, the 2006 streak included.

ANOTHER 20 WIN SEASON — The Tennessee Lady Vols claimed yet another 20-win season. With its victory over Ole Miss, it marked the 30th consecutive time (and the fourth fastest) that a Lady Vol team reached at least 20 wins in a season under Coach Pat Summitt. The perfect 39-0, 1997-98 Lady Vol squad reached 20-wins the earliest — Jan. 20. While the 1984 NCAA runner-up Tennessee team reached 20 wins the latest by any Lady Vol team ever — March 17. Summitt has only had two teams ever fail to reach 20-win seasons during her 32-year tenure...In her first and second seasons (1974-75 and 1975-76) at UT, the Lady Vols were 16-8 and 16-11, respectively.

LADY TIGERS STEPPED ON SMOKEY'S TAIL — Three Lady Vol streaks were halted by #3/4 LSU's 72-

2005-06 SEASON IN REVIEW

69 win in Knoxville on Feb. 9, 2006. Streak #1: LSU won in Knoxville for the first time ever. UT now holds a 16-1 advantage over LSU in games played in Knoxville dating back to the first win on Feb. 6, 1978 in Stokely Athletics Center; Streak #2: LSU snapped the Lady Vols 22-game homecourt winning streak dating back Dec. 12, 2004, and Streak #3: The Lady Vols hadn't lost an SEC game at home in almost 10 years, 3,346 days to be exact. Before LSU defeated UT on Feb. 9, 2006, UT had won 64-consecutive SEC home games — Georgia was the last team to beat the Lady Vols at home in an SEC game — Dec. 8, 1996, the Lady Bulldogs prevailed 94-93 in overtime.

SPOILED, I TELL YOU — It had been eight years since the Lady Vols dropped two SEC league games during a season. Got to go back to the 1996-97 HBO documentary campaign of "The Cinderella Season: The Lady Vols Fight Back," when Tennessee went 8-4 in the SEC. All-time in 24 years of league play, Tennessee has lost two or more SEC games just seven times.

THIRTYSOMETHING AGAIN — With a win over George Washington in the 2006 NCAA Second Round, Tennessee garnered another 30-win season. Summitt has won at least 30 games in 16 years of her 32 at the helm of the Lady Vols.

THE POLLS

AP POLL — 30TH ANNIVERSARY — The release of the Associated Press Top 25 poll on Nov. 8, 2005, marked the 30th anniversary of the women's basketball poll started by Mel Greenberg of the Philadelphia Inquirer and the 500th poll overall. The Tennessee Lady Vols have enjoyed a great deal of prominence in the polls over the last 30 years. Amazingly, the Lady Vols missed being ranked in just 14 polls over 30 years, an incredible statistic unmatched by any school in the nation.

ENTERING 2005-06 — Most AP poll appearances, by coach: 1. Pat Summitt, Tennessee (486); Most times in the AP poll, all years: 1. Tennessee (486); Most times in the AP Top 5, all years: 1. Tennessee 359; Most times AP #1 overall, all years: 1. Tennessee 96; AP poll appearances by decade 1970's (1976-1979): 1. Tennessee 39, 1980's (1980-89): 4. Tennessee 118, 1990's (1990-99): 1. Tennessee 176 and 2000's (to present): 1. Tennessee 106.

100TH NUMBER ONE RANKING — The Associated Press poll of Dec. 26, 2005, marked the 100th #1 ranking all-time for the Lady Vols.

ONE VERSUS TWO MATCH-UP ACCORDING TO AP — The Duke game on Jan. 23 marked the 39th meeting of the nation's number one and number two teams according to the Associated Press. The number one team has won 21 of the previous 39 games. And it is no surprise that the Tennessee Lady Vols have participated in more than one-half — 22 — of those games.

LAST LOSS TO AN UNRANKED TEAM? — Before unranked Kentucky turned the trick with a 66-63 win over #1/3-ranked Tennessee on Jan. 26, 2006 at Rupp Arena, it had been four years since an unranked team upset the Lady Vols. Florida became the second unranked team in the 2005-06 season to knock off the Lady Vols, when they won, 95-93 OT, on Feb. 26, 2006. Florida managed to present Tennessee with its first loss ever to an unranked team in Thompson-Boling Arena since the doors opened in 1987. It marked just the second loss to an unranked team at home since Cincinnati turned the trick in 1984.

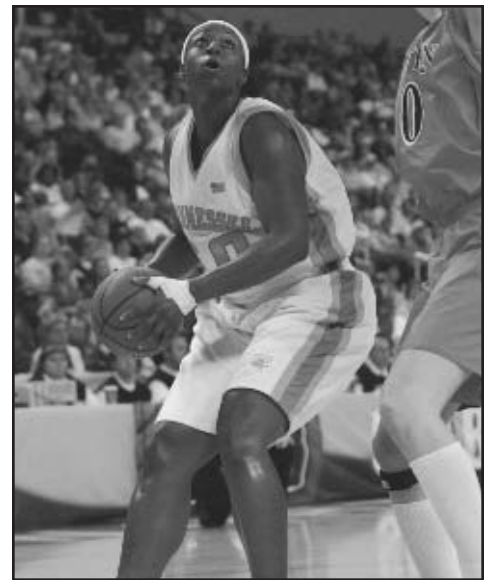

PLAYED OUR 500TH RANKED OPPONENT — Another milestone was reached when the #5-ranked Tennessee Lady Vols faced #13-ranked Georgia in Athens on Feb. 16. It marked UT's 500th all-time ranked opponent since the inception of the polls in 1976.

UT'S 2005-06 RANKED OPPONENTS — The Tennessee Lady Vols game against #1-ranked North Carolina on Mar. 28, marked Tennessee's 17th game versus a ranked team in 2005-06. UT was 14-3 when facing the nation's best ranked teams at the time of the match-up. UT defeated #9 Michigan State, #10 Maryland, #16/18 Texas, #12/11 Stanford, #22/21 Temple, #12/11 Notre Dame, #7 Connecticut, #13/17 Georgia, #19 Vanderbilt, #22/20 Vanderbilt, #13 Georgia, #12 Georgia, #3 LSU and #9 Rutgers. UT lost to #1 North Carolina, #2 Duke and #3/4 LSU in the 2005-06 season.

HONORS AND AWARDS

ELITE COMPANY — When Pat Summitt started freshman forward Candace Parker against Stetson on Nov. 20, 2005, it marked only the 10th time in her coaching career that a freshman started her very first game at Tennessee. The list of opening day rookie starters: Shyra Ely 2001, Ashley Robinson 2000, Gwen Jackson 1999, Semeka Randall 1997, Kyra Elzy 1996, Chamique Holdsclaw 1995, Tiffani Johnson 1994, Bridgette Gordon and Sheila Frost 1985. All-time, a total of 50 Lady Vol basketball rookies have started at some point during their freshman season.

UT ROOKIE DOUBLE-DOUBLES — Candace Parker picked up a double-double in her first collegiate start. It marked the first time it happened in ten years — well, since another heralded Lady Vol freshman, Chamique Holdsclaw. All-time, there are just six Lady Vols who recorded a double-double in their first game in the Orange and White.

Tye'sha Fluker was a dominant force in the paint during the Lady Vols' run to the 2006 SEC Tournament title, averaging 15.3 points per game during the three outings.

BEST JAMMERS — Lady Vol redshirt freshman Candace Parker was the MVP of her very first collegiate tournament — the Paradise Jam — and was joined on the All-Tournament Team by Shanna Zolman.

THE NCAA 25TH ANNIVERSARY TEAM HAD AN ORANGE GLOW — The NCAA named five players and one coach to the NCAA Women's Basketball 25th Anniversary Team on Feb. 1, 2006. The University of Tennessee ran away with top honors as Bridgette Gordon (1985-89) and Chamique Holdsclaw (1995-99) were named to the five-player team and Pat Summitt earned the nod as the best coach over the last 25 years. The Team consisted of Cheryl Miller (Southern Cal), Holdsclaw, who led the Lady Vols to championships in 1996, 1997 and 1998; Diana Taurasi, who led the UConn to three consecutive championships; Gordon, who helped lead Tennessee to championships in 1987 and 1989; and Sheryl Swoopes, who led Texas Tech to the title in 1993. Selected as the coach of the team is the legendary Summitt, who has led Tennessee to six national championship titles and 16 Women's Final Four appearances. Summitt is the all-time leader in every NCAA tournament coaching record including titles, appearances, games, wins and winning percentage. She has led UT to 25 consecutive tournament appearances.

SUMMITT NAMED RUSSELL ATHLETIC/WBCA REGION 3 COACH OF THE YEAR — The Women's Basketball Coaches Association (WBCA) announced Mar. 14 that Pat Summitt has been named the RUSSELL ATHLETIC/WBCA Region 3 Coach of the Year.

PARKER NAMED 2006 KODAK/WBCA ALL-AMERICA — Tennessee freshman phenom Candace Parker was named to the 2006 Kodak/WBCA All-America Basketball Team on April 1, 2006 in Boston, Mass. With Parker's addition, Tennessee has now produced 19 Kodak All-Americans, who account for 33 honors since 1976. She also joins an elite group of players to be named as rookies. Tennessee's Tamika Catchings (1998, 1999, 2000, 2001) and Chamique Holdsclaw (1996, 1997, 1998, 1999) are the only two Lady Vols to garner All-America recognition all four years of collegiate play.

NCAA ALL-REGION TEAM BOASTED TWO LADY VOLS — Rookie Candace Parker and senior Shanna Zolman were named to the NCAA Cleveland Regional All-Tournament team

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

MAKING THE GRADE — Six Lady Vol basketball players earned Dean's List honors for the fall semester. Sophomore Nicky Anosike led the way with a 3.88 GPA and was joined on the honor roll by Tye'sha Fluker (3.75 GPA), Sidney Spencer (3.50 GPA), Shanna Zolman (3.25 GPA), Alexis Hornbuckle (3.00 GPA) and Lindsey Moss (3.00 GPA). Overall, the cumulative average GPA of the team was 3.03.

RECORD NUMBER FOUR LADY VOLS EARN ACADEMIC HONORS — The College Sports Information Directors of America announced on Feb. 9 that four Lady Vols were named to the 2006 ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District teams. Shanna Zolman received first team honors for the second straight year, while Sidney Spencer, Tye'sha Fluker and Nicky Anosike picked up third team honors, the first of their respective careers. No other university placed more than two basketball players on any of the district squads.

ZOLMAN NAMED ACADEMIC ALL-AMERICAN — Tennessee senior guard Shanna Zolman was chosen as an ESPN the Magazine First Team Academic All-American, according to an official announcement by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) on Feb. 28, 2006. The 5-10 guard became the fourth Lady Vol to earn first team recognition and is the first member of the Big Orange to do so since Kara Lawson in 2003.

INJURY REPORT CARD

HORNBUCKLE'S SURGERY — Lady Vol sophomore starting point guard Alexis Hornbuckle underwent surgery on Wed., Feb. 15 to repair her broken right wrist. Dr. Robert Ivy, team orthopaedic hand specialist, implanted a fixation screw to assist in the healing of the navicular scaphoid bone fracture in Hornbuckle's wrist. Hornbuckle broke her wrist when she dove after the ball on a hustle play in the first half (3:06 showing) of Tennessee's win over #22/20-ranked Vanderbilt on Sun., Feb. 12 in Knoxville. The 5-11 guard, was named as a finalist for the 2006 Nancy Lieberman Award honoring the nation's top point guard.

WELCOME BACK LEX — Against Army, in the First Round of the 2006 NCAA Tournament, Lady Vol sophomore guard Alexis Hornbuckle was back on the court for the first time in a month after sitting out to heal a broken right wrist. Hornbuckle was inserted into the game with 14:45 showing in the first half and brought instant energy to her team. On the afternoon, she led the Lady Vols in rebounds with six and steals with four while also adding four assists and three points in 17 minutes of action.

THE SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE

2006 SEC HONORS — Tennessee rookie Candace Parker and Lady Vol senior Shanna Zolman were named to the All-SEC First Team on Mar. 1, 2006. It marked Zolman's first appearance on the first team after being selected to the 2003 and 2004 All-SEC Coaches Second Team. Parker became just the sixth Tennessee player to earn All-SEC First Team honors as a freshman following former Lady Vols Kara Lawson (2000), Tamika Catchings (1998), Chamique Holdscrow (1996), Dena Head (1989) and Bridgette Gordon (1986). Making her first appearance on the All-SEC Coaches Second Team was sophomore Alexis Hornbuckle who earned All-SEC Rookie honors last season.

PARKER NAMED SEC ROOKIE OF THE YEAR — Candace Parker was named as the 2006 SEC Freshman of the Year. She became the fifth Lady Vol freshman to earn such a distinction. Parker joined former Lady Vols Tamika Catchings (1998), Chamique Holdscrow (1996), Dena Head (1989) and Bridgette Gordon (1986) as Tennessee honorees for SEC Freshman of the Year. Last season, then-Lady Vol rookies, Alexis Hornbuckle and Nicky Anosike, were unanimous picks for the 2005 SEC All-Freshman team. Parker becomes the 25th UT rookie to be named since the inception of the team in 1987.

PARKER AND ZOLMAN NAMED AP ALL-SEC — The Tennessee Lady Vol basketball tandem of Shanna Zolman and Candace Parker picked up second team All-SEC honors, announced the Associated Press on Mar. 14. Parker was tabbed by AP as the SEC Rookie of the Year.

2006 LADY VOL SEC "GREAT" — The Tennessee "great" honored at the 2006 SEC Tournament was Kara Lawson. A 5'8" guard, Lawson was a KODAK All-American, Verizon Academic All-American, All-SEC, and All-SEC Academic choice during her days as a Lady Vol. She received the Woody Hayes Award for academic excellence as well as being recognized with an NCAA Top Eight Award. In addition to her guard duties with the WNBA Sacramento Monarchs, she is also color commentator for ESPN and on the Sacramento Kings telecasts. Most recently, she became a member of the ESPN Studio team for women's college hoops.

17 TIMES IN THE FINALS — Coach Pat Summitt and staff worked their magic again as the Lady Vols made their 17th trip to the SEC title game. UT is now 12-5 in all-time SEC Championship game meetings after defeating #3 LSU, 63-62, in the title tilt on Mar. 5, 2006, to claim the program's 12th tournament title.

THE NCAA TOURNAMENT

LADY VOLS PERFECT ATTENDANCE — Tennessee and Louisiana Tech are the only two schools to appear in all 25 NCAA women's basketball championships. The Lady Vols are the only program to advance to every Sweet Sixteen...The Lady Vols have advanced to 21 of 25 Elite 8 Rounds dating back to 1982.

PAT SUMMITT LEADS IN NCAA GAMES COACHED — Summitt has coached in 111 NCAA Tournament games -- her record in the NCAA Tournament is now 92-19 (.833).

Candace Parker became the first female to dunk in an NCAA Tournament game when she threw down twice against Army in the opening round of the 2006 tournament.

GAME 4: GONZAGA

Nicky Anosike scored 15 points to lead Tennessee to its fourth straight victory, 79-65, over Gonzaga in the Paradise Jam tournament on Nov. 25. Tye'sha Fluker added 13 points and Candace Parker 12 for the Lady Vols, who face No. 10 Maryland on Saturday. The Terps defeated No. 9 Michigan State, 75-61. Anne Bailey scored 22 points and Katy Ridenour had 17 points for Gonzaga, which faces Michigan State on Saturday. Gonzaga shot 58.8 percent in a first half that included four ties and six lead changes. Tennessee led by seven points at the break (39-32). Tennessee coach Pat Summitt was not happy with the first-half effort by her team. "I told them, 'You just don't understand. It's Tennessee,'" Summitt said. "So, we had a little history lesson at halftime." I said, 'You have to understand, everyone is going to bring their A game against you.'" Tennessee started the second half with more energy and extended its lead to 21 points in the first five minutes. The Lady Vols shot 40.6 percent from the field in the game and went a perfect 10-of-10 from the line in the second half. The Bulldogs shot a sizzling 61.5 percent from beyond the arch, including a 66.7 percent effort in the first period. Gonzaga coach Kelly Graves was pleased with his team's effort. "I've never been one for moral victories, but I'm really proud of our team," Graves said. "We didn't give in and give up." Tennessee squeaked out a 37-34 rebounding advantage and used 13 steals to remain undefeated (4-0).

GAME 5: MARYLAND

Candace Parker and Alexis Hornbuckle each scored 19 points and No. 2 Tennessee rallied to an 80-75 victory over No. 10 Maryland in the final day of the Paradise Jam tournament on Nov. 26. Sidney Spencer added 13 points and Parker finished with eight rebounds for the Lady Vols (5-0). Crystal Langhorne had 19 points and 11 rebounds for Maryland (4-1). Marissa Coleman scored 16 and sophomore Laura Harper finished with 13 points and 12 rebounds. Coleman scored to give Maryland a 42-41 lead in the second half, and the Terps moved out to a 51-46 advantage when Harper made two free throws with 13:10 left. Ashleigh Newman added a foul shot to extend the lead. Tennessee battled back and regained the lead at 64-63 on Sa'de Wiley-Gatewood's jumper with six minutes left. The Lady Vols led by three points with two minutes left and tried to run down the clock. Coleman was called for an over-and-back violation after a steal, and Wiley-Gatewood was whistled for a foul after a Tennessee miss, putting Kristi Toliver at the line. Toliver made both free throws, pulling the Terps within 76-75. Shanna Zolman missed a long field goal attempt and Maryland had possession with 5.3 seconds left. Spencer stole the inbounds pass and was fouled. She made both free throws and Maryland's ensuing inbounds pass flew into the stands with two seconds left. Parker was fouled on the following inbounds pass and made two free throws to help close out the win. The Terps trailed by four (34-30) at the half, but used a 41-32 rebounding advantage to stay in the game. Zolman and Parker both were named to the All-Tournament Team. Parker garnered MVP honors.

GAME 6: TEXAS

The No.1-ranked Lady Vols handed No.18 Texas a 102-61 drumming on Dec. 1 to improve to 6-0 on the season. Shanna Zolman sank five three-pointers and Candace Parker scored her second career double-double as the Lady Vols claimed the largest margin of victory in the series history. It was the first time Tennessee has scored more than 100 points in a game since the Lady Vols beat Puerto Rico-Mayaguez 136-26 on Nov. 29, 2002. The 41 points marked the sixth largest margin of defeat for the Longhorns in program history. It was only the fifth time in program history that an opponent scored at least 100 points in a game. The last 100+ point victory came from Tennessee on December 30, 1999. Zolman scored a team high 23 points on nine of 12 shooting and was named the Philips Player of the Game. She added a career-best tying six assists in 32 minutes of action. Parker scored 17 points and grabbed 14 rebounds, tying for the tenth most boards by a freshman in Lady Vol history. She blocked three Longhorn attempts and snagged three Texas passes. Alexis Hornbuckle scored 11 points, had five assists and three steals. Sa'de Wiley-Gatewood went 3-of-4 from three-point land en route to 11 points. Sidney Spencer also scored in double figures for the Lady Vols with 12 points and four rebounds. Tennessee owned a heavy rebound advantage (45-25), shot almost 55 percent from the field and connected on 11-of-19 three point attempts. The 11 threes tie for the fourth most in a game by the Lady Vols in program history. Tennessee led 44-28 at the half and never let up on the Longhorns.

GAME 7: STANFORD

Candace Parker earned her second double-double of the week with 21 points and 12 rebounds, to lead the Lady Vols to a 74-67 victory over Stanford on Dec. 4. The loss was the first in 24 home games for the Cardinal. Shanna Zolman haunted Stanford once again this year with 21 points, including seven in the last three and a half minutes. She was eight of 13 from the field and two of three from beyond the arc. The Lady Vols took a seven point lead into the locker room but Stanford erased the margin in the opening minutes of the second half. The Cardinal never led by more than two points. Tennessee finally pulled away when Alexis Hornbuckle stole the ball with 3:52 remaining in the game and raced down the court for an uncontested layup to put the Lady Vols ahead 59-53. Parker stole the ball on the ensuing Cardinal possession and was fouled by Candice Wiggins on her way to the basket. Zolman sank a fourteen foot jumper to give Tennessee an eight point edge with three minutes remaining. A sellout crowd came out to witness the first collegiate showdown between Candace and Candice - Tennessee's Parker and Stanford sophomore sensation Candice Wiggins, the reigning Pac-10 player of the year and conference freshman of the year. The two have been playing against each other since middle school in tournaments across the country and also were teammates on the U.S. junior national team, and they call each other "Ice" and "Ace" as a reference to the spellings of their first names. Parker was in uniform but didn't play against Stanford in a last-second 70-67 Tennessee win last season during her redshirt year as she recovered from two surgeries on her troublesome left knee. Wiggins had 16 points, five rebounds, four assists, two steals and two blocks but also committed eight turnovers. Stanford shot 48 percent from the field, the highest percentage by a Tennessee opponent this season. The Lady Vols shot just 41 percent from the field, but a 19 of 24 effort from the line kept Tennessee undefeated on the season.

GAME 8: GEORGE WASHINGTON

Candace Parker scored 14 points, and Tennessee held George Washington scoreless for 8 1/2 minutes in the second half en route to a 59-43 victory Dec. 7 despite playing little like the nation's No. 1 team for stretches. Parker added eight rebounds, falling just short of her fourth double-double. Shanna Zolman added 12 points for the Lady Vols (8-0), who were closing a five-game road trip in which they will have logged more than 13,000 miles by the time they return home. Jessica Simmonds led George Washington (2-3) with 13 points. Before the game, there was little reason to think it would be as close as it was in the second half. The Lady Vols came in having outscored opponents by an average of 26.7 points this season and without a loss to an unranked opponent in 3 1/2 years. The Colonials, meanwhile, had never lost by fewer than 14 points in five previous games against Tennessee, and were 0-3 against No. 1 teams. But the Lady Vols were shaky, committing 23 turnovers in the game and shooting just 43 percent in the first half. That helped George Washington make a game of it, leading for most of the first 10 minutes, then staying within range into the second half. Trailing 40-35, GW had a chance to cut its deficit to three, but Simmonds - a 29 percent free throw shooter - missed both attempts from the line. Six minutes into the second half, Jazmine Adair's baseline jumper drew the Colonials to 42-37. But that's when Tennessee turned up its defense, forcing poor shots, air balls, shot-clock violations and steals. By the time GW scored again, on Simmonds' jumper with 5 1/2 minutes left, Tennessee had used a 12-0 run to take control at 54-37. The Lady Vols held George Washington to 22 percent shooting in the second half and finished the game with 12 steals, five by Alexis Hornbuckle. Tennessee outrebounded GW 39-27. The Lady Vols didn't take their first lead until more than 9 1/2 minutes had elapsed, on Sidney Spencer's jumper near the foul line that made it 15-14. Jessica Adair's inside basket gave GW what would be its final lead of the game, 16-15. The Colonials went scoreless for more than three minutes as Tennessee used a 10-2 run and appeared to be pulling away. But a late spurt by GW made its deficit just 34-29 at halftime. That matched Tennessee's lowest output in a half this season. The 14 points scored by GW in the second half tied for the second fewest by an opponent in the second period in Tennessee history.

GAME 9: LOUISIANA TECH

Shanna Zolman scored 21 points and Candace Parker had 18 points and seven rebounds to lead top-ranked Tennessee to an 83-59 victory over Louisiana Tech on Dec. 15. The Lady Vols (9-0) took advantage of 22 turnovers by the Lady Techsters (5-3) and a 40-35 rebounding edge. Nicky Anosike added 12 points on 5-for-7 shooting for the Lady Vols. Sybil Dosty played just 11 minutes but grabbed seven rebounds and added eight points for Tennessee. Zolman shot 5-for-7 from 3-point range. It was Tennessee's fifth straight victory in the series. Louisiana Tech was led by Aarica Ray-Boyd's 15 points. Tasha Williams added 13 and Shan Moore 10. Tennessee shot 46.6 percent from the floor, while Louisiana Tech shot 38.5 percent. The game was close for the first 13 minutes before Parker's layup with 14:15 left in the period gave the Lady Vols a 12-10 lead. Tennessee never trailed again. Louisiana Tech scored a field goal at the 16:16 mark in the first half and was unable to sink another one until 1:53 left in the first period. With seven minutes left in the half and leading 17-14, Tennessee went on a 13-0 run. Zolman's three-pointer gave the Lady Vols a 30-14 lead with 3:30 left in the half. The Lady Vols outscored Louisiana Tech 23-6 over the last seven minutes of the half and led 40-20 at the break. Louisiana Tech shot 23.1 percent from the floor in the first half, making six of 26 attempts, and committed 15 turnovers. Tennessee shot 50 percent and made nine turnovers. Zolman had 16 points at halftime, and Parker scored 13 in the first half. Tennessee built the lead to 25 early in the second half. The Lady Techsters rallied briefly with an 8-0 run, cutting it to 49-32 on Eboni Mangum's layup with 15:30 left. The Lady Vols built the lead back to 25 points with just under 10 minutes left.

GAME 10: PRINCETON

Shanna Zolman scored 23 points and Tye'sha Fluker had 15 points and eight rebounds Dec. 20 to lead No. 1 Tennessee to a 107-39 victory over Princeton. Tennessee (10-0) shot 59.7 percent from the floor, hit 11-of-15 shots from three-point range and out-rebounded Princeton 52-22. Princeton (6-4) shot 29.3 percent from the floor and was 4-of-23 from 3-point range in the worst road loss in program history. Alexis Hornbuckle and Dominique Redding had 12 points each and Sidney Spencer had 11 for the Lady Vols. Candace Parker led the team with 10 rebounds. Becky Brown scored 12 points on 6-of-7 shooting for Princeton in its first game against the Lady Vols. It was Princeton coach Richard Barron's return to Knoxville, where he attended middle school and high school and where his parents reside. Tennessee's victory came a day after starting guard Sa'de Wiley-Gatewood announced she was leaving the team. Wiley-Gatewood, a sophomore, started eight of nine games and was the team's fourth-leading scorer. In her absence, Fluker started her fourth game at center and Hornbuckle started at guard. Hornbuckle and Wiley-Gatewood had shared the point guard job. Tennessee started pulling away five minutes into the game. The Lady Vols led 12-8 with 16 minutes left in the half and went on a 12-0 run. Two free throws by Fluker gave the Lady Vols a 24-8 lead with 10:46 left in the half. Their lead grew to 20 when Parker scored a fast-break layup with 6:42 to play in the half. Fluker's two foul shots with 1:07 left in the half gave the Lady Vols a 47-17 lead. Zolman scored 11 in the first half and hit 3-of-4 shots from three-point range. Tennessee opened the second half with a 13-2 run. Hornbuckle's drive and layup gave the Lady Vols a 60-21 lead with 16:24 to play, and the Lady Vols continued to pour it on. Lindsey Moss threw down court to Dominique Redding for the 100th point of the game. It was the second time this season that the Lady Vols have eclipsed 100 points. Tennessee is 66-3 in 100-point games, including a 46-0 mark in Knoxville.

GAME 11: TEMPLE

Candace Parker is glad her pride was hurt more than her foot. Parker overcame an ankle injury to score 16 points and Shanna Zolman added 14, leading top-ranked Tennessee to a 75-50 victory over No. 22 Temple on Dec. 28. Tye'sha Fluker had 12 points, and every player scored for the Lady Vols (11-0). Candice Dupree had 17 points and 11 rebounds, and Khadija Bowens scored 14 for Temple (8-3). Tennessee survived an early scare when Parker left the game for nearly eight minutes with a sprained left ankle. But the injury wasn't serious and Parker laughed about the way she got injured. "I got beat defensively," she said, before turning to coach Pat Summitt to try to explain her rare mistake. "I was sliding over and I stepped on Nicky Anosike's foot. I knew it wasn't broken. When I went back to the locker room, I knew I was fine." Once Parker, the team's second-leading scorer, returned, the Lady Vols never looked back. Tennessee began pulling away with a 21-6 run that closed out the first half and gave the Lady Vols a 31-17 lead. After Temple went ahead 11-10, Tennessee scored 11 straight points, including three-pointers from Alex Fuller and Zolman. The Owls got within 44-30 in the second half after a layup by Bowens, but Anosike scored five straight points to spark a 16-4 run that put the game out of reach. "There were too many instances in the game we weren't ourselves," Temple coach Dawn Staley said. "We didn't have enough fight. We had too many lapses to complete." Tennessee already has beaten five ranked opponents, including four teams in the top 16. The Lady Vols have another tough challenge at No. 12 Notre Dame (9-1) on Saturday. Temple has lost three of five after a 6-0 start. It was Tennessee's second game since starting guard Sa'de Wiley-Gatewood left the team. In their previous meeting last November, Temple nearly became the second team to beat the Lady Vols at home since the AP poll started in 1976. The unranked Owls fell 52-48 to then-No. 1 Tennessee. "We remembered that. They had the ball and every opportunity to beat us in the last seconds," Summitt said. "You want your team to respect every opponent regardless of record. Our team really respected this team." Temple came in averaging 62.7 points, but shot just 18-for-54 in its worst offensive performance of the season.

GAME 12: NOTRE DAME

The only thing normal about Tennessee's victory over Notre Dame was the fact that the Lady Vols won. Top-ranked Tennessee shot 33 percent from the field and was outscored in the second half, but beat No. 12 Notre Dame 62-51 on New Year's Eve. Tennessee (12-0), which entered the game averaging 83 points, won by outrebounding the Irish 50-35 and holding Notre Dame to 31 percent shooting. "Our philosophy has always been you better pack your defense and your board work on the road," Tennessee coach Pat Summitt said, "because those ugly nights and those poor shooting nights, you just have to grind games out. Today, we just had to grind it out." Alexis Hornbuckle had 15 points and eight rebounds, Nicky Anosike added nine points and freshman Candace Parker had eight points and 11 rebounds for the Lady Vols. Megan Duffy led Notre Dame (9-2) with 19 points, including eight points in the last four minutes. Tennessee led 47-25 with 13:09 left, but Notre Dame went on a 16-4 run to cut the lead to 51-41 with 6:16 remaining. Duffy's jumper trimmed the deficit to 57-51 with two minutes left, but Tennessee went 5-of-8 from the free-throw line to end the game. Notre Dame coach Muffet McGraw liked how hard the Irish played before a crowd of 11,418, just the third sellout in Joyce Center history. "I was really proud of our effort," McGraw said. Tennessee's Shanna Zolman, the Lady Vols' top scorer with 17 points per game, was held to five on 1-of-7 shooting. "I felt we did a nice job on Zolman, we did a pretty good job on Parker, then Hornbuckle steps up and has a great game," McGraw said. "They just have so many weapons. We tried to limit a couple of them." Zolman said the Lady Vols let the pressure get to them when Notre Dame made its second-half run. "I think we kind of took ourselves out of our offense," she said. The Lady Vols forced 15 first-half turnovers to take a 29-14 lead. The Lady Vols improved to 17-0 all-time against the Irish. "I just think Tennessee is one of the elite teams in the country," McGraw said.

GAME 13: OLD DOMINION

Tennessee's leading scorer Shanna Zolman knows she'll be a focus for defenses, and she's learning ways to get open. Zolman scored 23 points to help the top-ranked Lady Vols to an 83-67 win over Old Dominion on Jan. 2, rebounding from a horrible offensive showing at Notre Dame on New Year's Eve. The Lady Vols (13-0) led nearly the entire game, but Old Dominion (2-7) made them work for their 10th straight victory in the series. Zolman was 6-of-10 from the floor and 3-of-5 from beyond the arc. Tennessee shot 52 percent (26-of-50) from the floor and went 24-of-28 from the foul line on Monday. Old Dominion had only seven chances at the line and made six. The Lady Vols also had 17 points from Nicky Anosike, 14 from Alexis Hornbuckle and 10 from Candace Parker. The Lady Monarchs, coming off an 88-80 overtime loss to fifth-ranked North Carolina last week, were scrappy and aggressive, but couldn't do enough defensively despite shooting 46 percent (28-of-61). Old Dominion was led by T.J. Jordan with 17 points. She was 0-of-13 shooting in last year's game as a freshman. Sherida Triggs added 16 points and Shahida Williams had 10 for Old Dominion, which has the toughest schedule in the country according to the latest RPI. The Lady Vols were ahead by 18 early in the second half when Old Dominion rallied with a 16-6 run. Jordan had consecutive threes during the spurt, and Lawona Davis scored four points to cut it to 61-53. Tennessee stretched it to 12, but Old Dominion trimmed it in half after two baskets by Paula Muxiri and a pair of free throws by Triggs. That was as close as the Lady Monarchs would get, as Zolman hit a three and then sank two foul shots to restore the double-digit lead with 6:18 left. Tennessee's 11-point half-time lead (46-35) and narrow 31-28 rebounding margin held on for the W.

GAME 14: SOUTH CAROLINA

Tye'sha Fluker had 14 of her 18 points in the second half to lead No. 1 Tennessee to its 32nd straight win over South Carolina, 66-51, Jan. 4. Fluker, a senior reserve, matched her career high for the Lady Vols (14-0), who opened the Southeastern Conference season with a win for the 10th consecutive season. South Carolina (9-4) had come in with the league's top field goal defense, a seven-game win streak of its own and legitimate hopes of topping Tennessee for the first time since 1980. Instead, Fluker came off the bench to give Tennessee a winning lift as young star Candace Parker struggled to put up points and frontline starter Nicky Anosike was in foul trouble throughout. The Lady Vols led just 25-24 a minute into the second half when Fluker got going with her own 9-0 run. She had back-to-back baskets to extend the lead to 29-24, then made a three-point play and put back Parker's miss. The Gamecocks seemed to lose steam after that. By the time Shanna Zolman hit her second straight three-pointer, Tennessee was up 42-31 with 13:18 left. Fluker's basket midway through the half increased the lead to 52-36. Fluker hit 8-of-11 shots to tie her career-best game, which she set against Auburn last year and matched in Tennessee's NCAA Tournament game against Purdue last March. She also added six rebounds and three steals. A question coming in was whether Parker would dunk, as former Lady Vols' star Michelle Snow did in Columbia four years ago. However, Parker had enough trouble getting any shots to go at all, finishing 4-for-10 for 10 points and nine rebounds. Lauren Simms led South Carolina with 16 points. Tennessee didn't look like the country's best team early on. The Lady Vols had eight turnovers in the first nine minutes and the Gamecocks, after Lakesha Tolliver's consecutive baskets, led 17-9. But Tennessee found itself and closed the half with a 16-4 run to lead 25-21 at the break. The 25 first-half points were the fewest by Tennessee this season. Sidney Spencer had two three-pointers and the Lady Vols turned up their defense - South Carolina was just 2-of-13 shooting and had five turnovers during Tennessee's charge. The 42-28 rebounding advantage and 59 percent shooting in the second half helped in the Lady Vols' SEC opener.

GAME 15: CONNECTICUT

Sidney Spencer scored a career-high 21 points, including four key free throws in the final two minutes Saturday afternoon Jan. 7, and top-ranked Tennessee outlasted No. 7 Connecticut 89-80 to add another classic game in this storied rivalry. Candace Parker, Tye'sha Fluker, and Shanna Zolman each added 13 points, and Alexis Hornbuckle had 14 rebounds, 10 points and nine rebounds for the Lady Vols (15-0). UConn (12-2) lost for the first time in Knoxville since 2001 and dropped back-to-back games to Tennessee for the first time since 1998 and 1999. The Lady Vols ended their six-game losing streak to the Huskies last year. UConn leads the all-time series 13-8, which includes six matchups in the Final Four. In a game that featured plenty of stars, it was Spencer who was clutch for the Lady Vols. The junior's previous career high was 14 points, and she had no points last year in Hartford. Tennessee led most of the second half, but couldn't extend it past six points until late. UConn cut it to 77-75 with 2:44 left on Barbara Turner's pair of free throws. In response, Spencer made four free throws in a row. Charde Houston had a jumper for the Huskies with 1:18 remaining, but Parker scored and Zolman had two free throws. UConn kept up the pressure, and Ann Strother was fouled shooting a three and made two of three free throws to cut it back to six. But Houston's free throw with 8.7 seconds left was the Huskies' final point. The Huskies had 17 turnovers, nine of which came on steals by the Lady Vols. Parker, playing in her first game against UConn, missed a chance for a dunk early in the first half when she got the ball on the break following a turnover. Palming the ball, she went up for a lay-in surrounded by four Huskies and missed as the crowd let out a big groan. The Huskies led 41-39 at halftime after a 38.5 percent Lady Vol first half shooting performance from the floor. Hornbuckle fell one assist shy of becoming the first Lady Vol in school history to earn a triple-double.

GAME 16: GEORGIA

Even as top-ranked Tennessee remained undefeated, coach Pat Summitt fretted over the Lady Vols' defense. Tennessee beat No. 13 Georgia 94-85 on Jan. 12 with Candace Parker leading the way with a career-high 26 points and 10 rebounds. The Lady Bulldogs (11-4, 2-1) came very close to ending Tennessee's home winning streak against league opponents. Instead, the Lady Vols (16-0, 2-0) won their 62nd straight SEC home game. The Lady Bulldogs were the last to win in Thompson-Boling Arena in December 1996, and they seemed ready to end the drought. Georgia trailed by nine points with 8 1/2 minutes left but cut it to 77-76 on two free throws by Sherill Baker with 3:53 to go. Tennessee answered with a quick 7-0 run. Georgia wasn't finished and got within five after Baker made two more free throws with 1:20 remaining. Parker followed with a fade-away jumper, but that didn't put it away. Alexis Kendrick hit a three for Georgia to make it 88-84 with 43 seconds left. That was the Lady Bulldogs' last field goal. Shanna Zolman and Sidney Spencer each made two free throws in the final 39 seconds, and Alexis Hornbuckle got a rebound and drove for a layup with eight seconds to go. Summitt warned the Lady Vols would not stay undefeated for long if they didn't get better. Tennessee's next four games are on the road, including No. 2 Duke on Jan. 23, and Summitt promised practice would center on defense. Spencer and Zolman each scored 17 points, and Hornbuckle added 12 despite getting into foul trouble late in the game. Parker, who was 10-of-15 from the field, had five assists. "As much fun as it was sometimes, we still knew that we weren't playing very well defensively," Zolman said. "Hopefully throughout the course of the season we will improve." One player the Lady Vols had trouble stopping was Baker, who tied her career high with 25 points on 10-of-20 shooting and had six rebounds. Tasha Humphrey added 23 points and Kendrick had 11 for the Lady Bulldogs, who had a four-game winning streak snapped. Tennessee outrebounded Georgia, 37-30 and held a 43-38 halftime lead.

GAME 17: MISSISSIPPI STATE

Candace Parker had 16 points and 11 rebounds, and top-ranked Tennessee remained unbeaten with a 79-56 victory over Mississippi State on Jan. 15. Sidney Spencer and Shanna Zolman added 14 points each for the Lady Vols (17-0, 3-0 Southeastern Conference), who opened a four-game road trip - which includes games at nationally-ranked Vanderbilt and Duke - by improving to 25-0 all-time against the Bulldogs. Coach Pat Summitt preached defense after the Lady Vols were exposed often during a 94-85 victory over No. 13 Georgia three days earlier. Against the overmatched Bulldogs, that extra attention showed. Tennessee scored 29 points off 21 Mississippi State turnovers. The Lady Vols never trailed, withstood a Mississippi State rally in the second half and pulled away down the stretch. Tennessee led by as many as 27 in its 11th straight victory in Starkville. Robin Porter had 15 points, Miayorka Johnson had 11 and Heather Hollis added 10 for Mississippi State (6-11, 1-3), which has lost two straight and three of four. This win came much easier for the Lady Vols than their most recent two games - nine-point home wins over No. 7 Connecticut and Georgia. Tennessee increased its lead to 40-20 on a basket by Tye'sha Fluker just more than two minutes into the second half. After Mississippi State closed to within 10 points on an 11-1 run over the next three minutes, Parker and Fluker took over and put the game out of reach. Parker converted a quick three-point play and Fluker had consecutive baskets to extend Tennessee's lead to 17. The Bulldogs didn't get closer than 13 the rest of the way. Fluker finished with 12 points for the Lady Vols. Parker recorded her second straight double-double and the fifth of her career. Zolman shot a perfect 4-of-4 from the line, moving her into first place in the NCAA Division I record book for career free-throw percentage (91.6). The Lady Vols led by 16 at the break and owned a 37-33 rebounding advantage.

GAME 18: VANDERBILT

Tennessee coach Pat Summitt didn't have to wait long to get her 900th career victory. Shanna Zolman led five Lady Vols in double figures with 16 points, and top-ranked Tennessee rallied from its biggest deficit this season in beating No. 19 Vanderbilt 80-68 Jan. 19, giving Summitt her 900th win in her first shot at the milestone. Tennessee (18-0, 4-0 Southeastern Conference) had never gone through a first half without leading at least once until this game, and the Lady Vols trailed by 14 late in the half. But the crowd of 13,127 with lots of Tennessee orange got to serenade Summitt by chanting "9-0-0" in the final minute as the Lady Vols won for the 10th straight time in the series. Vanderbilt (13-5, 2-2) looked ready to end that skid and get its first victory against the Lady Vols since Feb. 2, 2002. As well as the Commodores shot, they couldn't stop Tennessee from turning their turnovers into 25 points. Alexis Hornbuckle had 15 points for Tennessee with Candace Parker adding 14. Sidney Spencer and Nicky Anosike each had 10. The Lady Vols outshot Vandy 54 percent (31-of-56) to 46 percent (27-of-58). The Lady Vols, who trailed 33-19 in the first half, didn't take their first lead until 45-44 with 14:53 left on a pair of fast-break layups by Hornbuckle coming off a Parker block, then a Zolman steal. Vanderbilt last led 50-49 on a three-pointer by Cherish Stringfield. Then Tennessee scored 19 of the next 21 points in taking its biggest lead at 68-52 with 5:47 to go on a pair of Anosike free throws. The Commodores came into the game as the nation's fourth-best shooting team, and they shot 54 percent in the first half. They finished 10-of-22 from three-point range en route to a 33-19 lead over the Lady Vols, the biggest Tennessee deficit of the season. Tennessee struggled with Zolman missing her first five shots, and Hornbuckle played only seven minutes after picking up her third foul in the first half. But they finished the half with a 13-2 spurt that included a steal and a layup by Parker and capped by Zolman's first bucket, a three-pointer, with 26.1 seconds left. Still, they trailed 37-32 at halftime for only the second time this season. Vanderbilt tried to muster some mojo before tipoff by showing highlights from the football team's 28-24 victory last November over Tennessee - the school's first in the rivalry since 1982. It didn't help, and Summitt got to walk off the court with a wave and a thumb's up to the fans gathered behind her bench.

GAME 19: DUKE

Second-ranked Duke beat No. 1 Tennessee with depth and defense. Lindsey Harding helped a bunch, too. The 5-foot-8 point guard dominated on both ends of the court, finishing with 15 points, four assists and eight steals to help the Blue Devils to a 75-53 victory Jan. 23. Harding was one of five players in double figures for Duke (19-0), which took the lead for good midway through the first half and then pulled away. Monique Currie had 13 points and Mistie Williams, Abby Waner and Chante Black all scored 10. Candace Parker, Tennessee's dynamite freshman, had 17 points, five assists and three blocks, but she got little help. Leading scorer Shanna Zolman was held without a point, only the third time this season she has failed to reach double figures. Six players scored for the Lady Vols (18-1), and their 53 points were a season low. They were coming off an emotional victory over in-state rival Vanderbilt that gave Summitt win No. 900, but they never had a chance in this one. At least Summitt avoided the worst loss in her 32 years at the school - she and Tennessee lost to Texas 91-60 in 1984. With all the tickets for Monday's game sold well in advance - there were a surprising number of Tennessee fans scattered throughout the crowd of 9,314 - the environment was raucous even before the opening tip. A small, yet enthusiastic group of Cameron Crazies chanted "Our house! Our house!" as the players left their benches, and they continued the harassment. Of course, the best distraction came from Duke's defense. The Lady Vols shot 45 percent, missed all but two of their 10 free throws and had 22 turnovers. Harding keyed a 14-4 run soon after half-time with two free throws and a jumper from the baseline, and Waner swished a three-pointer to make it 46-31. Sidney Spencer made two threes to momentarily halt the Blue Devils' momentum, but Waner responded with a three to restore control. Spencer had 11 points for the Lady Vols, and Alexis Hornbuckle added 10. In its first loss of the year, UT got out-rebounded 33-26 and trailed by seven at the break.

GAME 20: KENTUCKY

Kentucky upset Tennessee (No. 3 ESPN/USA Today; No. 1 AP) 66-63 Jan. 26, handing the Lady Vols and the winningest coach in college basketball history their first back-to-back defeats in nine years. The Lady Vols (18-2, 4-1 Southeastern Conference) had beaten Kentucky (15-4, 4-2) 24 straight times since January 1986 and entered with a 40-5 advantage in the series. For Summitt, who earned her 900th victory last week against Vanderbilt, the setback came at the hands of her former pupil, Kentucky coach Mickie DeMoss, a Tennessee assistant for 18 years under Summitt. Jenny Pfeiffer scored 16 points, including two free throws with 15 seconds left to put the Wildcats ahead by one. Sidney Spencer then missed a three-pointer for Tennessee and fouled Nastassia Alcius, who hit two foul shots with three seconds to go for the final margin. Tennessee led 63-62 when Shanna Zolman tripped, and Kentucky's Carly Ormerod came up with the loose ball. Pfeiffer drew a foul from Spencer and made both free throws. Tennessee had not dropped consecutive games since February 1997 against LSU and Louisiana Tech. It also was the Lady Vols' first loss to an unranked team since March 2, 2002, against LSU in the SEC tournament. For the Wildcats, it was their first win over an AP No. 1 team. Freshman Candace Parker led the Lady Vols with 25 points — one shy of a career high — and nine rebounds. But it was her foul that sent Pfeiffer to the line for three free throws with 2:30 left. Pfeiffer made all three to tie the score at 60. Summitt was unhappy with her team's defensive effort against Duke, but it was offense and defense alike that plagued the Lady Vols early against Kentucky. They made only four of their first 15 shots and hit just 39 percent for the game. Kentucky, however, shot 54 percent in the opening period. And the bigger Lady Vols narrowly won the rebounding battle, 33-32. The Wildcats went on a 6-0 run midway through the first half. A buzzer-beating layup by Jenn'e Jackson amid a crowd of Lady Vols gave the Wildcats a 35-30 halftime lead, the third consecutive game in which UT has trailed at the break. For the ninth time this season, a school hosting the Lady Vols set an attendance record. Kentucky, which played the game at Rupp Arena where the men's team plays, drew a record 13,689 fans to watch the upset.

GAME 21: ALABAMA

Tennessee snapped its first losing streak since the 1996-97 season with an 89-54 win over Alabama on Jan. 29 that was victory No. 901 for coach Pat Summitt. The Lady Vols (19-2, 5-1 Southeastern Conference) were coming off consecutive road losses at No. 2 Duke and Kentucky. Tennessee has not lost three in a row in 20 years. The win was the 63rd consecutive in Thompson-Boling Arena over SEC opponents. Tennessee was ahead 8-0 after the Crimson Tide had turnovers on each of the first four possessions. Alabama got two early baskets from Harriet Barnes and Navonda Moore, and the Lady Vols then held the Tide without a field goal for 15 minutes. Tennessee led 33-7 with 5:33 to go in the first half after Sidney Spencer's jumper. The Lady Vols took a 43-20 lead into the break. Shanna Zolman scored to push the lead to 30 with 14 minutes left in the second half. "I think we got the point after two losses," Zolman said. "We won six national championships in this system and obviously it works." Tennessee was averaging 39 rebounds per game coming in, the worst in Lady Vols history. Tennessee barely held the edge against the Tide, 34-29. Alabama improved its offense in the second half when Tennessee got sloppy. "Obviously it's always good to get a win," Summitt said. "We have to get better. You don't fix it in one game." Candace Parker scored 15 points and Alexis Hornbuckle added 14 points, seven rebounds and six assists for Tennessee. Zolman, who failed to score at Duke, finished with 11 points. Tennessee freshman Lindsey Moss was 3-for-3 from long range before she was hit in the nose and had to be helped off the court. She was diagnosed with a displaced nasal fracture.

GAME 22: MISSISSIPPI

Sidney Spencer and Shanna Zolman saved Tennessee from another loss on the road. Spencer and Zolman each scored 18 points and sparked a rally which helped the fifth-ranked Lady Vols beat Mississippi 78-63 on Feb. 2. Alexis Hornbuckle added 14 points to help the Lady Vols (20-2, 6-1 Southeastern Conference) clinch their 30th straight 20-win season under Hall of Fame coach Pat Summitt and stop their two-game road losing streak. "When a team takes ownership, good things happen," Summitt said. Summitt's career victory No. 902 was a struggle for a while. Ole Miss led by as many as eight after a 12-0 run in the first half, and led 28-26 at halftime. Jada Mincy's free throw with 11:28 to play gave the Rebels a 46-41 lead. The Lady Vols countered with a 20-5 run keyed by two three-pointers by Spencer and a third by Zolman during the following 4½ minutes. Tennessee led 61-51 on Zolman's jumper with 6:59 left, and the Lady Vols were in control the rest of the way. "The second half was a little more important to them," Summitt said of her team. Tennessee's Tye'sha Fluker added 12 points. The Lady Vols won their first 18 games, then lost consecutive road games against No. 2 Duke and Kentucky (No. 23 ESPN/USA Today; No. 21 AP) before beating Alabama convincingly earlier this week and then struggling in their 13th straight victory over the Rebels, a string which dates back almost exactly 10 years. Ole Miss hasn't beaten Tennessee since the Rebels won 78-72 on Feb. 4, 1996. "I'm not able to yank another All-American off the bench," Ole Miss coach Carol Ross said. "I can yank an all-county or all-division player, but we don't have the depth, and that's a big difference." Carla Bartee had 14 points, Danetra Forest added 13 and Arminite Price finished with 10 for the Rebels (12-9, 2-6), who have lost four of five and eight of their last 11. The Rebels are 0-5 in SEC home games. Ole Miss has lost three straight against ranked opponents since early-season upsets of Texas Tech and Rutgers, and the Rebels on Sunday play at third-ranked LSU.

GAME 23: ARKANSAS

No. 5 Tennessee put it together in a big way down the stretch against Arkansas on Feb. 5. Shanna Zolman scored 21 points and the Lady Vols scored 33 of the last 36 points in a 77-37 win over the Lady Razorbacks. Tennessee (21-2, 7-1 Southeastern Conference) looked lethargic on offense for most of the game, but that changed in the second half. The Lady Razorbacks cut it to 44-34 on Rochelle Vaughn's jumper with 11:12 left when Tennessee's offense and defense took over. Candace Parker added 18 for Tennessee. Hornbuckle had 10 points, six assists and eight rebounds. Hornbuckle scored twice and Zolman hit a three to start the run. Parker scored nine straight points during the spurt. Arkansas (13-9, 5-4), held to a season low in points, lost its third in a row in SEC play and 12th straight to Tennessee. The Lady Razorbacks have never won in Knoxville - and neither has any league team in nearly 10 years. Tennessee has won 64 consecutive SEC home games, but that streak will get a stiff challenge on Thursday when third-ranked LSU visits. The Lady Tigers beat Mississippi on Sunday to remain undefeated in league play. Arkansas had trouble overcoming Tennessee's size advantage. The Lady Vols have six players 6-foot-2 or taller while Arkansas has one. They outrebounded Arkansas, 45-28. The Lady Razorbacks shot 26 percent (14-of-53) from the floor. Parker missed some practice because of a tight hip muscle that bothered her in a win at Mississippi earlier this week. It didn't appear to slow her on Sunday. Tennessee forward Sidney Spencer left the game with a hyperextended right knee, the same one she tore ligaments in a year ago. Trainers said she would be evaluated on Monday. Melissa Hobbs scored 12 points for Arkansas. "It didn't feel like a 40-point game. I think we played well for about 30 minutes," Arkansas coach Susie Gardner said. "The last 10 minutes was a different story. They were just toying with us." Tennessee had a strong first half. The Lady Razorbacks cut it to 19-15 on Leslie Howard's three with 6:02 left, but the Lady Vols had a quick 7-0 run to push the lead to 11. Howard hit another three to trim it to 28-21 with 2:50 left, and Tennessee answered by scoring the last five points of the half, taking a 33-21 lead into the locker room. Howard accounted for nearly half of the Lady Razorbacks' offense by hitting three wide-open three-pointers before halftime. But she was scoreless in the second half.

GAME 24: LOUISIANA STATE

The Lady Tigers became the first SEC team to win at Tennessee in nearly 10 years with a 72-69 victory Feb. 9 and moved closer to winning a second straight regular-season league title. Seimone Augustus scored 32 points, Scholanda Hoston added 18 and Sylvia Fowles had 10 points and 15 rebounds for LSU (21-1, 9-0). The fifth-ranked Lady Vols (21-3, 7-2) had not lost a league game in Thompson-Boling Arena since a loss to Georgia on Dec. 8, 1996, a span of 64 games. LSU was 0-16 in Knoxville. "Right now my thoughts aren't so much about ending the homecourt streak as just getting ready for Vanderbilt (on Sunday)," Tennessee coach Pat Summitt said. "It's not a time for us to be feeling sorry for ourselves. We did a lot of good things, particularly in the second half. We have to get back tomorrow and keep things pointed in the right direction as a basketball team." Tennessee needed to beat LSU to get back into the conference race. The Lady Vols have lost two league games for the first time since 1996-97 when they were 8-4. The Lady Tigers became only the third SEC team and eighth team overall to win in Knoxville, joining Duke, Connecticut, Louisiana Tech, Georgia, Texas, Stanford and Auburn. It was Tennessee's 15th loss in the arena which opened in the 1987-88 season. The Lady Vols' first two losses this season came in consecutive games at Duke and at Kentucky. Their next game is against Vanderbilt here. "We're not going to lose Sunday," Lady Vol Shanna Zolman said. Zolman scored her 1,500th career point in the loss. LSU got off to a big lead early, going up 11-1 in the opening minutes. The Lady Tigers led by as many as 13 in the first half before taking a six point lead into the break. The Lady Vols were ahead 67-66 with 2:19 remaining, before Augustus gave LSU the lead for good. Hoston pushed it to 70-67 with another basket, and Candace Parker pulled Tennessee within one with 46.8 seconds to go. Fowles got open on the next possession and scored easily with 20 seconds left for the final margin. Tennessee's Dominique Redding had a shot blocked in the final seconds, and Parker fouled Augustus on the rebound. Augustus missed both free throws with 6.2 remaining to give the Lady Vols some hope. Zolman dribbled up the court and passed the ball as she was falling down to Redding, who couldn't get off a shot. Parker led the Lady Vols with 23 points. Tye'sha Fluker had 14 and Hornbuckle added 11. Zolman was just 2-for-11 from the field. The Lady Tigers extended their SEC winning streak to 23 games. Their last loss was on Feb. 29, 2004, at Tennessee. LSU owned the rebounding margin, 41-36.

GAME 25: VANDERBILT

Candace Parker scored 19 points and fifth-ranked Tennessee rallied to beat No. 22 Vanderbilt 70-67 on Feb. 12 to avoid losing consecutive home conference games for the first time in nearly 20 years. The Lady Vols (22-3, 8-2 Southeastern Conference) were down 14 in the first half, but pulled within five at the break (36-31). Tennessee used a 14-4 run in the last 5:51 to improve to 20-0 against Vanderbilt in Knoxville. Vanderbilt (17-8, 6-5) led nearly the entire game behind a strong inside game from Liz Sherwood, who had 20 points. Tennessee finally found its defense and offense down the stretch. The Commodores were ahead 63-56 on Carla Thomas' basket with 6:14 remaining. Then Sidney Spencer had a jumper and Shanna Zolman made a pair of free throws to get the Lady Vols going. Nicole Jules scored for Vanderbilt, and Thomas had a basket around five points by Parker. Spencer scored again to tie it at 67 with 2:50 left. Vanderbilt did not score again. Alexis Hornbuckle made two free throws with 2:22 to go for a 69-67 lead, and Tennessee held on. Sherwood was whistled for her fifth foul with 1:51 left, but Parker missed both free throws. Cherish Stringfield missed a three for Vanderbilt, which got the ball back with 32 seconds left after Tennessee had a shot clock violation. Spencer made the second of two free throws, and the game ended when Parker caught Caroline Williams' deflected three-point attempt. Spencer finished with 11 points and Hornbuckle had 10. Jules had 12 points for Vanderbilt while Stringfield had 11 and Thomas 10. The Lady Vols tied it at 43 with 14:54 remaining after a quick 5-0 run, but the Commodores were able to stretch their lead back to seven. They pushed it to as many as nine before Tennessee took over. Pat Summitt earned win No. 900 at Vanderbilt in January, and just like that game, the Commodores were up by as many as 14 in the first half. Jules gave the Commodores a 30-16 lead with 4:59 left. But Hornbuckle got an 11-0 run started with a putback, and the Lady Vols cut it to 30-27 with 1:33 to go.

GAME 26: GEORGIA

Candace Parker scored 19 points, including the go-ahead basket with 17 seconds left, and No. 5 Tennessee rallied from a 14-point deficit to beat No. 13 Georgia 58-55 Feb. 16. Even down by 14 points midway through the second half, Tennessee never lacked for confidence against Georgia. "The thought never crossed our minds that we were going to lose," guard Shanna Zolman said after the fifth-ranked Lady Vols rallied for the 2006 sweep of the Lady Bulldogs. Georgia's Tasha Humphrey scored following an offensive rebound with 4:50 left to give the Lady Bulldogs a 55-48 lead. Georgia didn't score again as Tennessee closed with a 10-0 run to complete the comeback. Candace Parker returned after spraining her ankle in the first half and led Tennessee with 19 points, 14 rebounds and five blocked shots. Tye'sha Fluker set a season high with 10 boards as the Lady Vols outrebounded the Lady Bulldogs 42-27. Parker scored the go-ahead basket with 17 seconds left and Zolman added two free throws with 7.3 seconds to play. Georgia took two timeouts and still couldn't get off an attempt at a game-tying three-pointer. In its first game since losing starting point guard Alexis Hornbuckle with a broken right wrist, Tennessee struggled with 21 turnovers. Hornbuckle had surgery Wednesday and was not with the team. Zolman filled in at point guard and finished with 18 points. Zolman, best known for her three-point shooting, assumed most of the responsibility of directing the offense, but Tennessee coach Pat Summitt said her team won with defense. The Lady Vols used a 3-2 zone for the first time this year, according to Summitt, in hopes of containing Humphrey, the team's leading scorer and only inside threat. Humphrey, averaging 20.6 points, was held to 10 points on 2-for-12 shooting from the field. Cori Chambers was 3-for-12 from the field as Georgia was held to 33.3 percent shooting - 10-for-30 in each half. Tennessee, taking higher percentage shots closer to the basket, shot 46.8 percent from the field. Georgia led 45-31 with 12:08 left, but Parker's basket with 2:52 to play cut it to 55-52. Fluker's inside basket made it 55-54 with 1:54 remaining. The Lady Vols improved to 2-1 in their three games in seven days against ranked Southeastern Conference teams. Tennessee (23-3, 9-2) lost to then-No. 3 Louisiana State on Feb. 9 and beat No. 22 Vanderbilt on Sunday. Sherill Baker led Georgia with 17 points and five steals. Megan Darrah had 10. The Lady Bulldogs led 29-22 at the half.

GAME 27: ALABAMA

Shanna Zolman equaled her career-high with 28 points and made seven three-pointers to lift No. 5 Tennessee to an 82-65 victory over Alabama on Feb. 19. Zolman's seven three-pointers were a career single-game high and a Lady Vol record. Her shooting was a big reason why the Lady Vols (24-3, 10-2 Southeastern Conference) were finally able to enjoy a mostly stress-free game after three consecutive three-point decisions. Tennessee continues to enjoy playing the Crimson Tide (9-16, 3-9), winning the past 30 meetings and leading by as many as 22 in the second half of this one. Zolman had four threes after the half and finished 7-of-12 from behind the arc, while her teammates made only two in eight attempts. All five starters scored in double figures for the Lady Vols. Zolman is discovering another benefit to dumping the ball inside to Candace Parker & Co.: The open outside shots that can result when they return the favor. Nicky Anosike added 14 points for the Lady Vols, while Parker and Tye'sha Fluker had 12 points apiece and Sidney Spencer had 11. Parker made only 3-of-11 shots but she, Anosike and Fluker each had eight rebounds. Navonda Moore had another big game against the Lady Vols. She had a career-high 31 points, five more than her previous best this season, set in the last meeting against Tennessee. Dee Merriweather added 15 points and nine rebounds and Kate Mastin scored 13 for the Tide. Alabama twice cut its deficit to 12 points on Moore three-pointers in the second half, but couldn't get any closer. The relatively easy win gave the Lady Vols a respite after two three-point wins over ranked teams following a 72-69 loss to No. 2 LSU. Summitt remains concerned about the lack of production from her reserves - they scored just five points on Sunday - but had few complaints about her starters Sunday. The Lady Vols made 17-of-30 shots in the second half. They had used a stingy defense to overcome 36 percent shooting in the first half. Parker drove past Chanel Johnson for a basket and foul with 11 seconds left and hit the free throw for a 37-28 lead, matching Tennessee's biggest of the half. Tennessee forced 14 turnovers before halftime and closed the half on a 9-2 run, holding Alabama to only one field goal in the final four minutes to lead 37-28 after 20 minutes of action. The Tide cut its turnovers in half after that, and the game little resembled the Lady Vols' 89-54 win at Knoxville in January.

GAME 28: AUBURN

Tennessee played more like coach Pat Summitt wanted, and Tye'sha Fluker was one of the main reasons. Fluker scored a career-high 22 points and Sidney Spencer added 18 to help the No. 5 Lady Vols beat Auburn 81-56 on Feb. 23. Tennessee (25-3, 11-2 Southeastern Conference) built a big lead in the first half and never relinquished it on the way to a 13th straight victory over Auburn. Tennessee's Candace Parker had her seventh double-double of the season with 13 rebounds and 11 points, though she missed a dunk attempt in the second half. Parker also had five assists. Auburn (13-13, 4-9), which hasn't won in Knoxville since 1988, led early but couldn't take advantage of its large front line that at times was bigger than Tennessee's. The Lady Vols' starting lineup has grown taller with the loss of point guard Alexis Hornbuckle, who is out for the season with a broken right wrist. Fluker started at center with three forwards at least 6-foot-3 and 5-10 Shanna Zolman at point guard. Fluker was 7-of-9 from the field and 8-of-10 from the foul line. The game featured two of the best freshmen in the SEC - Parker and Auburn's DeWanna Bonner, who led her team with 14 points. Reserve Sherell Hobbs added 12 points for the Tigers. The Lady Vols were ahead by as many as 16 in the first half, 39-29 at the break, and stretched it to 20 early in the second half. Auburn had two quick baskets to trim it to 16, but the Tigers could not rally. They had 15 turnovers and were outrebounded 40-25 to give Tennessee several second chances. Auburn managed just nine rebounds in the second half. During one sequence after halftime, Fluker missed a free throw, but Spencer put back the rebound and was fouled for a three-point play. Tennessee took command in the first half with two runs. Auburn was ahead by six early when the Lady Vols took the lead on a 10-0 run that included three baskets by Parker. Nitasha Brown pulled the Tigers within one with a three-pointer with 5:51 left before halftime. Then Tennessee held Auburn scoreless for nearly four minutes with a 15-0 run. Spencer and Dominique Redding hit consecutive threes to end the spurt and put the Lady Vols ahead 37-21.

GAME 29: FLORIDA

The Lady Vols closed out the 2005-06 regular season Feb. 26 with a 95-93 overtime loss to Florida on Senior Day. Candace Parker scored a career-high for the Lady Vols, netting 25 of her 34 points in the second half. Shanna Zolman and Tye'sha Fluker accounted for 44 points, 22 rebounds and 10 assists in their last game in Thompson-Boling Arena. Parker, Fluker and Zolman each finished with a double-double. The No. 5 Lady Vols lost at home to an unranked team for the second time in school history and first time in 22 years. On top of that, Tennessee lost to two unranked teams in one season for the first time since the women's rankings started in 1976. Its first loss to an unranked team this year came at Kentucky, 66-63 on Jan. 26. The Lady Vols (25-4, 11-3 Southeastern Conference) had never lost to an unranked team in Thompson-Boling Arena. Unranked Cincinnati beat then-No. 12 Tennessee 72-69 on Nov. 26, 1984, in the university's old arena. It was only the 16th loss for Tennessee in Thompson-Boling Arena. Brittany Davis scored a career-high 29 points and Sha Brooks added 25 for the Gators (20-7, 8-6). Sarah Lowe added 15 points, seven rebounds, six assists and no turnovers while playing the entire 45 minutes. Florida used a full-court press that forced most of Tennessee's season-high 28 turnovers and further exposed the loss of point guard Alexis Hornbuckle. Florida had a season-high 20 steals. The Gators grabbed the lead early in the second half and didn't trail again until overtime. But that only lasted 15 seconds. Candace Parker converted a three-point play to put Tennessee ahead 87-84 with three minutes left in the extra period. Davis hit her only three of the game and then made the second of two free throws on the ensuing possession to give the lead back to Florida, and the Gators held on to win. Florida went up 51-50 on Brooks' three with 13:29 left in regulation, starting a 13-0 run. Santos capped it with a three that pushed the Gators' lead to 11. The Lady Vols got back in it with a 10-2 run to cut it to 65-64 with 6:46 left. Tennessee cut it to one three more times before Eshe made two free throws with 34.4 seconds left to push it to 81-76. Tennessee led 34-30 at the break but needed Zolman's three with 8.4 seconds left to send the game into extra periods. Tennessee outrebounded Florida 54-38 and shot 49 percent compared to the Gators 40 percent, but turnovers and 63 percent FT-shooting lost the game in the end.

GAME 30: AUBURN

Candace Parker had 17 points and 12 rebounds, and Zolman added 16 points and six assists to lead No. 8 Tennessee over Auburn 77-45 on March 3 in the second round of the SEC Tournament. The Lady Vols (26-4) were overwhelming from the start against Auburn, jumping ahead 13-0. Tennessee smothered the Tigers (14-15) on defense, holding them to four assists and 28-percent shooting. "Normally we open in a zone," Tennessee coach Pat Summitt said. "We opened in a man - I wanted us to come out and pressure, have good energy." Parker, the SEC's Freshman of the Year, scored all her points in the first half as The Lady Vols built a 40-26 lead. Zolman, a first-team All-SEC selection as a senior, went 4-of-6 from three-point range. She has 78 three-pointers this season, one shy of Kara Lawson's school record. Three of Zolman's three-pointers came during Tennessee's 24-3 run to start the second half. That gave the Lady Vols a 35-point lead, their biggest of the game. "Tennessee was outstanding today," Auburn coach Nell Fortner said. "They shot the ball extremely well, and just absolutely manhandled us. We didn't have an answer for it. It was a long day for us." Tennessee has lost to two unranked teams in one season for the first time since the women's rankings started in 1976. The Lady Vols also had more than one regular-season SEC loss for the first time since 1997. That year, they finished 8-4 in league play before rallying to win the second of three straight national championships. Tennessee would love to go on a similar run this season, and Summitt said her players approached Friday's game with plenty of intensity. "I think this team knows what they have to bring," Summitt said. Tye'sha Fluker led Tennessee with 19 points. She also had eight rebounds. The Lady Vols will play No. 12 Georgia in the semifinals March 4. The Lady Bulldogs defeated Vanderbilt 69-47 in the second round to advance. Sherell Hobbs led the Tigers with 11 points, and DeWanna Bonner added 10. The Lady Vols shot a sizzling 57 percent from the field and 54 percent from beyond the arc. A much taller Auburn front court was out-rebounded 42-27. Tennessee eliminated Auburn from the SEC Tournament for the third time in four years. The Lady Vols' last loss to the Tigers anywhere was in the 1997 tournament. With the win, UT improves to 23-4 all-time in SEC second round games.

GAME 31: GEORGIA

Candace Parker had 26 points and 12 rebounds to help the No. 8 Lady Vols pull away for an 89-79 win over No. 12 Georgia in the SEC semifinals March 4. Tennessee led 74-70 late in a back-and-forth second half before going on an 8-0 run to secure its 17th appearance in the SEC title game. Tennessee and LSU will play for the championship for the third time in four years. LSU won in 2003 in North Little Rock, and the Lady Vols took the title a season ago. The third-ranked Lady Tigers won the regular-season matchup 72-69 at Tennessee. "I think we're a better basketball team now than when we played them," Lady Vols coach Pat Summitt said. "I feel good that we can go inside against them." Tye'sha Fluker added 19 points, and Shanna Zolman had 16 for Tennessee, which was tested in the first game of the tournament decided by fewer than 15 points. The Lady Vols (27-4) finally pulled away with an impressive late stretch. Nicky Anosike made a pair of free throws to make it 76-70, and Zolman followed a Georgia turnover with a three-pointer. After another Georgia turnover, Parker was fouled with 4:09 remaining. She made one of two free throws, Tennessee rebounded the miss, and Parker's reverse layup pushed the lead to 12. Tennessee outbounded Georgia 40-22. Tennessee needed its rebounding advantage because the Lady Vols turned over the ball 18 times against Georgia's pressure. The Lady Bulldogs started 1-of-8 from the field and fell behind 16-5. They trailed only 34-32 at halftime and the teams exchanged leads early in the second. Georgia (21-8) made one more run late in the second. The Lady Bulldogs had the possession down 85-79, but lost it on a jump ball with 1:18 to play. Georgia then forced a shot clock violation, but Tasha Humphrey's three-pointer rimmed out. Sherill Baker led Georgia with 20 points and Humphrey added 18. Parker, the SEC Freshman of the Year, went 9-of-12 from the field and earned her fourth consecutive double-double, her tenth of the season. Zolman made four three-pointers for a season total of 82, breaking Kara Lawson's school record of 79. She also had seven assists. Anosike added 11 points and 11 rebounds, her first double-double of the season. Tennessee was 25-of-32 from the free throw line and Georgia was 20-of-21.

GAME 32: LSU

This time, the rookie came out on top. Freshman Candace Parker made a driving one-hander from the left side of the lane with 17 seconds left, and No. 8 Tennessee held on to beat No. 3 LSU 63-62 in the Southeastern Conference Tournament championship when Seimone Augustus' attempt went long. The Lady Vols (28-4) won their 12th SEC Tournament and second in a row. They beat a top-seeded LSU team in the finals last year too, 67-65. Last month, LSU became the first SEC team to win at Tennessee in nearly 10 years, edging the Lady Vols, 72-69. Augustus scored 32 points in that game. She had 24 Sunday, but it wasn't enough. The Lady Tigers (27-3) led 62-58 with less than a minute remaining, but Zolman's three-pointer with 35.5 seconds to play cut Tennessee's deficit to one. Erica White missed the front end of a 1-and-1 with 33 seconds left, giving the Lady Vols a chance to take the lead. Tennessee chose not to call time out or hold for the last shot. The 6-foot-4 Parker, the SEC Freshman of the Year, had the ball near the top of the key, then drove to the left against the Tigers' best defender - Scholanda Hoston, who is six inches shorter. Sidney Spencer scored 21 points and Parker, the tournament's most valuable player, finished with 20 for the Lady Vols. Zolman added 14. Tennessee and LSU met in the SEC title game for the third time in four years - LSU won in 2003 in North Little Rock. Augustus, also the reigning national player of the year, reached double figures for the 127th time in her career, tying the record set by Missouri State's Jackie Stiles and Duke's Alana Beard. Sylvia Fowles added 16 points, 12 rebounds and seven blocks for LSU. Fowles hurt an ankle in the second half of LSU's 79-52 semifinal win over Kentucky, but she looked fine at the start against Tennessee. She made her first four shots and had 12 points, six rebounds and six blocks in the first half. But Tennessee went on an 11-0 run late in the half and led 36-33 at the break. Spencer made all four of her three-point attempts before the break. Fowles and Augustus combined to score LSU's first 16 points but went scoreless for the last 8:12 before halftime. LSU led 55-48 with 8:23 remaining, but Tennessee called time and went on a 10-0 run capped by Zolman's three-pointer. Tennessee went 10-of-19 from three-point range - Spencer made five and Zolman four. UT held a 40-31 rebounding advantage in the game and a 122-80 advantage for the three-game weekend.

GAME 33: ARMY

Candace Parker became the first woman to dunk in an NCAA Tournament game on March 19, jamming one-handed on a breakaway just 6:12 into the second-seeded Lady Vols' 102-54 victory against Army. Then, for good measure, Parker ensured her place in basketball lore by becoming the first to do it twice in a college game with another one-hander on the baseline. She finished with 26 points in 26 minutes, and added five rebounds, a career-high seven assists, four blocks and two steals. Parker beat Army's Margaree King down the center of the floor, elevated and dunked with her right hand, causing fans at the Constant Convocation Center to go wild. The play gave the Lady Vols a 15-14 lead against the 15th-seeded Black Knights. A little over eight minutes later, the Lady Vols (29-4) held a 37-17 lead thanks to a 24-4 run and the only suspense left was whether Parker would try to do it again. She did, with 14:18 left, working a give-and-go with Nicky Anosike from the right corner, and taking a return pass with a clear path down the baseline. This time, it happened so fast that the crowd didn't even have a chance to anticipate the moment, Army's first-year head coach, the late Maggie Dixon, was making some history of her own Sunday. She and her older brother, Pittsburgh men's coach Jamie Dixon, are believed to be the first brother and sister to coach in the Division I tournament in the same year. Big brother didn't fare much better: The fifth-seeded Panthers lost to 13th-seeded Bradley 72-66, also Sunday. But Army's outcome was completely expected. The Blacks Knights (20-11), who were carried off the court by cadets after winning the Patriot League tournament, lost to the Lady Vols 96-44 in 2002, so they knew what they were up against. They gave away several inches at each position on the floor. Enright led the Black Knights with 21 points and Alex McGuire had eight. The Lady Vols, who shot 60 percent and outbounded Army 40-21, got 15 points each from Tye'sha Fluker and Zolman and saw all 10 players on the team score.

GAME 34: GEORGE WASHINGTON

Pat Summitt stayed perfect in the first two rounds of the NCAA Tournament, and the Lady Vols are hoping they've already cleared the bump in the road to a championship. Shanna Zolman scored 19 points and Candace Parker had 15, and second-seeded Tennessee used a fast start to send eighth-seeded George Washington reeling in a 66-53 victory on March 21. Summitt improved to 38-0 in the first and second rounds in her career and gave Tennessee (30-4) its 16th 30-win season in her 32 years as coach. The Lady Vols have advanced to 25 consecutive regional semifinals. The way she saw it, it also made her hopeful that better times are ahead. The Lady Vols advanced to play Rutgers in the Cleveland Regional, and looked like they might be contenders for a seventh national championship in the process. Zolman and her teammates know they have to respect every opponent. That respect, though, is accompanied by a lingering feeling of having been disrespected by the committee that made Tennessee a No. 2 seed in the tournament. One of those coveted No. 1 seeds went to Ohio State, who failed to make it to the Sweet 16, falling to Boston College tonight 79-69. "We're going to continue to use that as motivation," said Zolman whose three-pointer with 3:52 left in the first half gave her the UT career three-point record. Zolman now has 258 career threes, moving her past former teammate and record holder Kara Lawson (256). George Washington (23-9) trailed by double digits almost the whole way after the Lady Vols' opening 16-2 burst. After 11 minutes, Zolman had 11 points and Parker had 10, both exceeding the Colonials' total, and Tennessee was up 25-8 and cruising. George Washington missed its first nine shots, but used an 11-3 run to begin the second half to get within 43-34 with 13:50 to go. But Zolman and Sidney Spencer hit back-to-back three-pointers, sparking a 13-0 run that put the Colonials back in a hole. Jessica Simmonds led the Colonials with 14 points and Jessica Adair had 13 points and 11 rebounds. The Colonials shot just 30 percent and were outrebounded 53-37. "They were a pretty good No. 2 seed. I'll say that much," McKeown said. Spencer added 12 points and Nicky Anosike had nine and a season-high 12 rebounds.

GAME 35: RUTGERS

Tennessee knocked Rutgers out of the NCAA Tournament for the second straight year March 26, winning 76-69 in the semifinals of the Cleveland Regional. Candace Parker scored 29 points with six blocks, and Shanna Zolman hit five three-pointers for a career-high 29 points to lead Tennessee to its 21st regional final appearance. The Scarlet Knights are 0-5 against the Lady Vols in the NCAA Tournament, including a loss last season in the regional final. Parker, who last Sunday became the first woman to dunk in an NCAA Tournament game, showed she can do much more than dunk. She scored 12 straight points during a critical run by the Lady Vols early in the second half. The freshman hit jumpers, blocked shots and at times brought the ball up the floor, looking a little bit like NBA star LeBron James in his own building. "I've only dunked in one game. I don't want that to be my identity," Parker said. "I want to be known for an all-around game." Tennessee improved to 21-4 in the regional semifinals in its 25th straight appearance. The Lady Vols have not missed the regional finals since 2001. Matee Ajavon led Rutgers (27-5) with 24 points and Cappie Pondexter, a Naismith player of the year finalist, scored 22 in her final game. Rutgers' defense, which led the nation by holding teams to 51.1 points per game, disrupted Tennessee early, but the Lady Vols went on a 30-10 run to go up 54-41 with 10:46 remaining. Stringer tried defending Parker with several different players and even tried some zone, but couldn't find an answer. Rutgers twice got within seven but Parker hit two free throws and added a right-handed scoop in the lane with 1:15 left to seal it. Tennessee's point total was the most allowed by Rutgers all season. Alexis Hornbuckle added some big hustle plays for the Lady Vols. Rutgers opened up a 23-14 lead with 7:08 left in the first half behind a 15-1 run led by Ajavon. The Lady Vols' offense went nearly six minutes without a field goal. But Parker and Hornbuckle responded with a 15-4 run to close the half up 29-27. The Scarlet Knights committed 10 first-half turnovers and went more than six minutes without a basket. The Lady Vols were out-rebounded (37-29) for the first time since hosting LSU in Knoxville on Feb. 9, but used a two-point halftime lead (29-27) to their advantage.

GAME 36: NORTH CAROLINA

Ivory Latta put top-seeded North Carolina in its first Final Four since winning the 1994 national championship with a 75-63 win over Tennessee in the Cleveland Regional on March 28. Latta scored nine of her team's final 11 points, drilling a crucial three-pointer with 3:27 left and picking up the assist on the other basket as North Carolina finally put away the Lady Vols (31-5). With the Tar Heels up 64-58 and the 30-second shot clock winding down, Latta stepped back and drilled her three-pointer from the top of the key. On North Carolina's next trip, Latta drove the lane and threaded a pass to Erlana Larkins for a layup to make it 69-60. After freshman Candace Parker's basket, Latta then made six straight free throws in the final 56.1 seconds and the Tar Heels improved to just 2-12 all-time against Tennessee, which was seeking its 17th trip to the Final Four. The Lady Vols trailed from the outset, fell behind by 16 points in the first half and got within five before running out of gas. "You don't win a basketball game in the first half, but you certainly can lose one," said Summitt, Tennessee's Hall of Fame coach. "We just dug too deep of a hole. We were just trying to get back into the game and they just answered everything. A lot of those plays were huge." Parker led the Lady Vols with 20 points and nine rebounds, despite Carolina's swarming defense. Sidney Spencer added 13 points and Shanna Zolman 11 for Tennessee. Tye'sha Fluker added 11 rebounds in her final collegiate game. The Lady Vols held the rebounding margin by one (37-36) and stuffed ten Tar Heel attempts, including five blocks by Nicky Anosike.
