THE PRATT PAVILION

On October 20, 2006, the Tennessee Athletics Department had a ground-breaking ceremony to officially recognize construction on the Pratt Pavilion, the state-of-the-art basketball practice facility named in UT alumnus Larry F. Pratt's honor for his $5 million lead gift to the basketball programs. The Pratt Pavilion will house two full-size gymnasiums, one for each the men's and women's basketball teams, as well as space for an athletic training room, a weight room and a film study room.

Directly connected to the arena, the Pratt Pavilion will have convenient ground level parking. It will be a 70,000 square foot structure with four short courts within each of the two full size courts. The facility will be equipped with secured practice facilities, spacious locker rooms and recruiting rooms as well. Balconies at the south side of the building will overlook the practice courts.

The west façade of the building is glassed from the first floor to the second floor, allowing visibility of gallery and display areas from the street. The building itself will be a significant additional element to the picturesque south entrance to the University of Tennessee campus.

The Lady Vol coaches comment on the new facility –

"The Pratt Pavilion is an exciting addition to the basketball programs at Tennessee. I love driving by and seeing them working on it every day, knowing what the finished product will mean for the future student-athletes. It will give them an opportunity to work on their games and play pickup at any time. I think the facility is a must for both the men's and the women's programs."

— Head Coach Pat Summitt

"The practice facility will be a huge asset toward the development of our players. They will always have a place to play 24/7. For our players, they love getting in the gym, and this will allow them the opportunity at any time. And it makes the statement that women's basketball is very important at the University of Tennessee!"

— Associate Head Coach Holly Warlick

"We are all ecstatic about getting the new practice facility. First and foremost, it shows a tremendous commitment to the basketball programs at Tennessee. The facility will be accessible to our team members around the clock, which is a statement to our current and future players about improvement. It will also provide a fantastic teaching environment in which to work, as distractions will be virtually non-existent. We owe a large debt of gratitude to the generosity of our friends of Tennessee Basketball as well as our administration for making the practice facility a reality."

— Assistant Coach Dean Lockwood

"I am very excited about the building of the new practice facility. I believe from a recruiting standpoint it will help maintain our status as being one of the premiere programs to continue to offer the best facilities in the country."

— Assistant Coach Nikki Caldwell

A 3D perspective rendering of a basketball court. The court floor is light-colored wood with a large 'TENNESSEE' logo in the center and 'SEC' logos on the key areas. The backboard and the wall behind the basket feature the 'Lady Volunteers' logo. The side wall has a large 'TENNESSEE BASKETBALL' banner. The court is surrounded by a grey wall with spotlights.

THOMPSON-BOLING ASSEMBLY CENTER AND ARENA

The Thompson-Boling Assembly Center and Arena is the largest on-campus arena in the country...and the toughest place in the country to leave with a win versus the University of Tennessee Lady Vols. Just ask 265 of the Lady Vols' last 281 home opponents entering the 2006-07 season.

In recent years, UT has enjoyed a number of lengthy home winning streaks. On Dec. 28, 2003, Texas snapped a 24-game run that dated back to the 2001-02 season. A previous streak of 26 consecutive wins in the home confines ended on Jan. 5, 2002, with an 86-72 loss to Connecticut. The Lady Vols broke the NCAA homecourt winning streak record with 69 consecutive victories before Connecticut spoiled the streak with a 59-53 win in game number 70 on Jan. 6, 1996. Tennessee claimed 64 straight home SEC victories before third-ranked LSU snapped the streak with a 72-69 victory – its first ever in Knoxville – on Feb. 9, 2006.

The Thompson-Boling Arena is a mammoth structure, located on the banks of the Tennessee River. It was named for B. Ray Thompson and retired UT President Edward J. Boling. The building is 448 feet long and 310 feet wide. It contains more than 411,000 square feet of floor space and more than 17 million cubic feet of space.

The enormous facility houses the Tennessee Lady Vol basketball offices. The Thompson-Boling Arena features 18,000 chair seats and almost 7,000 bleacher seats. Ticket facilities are located on the Phillip Fulmer Way level on the west end of the building.

A continuous-ring concourse encircles the building, permitting entrance to eight restrooms, six concession areas and 32 portals that lead to the Arena. The playing floor level provides access to team dressing rooms, the press rooms and storage rooms.

The distance from the playing floor to the roof is 120 feet, the equivalent of a 12-story building. The structure contains 142,000 square feet of roof area, which is approximately three and one-quarter acres.

Nearly every season that the Lady Vols have played in the Arena – attendance records have gone by the wayside. In 1998-99, the Lady Vols played before the largest average home crowd in the history of women's collegiate basketball as 16,565 spectators clicked through the turnstiles at each of the Lady Vols' 14 home games. In all, 231,915 fans viewed home games in Knoxville. During the 1997-98 season, Tennessee raised the roof with a bunch of collegiate attendance records. On Jan. 3, 1998, the Lady Vols entertained a new women's collegiate record 24,597 fans for the game with the Connecticut Huskies. A month later, the first advance sell-out in UT Women's Athletics history occurred when the Lady Vols were set to meet Old Dominion in Knoxville. For the record, 24,373 fans attended the UT-ODU game. The all-time attendance mark was reset during the 2001-02 season when 24,611 fans visited the arena for a #1/#2 clash between UT and Connecticut. It was again reset on Jan. 7, 2006 when the Huskies came to Knoxville in front of 24,653 spectators. The women's basketball attendance mark was established at the NCAA Final Four when 29,619 people filled the Alamodome in San Antonio, Texas, for the semifinals and finals.

The Lady Vols started the record-breaking trend in women's collegiate basketball attendance in 1987. That season, the Lady Vols broke the (then) world record for single game attendance at a women's basketball game with 24,563 at the Tennessee versus Texas game on Dec. 9, 1987. Three years later, the UT Women's Athletics Department established new NCAA Women's Final Four attendance marks on March 30 and April 1, 1990, with a total paid attendance of 39,490 for the three-game event. The turnstile count of 34,196 (17,601 semis/16,595 finals) also broke all other attendance marks.

The home attendance phenomena for the Lady Vols since 1990 have been incredible. Consider the following:

1990-91: Tennessee's attendance numbered below 5,000 per home game for the first time in five years with 4,738 per game. It marked the first season that a seat premium was attached to the season tickets.

1991-92: The Lady Vols home attendance jumps by almost 2,000 people per game to an average of 6,639 fans per home contest. UT goes undefeated at home (14-0).

1992-93: UT plays just 13 games at home and averages 6,002 per game. UT goes undefeated in Thompson-Boling Arena (13-0).

1993-94: The Lady Vols recorded the then-largest total attendance ever at home with 98,137 spectators for the all-time highest overall average of 6,542. UT goes undefeated at home (15-0).

1994-95: UT annihilated attendance records in practically every category as the Lady Vols' home attendance rose by more than 22,000 people for an amazing total of 120,477 spectators in TBA – an average of 8,032 spectators at home. UT goes undefeated at home (15-0).

1995-96: The Chamique Holdsclaw era began and attendance grew once again. Five games moved into UT's top 25 home crowd list despite the roughest winter weather on record in Knoxville in the last 25 years. Additionally, the Lady Vols ranked second in NCAA attendance reporting turnstile figures. The Lady Vols lose their first game at home in four years.

1996-97: The NCAA News announced that the Lady Vol and the Vol basketball teams combined for the nation's highest attendance at collegiate basketball home games. The Lady Vols were tops in the nation in attendance with 10,500 spectators per game and a total of 167,992 for all 16 games in Knoxville.

1997-98: A watershed year for Tennessee Lady Vol basketball attendance nationwide. In 16 home games, 239,511 clicked through the turnstiles for an NCAA all-time high average of 14,969. Along the way, a new school-record 12 games found their way onto the UT Top 25 All-Time Largest Home Crowd list, headlined by the collegiate record 24,597 who watched the Lady Vols beat the Connecticut Huskies. Almost 400,000 people (386,713, exactly) saw the team in action during the perfect 39-0 season. On Feb. 14, 1998, when the Lady Vols faced Auburn in Knoxville, spectator Wanda Douglas from Sevierville, Tenn., became the "Three-Millionth Fan" to attend a Lady Vol basketball game.

1998-99: The Chamique Holdsclaw Final Season Tour found a new average record of 16,565 fans at 14 home games. In all, almost a half-million fans (413,580) watched the Lady Vols at all venues.

1999-00: Fans continued to flood through the gates as Tennessee once again led the nation in attendance by averaging 15,341 fans per game throughout its run to the Final Four. The Lady Vols posted a home mark of 13-2.

2000-01: In the farewell season for seniors Tamika Catchings, Kristen "Ace" Clement, Semeka Randall and Kyra Elzy, the Lady Vol fans once again helped UT lead the nation in home attendance with an average of 15,510. Overall 384,869 people saw Tennessee post a perfect 15-0 home mark, win its unprecedented 10th SEC regular season championship with a 14-0 record, and advance to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament for the 20th consecutive season with a 31-3 overall record.

2001-02: In what turned out to be the Lady Vols' 13th run to the NCAA Final Four, fans poured through the gates at a rate of 14,295 per game, allowing Tennessee to lead the nation in attendance for the sixth consecutive season. The Lady Vols defeated five ranked teams and the defending 2001 national champions from Notre Dame in posting a 12-2 home mark. The Jan. 5, 2002, matchup with Connecticut reset the all-time single game attendance mark for women's collegiate basketball when 24,611 fans clicked through the Thompson-Boling Arena turnstiles. The standard later fell at the NCAA Women's Final Four when 29,619 people jammed the Alamodome for the semifinals and finals.

2002-03: A home schedule highlighted by 10 games against ranked opponents, hosting both the First and Second Rounds and NCAA Midwest Regionals and another historic march to its record 14th NCAA Final Four helped UT draw more than 200,000 fans to Thompson-Boling Arena for the sixth consecutive season (201,353). A home average of 12,585 watched the Lady Vols run their consecutive home win streak to 20, as UT picked up wins over 10 ranked opponents, including #5 Stanford, #11/12 Villanova and #15/16 Penn State.

2003-04: Once again, the Lady Vol fans turned out in droves to watch their team compete against the nation's toughest schedule. En route to advancing to the program's record 15th Final Four, Tennessee drew more than 200,000 fans for the seventh straight season (201,638), earning the nation's top home attendance mark (14,403 fans per game). Despite dropping contests to #5 Texas and #4 Connecticut, the Lady Vols claimed 12 wins at home, marking the 27th consecutive season in which the team has earned a double-digit win total in Knoxville.

2004-05: A fourth straight Final Four appearance highlighted the 14 home-win season for the Lady Vols, and Coach Summitt became the all-time winningest coach in collegiate basketball on her own home court during the second round of the NCAA tournament. Tennessee's only loss came at the hands of #9 Duke, while the Lady Vols defeated three nationally-ranked opponents at home and swept the conference as well.

2005-06: Tennessee suffered two home losses for just the fifth time since Thompson-Boling was constructed. The Lady Vols stopped four nationally-ranked opponents and eight eventual NCAA Tournament participants. Tennessee averaged 15,356 fans per game, up from 13,449 a year earlier.

FORMER HOMES OF THE LADY VOLS

Stokely Athletics Center (1976-87)

Alumni Memorial Gymnasium (1930s-1976)

• STOKELY ATHLETICS CENTER •

Stokely Athletics Center was the home to both the offices of the Women's Athletics Department and the Lady Volunteer basketball team from 1976-87. The team no longer plays any games in Stokely, but it is used as a back-up practice facility when Thompson-Boling Arena has a scheduling conflict and is the home to the Lady Vol volleyball team. The bulk of the offices of the Women's Athletics Department are still housed in Stokely—Athletic Training, Compliance, Games Management, Golf Coaches, Media Relations, Rowing Coaches, Softball Coaches, Strength Training, Track & Field Coaches and Volleyball Coaches.

The Stokely Arena, which is encircled by a four-lane Tartan indoor track, seats 12,700, while the building houses men's and women's athletics department offices. The building was originally called the UT Armory Field House in 1958 and seated just more than 7,000 spectators. Through the generosity of the late William B. Stokely, Jr., further construction was completed and on Dec. 1, 1966, the facility was renamed to honor the Stokely family.

In 1986, Stokely took on a new look as a wood playing surface replaced the old tartan court. The Horner "Pro King" hardwood was painted with the traditional outline of the state of Tennessee in the center of the floor and the familiar end line markings. The court was special-made for the University by the same manufacturer who supplied the basketball court to the Forum for the 1984 Los Angeles Olympic Games.

Stokely Athletics Center was the site of some historic games for the Lady Vols. The first women's contest played in SAC pitted Tennessee versus Kentucky on Nov. 13, 1976. The Lady Vols not only trounced the Lady Kats, 107-53, but UT's Patricia Roberts tossed in a Field House record 51 points. Along the way, Tennessee hosted the great gold medalist USSR Olympic Team in 1979, the USA All-Star team in 1979, and the first Southeastern Conference Championships in 1980.

The last Lady Vol game in Stokely, before moving over to the Thompson-Boling Arena, was a 77-61 win over Auburn in the finals of the NCAA Mideast Regionals on March 21, 1987. A week later, the Lady Vols returned to Stokely to celebrate UT's first NCAA basketball title with thousands and thousands of fans in attendance.

Although no formal attendance figures were kept prior to 1982, Tennessee most-assuredly was among the nation's elite in fan support.

• ALUMNI GYM •

Constructed in the 1930's, Alumni Gym was the first real home to Pat Summitt's inaugural Lady Vol team in 1974. The court in the tiny arena (seating 3,000) was the centerpiece of an encircling tri-balcony seating arrangement.

• During the last 28 years, more than six million people have watched the University of Tennessee Lady Volunteers play basketball.

• This breaks down into 3,370,542 spectators viewing the team at home and 2,884,371 folks watching the team on the road or at a neutral site for a total of 6,254,913.

• Tennessee originally set the world record for most spectators at a women's basketball game with 24,563 in attendance at the Tennessee vs. Texas game on Dec. 9, 1987. UT continues to hold the mark for most fans to attend a women's basketball game at an on-campus facility, with 24,653 against Connecticut on Jan. 7, 2006.

LADY VOL LOCKER ROOM

Completed in 1989 and renovated during the summer of 1998, the Tennessee Lady Volunteer basketball locker room was already regarded as the finest women's collegiate facility in the country. That's why it may surprise observers and frustrate opponents when they learn that the area was upgraded to an even higher level. Approximately 1,500 square feet were added to the locker room in the summer of 1998, bringing the total square footage to an eye-popping 4,500 square feet.

Upon entering, visitors will be amazed at the 900-square-foot living room and recreation area, easily the centerpiece of the redesign. This home away from home for the student-athletes includes lounge seating and occasional tables, an enormous projection screen TV for team viewing, along with custom trophy cases. Meanwhile, the recreation area houses an orange felt pool table, several video game systems, tables and chairs for studying or eating, a wall-mounted television and yet another custom trophy case.

Both of these areas showcase the unparalleled Lady Vol success story from the past to the present with displays containing photos of all six National Championship teams, every Lady Vol Final Four entry, SEC Championship squads and highlights of the various teams' visits to the White House. In addition, these rooms feature architectural pilasters of natural oak with brass lettering celebrating Tennessee's program and its unprecedented six national crowns.

Central to the room is a huge circular support pillar, which is traditionally signed by graduating players immediately after commencement ceremonies on the floor of spacious Thompson-Boling Arena. One hundred percent of all Lady Vol basketball players who complete their eligibility have graduated or are completing their degree requirements.

Another feature to the facility is a 550-square-foot team meeting and film room that includes Regal Cinema Seating for the players, and a 60-inch plasma flat screen television. The room also displays the impressive individual honors of current and former team members, along with pictures of UT All-Americans and Olympians — more than any other school in the country for women's hoops.

Prior to the 1998 renovation, the locker room received a complete facelift in 1995-96 with the addition of custom wall-to-wall carpeting, a leather sectional sofa and assorted chairs, a state-of-the-art sound system, and a home theatre/surround sound big screen television. However, these amenities pale in comparison to what the Lady Vols will enjoy as they head into what they hope will be another successful campaign.

Other spaces featured in these palatial digs include a kitchen with a microwave and well-stocked refrigerator, a guest restroom, manager's office and a separate area for storage. Further down the hall is the training and taping area for basketball, the athletic trainer's private office and a physician's examining room. Around one more corner is a large dressing area for the players, complete with individual cubicles. Connected to this area are individual showers, whirlpools and restroom facilities.

The atmosphere is made homey with plush carpeting and fine furniture throughout with the predominant colors being orange, white and columbia blue. Over the past several years, custom rugs were made highlighting each of the NCAA Championships.

Hundreds of collegiate coaches and fans took a tour through the locker room during the Final Four in 1990. Their interest was piqued due to Coach Summitt's eviction of the Lady Vols from their plush pad after a dismal 1989 road swing through California. The story landed on the front page of the USA TODAY sports section and was the topic of conversation with the media for the month the team was kept out of the locker room. Said junior pivot Carla McGhee at the time, "It was like we didn't pay our rent by playing hard and she evicted us."

LADY VOL BANNERS AND RINGS

RINGS

The Lady Vols celebrate their NCAA and SEC Championships with distinctively designed rings. In addition to the gold NCAA rings given to the players immediately following the championship game, the Tennessee coaches also design a special NCAA championship ring.

In 1987, a Lady Vol championship coin medallion bordered by a gold rope was presented to the players and staff. Depending on individual taste, the medallion was worn as a drop on a necklace, mounted to be worn as a ring or incorporated into a bracelet. For championship number two in 1989, a distinctive gold ring featuring several diamonds on an oval face was the design.

A Rolex-style gold watch with diamonds for numbers and a gold ring with three large diamonds mounted vertically in the center commemorated title number three in 1991. Perhaps the most eye-catching of all the championship rings, the 1996 ring sports four large diamonds across the front of a solid gold ring. Ring number five is a real dazzler, with a diamond shape and five diamonds mounted in the four points and the center of the ring. Championship ring number six was the creation of Katie Wynn, Coach Pat Summitt's long-time secretary, who designed the round face six-diamond ring to commemorate the 1998 title.

When a Lady Vol in any of UT's 11 sports wins her first SEC regular season or tournament title, she gets a lovely gold Lady Vol SEC Championship ring with diamonds on the face.

BANNERS

Adorning the ceiling at the northeast end of the Thompson-Boling Arena are a slew of banners commemorating the Lady Vols' SEC Championships and Tournament titles, trips to the AIAW and NCAA Tournaments, Final Fours, and NCAA titles.

On Nov. 13, 1998, another NCAA Championship banner was added, bringing the total of title banners to six.
