Tonight: The Revs play the final game on opening weekend of their "Sweet 16" season and the 25th anniversary season of the Atlantic League, looking to salvage the finale and notch their first victory of the season.

New Era: Rick Forney takes over the reigns as the fourth field manager in Revs history, bringing with him first-year pitching coach Joe Harris and first-year hitting coach Derek Wolfe. It marks the first complete coaching staff change for the Revs since Andy Etchebarren took over as manager in August, 2009 and hired a new coaching staff for the 2010 season.

Winning Pedigree: Forney comes to York after 26 seasons in Winnipeg, 17 as manager (887-753). He led the Goldeyes to 10 playoff appearances and 3 championships (2012, 2016-17), the most in American Association history. He was named Manager of the Year in 2011 and 2020, sold 44 players to MLB organizations, and his 17-year run as manager established the third-longest tenure in MLB Partner League history. WPG's .545 winning pct in the American Association (631-527 since 2011) is fourth-highest in league history, second-highest active.

Roster Breakdown (26 active):

York had won back-to-back season openers including a road win at Long Island last year, their 5th straight win in a season opener on the road dating to 2009. Friday marked the first ever Opening Night meeting between York and Lexington. It was York's first season-opening loss since 2019 vs Long Island and the first on the road since 2008 at Camden.

Counter Punch: The Revs are facing some familiar faces this weekend. Lexington's roster includes three former Revs: RHP Josh Martin (2022), RHP Sam Burton (2019, 2022), and OF JC Encarnacion (2021-22) who is the Revs' all-time leader in pinch-hits (10) while ranking 2nd in triples (13) and 10th in SLG (.511). Hitting coach Enohel Polanco served as hitting coach with York from 2010-22, marking the longest stint in the same role on the coaching staff in franchise history.
