PNC Field was originally known as Lackawanna County Stadium when it opened on April 26, 1989. The artificial turf stadium was used as a multipurpose facility. Under the Phillies umbrella, the SWB Red Barons called Lackawanna County Stadium home from 1989-2006.

A new affiliation with the New York Yankees took hold and the SWB Yankees opened a new era at the stadium in 2007.

The club began its next phase as the RailRiders by opening a freshly renovated PNC Field in 2013. The inaugural season of the RailRiders saw over 430,000 spectators pass through the gates, the highest turnout since 2008.

PNC FIELD GROUND RULES

Adam Marco is in his ninth year as the "Voice of the RailRiders." Marco was honored as Ballpark Digest's Minor League Broadcaster of the Year in 2022 and is the second longest-tenured broadcaster in franchise history, trailing only the legendary Kent Westling.

A product of Western Pennsylvania, he graduated from Mercyhurst College in 2001. After seven years on the radio professionally, Marco began his career in Minor League Baseball as a promotions intern and broadcaster for the Williamsport Crosscutters in 2007. In 2008 and 2009, he was the Assistant Media Relations Director and number two broadcaster for the Oklahoma City RedHawks. In 2010, Marco joined the West Virginia Power, handling the team's radio broadcasts, media relations and serving as an account executive. In 2014, he was tabbed as the South Atlantic League's Media Relations Director of the Year. Over the final four years with the Power, he also handled all the team's marketing in addition to promotions, corporate sponsorship sales and his other responsibilities.

Emily Messina returns to the RailRiders' broadcast booth for the 2026 season.

Prior to joining Scranton/Wilkes-Barre in 2023, Messina spent three seasons as the lead broadcaster and Media Relations Manager of the Reading Fightin Phils, the Philadelphia Phillies Double-A affiliate. Previously, she broadcast games for the Melbourne Aces in the Australian Baseball League. Messina has also had stints in the Arizona Fall League and with the Lynchburg Hillcats in the Cleveland Indians minor league system.

In the offseason, Messina calls a variety of sports including field hockey, basketball and swimming. She is a 2019 graduate of the Catholic University of America, where she was a four-year varsity athlete.
